Mother: "All right get down if you want to but don't bother the men. Junior, Junior, stop pulling those cigar butts out of the cuspidor you'll get all dirty. There see what you've done now, you tipped it over. Come right here to mother this minute."

Junior: "I wanta go home."

Mother: "Yes we'll go home just as soon as we get your hair cut. Junior, stop pulling that barber's coat when he's shaving that man, you'll make him cut the man."

Junior: "Don't care."

Mother: "Junior, get right down out of that man's lap, can't you see he's reading the paper. Yes, I know he looks like daddy but he's not."

Head Barber: "All right madam, Mr. Nick is ready for you now."

Mother: "Come Junior, get right up in the chair like a little man. Oh, you want to ride the horsey? All right get up there. Whoa, nice horsey, Junior wants a ride. What? You want to sit in the automobile? All right, get in. Now Junior sit still while the man cuts your hair."

Junior: "No want hair cut, want to go home."

Mother: "Junior, stop your crying and sit still or the nice man won't cut your hair. Junior, stop striking the barber, he's not your father."

Mr. Nick: "Isn't there something you can give him to keep him quiet. I'm afraid I'll cut him if he squirms around like that."

Mother: "Oh, what in the world can I give him?"

Customers (in chorus): "Arsenic."

ELIGIBILITY QUESTION TO BE SETTLED BY STATE BOARD

The Stonington-Bulkeley league game, played back in April, which Stonington won and about which a controversy on an ineligible player has recently arose, was completely aired at a special meeting of the league held Monday evening in this city. After much discussions it was decided to refer the matter to the state board for their decision. Four of the six schools were present, Westerly and Windham having no representatives.

It is a very unique case, the first that the league has ever had to deal with. It concerns the efforts of a team to give away a victory.

Stonington trimmed Bulkeley at Stonington on April 27 in a regularly scheduled league contest. This being one of the first games of the season, naturally it did not look to have a bearing on the final outcome of the race. But, when Bulkeley defeated the Academy in the first game in this city, then the matter was reported to Secretary Paul Bradlaw of the league and he issued a call for the special meeting.

Bulkeley is not claiming the game. They stated at last night's meeting that they were beaten decisively and are willing to let it stand but Stonington insists that it had an ineligible player, John Spellman, by name, in the lineup and wishes to forfeit the game or at least play it over. The extent of ineligibility is that Spellman, although passing three subjects is now only taking three instead of the required four. This is, however, because he could not get the fourth one into his course.

Should Bulkeley be awarded this game, it would practically clinch the pennant for the Tigers. At present they are leading Chapman Tech by one full game and the Academy by a game and a half. Bulkeley has two more games to play, with Chapman Tech Friday and with Westerly next week. Should the ineligibility be not allowed then Bulkeley would have to win both of its games to be sure of the title, while, with the Stonington game forfeited, then the Whalers would need only one victory to be sure of their first title.

Callahan Beats Fuller

BOSTON, May 26—(AP)—A wild closing rally tonight gave Andy Callahan, Lawrence, Mass., lightweight, a hairline decision over Sammy Fuller, of Boston, in the Argonne A. C.'s 10 round feature bout. Callahan had the edge in five, Fuller four, and the opening round was even.

JONES FURNISHES THRILLS IN FIRST DAY'S PLAY IN BRITISH AMATEUR

By FRANK H. KING
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland, May 26.—(AP)—Opening play of the British amateur golf championship today was featured by weird weather and weirdly spectacular golf by Bobby Jones and a hitherto little known English youth, Sidney Roper, who learned his golf between shifts as a coal miner.

Against an avalanche of four birdies and an eagle during the first nine holes, which Jones shot in 33 strokes, Roper replied gamely with a string of nine fours, turning only two down, and he clung tenaciously to Bobby all the way to the sixteenth hole where he was eliminated, three up and two to play.

Roper, entered from a municipal course at Nottingham where he is the Nottinghamshire champion, did not even have a caddy who knew the course, a friend carrying his clubs for him, but he had the shots which brought praise from Jones after the match, and hope to the hearts of British golfers.

Roper, dressed in an old coat and flannel trousers and wearing a slouch cap and ordinary street shoes with hobnails, never faltered against his famous opponent, and if the American open champion had played just a little less sensational golf, he might have been beaten.

Jones and Roper provided the thrills today while the other two Walker cup players in action, Harrison R. Johnston and George Voigt, did the hard work.

Johnston never found the touch of the St. Andrews greens all day and he had to work hard for the two victories he needed to remain in the competition. The American amateur champion won his morning match from Bernard Darwin, only two up and one to play, while in the second round, in the afternoon, Major A. G. Barry, who was the champion 25 years ago, took him to the 18th green where "Jimmy" won one up.

George Voigt, in spite of trouble with his irons throughout his match, disposed of Edward Tipple, brilliant young English player, with a good putt at the 19th hole. Dormie at the 17th the New Yorker lost the 18th and had to start again. The match was all square after nine holes.

Bobby Baugh, Alabama boy who captains the Oxford golf team, won his first round match, but was eliminated in the second round.

Frank C. Stevens, Jr., Hollywood, Calif., won his second round match, but a number of other Americans were removed from the competition including John H. Forsman, New York and Joseph Caldwell, Rochester, N. Y.

Cyril J. H. Tolley, the British amateur champion, and T. A. Torrance, the only British Walker cup players to win a match in the last two years, survived today, Tolley after a hard match and Torrance under wraps.

George Von Elm, George Voigt, Don Moe, O. F. Willing, Roland MacKenzie and Francis Ouimet will play tomorrow while Jones and Johnston will rest.

A galloping crowd of 5,000 or more, making a record opening day gallery for St. Andrews, ran wild over the narrow fairways as the visiting open champion started his day's play by ramming home a 20-foot putt for a birdie three at the 365-yard first hole.

Jones sent his approach almost dead at the 356-yard third hole for another birdie. At the fourth hole, his drive of 300 yards rolled into a trap and standing waist deep in the "cottage" bunker, he swung his mashie and sent the ball from loose sand into the cup 120 yards away for an eagle two.

Jones was out in 33 strokes, one more than he needed for his first nine of his record 68 in the first round of the 1927 open championship at St. Andrews.

He started home with two birdies in the first three holes but Roper, never dismayed for an instant, kept plugging with his four at every hole. He never made a long putt and never missed a short one until the 13th where he could have reduced Jones' lead had he made a holeable putt. His card showed 15 fours and a lone five.

Matches for the American Walker cup players tomorrow:

Dr. O. F. Willing vs. W. Spark, Montrose.

George Von Elm vs. Dr. Gardiner Hill, St. Andrews.

Roland MacKenzie vs. H. M. Cairnes, Portmarnock.

Second Round

VANCE SHUTS OUT GIANTS WITH ONLY TWO HITS

BROOKLYN, May 26.—(AP)—The Robins won their second straight from the Giants 7 to 0 today. It was Vance's sixth victory of the season, and the Giants' fifth consecutive defeat.

Reese and Ott were the only Giants able to connect safely. In running to first Ott pulled a tendon in his left leg, forcing him out of the game. Ott was the only Giant to reach second, stealing the base in the second inning after the Dazzler had issued his one pass of the game.

Fred Fitzsimmons gave the Brooklyn mound ace a battle until he was removed in the seventh inning for a pinch hitter. Parmelee, who replaced Fitzsimmons at the start of the eighth, walked four men in succession, giving way to Lucas.

REDS LAND ON BLAKE TO TROUNCE CUBS

CHICAGO, May 26.—(AP)—The Cincinnati Reds knocked Fred Blake out of the box in the sixth inning today to score five runs which were enough to defeat the Cubs in the first game of the series, 6 to 2.

Jakie May, on the other hand, only allowed six hits. Wilson's home run in the fourth with Hornsby on base was responsible for the two Cub markers.

PITTSBURGH, May 26.—(AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals trimmed Pittsburgh today in the opening game of the series, 10 to 4. The Cardinal victory was their eighth straight.

Petty, who started for the Pirates, was driven off the mound in the fourth when St. Louis made a four-run rally. Erickson and Jones finished.

The Pirates got to Sherdel in the fourth and fifth innings but could do nothing with Lindsey, who relieved Sherdel in the sixth.

VAN RYN AND DOEG TURN BACK MEXICAN FOES

WASHINGTON, May 26.— (AP) — John Van Ryn of New Jersey and John Doeg of California today completed the conquest of Mexico's tennis invaders, their straight-set victories giving the United States Davis cup team an unblemished record in American zone competition.

Storming the net at every opportunity, Van Ryn defeated Ricardo Tapia, 20-year-old ace of the Mexican contingent, 6-2, 6-3, 6-1.

Doeg, the youngest American Davis cup netman, overwhelmed Frederick Sendel, 19-year-old Mexican, 6-1, 6-0, 6-2, requiring but 35 minutes for his conquest.

At the opening of the first match, the lithe Tapia started off as though he would equal his feat of last Thursday, when he carried Wilmer Allison, of Austin, Texas, through a five-set struggle before finally succumbing.

With the score at two games apiece, however, Van Ryn broke through the Latin's service, and rushing to the net thereafter rained hard smashes into his opponent's court to run out the set.

Again in the second set, Tapia jumped into a two-game lead. He gained frequent applause from the small gallery, and proved himself almost the equal of the dark-haired Van Ryn at tennis played from the back court.

Van Ryn, however, came once more to the net and won five straight games. In the final set he played even more brilliant tennis, and not until the sixth game was Tapia able to break through for a score. The success of his game in the forecourt is shown by the score card, which gave him 37 placements to 13 for Tapia.

In his match with Sendel, the blond, heavy-set Doeg displayed almost every type of tennis. He won point after point through driving Sendel to the base line with hard volleys and then barely dropping the ball over the net with a soft chop.

Mixing a hard-hit, low-bounding chop into the back court with smashes at the net and a service that was often too hot for Sendel to handle, he kept the Mexican on the defensive throughout.

Doeg won the first set in 11 minutes, and allowed Sendel only nine points in the next six games. The Mexican played better tennis in the final chapter, breaking through Doeg's service in the sixth game, but the Californian quickly rallied to run out the match.

Little Bill Out of Tennis

SAN RAFAEL, Cal., May 26.—(AP)—William (Little Bill) Johnson, star of the tennis courts, a patient at the Ross General hospital near here, said today it was unlikely he would play any more tennis this year.

He has been in the hospital for three weeks and intends to remain probably another two months, seeking complete recovery from a slight lung trouble which threatened him. He has regained six pounds in the three weeks.

BIG OUTBOARD REGATTA AT WORCESTER THIS WEEK

Attention of most of the outboard racers from the Mississippi river to the Atlantic coast will be focused on Lake Quinsigamond, Worcester, Mass., May 29 and 30, where a giant outboard regatta will be staged with $1,500 in trophies and purses posted by the Worcester County Motor Boat club. Commodore Frank Hickey has arranged for the running of 15 events, five of which will be on Thursday and ten on Friday.

The Worcester regatta will be easily the biggest held so far this year and will be the first real opportunity afforded the public to see what the new high speed motors will do on the water. On Friday morning, May 29, mile trials for speed will be staged under American Power Boat association rules. For some time there have been statements to the effect that the new outboard motors will do well over 50 miles per hour this year and it is believed that a number of old marks will be shattered at Worcester.

Commodore Frank Hickey of the Worcester club is expecting to entertain more than 150 drivers at the regatta, a number of whom will be women. A class C event for women will be run off on Friday afternoon. There will be five events open to division III or cash prize drivers, in four of which $200 will be offered in each race. In the fifth event $100 will go to the winner.

MISSTEP WINS OPENING DAY $5,000 FEATURE

CHICAGO, May 26.—(AP)—Misstep, the brilliant five-year-old star of the Le Mar Stock farm stables, today made the opening day of the Washington Park track his day by winning for the second straight time the $5,000 inaugural handicap.

The race, the fourth on the card, at six furlongs, provided the crowd of 20,000 with a great thrill. A nose separated the western favorite, and Brown Wisdom, with My Dandy close up in third place. Misstep, rated as the class of western stake horses in 1929, rewarded his backers with $7.80 in the $2 mutuels.

The winner was ridden by Elmo Shropshire, and the time, 1:12 2-5, was fast for the Washington Park strip.

Paul Neal, the leading rider on Chicago tracks last year, booted home a long shot in Belle Rive in the second race. Belle Rive conquered the favorite, Black Flyer, by a length, and paid $23.24 for $2.

COURT DECIDES GIBSON IS UNABLE TO MANAGE AFFAIRS

NEW YORK, May 26.—(AP)—A jury today declared William Gibson, boxing promoter and former manager of Gene Tunney, mentally incompetent to manage his affairs. The jury sat before Commissioner of Lunacy William F. Schneider.

Friends said Gibson's trouble, which was diagnosed as general paresis, resulted from grief over the death of his wife, Florence H. Gibson, on Nov. 12, 1928.

Alienists said there was some slight chance of recovery.

ACADEMY PRESENTS REVAMPED LINEUP FOR GAME WITH WINDHAM HERE TODAY

PROBABLE LINEUPS

N. F. A.	Windham

Gibbs, ss	lf, Levine
Fontaine, rf	3b, Sroka
Breen, 3b	p, Johnson
Weisgraber, p	rf, Slowik
Crowell, c	c, Lombardo
Fitzgerald, 2b	cf, Zenchoff
Geer, lf	ss, Balon

Game starts at 4 p m.

The Academy will get back to the wars this afternoon at the campus meeting Windham high from Willimantic in a league game. The starting time is set for 4 o'clock, making the affair one of semi-twilight proportions. Hank Morin of Norwich and Bill Nichols of Willimantic will be the arbiters.

The Academy will be making an attempt today to reestablish itself in the favor of the fans after disappointing them so badly with their dumb exhibition against Bulkeley last Saturday, which they lost, 13 to 5. It is hoped that all the boners for the rest of the year came out in that game and that the team from now on will play the ball which it should.

That the Academy has a good team no one doubts, even though one who had not seen them before would have thought differently had they been at Mercer field last week end. The Wildcats showed they had the stuff in winning the first ten games of the year, when they stopped such clubs as Deep River, Winsted, Weaver of Hartford, Chapman Tech and the Richmond Radiators.

Coach Brigham has made three shifts in the lineup in an attempt to right the club. Bud Fontaine, catcher, will play right field with Les Crowell behind the bat and Bob Geer, a husky lower middler, who showed much promise in 1929, will cavort in left field. Geer hits the ball hard in practice and may be just the man for the position. Butsy Weisgraber will get the pitching assignment today and Butsy is determined to do his bit in putting the team back on the winning side if he can get any support.

Windham has one of the best teams in recent years. In the game at Willimantic a couple of weeks ago, they trailed by only 2 to 1 until the eighth inning when the Wildcats scored five times in the last two frames and won out, 7 to 1. Carl Johnson, who looked so good in the box that day will again twirl for the Theard Cityites today.

Slattery-Latzo Bout Tonight

BOSTON, May 26— (AP) —Jimmy Slattery, of Buffalo, recognized in New York as the light heavyweight champion, will battle Pete Latzo, of Scranton, Pa., the slugging ex-welterweight titlist, here tomorrow night in the feature event of the annual Crosscup-Pishon post, American Legion, boxing carnival at the Boston Garden.

The bout, a ten rounder, will be a non-title affair for Latzo will weigh in above the limit.

A Challenge

The Ashland A. A. of Jewett City are without a game for Memorial day. They would like to hear from such teams as the Rossie A. A. of Willimantic, Hartford Red Sox, and the Kensington A. C. or any other teams desiring a fast game for Memorial day. Write to Mgr. Peter Sekula, Jewett City, Conn., or call Ashland club Wednesday evening between 7-8 o'clock.

Schmeling Has Day of Rest

ENDICOTT, N. Y., May 26.—(AP)—Max Schmeling took another day's rest from the boxing labors and played golf. Two burly New York detectives joined the heavyweight gladiator's camp in time to trail him over the links and "protect" him. They will do this until the German enters the ring with Jack Sharkey in the Yankee stadium June 12.

Greeneville Cubs Wins

Saturday afternoon at the J. B. Martin field the Cubs defeated the Laurel Hill Athletics, the score being 5 to 2. Bill Fuller allowed the Athletics but two scratch hits. HIGH SCHOOL SPORTS

New London Bulkeley, which looks like the league champion this year, plays Hartford Bulkeley at Hartford Wednesday before meeting Chapman Tech Friday in the game that may clinch the title for the Tigers. The Hartford namesake trimmed O'Brien's men about three weeks ago in a game at New London.

Chapman Tech lost a tough 6 to 5 verdict to Deep River last Friday at Deep River. Tech scored two in the first of the ninth to take the lead, only to have the home club come back with the same number in the last half to win out. Hagen pitched for Deep River and fanned 14, while Hewitt, hurling for Tech, struck out 12. Tech beat Killingly Saturday, 7 to 5, with Chibowski pitching.

The Academy track team is slated for its final dual meet of the season tomorrow at New Haven against Hillhouse high.

Harding high of Bridgeport won the state scholastic track title at the annual meet at Yale field, New Haven, Saturday, finishing with a total of 47 points against 32 1-2 for Hillhouse. Hartford high was third with 24 points, Manchester fourth with 20, Crosby had 17 and Bulkeley of New London and Bristol were tied for sixth with 12. Wetmore of Bulkeley finished second in the 440 yard run and Donohue of Bulkeley was second in the javelin throw. Bulkeley's 880 yard relay team finished second to Harding.

Hillhouse high nine of New Haven had its sensational winning streak, which had stretched to 13 games, broken by New Britain high Saturday, by the score of 6 to 2. New Britain, which plays the Academy Saturday, scored all of its runs in the sixth after Hillhouse had tallied one each in the fifth and sixth. Hillhouse plays here Saturday, June 7.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theatre

A brand new double-feature bill opens tomorrow at the Palace theatre with the showing of "Show Girl in Hollywood," the well-known story by J. P. McEvoy, with Alice White and Jack Mulhall, and "Those Who Dance," a melodrama with love and human characters starring Lila Lee, Monte Blue, William Boyd and Betty Compson.

Hollywood with all its foibles, heartbreaks, tinsel and comedy, is pictured by those who live there, in "Show Girl in Hollywood." In this picture Hollywood pokes fun at itself, raises hearty laughs at its own expense and opens the gates for a long peep at how the movies are actually made. One of the most interesting parts shows the filming of a picture in technicolor and the story continues the escapades of Dixie Dugan, who finds herself without a job and begins a struggle to win successes with her ability.

ALICE WHITE

Miss White as Dixie is admirably cast for the part and she sings as well as she acts. Jack Mulhall as the playwright who crashes Hollywood with Dixie is excellent in his part and among the other noteworthy characters are Ford Sterling, John Miljan, Virginia Sale, Lee Shumway and Herman Bing.

"Those Who Dance" is the sensational drama of a policeman's lone battle against an underworld gang and it is one of the most thrilling melodramas of crooks and cops yet made into a talking picture. George Kibbe Turner, the author, lived in the heart of Chicago's crime section to get authentic material for the picture and the plot is based on a real incident with startling realities. The cast is splendid and each member has been carefully chosen to portray the story.

Don't forget that the popularity contest is going strong and be sure to go to the Palace early and often to cast your votes for your favorite girl. Each admission carries five ballots with it and the winner of the contest will have a week's vacation in Atlantic City and a fine wardrobe to take with her, including sport clothes, a bathing outfit, two beautiful hats, a diamond and sapphire ring, lingerie, cosmetics, a traveling bag, four pairs of shoes, a wrist watch, and an electric curling set and hair dryer, to say nothing of a party frock, a traveling outfit and a bank account of $25. The winner of the second prize will receive a gold season pass to the Palace theatre, which is certainly no small gift.

"Show Girl in Hollywood" and "Those Who Dance" will be presented at the Palace through Friday of this week.

Miss Claire Giannini, only daughter of A. P. Giannini, retired founder of the Bank of Italy, next Saturday will become the bride of Clifford "Bill" Hoffman, captain of the 1926 Stanford university football team and now in business in San Francisco.

CLOSING PRICES OF STOCKS HIGHER, THOUGH MOSTLY OF NARROW MARGIN

NEW YORK, May 26—(AP)— The mild revival of bullish enthusiasm which appeared late last week, received a dash of cold water late in today's stock market.

Speculation for the rise was pressed forward with some vigor during the morning, but the market turned extremely dull after mid-day, and short selling in the last hour wiped out most of the morning rise.

Closing prices were irregularly higher, but gains were largely narrow. Although trading showed signs of acceleration during the morning, total sales were only 2,246,580 shares, or close to the low levels of last week.

Week-end market advices displayed considerable bullishness and attracted a moderate volume of buying orders at the opening, but news developments during the day were rather disheartening. With announcement that the exchange would be closed, on Saturday, after the Memorial day holiday Friday, traders were disinclined to extend their holdings to carry over that period. Furthermore, reports from Washington that congress would not adjourn until early July, was a disappointment to some traders who had hoped that the uncertainties of pending legislation would soon be lifted.

Railway net operating income reports for April began to appear in considerable numbers, and were less encouraging than the first few to come out last week. Aggregate net of the first 14 roads to report shows a decline of nearly 27 per cent from April of last year.

Although several economists and business observers are now looking for definite signs of improvement in August or September, banking surveys were not particularly cheerful. The Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company stated in its latest review that factory employment may not return to normal before the end of the year. The Guaranty Trust company, in its monthly review, said that continued unsettlement of commodity prices and a large volume of business failures tended to retard recovery. It pointed out, however, that the disappointingly small spring expansion of business may be reflected in an unusually mild summer slump.

Corporate news included the announcement that Paramount Publix had received sufficient tenders of stock of Famous Players Canadian to assure acquisition of control. Pan-American Petroleum earned only $2.92 per common and class B share in 1929, against $3 in 1928.

Such shares as American Can, American Bank Note, Bullard, Columbian Carbon, Eastman Kodak, Johns-Manville, Macy, Byers, Loew's, and Westinghouse Electric closed up 2 or 3 points. U. S. Steel was in good demand for a time, rising about 2 points, but it retained only a fraction of its gain at the close. Allied Chemical sold up 10 points in response to a Wall street analysis of the company stressing the prospects for its atmospheric nitrogen plants, but the gain was cut to 3 1-2 points later. People's Gas sold up more than 11 points, in buying based on the prospects of Natural Gas distribution, with rapid progress in the building of the pipe line from Texas.

J. I. Case sold up about 8 points, then slipped off 14 from the top. American Car and Foundry sagged six points to 52, the year's low, and American Locomotive declined 5 to the lowest price in years. The American Tobacco issues, Coca Cola, Dupont and International Harvester lost 2 to 4 points.

The commodity markets were largely steady to firm. Wheat futures surged up 1 7-8 to 2 7-8 cents, reflecting a decrease in the visible supply, and reports of insect damage in Texas. Corn gained 1 1-4 to 1 5-8 cents, and cotton closed steady.

Foreign exchanges showed little change, with sterling cables holding at $4.85 15-16. The Japanese yen was firm, but other far easterns sagged in sympathy with silver.

THE CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, May 26—(AP)—A small group of utility, industrial and investment company shares moved forward briskly during the early hours of trading in today's curb market, only to encounter renewed selling late in the day, which contracted or cancelled the gains, and sent several issues below last week's final levels. Save for a short time in the morning, trading failed to develop much vitality, and total sales were only 642,400 shares.

Electric Bond and Share was an active feature, and was bid up more than 2 points to 105 5-8, only to close at 103 1-2. Central States Electric, Consolidated Gas of Baltimore, and International Super Power closed a point or so higher. American Gas lost 2 points, and Niagara Hudson a fraction.

Deere was a soft spot in the industrials, breaking nearly 6 points in sympathy with farm implements on the big board. Pratt & Lambert dropped about 6 points to 50 1-8, the year's low. Fokker Aircraft sold up a couple of points in response to announcement that the name would be changed to General Aviation corporation and that it would become an important aviation holding company for General Motors, but it later reacted, closing up only about a point. Ford of Canada B gained 4 points, and Pittsburgh Forging sold up a like amount to 25, the year's high.

Oils were steady to firm. Gulf gained nearly 3 points, and Standard of Kentucky a point. Newmont was a feature of the mines, selling up more than 5 points in light trading.

Some of the investment trusts and investing company issues were actively bid for, in response to special developments. United Founders gained 2 points on publication of its holdings, supposedly in preparation for listing on the stock exchange, but it closed at 31 1-4, up only 1 1-4. Goldman Sachs, a weak feature late last week, rallied a couple of points in short covering. Niagara Shares and Marine Union mounted more than a point each on merger developments.

NEW YORK, May 26—(AP)— The New York Security, Produce and Commodity markets will be closed on Saturday of this week, the day after Memorial day.

Consolidation of Niagara Share corporation and Marine Union Investors, Inc., has been agreed to by the managements.

Vick Chemical stockholders have approved the merger with Drug, Inc.

The committee on stock list of the New York stock exchange has adopted two regulations governing listing of investment trust securities. One of the new rules is designed to prevent a corporation from trading in its own stock "otherwise than under exceptional and special circumstances." The second provides that whenever such transactions are made the committee shall be informed promptly so that it may determine whether the amount of listed stock shall be reduced by the amount so purchased.

Stockholders of General Motors corporation have approved the plan to create a 2,000,000 share issue of $5 preferred stock, of which 1,875,366 shares are to be offered in exchange for the outstanding preferred.

Directors of the J. C. Penney company announced today that a quarterly dividend of 75 cents on the common had been declared out of surplus, thereby maintaining the $3 annual rate established earlier this year.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, May 26.—(AP)—A decline in time money rates to the low levels of the year failed to stir up much enthusiasm for bonds today. Although the undertone of the market was distinctly firm, prices had a tendency to seek lower ground and the day's volume of trading was only nominal.

Short term loans were reduced to 3 per cent flat, a cut of 1-4 of 1 per cent. A similar reduction was made in the other maturities, bringing the rates in sharp contrast with the 8 3-4 to 9 1-2 per cent range prevailing a year ago.

United States government were firm on extremely small turnovers. The strongest issue was the treasury 4 which rallied 12-32 on a volume of only $52,000. Interest in the Liberties was negligible.

The series of unfavorable earnings statements by the railroads led to some liquidation of carrier company bonds, especially those of the adjustment income description. The St. Paul income 5s became the most active issue in the list, breaking 3 3-8 net to the new 1930 low of 69 5-8. The same road's general 4s lost slightly more and equalled the year's minimum, while the 5 per cent bond of 1975 sold off about 2 1-2 points, likewise to a new low. International Great North first 6s lost 1 5-8.

There was an easier tone to numerous investment issues, including Chesapeake & Ohio general 4 1-2s, Louisville & Nashville 4 1-2s, New Haven 4 1-2s, Reading general 4 1-2s, and New York Central 4 1-2s, although they were only nominal. Baltimore & Ohio 5s, Canadian Pacific 4s, Denver & Rio Grande Western 5s, Missouri Kansas Texas prior lien 5s and Union Pacific first 4s firmed.

Convertibles lagged and the market missed the familiar activity of American Telephone 4 1-2s, all but $14,000,000 of which had been converted at the close of business last Friday by holders trying to exchange for stock carrying rights. The revised conversion price on the few bonds outstanding is $166.88 and the market price, readjusting itself to this figure, gained more than 3 points in the face of weakness in the shares. Trading in the debenture involved only $36,000 par value.

Other stock privileges moved narrowly and net changes were fractional.

Utility mortgages were quiet and there was little or no activity in the industrials. American Cynamid 5s rose more than a point and U. S. Rubber 5s, gained 1.

The foreign list worked irregularly lower, but was exceptionally lethargic. Belgium and French listings held firm.

Prospective new bond offerings include a $16,000,000 issue of Kansas Gas and Electric company 50-year 4 1-2s, to be sold around 93 1-2, and a $3,000,000 issue of Intercontinents Power company 18-year convertible 6s.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, May 26.— (AP)—Biggest export clearances of breadstuffs from North America that have been witnessed in a long while, led to a sharp advance of wheat values today. There were also advices that the 1930 wheat crop of Italy is 60,000,000 bushels short of last year's total, and that in Saskatchewan widespread crop damage has resulted from high winds and soil drifting. Uneasiness regarding the outlook for the new winter wheat crop in Illinois was also a bullish factor.

Closing quotations on wheat were strong, 1 7-8@2 7-8c a bushel higher than Saturday's finish. Corn closed 1-4@1 5-8 up, oats 3-8@1-2c advanced, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 20c.

Provisions advanced on account of scattered buying despite setbacks in the value of hogs.

COTTON

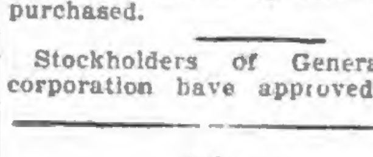
NEW YORK, May 26.—(AP)—Cotton futures closed steady, 5 points lower to 2 higher. Spot quiet; middling 16.20.

26 PERSONS KILLED IN RIOTS AT RANGOON, BURMA

BOMBAY, India, May 26—(AP)—Serious rioting was reported to have developed at Rangoon, Burma, in late dispatches today. It was said that 26 were killed in clashes between striking dock-workers, strike-breaking coolies and police. More than 200 were injured. The rioting, more serious than had been earlier reported, was finally brought under control.

Harper & Bros. announced that former Governor Alfred E. Smith has contracted to write a book discussing the structure of American civil government.

A HISTORY OF CONNECTICUT INDUSTRY



Released by Manufacturers Association of Connecticut

The Smith Worthington Saddlery Company, Hartford.

In a day and time when the young dandy looked with favor on bear oil as a hair dressing, a young man, Normand Smith, confident in his own knowledge as an expert leather worker and the future of the colonies opened, in 1794, a modest saddlery shop in the city of Hartford, just north of the old state house.

His industry, ability and good judgment laid the foundation for a business institution that has weathered all the vexations common to merchandise for over a century and a quarter.

The demand by the agricultural southland for plantation supplies, up to and following the Civil war, materially augmented the trade obtained in the middle west and nearby territory. Sailing vessels carried the consignments from Connecticut river points to Atlantic seaboard and gulf ports. The merchandise produced and dealt in was varied and extensive and to meet the steadily increasing demand for the company's product, stores were opened in New York city, New Orleans and Louisville, Kentucky.

Charles B. Smith, son of Normand Smith, was for a period actively in charge of the New Orleans store. Many of the business outlets in the south prior to the Civil war were only reached by slow and uncertain means of transportation. River boats, sailing and steam ships augmented the one track railroad.

Hand painted pictures of riding equipment and other goods made up the salesman's sample line and these hand painted pictures, framed and preserved, furnish unique records of business methods of days gone by.

From a humble beginning in 1794 has grown an organization whose reputation is nationwide, which has been privileged to furnish equipment not only for our nation's needs in all her major crises, but has also, in the variety of its products, made harness for Arctic exploration parties, Andean exploration pack harness, reindeer harness, elephant harness, etc.

Today the comprehensive and high grade line of English riding equipment, all produced by expert leather mechanics in the city of Hartford, carries assurance of reliability and quality. Horseback riding today is one of the outstanding American sports, and its health giving exercise surpasses all other forms of recreation.

The successive names given to the company are: Normand Smith, 1794; N. & T. Smith, 1824; T. Smith & Co., 1835; J. T. Smith & Co., 1854; C. B. Smith & Co., 1866; Smith Worthington Co., 1885; Smith Worthington Co., Inc., 1905; Smith Worthington Saddlery Co., 1925. J. A. Roberts is general manager of the company.

No Heart Balm

When a husband shirks the responsibilities of the marriage state by a companionate marital agreement, he forfeits the right to damages for alienated love, according to a ruling handed down by Judge Michael McKinley, of Chicago, in instructing a jury to return a verdict of "not guilty." Leo Dolan, 22, University of Chicago law student, had sued Edgar Roth, father of Virginia Roth Dolan, above, Dolan's bride of a few months, for $50,000.

A prominent citizen of New London county, who is thoroughly alive to the seriousness of the forest fire situation in the county, has offered a reward of $100.00 to any one who furnishes sufficient information to convict the party responsible for the fire of May 2, 3 and 4, which burned such a large area in North Stonington near the Ledyard line, and a $25.00 reward for information leading to the conviction of any person setting any fire without a permit from the fire warden in the towns of North Stonington, Preston, or Ledyard. This reward to be good until the parties responsible for four fires have been convicted.

Firestone brought out for automobile use:

—The first straight-side tire.

—The first rubber non-skid tread.

—The first commercial demountable rim.

—The first patented Gum-Dipping process.

—The first balloon tire.

• • • •

Performance

Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires;

—hold all world's records on road and track for safety, mileage, speed and endurance.

—for ten consecutive years have won the 500 mile Indianapolis Endurance Race.

—were on winning cars in Pike's Peak Race—where a slip meant death.

—were on the Studebaker car which on a board track at Atlantic City in 1928 went 30,000 miles in 26,326 minutes.

—ran 71,351 miles on a Detroit taxicab, before the first tire was replaced.

—were on the G. M. C. truck carrying a two-ton load that hung up the Coast-to-Coast endurance record.

—for 10 years have been sold on a mileage cost basis to taxicab and bus lines in greater volume than any other tires, and now equip the world's largest taxicab fleet and the world's longest bus line.

THE FIRESTONE COMPANY gained its first success years ago by devising a rubber carriage tire and a method of attaching which was better than anything owned by the carriage tire trust. When Firestone wanted to make automobile tires, the way was barred by a trust holding the clincher patents for fastening the tire to the rim. Firestone invented a new way—which knocked the value out of the trust's patents and developed into the straight-side tire used everywhere today. Henry Ford, just starting volume production, gave the first order for them.

LATER, when all the rim patents were pooled in a trust, Firestone set up a rim factory and broke the monopoly. Still later, when an inventor asserted a basic patent on all demountable rims and the manufacturers began to pay license fees, Firestone fought the claim from a new angle and proved it fraudulent. When, just a few years ago, the British rubber planters entered into an arrangement artificially to raise the price of rubber Firestone almost alone and unaided fought the monopoly.

FIRESTONE did not fight these monopolies for the sake of fighting. They had to be fought because the Firestone policy demands that a tire price include materials, workmanship, a reasonable profit—and nothing else.

FIRESTONE has defeated every monopoly. Firestone has done all the fighting but the fruits of victory belong to everyone. They have made every tire cheaper and save the public at least fifty million dollars a year.

STANDING out against monopolies and high prices is a part of a great tradition—a tradition which has been responsible for every notable advance in tire making. It is the tradition of leadership. The pressure is always to make tires that will more than meet every need and give more value than money can be expected to buy. The obligation is absolute and admits of no compromise.

THIS policy has created great resources. The resources give further and greater force to the policy. The rubber flows in Firestone hands from the trees, the fabric travels from the cotton fields through Firestone Mills—everything meets in Firestone Factories. At every point the control is Firestone's. There are no outside profits.

NO FIRESTONE Tire is expensive. The highest priced are, in point of service, very cheap. But the objective of years has been to make a tire at a low price that would not compromise on design, material or workmanship.

THAT tire has now been made. Firestone now announces a new line of tires at prices only Firestone could make. They are Firestone Tires. They are sold as Firestone Tires. And they are sold by dealers who are trained and whose service stores are equipped to ensure that each tire bearing the name Firestone fulfills its obligation.

THESE tires are now with Firestone Dealers. Ask to see the Firestone line of Anchor Double-Breaker Gum-Dipped Balloons.

A Motor Car Opportunity for Character, Capability, Capital.

Within a few days, the field representative of a large Detroit motor car manufacturer will be here for the purpose of appointing a local dealer for this manufacturer's line of cars. ...This product is noted for its high quality and its high salability. The manufacturer occupies a very sound financial and production position. His cars are respected in the industry and preferred by a large section of the public—with 175,000 satisfied owners at present. The feature car of the new line is a four-door sedan listing at $845 and delivering, complete, for less than $1000.00 in the great majority of the motor car market... This is a rare opportunity for a man of character, capability and capital. It makes no difference whether or not he has had motor car experience. If he has had good business experience and has good business judgment, he will want to see this manufacturer's representative when that man is here. Please address a letter to MOTOR CAR REPRESENTATIVE, in care of The Bulletin, and you will hear from him.

NEW LONDON COLLECTOR TO AUCTION PROPERTIES FOR UNPAID TAXES

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, May 26.—Another move was made today by Tax Collector Hill Manwaring, successor to Hibbard N. Alexander, to collect back taxes. The present collector has filed notice that he intends to collect by law the taxes due on the levy of 1928 and that to accomplish this the properties against which taxes remain unpaid will be sold at public auction July 28. The properties which it is intended to sell are those of Delia Mugovero, Konomoc street; Paolina Roffa, Midway place, and Edward J. Thomas, Arthur H. and Edwin E. Thomas, Division street. The sales have been set for 10 a. m., 12 o'clock noon, and 4 p. m., (daylight saving time). It is claimed by Tax Collector Manwaring that a tax of $70.44 remains unpaid against the Mugovero property and $90.38 is due on the Roffa realty, while $181.89 has not been paid on the Thomas real estate holdings. It is the intention of Tax Collector Manwaring to collect all back taxes and if the collections are not made within a reasonable length of time, legal course will be taken to secure the sums due.

OBITUARY

Patrick W. Smith

Information was received in New London today of the death in New Britain Saturday of Patrick W. Smith, 64, a summer resident at Ocean Beach. Mr. Smith was a brother-in-law of Chief of Police William C. Hart, of New Britain.

Arthur Quintiliani, 131 Blydenburg avenue; Donald W. Smith, Jr., 843 Pequot avenue; Mrs. Charles Lester, Groton; Mrs. Lawrence Thomason, Groton, and Mrs. Benjamin Walker and infant daughter, 15 Waldo street, patients at Home Memorial hospital, were discharged Sunday and today.

Illegal Entry

Robert Dudot, secon chef at the Colonial Shop, State street, was arrested Saturday by immigration officers, charged with illegal entry into this country, and was taken to Hartford where he will be given a hearing. Dudot is like many others who have succeeded in gaining entrance to American countries and the immigration authorities are taking steps to put a stop to such acts. Already several arrests have been made in such cases in New London.

Fire in Irlandi Home

A still alarm was received at fire headquarters this morning for a fire at the residence of James Irlandi, 86 Ocean avenue. The fire existed in a wood box behind a kitchen stove and the flames ignited the wooden trimmings of the room. On the arrival of the firemen the blaze was quickly extinguished with chemicals and with slight damage resulting.

Peter Anderson, of Norwich, was arrested in Preston yesterday by State Police Officer Arthur Whitmarsh, charged with reckless driving.

General Train Master Timothy S. V. Collins, of the New Haven railroad, who has been confined to his home on Montauk avenue for several weeks as a result of an attack of rheumatism, resumed his duties today. During Mr. Collins' absence his duties have been cared for by Timothy O'Leary.

The presence of the cows on the tracks became known to railroad employes and the animals were gotten back in pasture, out of the way of trains. Last year many cows were killed by trains because of their roaming to the tracks and an effort is being made this year to prevent a recurrence of this.

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, May 26.—The continued case of Henry E. Marquardt, former tax collector of the borough of Groton, charged with embezzlement, was tried in the Groton town court this morning. Probable cause was found and the former collector was bound over to the next term of the superior court in bail of $5,000. He obtained a surety on his bond. Marquardt was arrested several weeks ago when a shortage of about $16,000 was found in his accounts. Since that time he has paid practically the entire amount of the shortage and has given assurance that he will pay whatever balance may be found due to the borough. Auditors are at work on the former collector's books and Marquardt has promised to make restitution of any amount that may be revealed to exist as a result of the audit.

ANNONCEMENTS

Broadway Theatre

The greatest surprise to the motion picture world came when Greta Garbo, thought shelved because she "couldn't speak," suddenly blossomed forth on the talking screen with one of the most marvelous and dynamic voices ever recorded. Almost as sensational is the announcement that petite Nancy Carroll, known hitherto only as a singing, dancing comedienne, chiefly dimples and roguery, is now hailed by blase critics as one of the greatest dramatic actresses in the screen world. Her work as Hallie, the attractive but expensive manicurist play-girl, in "The Devil's Holiday," which opens tomorrow at the Broadway, reveals a character at once sinner and saint, to whom men were just gilded toys, meaning mostly just another deposit in the old bank account, and definitely placing dainty Miss Carroll as a great emotional actress. In "The Devil's Holiday," the new dramatic star is supported by a marvelous cast, including Hobart Bosworth, James Kirkwood, Ned Sparks, ZaSu Pitts, Morton Downey, Paul Lukas and Jed Prouty, surely an all-star cast of great possibilities. Fans are guaranteed a brand new set of thrills in this totally different and always surprising drama of the life of today. An "Our Gang" comedy, Milton C. Work, international bridge expert, in an amusing demonstration of bridge play, and Vitaphone specialties complete the program. Tomorrow evening the Broadway "Summer Girl" award will be made, when some young lady will acquire a complete and nifty wardrobe, including a valuable red fox scarf. Today for the last times, Gary Cooper and Fay Wray will be seen in Cooper's latest outdoor drama, "The Texan," an exciting film version of one of O. Henry's best-known stories.

OBITUARY

Mrs. C. August Pearson

Mrs. Josephine Wilhelmina Swan, 77, wife of the late C. August Pearson, passed away at her home, No. 111 North Main street Monday afternoon at 4:15 o'clock, after a long illness. She was born in Sweden, December 20, 1852, and came to this country when a young girl. She was united in marriage at Pontiac, R. I., her husband dying in this city ten years ago. Mrs. Pearson is survived by five children, Charles W. Pearson and Mrs. Henry Wise, of this city; Richard Pearson, Fredericksburg, Va., Mrs. Joseph Peterson, of this city; Mrs. Herman Kamp, of Hartford; two brothers, Charles Swan and Knute Swan of Brooklyn, N. Y. and two sisters, Mrs. Clarence Rose, Manchester, N. H.; Mrs. William Shippee of Daytona, Fla. Twenty-one grand children and five great-grandchildren also survive. Mrs Pearson spent most of her life in Greeneville and was a member of the Swedish Lutheran church. When her health permitted her she was a very active member of the church. She was always a loving, kind mother to her children, kind to her neighbors and ready at all times to assist anyone in trouble.

SACHEM CHAPTER, NO. 57, O. E. S. AT ST. ANDREW'S CHURCH

In spite of a very severe rainstorm a goodly number of the members of Sachem chapter, No. 57, O. E. S., and a fair number of prominent Masons attended divine service at St. Andrew's church on Sunday morning, May 25, to attend the Memorial day service conducted by the Rev. E. J. Norris, rector. Rev. Norris took as his subject "The Three Graces Taught Us By Memorial Day."

Rev. Norris extended a very hearty welcome to the members of Sachem chapter, then dealt with the text, Judges 5:2, bringing out the thought of the preciousness of the possession of our freedom because others bravely dared: and we enjoy an inheritance procured at such a cost.

The following truths may be emphasized:

1—The soldiers claim is paramount. Our best eulogies feebly express all we ought to express. It is a debt we can never adequately pay. Our country can never be ungrateful.

2—These heroes of the past fought not for themselves. Their motives were pure.

Three—There is a dual purpose in our keeping of Memorial day. If prayers, memorial wreaths and orations for the dear departed. Then advice or counsel for the living. Is not the world faced with a grave danger? in the evident doctrine of true heroic manhood?

A wonderful endowment is bequeathed to us this Memorial day. Three links inseparable: or better, three wonderful graces, obedience or submission, magnanimous, scorn of what is base; self-sacrifice; others first.

The service concluded with special prayers for those who have fallen in the service of their country, for the spirit of brotherhood among the nations, and of dedication anew to the service of God.

On Ascension day, Thursday, May 29, holy communion will be celebrated at 10 a. m.

A silver treasure consisting of 1,300 old coins dating from the years 1626 to 1661 was found by German foresters in the hallow of an old tree trunk.

BACKUS HOSPITAL CLASS RECEIVES DIPLOMAS AND PINS AT GRADUATION

Graduation exercises for the 1930 class of the William W. Backus hospital school of nursing were held Monday evening at the Samuel Huntington school at Norwich Town with a good sized audience of interested friends of the class members and the hospital. The platform was attractively decorated with a profusion of early spring wild flowers in pink and white and at the opening of the exercises the graduating class of ten members, accompanied by most of the nursing staff at the hospital, took seats at the front of the hall in a special reserved section.

Seated upon the platform with Henry A. Tirrell, chairman of the board of trustees, who presided, were the speakers of the evening, Worcester Warren, superintendent of schools in Bridgeport; Miss Lucy B. Abbott, superintendent of the hospital; Miss Grace Anslow, superintendent of nurses: Shepard B. Palmer of the executive committee, and Rev. Alexander H. Abbott of the United Congregational church.

After prayer offered by Rev. Mr. Abbott, Henry LaFontaine was heard in a baritone solo, Glory to God (Buzzi Peccia), which was given in fine voice, and was followed by the address by Superintendent Warren who was introduced by Mr. Tirrell.

In opening his address, Mr. Warren spoke in a complimentary way of the splendid service which Mr. Tirrell is giving to the people of Norwich in the cause of education and he went on to congratulate the class members upon having completed the first step in their careers. Success, he said, comes with growing on the job and he stressed the value of having a definite goal of achievement to aim for in realizing the opportunities which the nursing profession opens to those who have entered upon it.

Standards of nursing, he said, have been set by intelligent public demand, and he urged that these be maintained to the limit by the intelligent citizens of the community.

Superintendent Warren went on to speak of what the public school can do for the profession of nursing and the training of nurses and said he considered the public school can do much in that way. It can give vocational information about nursing, the dignity and worthwhileness of the profession, its advantages and disadvantages, its requirements in health, intelligence and character. It may also present possible try-out opportunities in child care and home-nursing, and it is also the duty of the public school to discover and encourage those who show an interest in nursing. The girl interested in nursing should be given as much social recognition as the girl who is going to college. The public school should also give a broad foundation for this special type of training into which the nurse students will enter in the hospital, and can further help them by putting into their courses of study material that will be really useful to them. And finally it should build into their lives the character and ideals for which the nursing profession stands.

The address was followed by another solo by Mr. La Fontaine who sang Deems Taylor's "Captain Stratton's Fancy" and responding to the insistent call for an encore by giving "Sweet Mystery of Life." Mrs. Charles A. Saxton played the piano accompaniments.

Mr. Tirrell presented the diplomas to the class members who are: Dorothy Louise Malcolm, Norwich; Alice May Glasbrenner, Montville; Edna Mildred Holmberg, Norwich; Doris Bliss, Jewett City; Helen Anna May Ravenell, Norwich; Frances Sweet, Jewett City; Viola Green, Willimantic; Elizabeth Hall Boynton, Norwich; Regina Rose Gutneckt, Jewett City; Bessie Goldblatt, Norwich.

The class pins were presented by Mr. Palmer and following this, Miss Ravenell, on behalf of the class, presented its gift, the sum of $75 for equipment for the nursing school laboratory.

She also presented beautiful bouquets to Miss Abbott and Miss Anslow, the latter accepting the gift from the class for the school with words of warm appreciation.

The exercises closed with the school song by the student body. Four of the hospital nurses were ushers for the evening, the Misses Christine Barry, Birdie Stanton, Mae Barry and Irene Chandler.

A reception was held at the nurses' home after the graduation exercises.

FORTY-SEVEN NEW MEMBERS JOIN GIRLS' SODALITIES

Sunday afternoon, the annual reception of members into the Children of Mary and the Immaculate Conception sodality took place at St. Patrick's church. Thirty-two girls became members of the Children of Mary and fifteen girls were received into the Junior sodality. Rt. Rev. Msgr. M. H. May received the sodalists and spoke to them of their privileges and responsibilities.

After the reception the president, Margaret Sullivan, proceeded to the side altar with her two assistants, Flora Woodmansee and Kathryn Coleman. The little crown-bearer, Marie Fitzgerald, walked before them. Then followed about fifty little girls attired in white, wearing large blue hair bows and carrying pink roses. As the crowning hymn was being sung, the president placed the beautiful crown of sweet peas and lilies-of-the valley on Our Lady's statue. The little girls filed into the sanctuary and handed their bouquet to the two assistants, who placed the flowers in the vases. In a few moments the altar was banked with pink roses.

Benediction followed As the sodalities marched out of the church the junior choir sang "Farewell to May." In spite of the rainy afternoon many were present to witness the impressive ceremony.

Calumet's Double-Action has come to town to help you with all your baking

MAKE THIS TEST—See for yourself how Calumet Baking Powder acts twice to make your baking better. Put two level teaspoons of Calumet into a glass, add two teaspoons of water, stir rapidly five times and remove the spoon. The tiny, fine bubbles will rise slowly, half filling the glass. This is Calumet's first action—the action that takes place in your mixing bowl.

After the mixture has entirely stopped rising, stand the glass in a pan of hot water on the stove. In a moment, a second rising will start and continue until the mixture rises to the top of the glass. This is Calumet's second action—the action that takes place in your oven. Make this test today. See Calumet's Double-Action which protects your baking from failure. © 1930, G. F. Corp.

IF YOU want to know why Calumet has become the most popular baking powder in the world—make the double-action test.

Double-Action. Here it is. Two risings, not merely one. Calumet's way of making cakes high and fluffy—biscuits light and flaky. Women all over town are proving this to be true.

The first action of Calumet takes place in the mixing bowl. Then in the oven a second action swells through the batter and makes your cake rise perfectly—even though you may not be able to regulate your oven temperature accurately. Make some hot biscuits or a cake today—see what splendid results Calumet brings!

Only One Level Teaspoon of Calumet to a Cup of Sifted Flour!

That's the usual Calumet proportion. Be sure to follow it even though you may have been using nearly twice as much with other baking powders. You'll be delighted with this economy! And more than delighted with the results Calumet gives you. Perfect texture! Perfect flavor!

All baking powders are required by law to be made of pure, wholesome ingredients. But not all are alike in their action. Not all will give you equally fine results in your baking. Calumet is scientifically made of exactly the right ingredients, in exactly the right proportions to produce perfect leavening action—Double-Action. Get a can of Calumet from your grocer today. UNIFORM VEHICLE CODES BY SEPARATE STATES

Object of the Third National Conference On Streets and Highway Safety—Would Solve the Problems of Decreasing Automobile Fatalities and Unsnarling Traffic Congestion—President Hoover Characterized the Continuing Loss of Life On the Highways As "A National Concern of Grave Importance."

WASHINGTON, May 27—(P)—President Hoover and Secretary Lamont joined today before the third national conference on street and highway safety in approving its efforts to solve the dual problems of decreasing automobile fatalities and unsnarling traffic congestion through the adoption of uniform vehicle codes by the separate states.

President Hoover welcomed the delegates as gathered for "the application of massed intelligence to the solution of a peculiarly difficult problem." He recalled the work of the 1926 conference, and characterized the continuing loss of life on the highways as "a national concern of grave importance."

Secretary Lamont, chairman of the conference, likewise warned that "reports from the traffic front leave no doubt as to the seriousness of the situation." He urged as a solution the extension of strongly centralized motor vehicle regulation by the states.

"The states which have strong centralized states motor vehicle administration," Lemont said, "including drivers' licenses systems with mandatory examination, have shown a much smaller rate of fatality increase than has occurred in the other groups of states."

The commerce secretary said in the North Atlantic states fatalities increased only half as fast as registrations, while in the group of nine middle western states for which comparable figures are available, the fatality increase exceeded registrations by 10 per cent. In a group of eight southern states, he said, fatalities mounted by 296 per cent, while registrations increased 224 per cent.

A brief controversy developed over proposed amendments to the model act regulating traffic on highways, which would allow speeds up to 20 miles an hour in business districts, 25 miles per hour in residential districts, and 45 miles per hour outside these districts.

Dr. Miller McClintock, Harvard university traffic expert, defended the amendments, asserting under questioning they would "save scores and perhaps thousands of lives."

"This proposal would put speed regulation on a sensible and reasonable basis," Dr. McClintock said.

He described a test conducted on an open stretch of highway on which no speed limit was prescribed, and said the average speed of all cars using that section of highway was 38 miles an hour.

After objection from the floor of the conference the section pertaining to increased speed was referred to a special committee for clarification.

Earlier, Dr. Julius H. Parmalee, chairman of a committee on traffic accident statistics, presented a report estimating the total number of persons injured in traffic accidents last year at 1,000,000. He fixed the economic costs of these accidents at $850,000,000.

"A billion dollars of waste every year from motor vehicle accidents," Dr. Parmalee said, "will soon become a reality unless something is done to check the increase."

AT LEAST FOUR LIVES LOST IN FIRE AT OKLAHOMA CITY

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., May 27—(P)—Trapped by falling walls of Coliseum, huge auditorium in the stock yards district here, at least four men lost their lives today in a fire that destroyed the building, with an estimated loss of $500,000. Three firemen were injured.

Four bodies had been recovered early tonight and firemen and fifty city prisoners were digging in the still smoking debris for bodies of other persons who were reported to have been trapped by falling walls as they sought to save new automobiles stored in the Coliseum annex.

R. A. Mason, fireman, was the only victim whose identity was positively established. Another body tentatively was identified as that of Tommy Smith. Two other bodies remain unidentified.

Six or seven men were reported by witnesses to have been trapped in the annex while attempting to push automobiles out, when the stage wall fell back into the annex.

Three firemen suffered burns and injuries, but it was believed they would recover.

The auditorium, built in 1920, had housed most of the city's great gatherings since.

[illegible]es on the destroyed automobil[illegible] estimated at $300,000 and on the building at $200,000. Both were protected by insurance.

An investigation into the cause of the fire was launched tonight by the state fire marshal.

DRY OFFICIALS IN RUM SCANDAL IN SEATTLE, WASH.

SEATTLE, Wash., May 27—(P)—Accused in grand jury indictments of having conspired with rum runners, moonshiners and bootleggers to violate prohibition, revenue and tariff laws and of having accepted huge bribes, Prohibition Administrator Roy C. Lyle, his chief assistant, William M. Whitney, and three others became defendants instead of prosecutors here today.

Lyle, Whitney and Earl Corwin, the latter a dry agent, were ordered suspended from office pending their trial, which cannot be held before the November term of federal court. The two others named in the indictment were C. T. McKinney, former assistant United States attorney, and R. L. Fryant, a deputy sheriff and former dry agent.

All but McKinney have been arrested and released on personal recognizance or bond. McKinney left his hotel May 20 and his whereabouts are unknown to authorities.

Listing many overt acts, the indictments brought by a grand jury yesterday, after eleven days of investigation, alleged the dry officials "knowingly, wilfully, unlawfully and feloniously, did combine, conspire, confederate and agree together and with each other to permit the importation and sale of liquor."

DEATH OF THE CHIEF OF THE MERIDEN FIRE DEPT.

MERIDEN, May 27—(P)—Chief John F. Donovan, of the Meriden fire department died at his home tonight following a heart attack with which he was stricken Sunday night. Previously to Sunday he had been in perfect health. He was 59 years old.

Chief Donovan had served in the fire department for the last 42 years. He was raised to the rank of chief on April 30, 1912, after thirty years of service. For many years he was connected with the State Firemen's association, in which he had served as an officer and on important committees.

JUDGES IN TROUBLE FOR ACCEPTING FREE PASSAGES

NEW YORK, May 27—(P)—Chief Magistrate McAdoo today was called upon by District Attorney Crain to issue summonses for County Judge W. Bernard C. Vause of Brooklyn and Supreme Court Justice William T. Collins, to answer to a charge of having accepted a free ocean crossing from the United American line.

The state constitution says acceptance of such free transportation is a misdemeanor and may result in forfeiture of office.

HOOVER HAS SIGNED THE LAW ENFORCEMENT BILL

WASHINGTON, May 27—(P)—President Hoover affixed his signature to measures designed to improve law enforcement today and thereby signalled to the justice department for an intensive effort to enforce the prohibition laws.

One of the measures gave to that department the full responsibility, after July 1, for detecting and dealing with violators of the dry laws. The others provide for an expansion of the prison system.

Immediately after the chief executive signed the measures, it became known from Attorney General Mitchell that district attorneys have been summoned to Washington to discuss improving the coordinated work of detection and prosecution. Mitchell also said special agents had visited prosecutors throughout the country to urge intensive prosecution of prohibition violators.

Under the transfer bill only the industrial alcohol division will remain under the treasury, and it must have the consent of the attorney general in issuing permits.

The enforcement division will be headed by a director not yet selected and Prohibition Commissioner Doran is expected to remain at the treasury to direct the industrial alcohol division.

The change will transfer about 2,000 employes of the treasury to the justice department and is expected to bring about a reduction in the number of prohibition administrative districts as well as a reorganization of administrative forces.

GRAF ZEPPELIN WILL START NORTHWARD TODAY

PERNAMBUCO, Brazil, May 27—(P)—The Graf Zeppelin, with nearly half of her 18,000 mile flight over four continents and two oceans completed, will leave her mooring mast here tomorrow for New York and Lakehurst.

Her first cruise over the Caribbean sea and the West Indies will take her to Havana, Cuba, by Friday, depending on the as yet unfixed hour for the start tomorrow. A brief stop will be made at Havana, and then Dr. Hugo Eckener will press on to Lakehurst, where he hopes to arrive by Sunday night at the latest.

The departure will probably take place late tomorrow afternoon, though Doctor Eckener has been careful not to make statements to newspapers. At Campo Giquia airfield all was activity as the cooler hours of the evening set in.

"RUN" ON HARTFORD BANK AND TRUST CO. BROKEN

HARTFORD, May 27—(P)—Withdrawal of savings from the City Bank and Trust company slowed down appreciably today and the last hour or two of the banking day was marked by but a scattering number of depositors drawing on their funds. Not all of the bank's customers were there for the purpose of getting their money. Deposits for the day aggregated $160,000 and withdrawals amounted in the aggregate to almost $400,000, so that deposits of the bank funds were decreased less than $240,000. Deposits of the bank were decreased less than $240,000. Deposits included sums previously withdrawn.

It was apparent that the "run" had been broken.

FLOOD WATERS FORCE MORE FAMILIES FROM THEIR HOMES

NEW ORLEANS, May 27.—(P)—Refugee camps dotted the hills of Red river and Natchitoches parishes tonight as flood waters from the Red river and its tributaries forced more families from their homes.

Thousands of homes were partly or completely covered by water that was still rising today. Men, women and children crowded together in the refugee camps.

Officials who have checked the area report 105,000 acres under water in these two parishes with another hundred thousand emerging from water in Caddo, Bossier and Desoto. Estimates of the homeless inhabitants have passed 8,000.

PARIS, May 27.—(P)—One hundred Filipinos, representing themselves as delegates from the different Filipino colonies of the world, have just ended what was described as the "first Philippine independence congress" at which "immediate, complete and absolute independence" for the Philippines was demanded.

"ENEMY" ASSAULTED THE L. I. SOUND DEFENSES

FORT WRIGHT, Fishers Island, N. Y., May 27. —(P)—The "enemy" fleet came boldly in from the sea late today and assaulted the Long Island sound defenses in the fuorth phase of the minor army-navy exercises. What the result of such action might be in actual warfare must be estimated by military experts.

Some satisfaction should have been found, however, by the defenders or "blue" forces in the absence of the "enemy" or "black" air forces. As might occur in an actual invasion, rough seas kept the black sea planes from participating. This was due to the fact that landing upon return to airplane carriers would be hazardous in rough water.

Thus the sky was left clear for the "defense" aircraft, and the full force of more than 40 planes were in the air throughout the engagement.

Theoretically the "black" fleet was thoroughly straffed and bombed by the "blue" planes long before it came within range of Fort Wright.

Fort Wright was made the principal object of the attack and as the fleet swung by, warships delivered a theoretical broadside and turned from the line.

How many of the "invaders" could have been sent to the bottom by the aerial bombers and how many would have been destroyed by the fort's guns in actual warfare must also be computed by the army and navy observers.

That sea conditions were unkind to the planes, and the strength that an invading force might be expected to enforce was demonstrated as the engagement was coming to a close.

NAVAL OFFICERS RESUME ATTACKS ON LONDON PACT

WASHINGTON, May 27—(P)—Naval officers resumed their attack upon the London naval treaty before the senate foreign relations and naval committees today as senate leaders decided to postpone action upon it until the special session to be called probably next month by President Hoover.

The rugged, retired Admiral H. A. Wylie, who was commander-in-chief of the United States fleet [illegible] brought an uproarious la[illegible] foreign relations hearing [illegible] he growled that "we will have [illegible] of business bye and bye—we h[illegible] too many conferences."

Captain Turner beat by 26 minutes 58 seconds the record set by Captain Frank Hawks June 27, 1929. Hawks time was 19 hours, 10 minutes and 12 seconds.

TAKE-OFF OF "K OF NEW HAVEN" DELAYED BY RAIN

BRAINARD FIELD, HARTFORD, May 27.—(P)—Rain in this immediate flying area, and a late report of a storm off Jacksonville, Fla., caused postponement of the "hop-off" of the plane, "K of New Haven," for Buenos Aires, this afternoon.

Lieut. Commander Pond, acting flight commander, who had set the time for 4 this afternoon, daylight time, said the departure would be late tomorrow.

Cody of Winsted, has brought a $25,000 alienation of affections suit in the superior court of Litchfield county against Mrs. Marie Marshall, of Hartford, whom she accuses of stealing the love of her husband, now serving a term in Wethersfield state prison for embezzlement. Sixth Arrest In N. Y. For Theft Of Jewelry

More Than Half a Million Dollars Worth of Additional Stolen Gems Recovered.

NEW YORK, May 27—(P)—A sixth arrest in a roundup of an alleged gang of jewel thieves and recovery of mo[illegible] than half a million dollars worth [illegible] additional stolen gems were annou[illegible] late today by Police Commissioner E[illegible]ward P. Mulrooney. Robert C. Nelson, 53, a Sheepshead Bay broker, was the man arrested.

Nelson was arrested at his home and taken to police headquarters charged with receiving stolen property. Police said the jewels they recovered were stored in safe deposit boxes in many banks under Nelson's and his wife's names.

Yesterday detectives, working on information obtained by undercover men, arrested four men and a woman in a hotel room and seized $300,000 worth of stolen jewelry.

With the six arrests, police believed they had broken up one of the most active gangs of its kind in the country, but they still had plenty of mystery to solve.

For nine weeks police had been trailing the suspects and yesterday they struck. Just as Hilda Carter and George Cole were arrested on the sidewalk in front of a midtown hotel detectives burst into a room in the hotel to find William J. O'Connor, Jack Rosen and James W. Watson sitting around a table on which the gems were heaped in a glittering pile.

At first it looked like a clean sweep, but then Watson, detectives said, moving quickly to a window tossed out a packet of bills representing a fortune. His motive remained a mystery today but it led to many conjectures.

Police were still wondering tonight what his motive could have been.

The band about the packet of bills broke in the fall and the money scattered down into the teeming Grand Central skyscraper zone. Police obtained 16 bills of $1,000 denomination and eight of $500 and three other $1,000 denomination were found today, one by a pedestrian on the sidewalk and two on the roofs of adjoining buildings.

Pending a hearing the prisoners were held without bail today. It was believed that a large part of the recovered gems had been stolen from the Florida hotel apartments of David J. Bonwitt of Pittsburgh and Louis W. Herman of New York. John L. Carson Jr., of Buffalo also announced today that he could tentatively identify some of the jewels as part of $270,000 worth stolen from his guests at a party last November.

O'Connor told police that he was from Buffalo. Hilda Carter said she was "from Rhode Island." Watson wouldn't tell where he lived, Rosen said he lived in New York and Cole asserted he was a novelty salesman from Birmingham, Ala.

LAST SACRAMENTS FOR ARCHBISHOP OF RHEIMS

RHEIMS, France, May 27.—(P)—Cardinal Lucon, archbishop of Rheims, who remained in the shell-torn city all during the war years, lay on his deathbed tonight. The last sacraments were administered to him today in the presence of his vicar general.

He is suffering from bronchitis, complicated with a generally weakened condition from old age. He is 87 years old and has been 65 years in the priesthood.

Under the heavy German gunfire, the cardinal remained in Rheims from 1914 to 1918, though most of the populace abandoned the city. He used to count the shells that struck his beloved cathedral and kept close watch on the damage and on the precautions against it.

In 1919, he conducted President Woodrow Wilson on a tour of the bombarded city. He is one of the most popular figures of the Catholic church in France.

BRITISH LABOR PARTY IN PRECARIOUS SITUATION

LONDON, May 27—(P)—Great Britain's second labor government tonight faced a precarious political situation on the unemployment problem, which the conservatives will make a test of strength in the house of commons tomorrow.

The conservatives will bring to a vote a motion to reduce the salary of J. H. Thomas, lord privy seal and minister in charge of employment. This is a time-honored parliamentary method of expressing a want of confidence in a minister and in the government.

Defeat for labor in the house tomorrow will almost certainly entail the dissolution of parliament by King George and a call for a general election approximately a year after that which brought labor into power.

ASKS $1,700,000 FOR NEW FEDERAL PENITENTIARY

WASHINGTON, May 27—(P)—President Hoover in a supplemental estimate asked congress today for $1,700,000 for a site and to begin construction of a new federal penitentiary in the northeastern section of the country.

The new penitentiary, which is to be built on a site within a limited radius of Erie, Pa., will be the first of the new penal institutions to be built under bills which were signed today by President Hoover.

The appropriation called for today would take care only of preliminary work but was requested in order to avoid delay of the work initiated before the next regular appropriation measures come along.

Rep. Nominee For Gov. Of Oregon Disbarred

State [illegible]e Court Has Ord[illegible]ermanent Disbarment [illegible] of George W. Joseph.

[illegible]M, Ore., May 27.—(P)—The [illegible] supreme court today ordered [illegible] permanent disbarment of George [illegible] Joseph, republican nominee for [illegible]vernor, and Thomas Mannix, Portland attorney.

A board of referees appointed by the supreme court to hear the cases of the two attorneys had previously recommended that Joseph be disbarred permanently and that Mannix be disbarred for three years.

The court held, however, that Mannix, who brought disbarment proceedings against Joseph, should not be permitted to practice law in this state again.

Justice Beam, dissented, holding that disbarment of Senator Joseph for three years would be sufficient and that one year would be adequate for Mannix.

The disbarment of Joseph was based on his criticism of members of the supreme court. Joseph said political and financial interests influenced decisions in certain cases, which he named. As a result of these criticisms, which also involved Mannix, the latter filed disbarment proceedings against the senator, Joseph retaliated with similar action against Mannix, including him in his criticism of the court.

In the recent primary in Oregon Joseph defeated his nearest opponent for the republican nomination for governor by approximately 5,000 votes. A. W. Norblat, the present governor, was second in a field of six. Joseph's race was known as a "revenge contest" as he was primarily seeking vindication as a result of his disbarment controversy.

Joseph was born in a log cabin in northern California and used to be a sheep herder.

CHINESE REBELS DEFEAT NATIONALIST FORCES

SHANGHAI, May 27.—(P)—The northern alliance rebel army, numbering 200,000 men, independent dispatches said tonight, badly defeated the nationalist government forces in heavy fighting in Honan province during the last three days.

Forced to give way before furious onslaughts, the nationalists dug in, awaiting reinforcements before renewing the sanguinary conflict.

With their main forces strung along the railroad south of the Yellow river in Honan, the rebels directed by Generals Yen Hsi-Shan and Feng Yu-Hsian have engaged the government armies since May 8. The tide of victory which at first bore the nationalists westward toward Chengchow, the rebel base on two railroads, seemingly is turning against the government troops, led in person by President Chiang Kai-Shek.

Suppressing news of the recent fighting, the nationalists government issued this statement from Nanking, its capital.

"The Northerners claims of victories are groundless. In order to bolster the spirits of loosely confederated adherents in a forlorn cause, it is necessary for the rebels to claim victories in battles that never were fought."

TUMULT IN BRITAIN'S INDIAN POSSESSIONS

BOMBAY, India, May 27.—(P)—Riot and tumult, or their aftermath of chaos and uncertainty, reigned today in four great cities of Britain's Indian possessions.

A rough computation of official figures showed that in Rangoon, Lucknow, Dacca and Bombay, 82 persons had been killed, 863 injured and hundreds upon hundreds arrested.

Over the week end the riots have entirely broken out of the bounds of the civil disobedience campaign. They overshadowed the salt raids of Mahatma Gandhi's volunteers and made of "non-violence" a mere academic term.

Rangoon, the Burmese capital, not yet recovered from the heavy earthquake of several weeks ago, tonight was a beleagured city, in which soldiers and police were desperately striving to maintain a hold, already precarious, over fighting coolies and lawless bands.

Fifty-four bodies lay in the city morgue and many others are believed to have been carried away by friends or kinsmen. The official death list stands at 60 and the injured list at 740, but these figures are considered much below the complete, but unobtainable, totals.

MAY EXCHANGE BRITISH AND AMERICAN RADIO PROGRAMS

NEW YORK, May 27.—(P)—An arrangement whereby British and American radio programs will be exchanged was announced today by Henry Bellows, vice president of the Columbia Broadcasting company, on his return from Europe.

Bellows said that, with the aid of Ambassador Charles G. Dawes, a contract had been drawn between the Columbia and the British broadcasting companies under which they will exchange programs. The British company is non-commercial and broadcasts no advertising. Therefore arrangement was made for the American company to pay a small fee for British programs and give its programs for British broadcast without fee.

Ambassador Dawes will act in an advisory capacity on the programs to be exchanged, Bellows said.

Bellows also said he expected to complete within a few months similar negotiations with German, French and Italian broadcasting companies.

CHRYSLER BUILDING 1,030 FEET HIGH, FORMALLY OPENED

NEW YORK, May 27.—(P)—The tallest structure in the world — the Chrysler building—was opened formally today.

Its burnished, rustless steel spire scrapes the clouds 1,030 feet above 42nd street and Lexington avenue, 46 feet higher than the Eiffel tower and 75 feet above the bank of Manhattan building in the financial district, which was opened yesterday.

It is a building of superlatives. It is the highest, it has what is said to be the largest painting in the world in the ceiling of the lobby, a canvas 100 feet by 75, it has the highest restaurant in one of the upper floors and the highest club rooms, the Skyscraper club, and the most stories, 78.

SENATE SENDS THE TARIFF BILL BACK TO CONFERENCE

Result of Ruling By Vice President Curtis Against the Compromise Flexible Provision—Ruling Was Made Upon a Democratic Point of Order—The Point Made Was That the Conferees Had Exceeded Their Authority—Confusion Prevailed Among the Republicans When the Vice President Handed Down His Decision.

WASHINGTON, May 27—(P)—The tariff bill went its weary way back to conference tonight, driven there by a ruling of Vice President Curtis against the compromise flexible provision in the final draft of the Hawley-Smoot measure.

Surprised by the ruling upon a democratic point of order against the section, republican chieftains were laying plans to redraft the provision and get the measure again before the senate. It appeared unlikely that the bill will return to the tariff-tired senate before next week, however, and even then it faces new points of order from the democratic side.

In the face of today's reversal, Senator Smoot, republican, Utah, told the senate, "We will get this bill out of conference and we will pass it." He spoke up after Senator Harrison, Democrat, Mississippi, had inquired if Smoot was "giving up the ship."

The vice president held the conferees had exceeded their authority in writing into the bill new language providing that a tariff commission rate change should take effect if the president neither approved nor disapproved it within 60 days of its recommendation.

Confusion prevailed among republicans when Mr. Curtis handed down his decision. Senator Shortridge, republican, California, one of the conferees demanded a roll call vote on an appeal but withdrew it after talking for several minutes.

Senator Harrison suggested the republicans get rulings immediately on the other points of order which are to be raised against the conference rates on cherries, cheese, rayon, and perhaps watches. Senator Bingham, republican, Connecticut, joined in the request in the interest of expediting the legislation.

Senator Watson, of Indiana, the republican leader, however, protested, but he denied the suggestion of Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the democratic leader, that "the friends of the legislation are trying to kill it."

Watson immediately conferred with President Hoover, and the administration leaders were silent tonight on just what steps would be taken to rectify the wording of the flexible provision.

It developed that the language objected to by Senator Barkley, democrat, Kentucky, when he raised the point of order was inserted in the bill at the request of Representative Garner, of Texas, the house minority chieftain and one of the conferees.

Garner had praised the new provision as a satisfactory compromise between the senate and house amendments and it had the approval of President Hoover.

In his ruling, Mr. Curtis cited a rule he had sponsored when he was chairman of the senate rules committee. This forbids conferees from inserting in their report language not submitted to them by either house of congress.

CREDITS CHURCHES WITH THE ELECTION OF HOOVER

WASHINGTON, May 27.—(P)—The opinion that the election of President Hoover in 1928 was attributable to the activities of churches and temperance organizations and not to the republican party was expressed before the senate lobby committee today by Deets Pickett, research secretary of the Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals of the Methodist Episcopal church.

Appearing to deny charges of Representative Tinkham, republican, Massachusetts, that the board had violated the principle of separation of church and state by political activities, Pickett asserted it had done nothing not guaranteed by the bill of rights of the Constitution.

Pickett appeared in place of Dr. Clarence True Wilson, general secretary of the board, who is in Detroit to debate Clarence Darrow on prohibition. He told the committee none of the organizations' funds had been used in "lobbying."

Most of the testimony revolved around the presidential candidacy of Alfred E. Smith. Pickett testified the board had distributed copies of Smith's record on prohibition for the information of the public. He insisted prohibition was a "moral" issue and not political.

His opinion on the 1928 election was expressed after Senator Blaine, republican, Wisconsin, had read an article written by him which appeared in "The Voice," one of the board's publications, in November, 1928.

KING GEORGE HAS ATTACK OF INFLAMMATORY RHEUMATISM

LONDON, May 27.—(P)—For the first time in a twelve-month the British people tonight were scanning the press for reports of the illness of their sovereign.

Confined to his quarters in Buckingham palace with a painful attack of inflammatory rheumatism centering in his right hip, King George was obliged to forego the third court of the season, this evening, his place being occupied by the Prince of Wales.

Otherwise, according to official announcement, the king was maintaining his usual schedules. George V is 64 years old. He has had two severe illnesses in the last two years. The present illness, however, was only indirectly related to these, due to his somewhat depleted vigor.

LONDON, May 27.—(P)—The third royal British court of the season, at which eight American girls and women were among the 900 from all nations presented, was a brilliant affair tonight despite the absence of King George because of a rheumatic attack.

The presentees were received by Queen Mary alone, but they were consoled in the absence of the king by the gallant figure of the Prince of Wales, resplendent in his scarlet uniform as colonel-in-chief of the Welsh Guards, standing at the side of his royal mother.

Ellis Parker, Burlington county detective in charge of the investigation, said every detail of Bagwell's story had been checked up and he believed it was true.

PETITION TO RESCIND TAX RATE VOTE IS FILED

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, May 27—A petition, the result of a study of city finances made by directors of the chamber of commerce, and bearing 32 signatures has been filed with Mayor Walter R. King, appealing for a special city meeting to vote on the tax rate for the city grand list. Mayor King announced today that he would issue a warning for such a meeting to be held on Monday evening, June 2, at 8 o'clock, daylight saving time, in the town hall.

The meeting will be for the purpose of rescinding a previous vote of the taxpayers for an eight mill tax, in favor of a vote for a 10-mill tax rate. Figures compiled at a conference of chamber of commerce directors and city fathers indicate that a 10 mill tax, plus about $14,000 from indirect income and the possible reduction of some of the appropriations, will put the city through for the year with little if any deficit. Compared to this is the eight mill tax which brings the administration face to face with a deficit for the year of about $90,000, plus continued interest on unpaid borrowed money. The original budget, which is expected to be curtailed in some instances, amounted to $258,695.14.

The reductions which have been enforced since the eight mill tax rate has prevailed, or since May 5, have put the police department on five days a week, the street and sewer departments on four days, stopped all permanent road improvements and other forms of construction and caused all the city street lights to be put out at midnight. A report on conditions is to the effect that a 10 mill tax will enable the administration to restore the city departments back to normal function. With the eight mill tax carried by the meagre majority of 8 votes, 103 to 95, at the meeting of May 5th, it is generally expected that those desiring normal conditions will appear in substantial majority next Monday evening, although strengthened opposition to any increase remains a possibility.

Y., was charged with reckless driving and operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor. Smith was the driver of a car which early Monday morning went off the shoulder of the road on a curve in Andover and crashed into a stone wall while traveling at about 35 miles an hour. Vincent L. Ginkus, 21, of Worcester, Mass., who was riding with Smith, landed on his head and was taken to the Manchester hospital where he is suffering from a fracture of the skull. He is reported to be in serious condition and the case against Smith was continued while awaiting developments. William B. Maten, 19, of Brooklyn, N. Y., another passenger, was also injured.

Charles M. Ams

Charles M. Ams, 67, president of the Max Ams Machine company of Bridgeport, died at his home in Pelham, N. Y., Monday. He was stricken with a paralysis four years ago, the disease becoming acute some four months ago. Mr. Ams founded a fortune as a manufacturer of tin cans, being the originator of the sanitary tin can, sealed with crimped edges rather than with solder. More recently he has been engaged in the production of machinery for the manufacture of cans. He designed this machinery in collaboration with Julius Brenzinger, now vice-president of the company. Some five years ago experiments in the plant laboratory in the commercialising of artificial silk were made and led to the production of rayon machinery which has been sold in all parts of the world.

Mr. Ams purchased the Turner mill property at Turnerville several years ago. He subsequently acquired control of the entire town and it was named Amston.

It was learned today that the decoration of graves and services at the cemeteries in the town of Mansfield were carried on in connection with Memorial day exercises Sunday, despite inclement weather. In correcting information received from another source to the effect that the pilgrimages to the cemeteries would not be held owing to the weather, Mrs. W. Homer, secretary of the auxiliary to Earl W. Green post No. 52, American Legion, stated today that some 10 automobiles went on the annual visit to the graves of veterans in the town. "About A Year Ago, I Began To Have Trouble With My Kidneys"

"But I Found Bon-Tone a Wonderful Remedy—And Am Glad to Tell Others About It."

MRS. GEORGE HOULE

Mrs. George Houle, of 46 Jewelry street, Waterbury, Conn., states:

"About a year ago I began to have trouble with my kidneys. I would have to get up several times during the night, and when I got up in the morning I would 'most always have a dull pain across my back, I would have awful dizzy spells, so badly that I had to give up my work, as every once in a while everything seemed to go black, and I would have to lean up against something to keep from falling. I was also troubled with constipation: and after eating, I would feel sleepy. I was quite nervous; and I would wake up during the night and then I couldn't go back to sleep for some time.

"Bon-Tone was recommended to me, so I decided to try it; and I have now taken only five bottles. I don't have those dizzy spells; I am not so nervous as I was; my kidneys are much better, and I don't have to get up so often during the night. I also find Bon-Tone to be a wonderful laxative and I am glad to tell others about it."

There is a Bon-Tone man in Norwich, at Smith's Pharmacy, to tell you more about this great remedy.

LOWEST-PRICED SIX EVER TO BEAR THE CHRYSLER NAME

THE NEW CHRYSLER SIX

Another great triumph of great engineering

The new Chrysler Six comes to the public at a price that almost anyone can afford—a splendid tribute to the Chrysler ability to turn out extraordinary values. It is a typical Chrysler creation from rims to roof—by long odds the finest motor car ever to appear in the field of lower-priced sixes.

Here at amazingly low prices are the great advantages of Chrysler engineering—such advantages as weatherproof internal-expanding 4-wheel hydraulic brakes; 62-horsepower high-compression engine; special-type spring shackles and shock absorbers; and typically Chrysler-styled bodies of new design and construction.

Such a car at such a price is hardly believable, yet here it is. There is no reason—now—why anybody should be denied the thrill and pride of owning a Chrysler.

The Connecticut Shore Is a Smoldering Boom Ready to Burst Out Any Minute

For the first time in its history the wondrous advantages of the Connecticut shore is now being properly advertised in the great metropolitan district.

Look in last Sunday's New York Herald-Tribune and you will find more than a half page advertisement devoted to the shore of New London County

We quote from a news item also in this paper, dated May 25th.

"Connecticut's forty miles of shore front between Westerly, R. I., and Lyme, Conn., has been bristling with activity during the last ten days. Once more the summer homes of folks from New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Massachusetts are being made ready for the summer.

"Week ends now find the highway dotted with motor cars from New York, New Jersey and even more distant places, loaded down with summer home furnishings, fishing equipment, sport utilities and other things which the summer colony residents are bringing for the season

New York and other Eastern Cities with their ever-increasing population are not only crowding people from their borders, but are forcing thousands to seek the seclusion of New England's water front. Never before has there been such activity and before summer is over tens of thousands will visit this coastal community.

PROSPECT HILL

Prospect Hill section is the cream of the Connecticut Shore—an all year resort—located in the Coastal village of Noank, overlooking Groton Long Point, just 18 miles from Norwich and 7 miles from New London.

Prospect Hill is just three hours from the Grand Central depot in New York and only five minutes off the Boston Post road, conveniently opening up this marvelous Natural resort section to the millions of Metropolitan recreation seekers and Nature lovers. Each year the constant stream of visitors is steadily increasing.

Prospect Hill commands—undisputedly—one of the most picturesque marine views in all New England, and is destined to become a part of one of the greatest resort sections alongs the entire Atlantic Seaboard.

Nature has actually endowed this quaint community with every healthful and recreative advantage that one could possibly desire. Boating, bathing and fishing. Speed boats, sail boats, yachts, steamers everywhere.

You do not have to be a real estate expert to know that such water front real estate—already scarce—will soon be a thing of the past. Choice locations are being rapidly bought up—prices are steadily increasing—in the meantime Nature is making no more land.

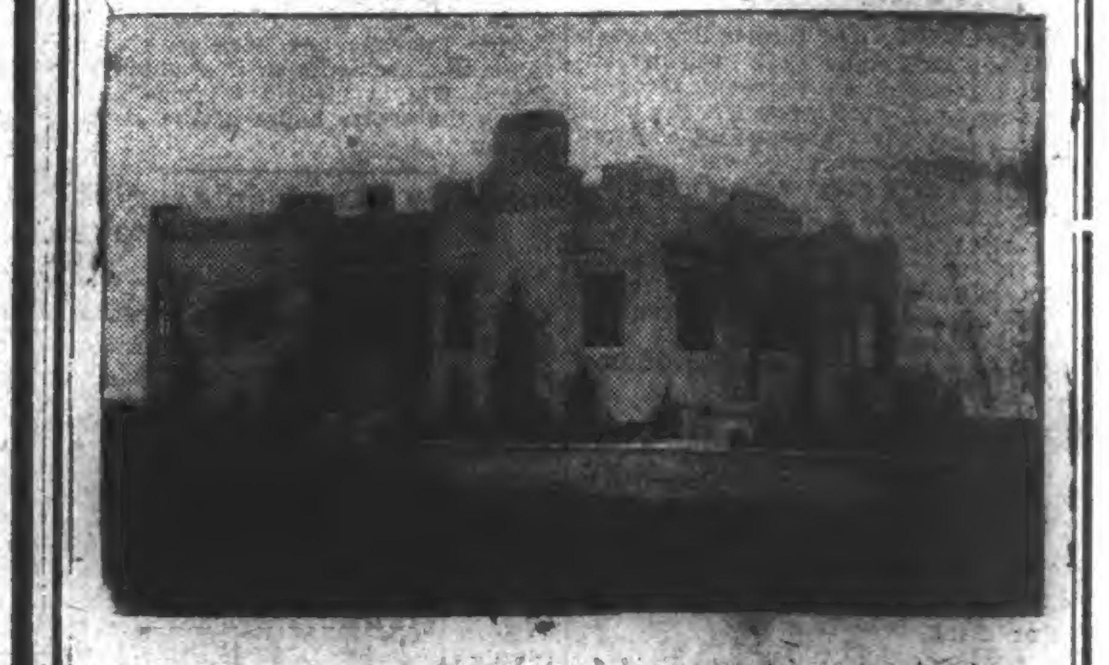
Fortunes have been made in resort real estate, but the people who have made big money are generally those who had the vision and invested in property that had the fullest opportunity of developing.

I have never seen a more beautiful property than Prospect Hill and I know of no property investment that has greater money making possibilities than the co-operative two way unit offer that is being made by the developers of Prospect Hill.

Allow me to explain this two way unit investment plan, also the unusual method whereby the POSITIVE RETURN of every dollar invested is ABSOLUTELY GUARANTEED.

The two way units are $1,000, terms if desired. This plan allows each $1,000 unit to grow in value two ways, and should, without question, be worth no less than $5,000 in a few years. In the meantime your money is not only secured by warranty deed and an actual interest in Company holdings, but you are issured an Insurance Policy guaranteeing the return of your principal.

There are only 50 units under this plan, and as there is absolutely no risk, arrangements should be made for the purchase of one or more of these units, without delay.



This beautiful dwelling is situated like a diamond in the rough a'top of PROSPECT HILL, amidst one of the most gorgeous marine views on the Connecticut Shore. From here one sees quaint little lighthouses, romantic islands and magnificent water views.

Inspect this charming model home. You will find touches of Spanish and Moorish Architecture, modernistic ideas and improvements, unusual interior decorations—all so different from the average home.

DANIELSON

LOOK FOR GOOD REPORT ON KILLINGLY FINANCES

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, May 27—The prospect is for another very good financial report from the selectmen on the programs of the town of Killingly during the current fiscal year, which will close on July 31.

It became known today that all outstanding temporary loans, borrowed to meet current obligations of the town from time to time, have been paid, and that there are no more such obligations. These temporary loans amounted to $14,500.

Prompt use has been made of the recently collected tax money in retiring these notes, to effect a saving of every dollar possible in interest charges. That has been the policy of the present administration during last year and to date during the present year, and has resulted in a very substantial saving.

First Selectman Charles A. Tillinghast declined today to make any specific statement as to how much reduction in debt may be looked for when the books are closed for the year on July 31. He pointed out that during the little more than two months remaining of the fiscal year there are several heavy obligations to be met out of the funds now on hand or likely to be received during that time. Among them are the final two payments of the year to the teachers in the town's schools. There is also a fixed charge of around $6,000 for the sinking fund. There are also the usual current expenses, and no one can say definitely that some unusual, unlooked for and heavy item of expense may not arise.

Nevertheless, the prospects at the present time indicate that the town will close the year with a very good showing.

Last year a very considerable reduction in the debt was achieved. It is hoped that a further reduction may be possible this year.

FUNERAL

Mrs. Cordelia Chovette

The funeral of Mrs. Cordelia Chovette was held this morning from the home in Attawaugan, the cortege proceeding to Arctic, R. I., where there was a solemn high mass of requiem at 10 o'clock. Rev. Urgele Serigny, Rev. Donat Fagnant and Rev. Henri Vincent were the officers of the mass and many were in attendance. Burial was in St. Joseph's cemetery at Arctic. Relatives acted as bearers. L. E. Kennedy had charge of the arrangements.

Prosper Laprade

Many were at St. James' church at 9 o'clock this morning to attend the funeral services for Prosper Laprade, who died Sunday at the home on North street. Rev. John Tobin, M. S., was celebrant of the high mass of requiem. The committal service in Holy Cross cemetery was conducted by Rev. J. A. Demers, M. S. Bearers were six sons of the deceased—Arthur, Charles, Elzear, Philip, Wilfred and Ernest Laprade. There were many beautiful pieces. L. E. Kennedy was in charge of the arrangements.

May Take Over Lawton Mills

Following last evening's announcement that the mills, villages and other properties of the Grosvenordale company at Grosvenordale and North Grosvenordale are to be taken over by the Bancamerica-Blair syndicate, came an apparently well founded rumor today that the Lawton mills of Plainfield may soon be taken over by the same combine. It is fairly well established that negotiations are underway for the Lawton properties and apparently are well advanced. The plants at Plainfield and in the Grosvenordales are among the finest doing cotton manufacturing in eastern Connecticut.

A local manufacturer said today that the objective back of consolidating the interest of a large group of cotton mills in New England are the prospective economic features to be achieved. Centralized buying, ability to have one plant concentrate on one or no more than a few lines of production, thereby cutting down overhead; a centralized selling organization and central control of finances would all serve to more successfully and profitably operate the plants involved.

Supt. W. E. Parker of Killingly's schools said this afternoon that there will be no changes during the school year 1930-1931, opening next September in the elementary schools of the town of Killingly. There may be some changes in the high school faculty, but specific announcement as to this cannot be made at this time.

Employment in the building trades in this territory is reported to be the slackest this spring that it has been since 1915. Numbers of carpenters and bricklayers are reported either idle or on part time employment. There is little present prospect for an early change from this condition.

If plans of managers of various baseball teams in town work out as planned, there will be plenty of Sunday baseball games for the fans to watch during the coming summer season. A game for about every Sunday is forecast.

Mrs. George Wilson of Providence road has as her guests the Misses Effie Chagnon and Rose Macdonald, both of Bridgeport.

Rural Carrier Hosea Greene of Francis street, covering a route out of the Dayville postoffice will round out 12 years of service in August in this year. In two years from that time he will be eligible for retirement on pension. Mr. Greene, a veteran of the Spanish-American war, is still a comparatively young man, and in excellent health.

This is a rush week for caretakers of cemeteries in Danielson. The work they have done during the course of the spring season and are continuing to do will put the burial places in fine condition for the Memorial day period.

State Officer Lionel Poirier, a Danielson young man who has recently completed his training for police work at the state barracks in Ridgefield, has been assigned to the Danielson barracks and is now on duty here. State Officer Poirier completes a complement of ten men now at the local barracks under command of Lieut. Ross V. Urquhart.

Chief John McFarland noted when he came on duty early this morning that the temperature was down to 38 degrees, within 6 points of the freezing mark.

This evening his friends to the number of about 30 gave a dinner at the Snake Meadow club in honor of Charles F. Alexander, and Powdrell and Alexander. Mr. Alexander is to leave soon for the coast to supervise the establishment of another curtain factory for his concern, at Los Angeles. This plant will manufacture curtains for the Pacific coast trade particularly.

In observance of Memorial day Danielson's banks will be closed all day Friday of this week.

Terrace farm milk and cream delivered daily. Heavy cream on sale at Evergates' restaurant. Try our Pasteurized milk. It's safe, it tastes better, it keeps longer. Tel 204-4 or 59-5.—Adv.

Thousands of mill operatives will get a triple holiday the coming week end, as the majority of plants will not resume operations for the usual half-holiday on Saturday.

Many of the Southern New England Telephone company employes in the Danielson division are holders of stock of the parent company, the American Telephone and Telegraph company, and thereby are now in line to receive the valuable rights to be issued in early June.

Local business interests are awaiting with considerable curiosity announcement of the census figures for the town of Killingly. The prediction is frequently heard that the population of this town in all probability will show a considerable increase over the figures for 1920, and would be still higher if many who are employed within the town and live outside its limits could rent homes here.

Local patriotic organizations will assist in the annual Memorial day exercises at Brooklyn next Friday morning.

Pupils in graded schools of the town are now engaged in many instances in preparing for graduation exercises, which are only a little more than two weeks away.

Rev. J. Rees Jones, rector of St. Alban's church, has arranged for a Communion service at Trinity church, Brooklyn, Thursday morning at 11 o'clock in observance of Ascension day.

Josephine Bailey, little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. G. Bailey who had her legs broken when struck by an automobile a number of weeks ago, is gradually recovering at the home of her parents.

Miss Claire Bousquet of Dyer street is patient for the second time this year at the Hartford hospital, and is progressing after undergoing another surgical operation.

Following the development of two cases by State Officer Henry Mayo of the Danielson barracks, Horace Grenier of 56 No. Chestnut street, Wauregan, was before the town court of Plainfield today and was fined $10 and costs for manufacturing with intent to sell. This afternoon in Justice Coit's court in Canterbury Leodore Maynard of that town was presented on charges of keeping with intent to sale and actual sale. On the first count he was fined $5 and costs, and on the second given a sentence of 90 days in jail, execution of the jail sentence being suspended.

PUTNAM

OVER $8,000 VOTED FOR LOCAL STREET IMPROVEMENTS

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, May 27.—About 40 legal voters of the city attended the special city meeting this morning and approved a list of special appropriations totaling $8,302, which will be expended during the next few months for an extensive street improvement campaign. Mayor Charles A. Richard presided and City Clerk Thomas P. Ryan acted as clerk. The call was read and an aye and nay vote was the method of balloting since every item considered did not exceed $1,000. Only one article of the 15 acted upon did not receive ratification, this being the matter of appropriating $270 for curbing, grading and gutters on Green street. The motion was defeated by a group of voters residing in that section. Affirmative votes were taken on the following articles: $750 for curbing, grading and gutters on Powhattan street; $105 for reimbursement of abutters on Water street; $300 for improvements on South Main street; $630 for curbing, grading and gutters on Van DenNoort street; $430 for curbing, grading and gutters on Arch street; $250 for the same thing on Church street for a distance of 200 feet in front of the Chaplin house; $390 for curbing, grading and gutters on Ravine street; $900 for curbing, grading and gutters on the west side of Mill street; $800 for curbing on the east side of Mill street; $999 for the purchase and erection of street signs; $999 for drain on Arch street; $999 for labor of installing drain on Arch street; $750 for Putnam chapter of Red Cross.

The meeting authorized the common council to borrow a sufficient sum of money to meet the appropriations until the assessments, and taxes are collected.

Curtis N. Dean, clerk of courts, issued a short calendar and trial list assignment papers today which will occupy the attention of Judge Arthur F. Ells at Thursday's session of superior court which will convene at 10 o'clock in the forenoon. There are a number of important cases contained on the short calendar, one of which is the divorce action of Mrs. Dorothy E. Prince against her husband, Frederick M. The members of the senior class of Putnam high school gathered at the home of Miss Abbie H. Keith on King street last evening, presenting Miss Keith with a beautifully decorated May basket. Miss Keith is head of the English department at the school and is also the senior home room teacher.

Members of the drum and bugle corps of the Albert J. Breault post of Veterans of Foreign Wars appeared for the first time yesterday in their newly purchased uniforms at the Memorial day exercises held in Dayville. The ex-service men will make their initial appearance attired in their new garbs, locally, when they turn out for the Memorial day parade here Friday.

The uniforms are most attractive. The military tailored coats are of a dark shade of blue and the long trousers are of the same color but of a lighter tone, and trimmed with a white stripe. A light blue braid decorates the coat.

Monday night was observed at the meeting of Putnam grange, as neighbors' night. The members of the local organization were hosts to grangers from Dudley and Worcester. At the close of the business session a social and entertainment programme was arranged.

Don't take a chance on Memorial Day

IF you are one of the millions planning to take a week-end drive over Memorial Day, look to your tires.

Nothing wrecks the holiday frame of mind so completely as a struggle by the roadside with a tire change, while the stream of vacation traffic passes you by.

Maybe a new tube right now will save you this experience; maybe it's a new casing, or two, that you need to make sure.

Whatever it is, there's no place so well prepared and equipped to look after you as the nearest Goodyear Service Station Dealer.

Go see him now, he'll help you make an inspection of your tire equipment, and whether it's tires or tubes or service, he sells the world's best at prices you can afford to pay.

He's part and parcel of that combination of superior quality and superior service that makes "more people ride on Goodyear Tires than on any other kind!"

Goodyear can give you greater tire values because Goodyear builds more than ¼ of all the tires used in America, the remainder being divided among some forty manufacturers. "More people ride on Goodyear Tires than on any other kind."

JOHN M. SWAHN

PREVENT THE FIRES

Anyone who owned woodland during this spring when the dry period prevailed and so much destruction was being caused by forest fires had reason to wonder how soon that possession might be taken away from him. At the same time, he had reason to do some serious thinking as to whether he is as well protected by legislation as he ought to be.

This was a matter which was given timely consideration this month by the forest fire council called by the state forest fire warden. That he has a matter that deserves careful thought is evidenced by the warden's statement that it has been the most serious fire season for the past eight years with 912 reported and about 40,000 acres of land burned over. The acreage burned in 1922 was double this and the number of fires about 100 greater, but there is no desire to see a repetition of either year's destruction, for while much acreage included only brush and small trees there were valuable timberlands destroyed, dwellings and farm buildings burned and a tremendous amount of work imposed upon those who had to fight the fires.

The need for prevention is apparent and the council favors legislation authorizing the governor to close the woods to all but land owners and their agents during dry periods and a law making it illegal to throw burning substances into grass and leaves.

It is evident, of course, that land owners themselves are responsible in many instances through the burning of brush, that grand jurors are found who will not prosecute, that justices are too lenient. With 23 per cent of the forest fires caused by brush burners, it would appear that a large volume of prevention needs to be applied by those close to the scenes of possible trouble and damage.

The council's discussion should be profitable whether legislation follows or not. Here is a matter which needs to get more thought and more action since it concerns too many in a serious manner to be disregarded. Every individual who has anything to do with woodland should feel his personal responsibility.

NO REASON FOR RUN

What can be done to a thoroughly sound banking institution is demonstrated by the run which has been made upon the City Bank & Trust Co. of Hartford.

What harm can come from irresponsible, possibly malicious statements, concerning a bank is also fully illustrated.

Those who have participated in the rush to obtain their money have found that they had no difficulty in obtaining all that their books called for, that they have also secured assurances that there was nothing wrong with the institution and that after withdrawing their money many found that other institutions advised them to carry their funds back and redeposit them, that many soon did so and that there were expressions of confidence concerning the bank's stability forthcoming from those who actually knew the conditions and didn't hesitate to say so.

Here was a case where a gross injustice was done because of the willingness to believe wild stories, where excitement pushed aside good judgment, where foundationless stories aroused a certain element among the depositors and what was easy to start was less easy to stop. The mischief lay in starting those stories which spread like wild fire. It was a gross injustice to the institution and, likewise, to the depositors. It is bad enough when there is any ground for questioning a bank's ability to pay, but it is a serious matter when those who do not understand are aroused without reason and urged to participate in a move that undermines confidence and means a loss to depositors.

Those responsible for starting a bank run stand in the position of receiving a severe penalty if they can be located and convicted.

CROSSING SITUATION EXAGGERATED

While consideration is being given in Massachusetts to means of raising money for the abolition of grade crossings, Representative Shattuck tells the ways and means committee of the legislature in that state that the grade crossing situation in that state has been grossly exaggerated.

This is a view which cannot fail to have appealed to many others. There is no dodging the fact that there are dangerous crossings and that crossing accidents are bad but it is equally apparent that such crashes, whether persons involved are killed or injured, are for the most part needless. They could have been prevented by those highway users who failed to observe warnings and refused to be careful. Thus, in many instances, grade crossing conditions are exaggerated and when the Massachusetts legislator endeavors to head off a bond issue of $10,000,000 that would go toward the removing of crossings and tries to get more thought directed to greater safety efforts he unquestionably hits upon a point which gets too little consideration.

In the removal of crossings it is to be realized that nothing has been done for the elimination of careless driving. Those same drivers who are responsible for crossing accidents will continue to be the cause of accidents elsewhere. There might be less chance for them to cripple and kill themselves and those with them, but they would continue to be the same serious menace to other highway users, when the situation calls for relief from the growing list of deaths, running up to 33,000 a year, in highway accidents.

In the last decade statistics show that there was an increase in crossing fatalities of over 38 per cent, but in the same period there was a gain in the deaths due to motor vehicles of 147 per cent. Thus it would appear that where the greatest menace lies, where the most deaths are occurring, is the place where the greatest attention should be devoted. Efforts in behalf of greater safety are deserving of increased attention.

HOW LOBBY COMMITTEE WORKS

When the lobby investigating committee was named it was apparent that it was so made up that republican representation thereon would be at a minimum. Senator Robinson was the only regular republican placed on it and there have been times when he appeared to be arm in arm with the democrats and insurgents.

When, however, he tried to get the committee interested in the activities of Senator King, democrat, charged with extending hospitality and a place in his office to the employe of a chemical corporation which had German affiliations, he found that even though he had been playing with the committee majority he got little sympathy. He seemed to have taken quite as much glee in the undeserved attacks upon Senator Bingham but when he sought to subject Senator King to the same kind of investigation he got no response. Senator King hasn't been called before the committee and there's no probability that he will be. This doesn't please Senator Robinson of Indiana because, from what had been told before the committee, the conduct of the western senator was not what was to be sanctioned.

Not being able to get Senator King for questioning and not being able to get the committee to present the alleged improprieties to the senate, Senator Robinson has drawn up a minority report setting them forth. He is determined that the matter shall not be covered up, but what attention the report will get is problematical. The committee has shown its bias in keeping Senator King under cover and it is not improbable that it will continue its one-sided, political influence for the squelching of the report. Thus, whatever becomes of the lobby committee's work, it simply goes to show what the underlying purpose has been in the inquiry which it is makin. It is eager to bring out certain conditions but to cover up others.

NO SENATE COOPERATION

If the president had only done something different he might have gotten what he wanted is an easy way of criticizing the chief executive and ignoring the difficulties that have obviously confronted him. Nevertheless, such is the way in which opponents of the administration are inclined to deal with the tariff situation.

It is fully understood that the president set forth what he believed should be done in the way of tariff revision. He told what was needed and then entered into a fuller explanation. When certain progress had been made it became apparent that the senate was determined to find out what he wanted that it might do just the opposite. He very clearly explained the danger of the debenture plan and he let it be known that he was opposed to the idea of changing the flexible provision of the tariff. That was enough for the senate. It immediately insisted upon them and had the president been inclined to tell what treatment should be given to the various schedules he would have encountered more of such contrary action and no end of criticism.

The duty of tariff making rests with congress. The president has refrained from trying to tell congress what it must do, although it was his duty to point out certain general things which required attention. It has been characteristic of the senate, still trying to balk tariff progress, to block the administration. It was ready to do just what was not wanted and for the president to have gone out of bounds would simply have meant more opposition and more insistence that he keep hands off. Senate cooperation hasn't been available.

EDITORIAL NOTES

With plans being made for commencement, something indicates that summer is on the way.

The man on the corner says: Nobody can see around a corner but they can observe signals and rules.

Probably the objection to the dial phones in Washington is that it makes it impossible to put the mistakes on someone else.

The one big surprise in Washington must be that Borah, Norris, et al., haven't objected to the appointment of the British poet laureate.

An effort is being made to get congress away from Washington early in June. That is one thing sure to please the president and the country.

Comment has been frequently made that the president of the United States never spends his vacation in distant parts of the country, and then the minute he announces his intentions of going where none other has been there's a great cry of a barn-storming trip.

STORMY AFFAIR

The wind from the east tore and raged across Michigan avenue. Like spray from Niagara the rain blew in all directions drenchingly. Light reflections on the pavement rippled and wavered, umbrellas turned wrong side out. It was a grand night to fight the elements and Sally felt like fighting something. She set her teeth, jammed down her hat and struggled on.

Just—just when Arthur Van Hörden, the strikingly handsome and extraordinarily fascinating nephew of the vice-president, who had been cast into the advertising offices of Scribblem and Gettem as a masculine bombshell among the ladies, just as he seemed about to become aware that Sally was on earth he was transferred to the New York offices. Whisked away at a momhent's notice and a new young man would be at his desk tomorrow. Sally had convinced herself that Arthur was the one great love of her life. When he had first looked at her seeingly her heart had stool still and the day he had asked her to luncheon she had been so thrilled that she had acute indigestion that night. If that was not love, what was it?

Juggling the umbrella to preserve it, whisking her coat scarf out of her face, where it blew and flapped, Sally veered off the boulevard onto her side street. If, perhaps, Arthur should write—crash, bank, tinkle!

"Hey!" objected a furious voice. "Whadju mean carrying an umbrella in this wind—stand still!"

Sally stood still and the umbrella promptly blew wrong side out. She saw a tall man bent double groping in the rivulets at her feet. The rain beat upon his tweed coat. He looked like a tent. "Don't move!" he barked.

"Some sort of flapper from your coat hit me in the face and knocked off my eyeglasses—$15! What led you to think you could hold up an umbrella in this gale?"

The tent straightened up with a jerk and towered above her. He had broad shoulders, a strong face, mouth like a steel trap and a general air of getting to the end of things once he had started. She quailed as she noted the empty eyeglass frame. Then she came to.

"I didn't know you owned the street," she told him in deadly tones. It was a joy to have something human to vent her sorrows on. "You should have have a mounted policeman with a siren to clear the way. One of the East Indian silk roofs carried by eight slaves over your head might be a good idea—"

"Ha!" snorted the young man as his eyes focused on her. Some interest appeared in his gaze. Sally was that kind of girl. "Funny, are you? Well let me tell you—"

"Please don't," Sally begged rising to the fray. "When a man begins let-me-tell-you it's always something disagreeable. You're one person I don't have to listen to, thank heaven—"

"Maybe you think it is a pleasure to talk to you!" he retorted with extreme bitterness. "A girl as headstrong as you are is always conceited. And I haven't another pair—and it's tremendously important that I should be able to see tomorrow."

"Maybe that's just a delusion," Sally suggested deftly. "Large men usually have an inflated idea of their own importance. If you are through perhaps you'll let me pass."

"Far be it from me to detain you!" he answered. He squashed aside to let her pass. Their eyes met and glared as they parted. Not once again that evening did Sally recall Arthur an Horden, so busy was she detesting the ruthless man she had encountered in the storm.

When the buzzer sounded from Arthur's late office the next day Sally rose with a sigh, notebook in hand, and walked with wrenched heart into the familiar room. At the desk was a pair of broad shoulders, a forceful face and eyes that saw quite clearly through new eyeglasses.

"Why—hello!" said the new man in surprise. A slow and engaging grin overspread his face. She had said she never wanted to hear him talk again and he had told her he never wanted to speak to her. "H'm!" he said briskly "Take dictation, please!"

And Sally, obediently waiting, knew that Arthur had faded out forever as small things have a way of doing when an avalanche crashes through them.—Chicago News.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, May 27— House and senate sometimes shoot barbed shafts at each other in the throes of debate.

The senate doe sit openly; the house covertly, due to a differing interpretation of the rules of each body.

That is a bit unusual in view of the average age of the members. In that respect at least—and it will admit it in no other way—the house is junior.

Yet the senate is the more hotheaded, apparently.

It also chanced that a very graceful gesture of rappochement between the two came from the house when it determined to prepare an unusually solemn service in memory of representatives who died during the present session.

There had been eleven deaths in the house membership of the 71st congress as well as three deaths in the senate. And the house proposed that its service be extended to honor the senate dead as well as its own.

Precedent Set

Not within the memory of men like Vice President Curtis, who has been so long in congress that he can hardly recall a time when he was not, has any similar service been held.

The vice president told the Bystander afterward that he believed a precedent had been set which would become an established custom.

There is growing distaste for the old fashioned "eulogy day" for each departed member followed up to this year by each house. It consumes time, for one thing, and it has become increasingly difficult to muster enough members for such occasions to give them the dignity and solemnity they deserve.

Clearly the house consolidated memorial service, accompanied as it was by religious comfort for the relatives of the dead gathered as guests of honor on the front benches, by fitting musical programs and the complete lack of the old time personal eulogies forecasts a new congressional custom

Vice President Curtis thought it would lead to joint gathering of the two houses, for joint committees on arrangements and perhaps for invitations to the president, his cabinet officers and to other dignitaries to be present.

Warren Banned Eulogy

That veteran of veterans "on the hill," the late Senator Warren of Wyoming, had a particular distaste for the eulogy type of memorial service. Long before his death at well over 80 years, he had made it clear to his colleagues that he expected to die in harness, with his legislative boots on, so to speak, in good western fashion.

And he also directed that there should be no eulogy service for him in the senate when the expected—and unfeared—event of death transpired.

In the circumstances, the senate was a bit embarrassed. So the house proposal to include dead senators in its consolidated memorial services that it spelled, it was hoped, the end of the era of eulogies.

YOUR HEALTH

Ringworm Disease

By Dr. John A. Turner, Cincinnati.
(From Gorgas Memorial Institute)

Ringworm disease of the feet and hands is on the increase; in fact these extremities are more frequently affected than all other parts of the body put together. The lesions on the feet and hands begin as very small, elevated, slightly inflamed spots, which after a few hours develop into blisters, containing either a turbid fluid or pus. There is intense itching which is relieved by opening the vesicle. The fungus spreads under the skin and under a quartz light these new lesions can be seen before symptoms appear.

Ringworm is caused by invasion of the upper layer of the skin by a parasitic fungus. The fungus cannot penetrate the intact skin and it is harmless until it finds a place to creep in. It thrives best in the presence of alkaline sweat and on parts of the body which are poorly ventilated. This largely accounts for the feet being more often affected than other parts of the body, because a great number of people suffer from excessive sweating of the feet. The feet being covered with stockings and shoes do not get proper ventilation, the sweat softens the outer layer of the skin, and it is then easily rubbed off by the stockings, by rough places in the shoes and by friction when the toes rub together. The skin of the feet is also injured when persons patronize swimming pools, bathing beaches, bath houses and gymnasiums; some of the wet, softened skin is worn or rubbed off by walking on sand, cement, or wood floors, and therefore is easily susceptible to attack.

In industry there are certain manufacturing processes which require the workers to work in or with water and because of lack of proper shoes or through carelessness the feet are wet during most of the work period. In some instances the workers go barefooted. Skin that is kept wet for some time is always damaged to some extent and provides a fertile field for the ringworm fungus.

Fungus infection of the hands is much less frequent than of the feet, largely because the hands are much better ventilated and frequent washing removes most of the fungus. However, the use of sand or gritty soaps, benzine, naptha, gasoline, coal oil and other fat solvents when cleaning the hands will, to some extent injure the outer layer of the skin and thus provide a means for the entrance of the fungus.

Ringworm has become so widely disseminated among our people that it is high time that something should be done to eliminate it. People who contract this disease should not attempt to treat it with home remedies, but should immediately consult the family physician because this is the only way to get prompt relief and to help control or prevent the spreading of the disease to others.

Stories That Recall Others

Citrous

One evening Mr. Brown was seated in the living room reading the paper when his little son John, age five, approached him and asked:

"Papa, what is a lemon?"

"Why a lemon is a citrous fruit. It's something that causes a bitter taste in your mouth," his father replied.

"Well, papa, if mother gives me that bad medicine tonight will she be a lemon?" Johnny inquired.

Absent-Minded

The fat man chased a street car. Finally he caught it, after sprinting a block. Perspiring profusely, he boarded the car, his starched collar a limp wreck.

To the amusement of the passengers, he tossed his token out of the window and dropped the half smoked stub of his cigar in the fare box.

Little Talks on Thrift

Heavy Toll From Lack of Thrift in The Form Of Carelessness

Within recent weeks millions of dollars in property has been destroyed through forest fires. We are just at the beginning of the summer. As the season progresses, there will be, unfortunately, a repetition of these conflagrations in various parts of the United States.

Forest fires are bad not only because they destroy timber but because they denude land which immediately begins to deteriorate in value. The United States can ill afford to lose any of its forests and it is particularly unfortunate that these losses occur largely through sheer negligence. Most forest fires, it has been said, are due to carelessness in throwing away lighted matches, cigar or cigarette butts or through the careless handling of fire by campers.

America is paying all too heavily for the vice of carelessness. Most assuredly we need to learn lessons in thrift along these lines.

An insurance company which recently made a study of accidents in homes found that they total 3,000,000 per year of which 17,000 result in deaths. There is a property loss of close to $500,000,000 yearly due to preventable fires. More than 2,500,000 workers are injured in industry each year which includes thousands of fatalities and thousands of permanent injuries.

The elimination of this tremendous waste of life, limb and property must rest almost entirely with the individual. The installation of safety devices and the enactment of laws and regulations can only partly solve the problem. Individuals must learn more and more the advantage and value of being careful in everything—of not taking chances—of keeping their wits about them at all times—of cultivating constant habits of watchfulness. To do this is a splendid example of thrift.—By S. W. Straus, President American Society for Thrift.

INN TERRACE GARDEN IS ATTRACTIVE SPOT

The terrace garden at Norwich inn, composed of varying width flowers beds against stone walls of different heights, was planned and executed by Miss Amy L. Cogswell, landscape gardener and garden consultant. The beds are gay with Rosy Inven petunias, blue ageratum, white alyssum, columbines, yellow calendula, and many seedlings, which later in the season will afford much bloom. Although slow-growing the ampelopsis vines against the south wall will in time help to soften the harshness of the stone and brickwork. The little garden, as a whole, has already considerable charm and will add to the pleasure of the guests who choose to pass some time in the attractively located stone terrace.

ATTORNEYS MAKING ARGUMENTS IN HUBER CASE TRIAL IN SUPERIOR COURT

The evidence was concluded Tuesday afternoon before Judge Allyn L. Brown and a jury in the superior court here in the trial of William S. Huber on the charge of arson because of the fire on the night of Jan. 25, at the Turner-Stanton company factory on Broad street, where Huber was bookkeeper.

After both sides rested, court took a short recess and when the session was resumed, the first argument for the state was made by Attorney Charles W. Cassidy, city attorney of the Norwich court, who is assisting State Attorney Arthur M. Brown. He spoke for about 45 minutes and was followed for about the same length of time by Attorney Joseph Shapiro of Bridgeport, counsel for Huber, who will conclude his argument when court comes in this (Wednesday) morning. After him State Attorney Arthur M. Brown will make the closing argument for the prosecution and this will be followed by Judge Brown's charge to the jury before they retire to the jury room to consider their verdict.

In one vehement period of his remarks Attorney Shapiro drew a prompt rebuke from Judge Brown when the lawyer let slip the words "By God, we will." Judge Brown stopped him and advised him to moderate his language in the presence of the court and the attorney promptly apologized.

Huber Gives Testimony

Huber was on the stand for practically all of the morning and the early part of the afternoon.

He said that he was in the mill not much more than ten seconds on the night of the fire, just going in far enough to switch off the light and not going down into the basement then or during the afternoon when he was at the factory. He denied that he set the fire or that he knew who did or that he carried the books from upstairs down into the room where the fire was. He said he had never seen the bottle of kerosene or gasoline until it was produced in the court room last week.

Huber denied that he ever made out any false statements for the company and when he was shown the petty cash book, on which the state claims a shortage of about $3,000 is shown, he denied that it was the petty cash book of the company, but called it only a memorandum book of his own. He said he could not tell how the book which was found under the seat of his car got there, but he did not put it there. He said it was a general ledger which had been discarded for another book.

Questioned as to his receipts and expenses in 1928 and 1929 he said that his salary in 1928 was $1,950 and in 1929, was $2,268. Rents collected from two apartments in his house amounted to $1,046, while he received about $80 for playing in churches, he said. He read off a long list of expenses, which took in mortgages, notes, etc.

Asked to tell what he and Officer Whitmarsh talked about when the officer was bringing him from New Haven, Huber said: Of course, when we first started out we merely talked of incidental things of no importance. After we were getting somewhere, I imagine between Saybrook and New London, he said in substance: "Now, Bill, we are all alone by ourselves and we can talk without anybody hearing us." (Sergeant Weber was driving up ahead of us, I believe.) "Of course, I don't know everything there is about this case. It isn't for me to advise you but if you had anything to do with this case, Bill, I would put my cards on the table."

Huber: I said, "what do you mean?" He said, "Tell everything you know because it will be much better for you." He also said, "Of course, if you had nothing to do with it, if you don't know anything about it, why I would go to the bat with them."

Huber: I told him that is most certainly what I intend to do. Then he also complimented Mr. Hurley as being a square shooter in his talk. He thought Mr. Hurley would be kind to me if I told him all that I knew, as he said.

Huber: I told him of course I knew nothing about it. When we drove in the Groton barracks yard he also made another appeal of the same nature. He (Whitmarsh) said, "Now, if you want to see the big chief, just let me know."

Huber: I told him personally I had no desire to see him.

Attorney Shapiro: "Officer Whitmarsh testified that you said to him on your way from New Haven, "If you confess what would happen to you"—did you ever say anything of that kind?"

Huber: That is absolutely untrue. It was the furthest thing from my mind.

Mrs. Thurston Testifies

Huber's testimony was interrupted at one point to allow Mrs. Bernice Thurston of 256 Broad street to go on the stand. She corroborated previous testimony of her sister, Miss O'Connor, about seeing a light in the Turner-Stanton mill about 10:45 on the night of the fire.

Memory Bad

On cross-examination by State Attorney Brown, Huber said he could not tell the amount of mortgage on his house at the time of the fire or when the interest was due. His answer to a string of questions was that he couldn't recall and when the state attorney asked if there was anything the matter with his memory, Huber replied that he had had a nervous breakdown since the fire and his memory had been considerably impaired since then.

Questioned about the transfer of his house to David H. Wilson, Huber said it was for "one dollar and other valuable consideration." In later testimony he said it was to protect Mr. Wilson because the latter had gone on his bond.

Afternoon Session

After the noon recess Huber was again on the witness stand under cross-examination by State Attorney Brown, who asked him about the figures on books and papers which have been exhibits in the case. In response to questions Huber said he could not explain differences between certain figures on his working papers and the figures on the income tax return.

Questioned about what he and State Policeman Whitmarsh talked about on the way from New Haven when he was arrested Huber said Whitmarsh suggested that they were alone where no one could overhear them and if Huber had anything to do with the fire, it might be good to tell about it, but if he didn't he could go to bat. Huber denied that he spoke to Whitmarsh about being a brother Mason and he also denied that he objected to Mr. Hall over having Mr. Powers for an auditor because he was not a Mason.

The cross-examination was concluded in about 45 minutes. A number of times the state attorney asked Huber how it was that he could recall various things but couldn't remember after the fire the amount of the mortgage on the roof over his head. The answer was that this was a trick of memory which he couldn't explain.

On re-direct examination by Attorney Shapiro, Huber said he cooperated with State Police Commissioner Hurley and had made no attempt at escape or evasion as he had nothing to do with the matter.

Fire Chief Henry R. Taft testified that on the night of the fire a 5-gallon can, containing about 1 1-2 gallons of kerosene was taken from the Turner-Stanton mill in the boiler room near the case room. Afterwards a can of gasoline was found in the engine room. This was a brand new can that had not been touched.

Chief Taft was given the bottle found in the mill to smell and he said it was a gasoline smell and not kerosene.

State Attorney Brown asked Chief Taft if he hadn't had a nervous breakdown and been laid up for a while.

"Yes," was the response, "since April."

"Has this affected your memory?" "Not to my knowledge," was the reply.

Mrs. Huber was recalled and testified that she took care of her husband while he was sick after the fire.

At this point Attorney Shapiro announced that the defense rested and State Attorney Brown recalled Ralph Hall to the stand. He was asked if he had been in the case room and picked up from the floor there his square cigarette lighter in the presence of Huber. He denied having done so and said that the cigarette lighter he owns is a round one, which he produced from his pocket in court.

After several questions from Attorney Shapiro, the testimony for both sides was closed and the arguments were taken up after a short recess.

There have been 35 witnesses in the case of whom 21 were witnesses called by the state and the others by the defense. There have also been about 20 exhibits.

INJURED IN CRASH ON ROAD AT YANTIC

Henry McNally of 214 West Town street suffered abrasions and contusions about the head and was taken to the Backus hospital Saturday night about 8:30 o'clock when the automobile of Stephen Mead of 32 Richard street, New Britain, in which McNally was a passenger, ran broadside into a state highway truck in Yantic. McNally is still in the hospital.

The truck, with Rufus W. Beeman of Yantic as driver, was just turning across the road to go into Fishbone's garage when the New Britain man's machine came around the curve from the direction of Fitchville and crashed into the truck.

The blow burst the gasoline tank on the truck and crumpled up the forward end of the New Britain man's machine. Constable Lucius Fenton, who investigated the accident, found no reason for making any arrest.

MERCHANDISING INSTITUTE MADE SOCIAL EVENT

Salespeople from the Norwich stores, as well as the merchants themselves, spent an enjoyable and profitable evening Tuesday at the Wauregan hotel ballroom where a merchandising institute and dance was held under the auspices of the Merchants' bureau of the chamber of commerce.

Chairman Charles Barker of the Know Norwich Better committee opened the meeting with cordial words of welcome and introduced J. Fred Fleming, president of the Merchants' bureau, who spoke of the admirable way in which Norwich business houses can supply the wants of the community, of which a demonstration was given in the fact that fittings and equipment for the new Norwich inn were secured through local merchants.

Mr. Fleming acknowledged the courtesy of Manager Werth of the Wauregan hotel in contributing the use of the ballroom for holding the institute and he presented Secretary John Richardson of the chamber of commerce, who gave a vigorous and inspiring talk upon salesmanship in which he enlarged upon the idea of the "Try Norwich First" campaign.

The social part of the evening came with dancing until midnight, for which there were novel numbers including broom dance, Russian peasant, jucky number dance, spot dance, kiddie kar race, besides the regular program of fox-trots and waltzes.

SALVATION ARMY APPEAL BRINGS IN $1,500

The Salvation Army appeal to raise $5,000 maintenance fund in Norwich is now in full swing, and the first returns amount to a little over $1,500. The Salvation Army appeals to the citizens of Norwich and vicinity to respond to the letter sent out by the organization about ten days ago. The call upon the Salvation Army this year is very much more urgent than in previous years and therefore the organization very urgently solicits public support so that the charitable activities under the care of the local branch of the Salvation Army may not cease for lack of funds. The unfortunates who come to the Salvation Army for succor are in the last stages of destitution and want, and have no other place where to turn in their distress.

The South Manchester Salvation Army band is coming to Norwich next Sunday to help in the activities of the appeal. The band will play in several churches and at various hospitals in the city. The South Manchester band has been to Norwich a number of times and is well known to a large number of local citizens, who have enjoyed the fine playing of the band. The South Manchester Salvation Army band is one of the finest musical organizations in New England, having won a number of first prizes in competition with other bands. The members of the band are giving their services to the Salvation Army without any remuneration, and a number of the 35 members who form the band have been with it for their entire life-time. While several musicians playing in the band are engaged in business, and others are employed in manufacturing plants, they never miss a band rehearsal at least once a week, and have been rendering concerts for the Salvation Army at least once a week.

Mr. Butler, of the Salvation Army office of Boston, who is in charge of the appeal in Norwich, is very anxious to close the campaign by the end of this week. Mr. Butler has been working very strenuously since the last two weeks putting the appeal before the people of Norwich and vicinity and he is very anxious that the friends of the Salvation Army service in Norwich shall meet the call of the needy with generosity, and to send in their contributions this week. Checks may be made payable to Arthur E. Story, treasurer, Chelsea Savings bank, or may be sent to Salvation Army headquarters, 10 Cliff street, Norwich.

COURT ORDERS SALE OF WOODBURY PROPERTY

The Woodbury property on Ocean avenue, New London, is ordered sold, $20,061.11 is to be paid to the city for taxes and the balance is to be divided among eight heirs of the late Helen McGaw Smith, according to a decision handed down Tuesday by Judge Allyn L. Brown of the superior court in the case of Charlotte Woodbury and others against Thornton Woodbury.

The property in question is that which was designated in the will of Mrs. Smith to become a city park on the death of Thornton Woodbury to whom the will gave life use of the property. Last year, the city council of New London voted not to accept the property as a park and to proceed to collect more than $19,000 in taxes due at that time. Thornton Woodbury lived on the property for five years and in 1920 went to France and discontinued paying taxes. With the refusal of the city to accept the property under the terms of the will, other relatives of Mrs. Smith automatically became heirs on the death of Mr. Woodbury. The other heirs who are named to share in the balance of the proceeds from the sale of the property are the late Gordon Woodbury, Helen P. W. Seamans, of Santa Barbara, Cal., Charlotte E. Woodbury, Gordon Woodbury Dunn, Peter Woodbury and George Woodbury, all of Bedford, N. H.

WILLING AND MOE ELIMINATED IN QUEST FOR BRITISH AMATEUR CROWN

(By Frank King, Associated Press Staff Writer)

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland, May 2—(AP)—Dr. O. F. Willing and Don Moe, representing the American northwest and also a contrast between the experience of middle age and the brilliance of youth among the invading golfers from the United States, were blown out of the British amateur championship play today.

The defeat of the Oregonians surprised their Walker cup team compatriots and British galleries which saw Willing fall before William Spark, a Scotch bank clerk, two and one, and Moe vanquished by Rex Hartley, British Walker cup player, four and two.

George Voigt, George Von Elm and Francis Ouimet won their matches, as did a number of other Americans of lesser golfing reputations.

With the big field halved, the Giants of the game may begin to clash tomorrow. Bobby Jones, Jimmy Johnston, Von Elm and Ouimet will play morning and afternoon tomorrow if they win in the morning. Voigt and Roland Mackenzie will play only once.

If Jones and Cyril Tolley, the defending champion, are successful in their morning efforts, they will meet in the fourth round in the afternoon, bringing a contest between the open champion of the United States and the amateur champion of Great Britain.

A 30 mile wind sweeping across St. Andrews fairways today altered all the famous golfing problems of the course and created new ones at every hole. Not only did shots not properly hit, do weird things in the air, but the wind made duffers of some of the world's best putters.

Willing was one of the putting victims.

The whole nature of the course was changed. Critics who complained yesterday that the lay-out was for drives and niblicks only, found today they needed drives and brassie clouts for the same holes. Around the treacherous "loop" district of six holes, no player seemed able to tell what would happen to a ball shot on the exposed greens where a bare touch would send it skidding, perhaps into a bunker.

The American Walker cup players have been reduced to six but the British also suffered a loss in J. A. Stout.

The cosmopolitan character of the competitors is still maintained. The Rev. David Rutherford of Biggar, Scotland, was beaten as was the young Edinburg surgeon, Dr. J. B. Saunders, but William Sutton, the Artisan golfer won, and the young St. Andrews postman, William Fowlis, remains to challenge Tolley tomorrow.

Beaumont Pease, director of a great London bank, was eliminated today, as were the veterans, Edward Blackwell, who is 63, and Joshua Crane, a grandfather who came all the way from Boston with his sawed off putter to be beaten by Francis Ouimet, a fellow townsman.

Three Americans, Roland Mackenzie, Walter G. Fovargue, Aberdeen, Wash., and Rowland Saunders, Miami, Fla., advanced today without playing, their opponents scratching their entries.

Frank C. Stevens, Jr., Hollywood, Calif., and J. B. Gwaltney, New York won their matches today while Eric H. Chambers, Portland, Ore., and Howard C. Davis, Salem, Mass., were eliminated.

Well known British players winning the right to continue in the competition included T. A. Torrance, John Nelson Smith, Roger Wethered, Major C. O. Hezlet, Robert Harris and the Hon. Michael Scott, and others. T. A. Bourn, English native champion, was eliminated.

St. Andrews presents such new problems from day to day under the changing conditions that British hopes are rising that other unknowns such as William Spark will crop up to reduce the American field.

Pairings for Americans tomorrow: Robert T. Jones, Jr., Atlanta, vs Cowan Shankland, St. George's; Harrison R. Johnston, St. Paul, vs Col. Moore Brabazon, St. George's; Frank Sweeney, New York and London, vs John McCredie, Mortonhall; H. M. Brower, New York and Dinard, vs William Spark, Montrose; George Von Elm, Detroit vs D. B. Anderson, St. George's; Roland Mackenzie, Wilmington, Del., vs H. L. Holden, Sandway; Francis Ouimet, Boston, vs A. G. Bower, Bromley; Rowland Saunders, Miami, Fla., vs Kenneth Forbes, Cramond Brig; F. C. Stevens, Jr., Hollywood, Calif., vs George Waddell, Edinburg; George Voigt, New York, vs Major G. N. C. Martin, Portrush.

AMERICAN WOMEN GOLFERS WIN FROM FRENCH WOMEN

ST. GERMAN-EN-LAYE, France, May 27—(AP)—Playing brilliant golf, the American women's team, captained by Glenna Collett, today defeated France's team, led by Thio De La Chaume, French title holder and former British champion, 10 1-2 to 4 1-2. The Americans won three of the five foursomes and took seven of the ten singles, with one halved match.

After being defeated with Bernice Wall in the foursomes by Mlle. Thion De La Chaume and Mme. A. M. Yagliano, the American champion came back to win, two up in the singles from the French champion, who holds the distinction of being the first foreigner to win the British women's golf championship.

Maureen Orcutt, also on the losing side in the foursomes, played great golf in the afternoon to win by a wide margin from Mme. H. Monier.

Helen Hicks had a perfect day, winning in the foursomes, with Mrs. Lee Mida as a partner and swamping Mme. Robert Hion De La Chaume, in the singles. Mme. Thio De La Chaume, sister in law of the French champion, is also a former British women's champion, winning the title when she was Manette Le Blaw.

Other victories in the foursomes were contributed to Virginia Van Wie and Virginia Holzderber, on one side and Fritzi Stifel, Va., and Rosalie Knapp is another.

Mrs. Leo Federman, Peggy Wattles, Louise Fordyce and Virginia Van Wie won also in the singles while Edith Quier halved her match.

SLATTERY AND LATZO ARE THROWN OUT OF RING

BOSTON, May 27—(AP)—After being jeered for seven rounds, Jimmy Slattery of Buffalo, recognized in New York state as the light heavyweight champion, and Pete Latzo of Scranton, Pa., were thrown out of the ring by Referee Johnny Brasill, here tonight in the Boston Garden's feature bout. Brasill declared the bout "no contest" and ordered both purses withheld.

Ogden Is Suspended

CINCINNATI, May 27.—(AP)—John Ogden, pitcher, obtained by the Cincinnati Reds by the waiver route from the St. Louis Browns, was suspended indefinitely today by Manager Dan Howley for failure to report to the club. Ogden was secured by the Reds several weeks ago, soon after Rube Erhardt, veteran pitcher, was given his unconditional release.

INDIANS WINS SECOND DOUBLE BILL FROM WHITE SOX

CLEVELAND, May 27—(AP)—The Cleveland Indians took their second double header from Chicago today, winning in the first game, 3 to 2, and the second, 9 to 8.

The first was a pitching duel between Harder and Henry. The Sox went ahead by scoring four runs in the first of the ninth. The Tribe scored two in the last half of the ninth to win.

Jolley made four hits in the second game and his homer was his third in two days.

Shires and Fonseca were knocked out simultaneously for about three minutes in the final inning when they collided and Shires stole home. Physicians were called to revive them. The score:

PHILADELPHIA, May 27—(AP)—The Philadelphia Athletics took their second straight game from the Boston Red Sox before a small crowd by a score of 7 to 5 today. It was Boston's tenth straight defeat.

The champions wiped out a 2 to 0 deficit in the fourth inning and in the sixth forged ahead for the balance of the game when Bing Miller tripled with two on base.

George Earnshaw was pummeled as hard as MacFayden and also had to be relieved in the eighth stanza, but received credit for the victory.

TIGERS POUND OUT VICTORY OVER ST. LOUIS BROWNS

ST. LOUIS, May 27—(AP)—The Detroit Tigers hit hard today to defeat the St. Louis Browns, 16 to 11, and make it three straight for the series.

Funk, Hargrave and Rice of the Tigers, hit home runs. The Tigers hits also included two triples and four doubles.

In an effort to halt the Tigers' hitting, the Browns sent five pitchers to the mound. The visitors used four hurlers. Vic Sorrell was credited with the victory and Sammy Gray charged with the defeat. The score:

Green Mountain Boys Win

The Green Mountain Boys defeated the Part St. Bears 18 to 11 in a hard-hitting game played Tuesday afternoon.

All the back-seat drivers are not women. There, you women, give a cheer.

I hereby rise in defense of the much maligned woman who is known as the back-seat driver. I say now, and I defy contradiction, she has absolutely nothing on the male back seat driver.

If any woman can think of half the things that a man can she is a wonder. I had this brought home to me the other day while on my vacation, on a trip to Holyoke.

The other half of the domestic feud and myself went in company with Ed, Frank and John to attend a convention in the Massachusetts city. Now every one in the car which Ed was driving was a driver himself which made it unanimous.

Now Ed was a very competent driver, in fact he had to be in order to meet the varied requirements laid down by the others in the car. And right here I must compliment Ed on his heroic attempts to comply with the driving instructions of one and all.

Now if Ed drove slow somebody would ask for more speed and if he stepped on it there was a prompt request for a more moderate pace. If he attempted to pass a car somebody was sure to say that he couldn't make it, while others would voice the opinion that there was plenty of room.

And so it went all the way to Holyoke. In one town Ed nearly landed in the hoosegow only the cop didn't see him. It was one of those trick towns where traffic makes trick turns. Frank insisted that you turn to the right and John said the left was right and Ed compromised and went straight ahead only to find that Frank was right. So Ed backed a half a block out of a one-way street before the cop at the other end saw him.

It wasn't so bad going up as it was daylight but coming back it was dark. Say I never knew Holyoke and Springfield had so many streets and we must have been on every one.

First John would insist that Ed take a right hand turn and pretty soon we'd find ourselves at the end of a dead-end street. Then Frank would pipe up with that old time honored phrase of "I told you so," and we'd turn back and take Frank's advice only to find ourselves in another street that led nowhere but to somebody's potato patch.

Thus it went, first down one street then up another until finally Ed decided that he knew as much about the way as anybody. Ed followed his own views and we finally got out of Springfield but on a road that Ed had purposely tried to avoid taking.

Anyway we got home all right but it convinced me that the male back-seat driver is the more deadly of the specie.

WALKER PITCHES GIANTS TO WIN OVER BROOKLYN

BROOKLYN, N. Y., May 27—(AP)—Bill Walker, New York southpaw, ended the Giants' losing streak of five games today by pitching effectively to give New York a 3 to 1 victory over the Robins. It was only the second time this year the Giants have beaten Brooklyn.

Walker was effective in the pinches and hurled shutout ball for the first seven innings. He yielded the one run in the eighth on successive doubles by Bissonette and Bressler and got out of trouble in the ninth by fanning Babe Herman with the tying runs on base. He struck out seven Robins altogether.

Jim Elliott started for Brooklyn and yielded three straight hits in the first inning and again in the fourth for all the Giant runs. Moss pitched the last two innings. The score:

PIRATES STOP RUSH OF CARDS AT EIGHT GAMES

PITTSBURGH, May 27—(AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates stopped the winning streak of the league leading St. Louis Cardinals today when they prevented a ninth straight triumph for the invaders by taking the game, 8 to 5.

Larry French pitched on two days rest to defeat the Red Birds. The move was necessary on account of the illness in the Pittsburgh hurling squad.

French helped his own club to a big extent in the second when he tripled with the bases filled. The inning brought four runs.

The Cardinals went to work behind Al Grabowski, but Blades batted and tripled for him in the sixth. Haid and Bell finishing the contest. The score:

ACADEMY LOSES DUAL TRACK MEET TO HILLHOUSE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW HAVEN, May 27—New Haven Hillhouse, which finished second in the state meet last Saturday, today defeated Norwich Free Academy in track by a 60-22 score. Berkman of Norwich won the 100 yard dash in 10 2-5 seconds and Rootes the 220. Frank Barber of Norwich was second in the shot put, Wood third in the mile, Armstrong third in the discus throw and Mahoney third in the quarter mile.

Four events, the javelin throw, 220 yard low hurdles, half mile run and pole vault were not run off.

The next engagement for N. F. A. comes Friday in the Amherst interscholastics at Amherst college.

MOORE, SENSATIONAL COLORED ATHLETE, ENTERED FOR NATIONAL 10-MILE RUN

Six hours before midnight Tuesday, the hour set for the closing of the entry for the National A. A. U. ten mile championship run, to be conducted at the fairgrounds Friday afternoon, the entry of Gus Moore, ex-Pittsburgh university colored flash, was received by the committee on entries. Moore, now a member of the Brooklyn Harriers, on Sunday won the Metropolitan championship and Friday will lineup with nearly 100 other athletes a favorite to win the crown now being worn by James McDade of the Millrose A. A., New York.

In winning the Metropolitan title the colored phantom nosed out Whitey Michaelson, king of the fifteen milers and finished over a minute ahead of McDade. Moore had not planned to run the national race but when he found that he could beat the present titleholder he immediately arranged to come to Norwich. However, running the Metropolitan championship and a national run is a different proposition. There is some dobut as to whether McDade exerted himself at New York, realizing that five days later he would be called upon to defend his crown. Regardless of who wins Friday, with good conditions, there is bound to be one of the most sensational long distance duels ever witnessed in the country and there is a strong possibility that the world's record established 17 years ago at New York by H. Kolehmainen will topple. The mark set by the famed Finn was 51 minutes, 3 2-5 seconds.

Other stars favored to give McDade trouble in the scramble for his crown are Clarence De Mar, the greatest of all distance runners; Fred Ward, present 20-mile titleholder; Jimmy Henigan, former 10-mile champ; Max Lamp, German 10,000-meter king; Willie Kyronan, who at Boston this year finished second to De Mar and last but not least our own Bill Kennedy, a product of the Nutmeg state.

The official number of entries for the run is 92 and there is every indication that at least 80 will start, inasmuch as each man has had to file with the A. A. U. a $2 entry fee.

The remainder of the program, to be conducted at the fairgrounds is complete and, weather permitting, there is little doubt but that the largest crowd ever to assemble here will be on hand for the festivities. The horses, scheduled to take part in the opening races, are all raring to go and word was received here Tuesday that Lieut. Charles Arnold, who will be in charge of the aerial circus, has arranged a bill of flips and flops that will bring the spectators off their seats.

Through the courtesy of Ferguson's Radio salon a modern public announcing system is being installed at the grounds and as a result the spectators will be kept posted on the happenings from start to finish. Through the system announcements may be heard distinctly at every corner of the field. As previously announced the entire bill is to be free to the public, the only tax to be a 25 cents charge for the grandstand.

Wildcat Scratches

It was not the best kind of a day for a game and the attendance was somewhat limited, only about 250 sitting in.

Every one of the starting Academy players chipped in with at least one hit.

Johnson, who held the Academy in subjection for seven innings in the game at Willimantic to lose 7 to 1 when the Wildcats scored five runs in the last two frames, was no puzzle this time. He worked the first inning and started the second, but when Crowell singled and Gibbs tripled and scored on an error to total seven runs, he was relieved by Simmons, the centerfielder and a left hander. Johnson went back in the third and finished the game.

Sroka's double in the first was a long drive that hit the flag pole and bounded back onto the field.

Next comes Warren Harding on Memorial day in one of the major tilts of the year. Boots Greene is slated to pitch.

PLENTY OF ACTION PROMISED IN BOUTS AT THE MAJESTIC ROOF

Plenty of action is promised local boxing fans at the first boxing card presented in Norwich in over a year. The bouts will be held on the Majestic roof, where bouts were held a number of years ago. Jackie Burns, veteran boxing promoter, is venturing into the field for the first time in a number of years and for his opening show is giving the fans a corking good card at popular prices.

Topping his card, which is made up of five six-round bouts and a four-rounder, is the scrap between Matty Owens of Fall River and K. O. Bristol Brown, of Bristol, R. I. Fans can expect plenty of action in this bout as both boys are noted for their willingness to swap punches. Brown has earned his title of "K. O." solely by his ability to win his bouts with a haymaker. Owens on the other hand has a neat record in his own right and besides being a hard puncher is a clever defensive fighter.

Considerable local interest is being shown in the opening bout in which Jimmy Quinn, former state amateur featherweight champion, makes his debut as a professional. Jimmy, one of the cleverest boxers that ever claimed Norwich as his home, meets Joe Spasato of Westerly, a former simon pure. Quinn rose to boxing heights in the state a little over a year ago when he took the state title by mowing down all opposition. He then sought honors in Rhode Island and installed himself as a favorite in that state by beating the best of the featherweights in New England. Early this spring he went to Boston in quest of the national amateur title and showed well until he met Myers, who eventually won the title. Shortly after this Quinn decided to take a fling at the professional game and Burns immediately signed him for the opening card.

One other bout also holds the local interest. This is a six-rounder in which Tommy McCarthy, local boy, meets Jack Monty of Providence. McCarthy has always been a local favorite but of late has been boxing in Newark, where he was somewhat of a favorite being under the able guidance of Freddie Freda, former boxer of note. McCarthy since entering Freda's stable has learned considerable about the game and fans are anxious to see the improvement. In Monty, McCarthy is up against a tough boy who has been attracting considerable attention in Providence. This should prove to be one of the feature attractions of the evening.

There are three other bouts on the card that should be equally as good.

ACADEMY TAKES LOOSE GAME FROM WINDHAM FOR THIRTEENTH VICTORY

The Academy crept to almost even terms with Chapman Tech in the Eastern Connecticut-Western Rhode Island league race and won its thirteenth game in 16 starts Tuesday afternoon at the campus from Windham high by the score of 15 to 9. It was a wild and wooly contest, replete with all kinds of baseball, and although limited to seven innings, consumed over two hours.

The hitters had their day with 25 safeties being cracked out by the contesting clubs. Chubby Gibbs and Les Crowell were the Academy batting stars with three bingles apiece. One of Gibbs' was a triple. Levine, Johnson and Sroka each connected safely twice for the visitors. Fourteen errors, nine of them by Windham, were also thrown in to help along the scoring, while hitters on each side owed some of their bingles to slow and decidedly erratic fielding.

Butsy Weisgraber broke back into the winning column after two straight defeats. Although touched up for ten hits, three or four of which were due to poor support, he managed to hold the invaders safe and coasted through under the heavy fire that the Wildcat batters put up.

Windham scored three in the first inning only to have the Academy annex five in their half. Windham tied it up with two in the second and the Academy came back with eight to practically settle the contest. Windham scored three more in the fourth and one in the seventh, while the locals tallied once each in the fourth and fifth.

ACADEMY NOW CLOSE ON HEELS OF TECH

Windham dropped to last place and the Academy moved up dangerously close to Chapman Tech as the result of their game Tuesday at the campus. Windham with two more games to play is engaged in a battle with Stonington for last place.

Used Car or Abused Car

. . . . How can you tell?

There are just two ways to choose a used car . . . and be certain of getting your money's worth.

The first is to get a skilled automobile mechanic to pick the car out for you. That's a good method if the mechanic is a good mechanic . . . and . . . if he is sufficiently interested in helping you.

The second method, and the soundest method, the one we earnestly advise, is to go to a new-car dealer representing a well-known car. For, the new-car dealer is directly responsible to a manufacturer, jealous of his reputation. The new-car dealer is a reputable business man with a big investment in local property and in stock. He cannot afford to jeopardize new-car sales or his standing in the community through used-car failures.

For example, as Hupmobile dealers, we feel that it is vital that the man who buys a used car from us shall be thoroughly satisfied with his purchase. The reason? . . . 60 per cent of all of our Hupmobile buyers come from the ranks of those who first purchased a used car from us and found it to be sound value.

Right now we have some used cars in several makes and models that we think are exceptional buys. They have been thoroughly reconditioned and are fairly priced. A few of them are described below.

USED-CAR BARGAINS THAT ARE MORE THAN PAINT DEEP

HUPMOBILE
1930 4-Door Sedan Demonstrator, but slightly used—new car guarantee.

BUICK 1927 Master Six Sedan. Car in A1 condition; good tires, paint and upholstering.

PONTIAC SEDAN—Late 1929 series. Paint, upholstering and mechanical condition can hardly be told from new. A wonderful buy.

HUPMOBILE

ASST. P. M. J. F. SPELLMAN DIES AFTER LONG ILLNESS

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., May 27—James F. Spellman, 55, died at 8:00 a. m. Tuesday following an illness of many months at his home, 23 Washington street, Pawcatuck. He was a veteran of the Spanish-American war and had been assistant postmaster of Westerly post office for over ten years.

Mr. Spellman was born in Pawcatuck, Nov. 28, 1875, the son of Michael and Hannah Carey Spellman. All his life was spent here. He also held membership in Robert Brucker camp, No. 6, United Spanish War Veterans, the Postal Supervisors' association and the Holy Name society of St. Michael's church. PLAINTIFF GETS BUT $8.04 IN FINAL JURY VERDICT

After being out over two hours the jury in the Washington County Superior court which had heard the case of William G. Grier of Wickford, R. I., vs. Laura M. Ellenwood of 40 Homestead street, Providence, a suit brought to recover on a $600 note with interest, returned a verdict for the plaintiff at 3:45 Tuesday. Judge Pouilot asked, "In what amount?" after Foreman Ernest W. Maine had so indicated. In the amount of $708.04" was the reply. Foreman Maine continued, "A $700 verdict is also returned by this jury for the defendant, Mrs. Ellenwood." "Then that makes a verdict of only $8.04 for the plaintiff," commented Judge Pouilot and the finding was so entered. Respondent sought to recover $735. for services alleged to have been rendered during a period of 182 weeks at $2.50 and $40 a week for seven weeks for attendace given the wife of Mr. Grier during her illness and two weeks' work after her death.

Mr. Grier testified that he had never made a promise to Mrs. Ellenwood that he would pay her well for what she had done. Attorney Quinn sought to bring out testimony showing that the trouble started between Mrs. Ellenwood and Mr. Grier after the latter's second marriage. Mrs. Ellenwood admitted on the stand that she was opposed to the second marriage of her father.

The following jury heard the case: Ernest W. Maine, Elisha W. Taylor and Daniel H. Spink, South Kingstown; William A. Clark, Wells R. Fowler, Attelo Farquelli, Alexander Greig and Charles D. Miner, Westerly; Alvern I. Crandall and Clarence L. Gardner, Hopkinton, Frederick J. McCarron and Fred Stramp, Richmond.

This (Wednesday) morning the jury will again report when the suit to collect damages as the result of a Broad street automobile accident, Lewis Solomon vs. The Whitall Electric Co., is on the Westerly calendar for hearing, to be followed by the action J. B. Champlin vs. J. G. Phelps Stokes.

A HISTORY OF CONNECTICUT INDUSTRY

Released by Manufacturers Association of Connecticut

The Snow & Petrelli Mfg. Company, New Haven.

The Snow & Petrelli Mfg. company of New Haven, was incorporated in January 1906 by Levi T. Snow and Joseph V. Petrelli for the manufacture of Joes reversing gears, etc, for motor boats.

This was in the early days of gasoline motor development and for several years this enterprise, like many automobile concerns, had rough weather.

In fact, it was only the fellows who were building and equipping their own boats who kept them from sinking. Motor builders considered the reverse gear just another expense if not a nuisance. The two cycle motor was largely in vogue and the motor boat enthusiast covered himself with sweat and grease in many futile attempts to start his motor and was more often than not towed in after his day of real sport.

Later the rapid development of the automobile motor led the way to the highly efficient high power, high speed marine motors. Today the motor boat enthusiast starts and propels his craft in his white ducks with the same luxury, ease, and certainty as he does his auto—minus dust and traffic, and at speeds to suit his taste.

Now the vitally necessary reverse gear is incorporated by all the inboard marine motor manufactures on their motors. This company is established in its own up-to-date factory at 25 Fox street, New Haven, and has for its customers most of the important internal combustion marine motor manufacturers in the world and Joes gears are favorably known in every port.

Petrelli withdrew in 1916 and was succeeded by Arthur T. Nabstedt as secretary.

The present officers are: Levi T. Snow, president and treasurer; Arthur T. Nabstedt, secretary; Morgan L. Mercer, assistant treasurer.

PUTNAM

Oak hill returned to work today after a holiday Monday, caused by the rain.

Owing to the sudden death of a relative of Judge Arthur F. Ells of Waterbury, who is presiding at the May term of superior court, sessions scheduled to be held today were postponed until Wednesday morning, at 10 o'clock.

Captain A. J. Dubreuil of the police department was in Hartford today on business. Sergeant Alpherie J. Sponcey acted in charge of the force during the captain's absence.

Chauncey C. Talbot of Mechanics street, who has been ill at his home for several weeks, is making a satisfactory recovery and is sufficiently well enough to be at his business a few hours each day.

Miss Marion Warren of Grand View has returned to her home, after two weeks spent in a Washington hospital, where she underwent treatment for her eyes. She is making a rapid recovery and is expected to be back at her duties in the accounting department of the Citizens National bank next week.

JEWETT CITY

MEMORIAL DAY PROCESSION TO START AT 9 O'CLOCK

The line of march Memorial Day will form at the Town Hall at half past eight (daylight time). The parade starts at nine, moving to Slater library where the World war monument and Memorial tree will be decorated. Then to Jewett City cemetery, stopping at the Lisbon bridge where flowers will be strewn on the waters in memory of the nation's sailor dead. St. Mary's cemetery will next be visited. The procession returns to the Baptist cemetery, thence to Fanning park, where the monument will be decorated. Rev. J. J. McCabe will be the speaker and the school children will sing. Dr. G. H. Jennings is marshal, his aides being H. George Wilcox, J. T. Barry and Adrian Menard. The order of the line will be: Police, marshal and aides, flag and Legion colors, Ashland Boys' band, firing squad, veterans of Indian war, Spanish war, World war and American Legion, Sons of Veterans and school children. In automobiles, members of G. A. R., Gold Star mothers, American Legion auxiliary, Daughters of Veterans, Daughters American Revolution, Woman's Relief corps, American Red Cross, clergy and speaker, town and borough officials. The school children will assemble in front of the railroad station and will be in charge of George Rocheleau, Edgar Knox, Charles Campbell and Stanley Savage. At the conclusion of the exercises, dinner will be served in the Baptist vestry to the veterans of all wars, the band, poppy girls, and guests. The dinner is furnished by the four church parishes. Mrs. E. M. Gray, president of the Legion auxiliary, appointed as the committee, Miss Alice A. Brown, chairman; Mrs. Samuel Cathcart, Mrs. Lewis Hewlitt, Miss Susie Morgan, Mrs. Abraham Zegeer, Mrs. Frank Ray, Miss M. A. Burdick, Mrs. E. H. Hiscox, Mrs. M. E. Shea, Mrs. Edmond Jodoin, Mrs. Henry Vegiard, Mrs. Mary Godek, Mrs. A. C. Burdick, Mrs. J. W. Carter and Mrs. Ella Geer.

This (Wednesday) evening the Kaceys and Accos will meet for the fourth game in the Jewett City Twilight league series. These two nines are groomed and ready and each is out to win, neither as yet having finished on the right side of the card. The K. of C. will present a strengthened lineup. Nap Liberty, a hard hitter and clever fielder, will be seen in action, as well as Manager Eudor LeClaire, who was considered one of the classiest of shortstops in this part of the country a few years ago. The old standby, Ed. Jodoin, will pitch and promises to put the Knights in the winning column. Barney and Liberty are ready to step in if the warden should falter. Manager LeClaire has had his men out for batting practice the last few nights and judging by the way the boys socked the ball, the Ashland pitchers are in for a tough night.

Manager Hal Chase of the Accos gave notice that when his team lines up this evening, the Kaceys are slated to hear something drop. Their first game with the Fisk was sort of a warming up contest, now they will be there with the goods. The game will be played at Ashland park.

Mystery Of Detouring

Automobile drivers are having a wonderful time with the detour from Bishop's, which, if the right roads are selected brings one into Jewett City via East Main street, thus escaping the torn up section at Tadpole. Some of the efforts have landed the driver in Voluntown, others have made Hopeville, with still another arriving at Tadpole over the upper railroad bridge.

MOOSUP

The American Legion met Sunday afternoon and voted unanimously to accept the report and program of the Memorial day committee. A letter was read from departmental headquarters calling upon all ex-service men to cooperate in the community Memorial day exercises with all other citizens and patriotic organizations. It was voted to unite in seeking the last resting places of all those who have given their lives in defense of their country, and to strew upon their graves the choicest flowers of spring, as a tribute of love and affection. Memorial day is a holy festival day of remembrance and departmental headquarters calls on the Legion to help keep the day free from mere sports, pleasure and recreation.

One night last week, John J. Bennett's cows were not to be found at milking time. Inquiry at William Roper's revealed that Willis H. Stone had been telephoning around since noon to locate the owner of the cows. On claiming the animals it was found that Mr. Stone had kindly fed and milked them and put the milk away to cool.

A fire which assumed a dangerous aspect occurred at the home of A. E. Phillips, Sunday afternoon. The blaze started from an oil can which exploded in the tenement occupied by Mr. Phillips' son, Albert. The burning oil spread fire rapidly, but prompt action by members of the family and neighbors summoned by telephone soon quenched the flames, before a great amount of damage was done. Most of the damage was by the black oily smoke which filled the whole house. The older son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Phillips received a severe burn on one arm and his father was partially overcome by gas and smoke. Both were treated by a doctor and are reported somewhat improved.

Memorial day exercises were held in the church, Sunday afternoon. On account of the rain, the cemeteries were not visited. The graves of the soldiers had been decorated Saturday with flags and potted plants.

Mrs. Patrick Coffey entertained Friday evening Mr. and Mrs. Harry Young of Danielson, James Salisbury, Mr. and Mrs. Byron Wood and daughter, Shirley, and Mrs. Byron Place.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Church, of Woonsocket, R. I., called on A. E. Hall, Sunday afternoon. Mr. Church was a former resident of the Horse Hill section of the town, but has not been here for many years.

PLAINFIELD

CATCH 5 BIG PICKEREL WITH A FLY, ROD AND REEL

A fine catch of five large pickerel is on display at the store of C. D. Salisbury & Sons, in Plainfield. These pickerel weigh from 2 pounds to 3½ pounds each and were caught by the wellknown sportsmen, E. D. DuBreuil and James Knight, in the vicinity of Plainfield. These two sportsmen, with a canoe, started off trout fishing with fly rods and reels. It was after James Knight decided to paddle the canoe when the fun started. DuBreuil threw his line out and got a bite that demanded much attention to land the fish. When it was pulled in it was a pickerel that weighed over three pounds. It was decided to fish there some more and finally five large pickerel were caught. The largest one that was dropped put up a good stiff fight that lasted some time. This pickerel probably would have weighed 5 pounds but it finally broke the rod and line and got away. However, the big ones these sportsmen got over the week end are now attracting much attention in Plainfield.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Francis W. Chaffee

Mrs. Nellie M. Chaffee, mother of former Postmaster Louis E. Chaffee of Stafford Springs, died at the Chapin Memorial hospital, Springfield, Thursday night following several weeks' illness. Mrs. Chaffee was the widow of Francis W. Chaffee and for many years resided with her family near Evergreen park. She leaves three sons, Wilbur F., of Stafford Springs; Louis E., Hartford, and Francis W. Chaffee, Jr., of Eagleville. The funeral was held at her home Monday afternoon at 2:30. Rev. Charles H. Puffer, a former pastor of the Universalist church in Stafford Hollow, officiated. Burial was in Stafford Springs cemetery.

The borough authorities have had three large signs erected on Haymarket square and East Main street, pointing out the roads to Springfield, Hartford and Worcester. The sign on the pole near the Congregational church indicates the road to Springfield, the one near the railroad station shows the motorist who wishes to go to Hartford in which direction he should proceed and the one on the pole near the post office shows the way to Worcester. The signs are about four feet in length with black letters on a white background and are easily seen at a distance of several hundred feet. They will save the traffic officer the trouble of answering many questions by tourists.

At the meeting of the Home bureau to be held in Grange hall, Stafford Hollow, this (Wednesday) morning at 10:30, Miss MacDonald will give a talk on Care of the Hair and Care of the Feet.

Friends of Miss Iglia Oldrini gave her a miscellaneous shower at her home on Quinn's Heights Monday evening in honor of her approaching marriage. Miss Oldrini will become the bride of Mario Fontanella next Monday evening at St. Edward's church.

Charles K. Smith of the U. S. N. is spending a ten day's furlough in Stafford Springs.

John Peters has taken possession of the Fitzpatrick property at Crystal lake. Mr. Peters obtained title to the property by foreclosure proceedings in the superior court in Rockville several weeks ago.

Taxes in the borough of Stafford Springs are coming in very slowly this year, probably due to the fact that so many people are out of work in the borough. Although due and payable May 1st and interest will be collected after next Monday not half the property owners have paid this year's taxes.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Hajosy are in camp at Crystal lake for the season.

Facing the Cruelest Test a Skin can meet

9 out of 10 screen stars use Lux Toilet Soap to keep their skin exquisite for the merciless close-up

A GLARING blaze of light, flooding the screen star's face. Light so intense that it reveals everything. There mustn't be even the tiniest flaw in the skin.

No actress, according to 45 leading Hollywood directors, has ever been able to win and hold the heart of the public unless her skin showed simply exquisite in the close-up. And in the talkies there are more close-ups than ever before!

This is why 511 of the 521 important Hollywood actresses use Lux Toilet Soap. In addition, all the great film studios have made it the official soap for their dressing rooms.

The Broadway stage stars have long used this daintily fragrant white soap, too—and now the famous European screen stars have adopted it as their own.

By using Lux Toilet Soap you can keep your skin just as petal-smooth as nine out of ten screen stars keep theirs. Do order several cakes—today.

"Lights!" A turn of the switch—and the glare from the giant incandescents pours down on the screen star's face. The cruelest test a skin can meet—this test of the close-up.

HELEN TWELVETREES, charming Pathé star, has no need to fear that her skin will not register flawlessly perfect on the highly sensitized film—for she has long cared for her skin with Lux Toilet Soap.

She says: "Smooth skin is one of the most important assets a screen star has. I always use Lux Toilet Soap to guard my skin—it certainly is a lovely soap"

MARY NOLAN, lovely Universal star, also uses Lux Toilet Soap. When the blaze of the close-up lights floods her face and shoulders and arms, she knows that the camera will register a petal-smooth skin—for like 511 of the 521 important Hollywood actresses, she guards her skin carefully with this daintily fragrant white soap.

She says: "I have tried innumerable French soaps—but never have I had anything like Lux Toilet Soap for keeping my skin fresh and smooth."

(Below) LOUISE BROOKS, exquisite star, in the luxurious bathroom created for her in Hollywood. Both here and in her dressing room on location she uses Lux Toilet Soap.

She says: "Klieg lights make close-ups so revealing! One can't possibly hide the texture of the skin. That is why so many screen stars cleanse their skin with Lux Toilet Soap. It gives the skin the lovely satin-smoothness 'studio skin' must have."

STOCK PRICES MOVED ERRATICALLY IN RATHER DULL SESSION OF MARKET

NEW YORK, May 27—(P)—The stock market behaved erratically today in a relatively dull session. Professionals, who were virtually the only participants, seemed uncertain whether to take the short or the long side in this abbreviated trading week, and tried their hands at both, with the result that the market, viewed from the close, was highly irregular.

Bears searching for weak spots singled out the farm implement shares in view of the diminishing sales reported by manufacturers of agricultural machinery for April and the first half of May. Bulls singled out their old friends, the utilities, finding enough encouragement in the current rumor crop to send up prominent issues one to five points.

Rails, as was to have been expected, were heavy, for another batch of April earnings statements showed a preponderance of declines. The first 44 carriers reporting showed decreases averaging 33 per cent in the net railway operating income item for last month.

Most of the so-called pivotal industrials acted well. U. S. Steel got up to 174 1-2, its high for the movement, although it reacted from that level and closed just a point higher. National Biscuit was strong, while American Can, Westinghouse and General Electric displayed marked firmness. General Motors was an exception, dipping as low was 50 and closing at 51 1-8 for a net loss of 1 1-8.

International Harvester was forced to absorb heavy liquidation, breaking more than 4 points to 93 1-8. At the closing price of 94 3-4 it was exactly 3 points below Monday's final quotation. J. I. Case, which had touched 317 yesterday, yielded 16 1-2 points net and closed only a point above the bottom. Oliver Farm Equipment declined 3 points net and Caterpillar Tractor reacted 1 1-2.

The utilities came into prominence early in the session and by noon were two to four points higher. During the afternoon, however, considerable selling appeared which reduced or eliminated the gains, but the final trading saw a vigorous rally in the group. People's Gas finished at the new high of 324 3-4, up 5 1-4. Electric Power and Light, much more active, advanced 5 and there were gains of nearly one to 3 points in American Telephone, American and Foreign Power, Consolidated Gas of New York, Standard Gas and Electric and Public Service of New Jersey.

Oils held firm on the strength of favorable reports regarding the curtailment program in California and the reduced output in that field during the past week. Tidewater Associated, whose president denied that merger negotiations with Continental were in progress or being contemplated, advanced more than a point to within a fraction of its 1930 high.

St. Paul railroad issues were again under pressure and nearly reached their year's minimums. Southern Railway, Erie, Canadian Pacific, Southern Pacific, Lackawanna and New York Central dropped one to three. Boston and Maine, moving against the trend, rose 1 1-2.

The specialties were irregular. United Aircraft was bid up more than 2 points and Worthington Pump nearly 3. Hosiery stocks weakened, Julius Kayser slipping to a new low for the year on a 2 point decline while Phoenix lost 1 1-2. Foster Wheeler, which manufactures equipment for natural gas properties soared 8 points.

Aside from the railroad earnings figures and the better news from the California oil district, the day's developments of interest to Wall street, were few.

James A. Farrell, president of U. S. Steel, announced in San Francisco that his company was planning an expansion program on the coast which would include a development of the Columbia Steel properties acquired several months ago. Fred W. Sargent, president of Chicago and Northwestern railway, said he expected a gradual increase in the company's business, although the volume would not equal last year's.

Grain prices sagged. Wheat dropped about a cent on bearish Canadian and Kansas reports, while corn lost from 1-2 to 3-4 cent on good weather and a bearish Missouri state report.

The foreign exchanges were featureless, with sterling cables unchanged.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, May 27—(P)—Bond prices pursued an erratic course within narrow confines today. Promising activity was mixed with some sharp reactions as the trading continued sluggish throughout the trading session on the New York Stock exchange.

The tone of prime industrial bonds brightened considerably. Foreign bonds held steady in a good market, and increased demand for United States governments developed with prices tending upward generally. The other side of the picture was the dullness of the market in railroad bonds, and sharp fluctuations that occurred in some individual issues, notably St. Paul adjustment 5s, which dropped two points, and Pathe Exchange warrants 7s which yielded 7 points.

Sales volume increased appreciably from yesterday, when the turnover established a new low mark for 1930.

The quiet market in railroad bonds resulted in the highest grade liens of the group losing some ground. A conspicuous exception to the narrow price range of most rail issues, was the Soo line 5, which gained more than a point. Missouri Pacific convertible 5 1-2s were strong to reach a new 1930 high but reacted at the close. The decrease in earnings of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railroad influenced a further depreciation in the price of its bonds. The adjustment 5s lost 2 1-4 to set a new low for the second day in succession, and the general 4 1-2s dropped 1 3-4 points. The general 4 1-2s moved upward a point.

Stock privilege issues showed the depressing effects of a dull share market but rallied toward the close, with the American Telephone 4 1-2 closing 3 points higher, and Philadelphia-Reading Coal and Iron 6s, up one point. Changes in other convertibles was small and irregular.

Buying of foreign bonds turned largely to foreign government bonds, particularly European, but gains were small. Canadian Dominion 4 1-2s neared its 1930 high on a moderate turnover. There was a good demand for French 7 1-2s which gained 1-2 point. Electric Power German 6 1-2s suffered the widest drop, yielding 6 7-8 points to a new low for the year.

The demand for United States governments was the best in many days but the general price range advance was small.

New financing includes $2,200,000 City of Santiago, Chile issue of 7 per cent gold bonds, priced at 96 1-2 to yield 7.30 per cent, and $3,000,000 Intercontinents Power company issue of six per cent convertible debentures priced at 97.

Treasury Balance.

WASHINGTON, May 27—(P)—Treasury receipts for May 24 were $8,807,845.72; expenditures $6,254,748.70; balance $117,270,346.55.

A fifty-year history of the world chronicled in almanacs has been preserved by John Fraher, of London, O. Statring shortly after the Franco-Prussian war, Fraher saved his copies of J. Gruber's Hagerstown Town and Country Almanacs, all published at Hagertown, Md.

THE CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, May 27—(P)—Bullish operations in the utility shares made moderate progress in today's curb market, although prices generally milled around without direction as unsettlement on the big board, and the fact that the exchange will be closed for three days over the Memorial day week-end, hampered operators in their efforts to attract a following.

American Gas and Electric was a strong feature, rising 10 points to 152 in heavy trading for this issue, usually not very active. It closed at 150 3-8. Electric Bond and Share was also heavily bought, rising 3 points, and closing near the top. American Super Power sold up about a point, then lost most of its gain. Nevada-California jumped 15 points in a few sales.

In the natural gas stocks, recent strength of Missouri-Kansas Pipe Line was explained by announcement of a $40,000,000 project to pipe gas from Texas to Indiana. The stock appeared to have discounted this development, however, and moved narrowly.

A conspicuous weak spot was Deere which tumbled 10 points to 114, within one point of the minimum level for this stock, compared with a high a few weeks ago of 162 5-8. This issue was heavily sold in sympathy with J. I. Case and International Harvester on the big board, and in response to reports of a decided lull in farm implement demand.

Among the few strong features in the industrials was Driver Harris, up 4 points, A. C. Gilbert, National Screen, and National Theatres Supply, up 2 or more. Douglas Aircraft sold within 1 point of the year's high.

Oils were in fair demand for a time, but sagged during the latter part of the session. Root Refining, a comparative inactive issue, jumped 8 points to 20 1-8, a new high for the year.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, May 27.—(AP)— Despite announcement of a big reduction of world stocks of wheat, prices underwent decided downturns today. The action of the wheat market was attributed largely to trade unsettlement resulting from reported plans of the federal farm board to make 1930 crop loans on a varying basis to be fixed from time to time. Reports were also current that the national grain stabilization corporation would withdraw from participating in the wheat market as soon as the existing wheat surplus is eliminated.

Closing quotations were nervous at a moderate rally from the day's bottom level, but 7-8a1 1-4c a bushel lower than yesterday's finish. Corn closed 3-8a3-4c down, oats unchanged to 1-4c up and provisions varying from 10c decline to 5c advance.

Provisions reflected downturns in the value of hogs.

NEW YORK, May 27.—(AP)— Contracts for new building and engineering projects in the 37 states east of the Rocky mountains, totaled $83,276,300 during the week of May 17, F. W. Dodge corporation reported today. This compares with $104,585,300 in the corresponding week last year. New construction work is mounting at the rate of $17,675,700 per business day in contrast to $23,510,600 in May last year.

Robert J. Stokes, president of Thermoid company, in an analysis of trade prospects, says that current developments indicate that automobile production in 1930 will exceed the 1928 total although it will be under the 1929 mark. Production of new cars in the first four months totaled 1,466,242, Mr. Stokes said, compared with 1,378,943 in the same period in 1928 and 2,074,830 in the corresponding period of 1929.

A seat on the New York stock exchange will be sold for $486,000, [illegible] $13,000 from the previous sale.

CANTERBURY

Miss Agnes Sweeney and several of the Baldwin school children were in Lisbon Wednesday evening to see the exhibit of work done in the school there.

The auction held at the Williams place on the Plains was very largely attended. There were many articles of interest to the antique dealers in the sale.

Miss Billings, home demonstration agent, met with a group of local women at the Town hall Friday.

Monday evening the Parent-Teacher association met at the Grange hall, the president, Mrs. Lillian Frink, presiding. The officers elected for the ensuing year are: Mrs. Malcolm R. Wibberley, president; Mrs. T. Mellen, vice-president; Miss Agnes Sweeney, secretary; Miss Esther Kimball, treasurer. There is to be a P. T. A. convention at Plainfield this (Wednesday) evening and Misses Sweeney and Kimball were elected delegates to this.

Mr. and Mrs. Denniston Charlton and children, Betty and Junior, were callers at Malcolm Wibberley's Monday. They recently arrived in Plainfield from Miami, Fla.

Miss Kate Chuykow, of New York, is now at her home here for an indefinite time.

Miss Vera Bushnell, of Franklin, spent a few days here, the past week, with her grandmother, Mrs. Addie Bushnell.

On account of the bad weather there was a small congregation present at the Green church Sunday morning. Rev. Harry E. Small preached a Memorial sermon and there was special music by the choir. The Memorial service which was to have been held at the Carey cemetery in the afternoon has been postponed to Sunday afternoon next, the first of June at 3 o'clock (S. T.). Rev. William C. Prentiss, of Plainfield, will be the speaker and the band will play.

W. C. T. U. CONVENTION HELD WITH PLAINS CHURCH

Wednesday morning last, at 9 o'clock, the 44th annual convention of the Windham County Woman's Christian Temperance union convened at the M. P. church on the Plains, Mrs. Esther Brown, of Danielson, vice-president, presiding. The president, Mrs. Mary E. Stearns, is in Europe and during the session a pleasing message was read from her. After an opening song, all gave the salute to the flag, followed by devotional service led by Mrs. K. A. Darbie, of Danielson. After the roll call, welcoming speeches were made by Mrs. Bliven and Rev. Mr. St. John and the response was by Mrs. Miner, of Danielson. The treasurer's report and "Snap Shots" from Local Unions, also Director's Views of Windham County, were very interesting. Various reports were given. Mrs. Mary E. Stearns was unanimously elected president for another year. Mrs. Pegrum was re-elected secretary and empowered to choose an assistant. Mrs. Gallup, of Scotland, was again made treasurer and Mrs. Esther Brown, vice-president. Thirteen directors of various departments were nominated by the committee and later ratified by the convention. After the Memorial service and prayer by Miss Lucy Baldwin, luncheon was served in the Town hall by the Canterbury W. C. T. U. At the opening of the afternoon session there was prayer offered by Rev. Harry E. Small and a beautiful duet by Mary Dolloff and Gertrude Miner, of the Danielson L. T. L. During the morning session there was a selection by a trio from Danielson. Mrs. Mary E. Welles, state president, gave a splendid talk on gaining new members and a fine address on "The Two Houses." Dr. David A. Pitt, of Norwich, followed with a forceful and encouraging address on "Sharing Your Best with the World." During the day there were short talks by Rev. Mr. Richardson, of Danielson, who has been in Canada for the past seven years, and who told of the bad conditions there caused by the so-called government control, and by Rev. Mr. Williams, of Willimantic. Hadley Williams played a beautiful cornet solo, and there were two recitations by the Willimantic L. T. L. members and selections by the Canterbury L. T. L. band. The banner was awarded the Danielson union for the greatest gain in membership during the year. In the report of the resolutions committee it was stated that the W. C. T. U. goes on record as being opposed to any form of modification of the 18th amendment or its repeal. The convention closed with the Aaronic benediction.

WESTMINSTER

HUMORS OF ANTIQUE SALES AT WILLIAMS AUCTION

The administrator's sale at auction to close the estate of the late Jerusha Williams, on Canterbury Plains, Friday, brought together a large crowd. The sale, which included many antiques, had been well advertised and were the antique fans present? They were! Boston was well represented and The Bulletin correspondent noticed a car bearing Georgia markers, with several from New York and New Jersey and one from Florida. Anyone who has never seen antique collectors in action has missed much. Local folks got a thrill, when one collector who knows his bottles paid $3.75 for a very ordinary looking 1-2 pint glass bottle. A highboy, with the original glass knobs, brought $103.00; any connoisseurs would consider it a bargain and so did the buyer. So on down the line. Tables, chairs, old china, pottery, pictures, baskets, bric-a-brac, etc., delighted the collectors, some of whom had tried unsuccessfully to buy some of them from the late owner, but Mrs. Williams would never consider an offer for her treasures, most of which had been in the family for several generations. The real estate was put up at auction. There were several prospective buyers, but it was sold to Mrs. Fannie Stanton, a daughter of the late Mrs. Williams.

Infant Unharmed

Lightning, which struck the house of William Stevens, on the Versailles road, during a recent electrical storm, did considerable damage, without setting it on fire. The lightning entered a window, passed completely through the house and tore its way out. It splintered a bed, and passed directly through a room where an infant was sleeping, with no injury to the child.

Why the State of California Chose
HUDSON'S Great 8

Its 100% Perfect Score

Hudson's Great 8, with 100% score overwhelmed all competitors in tests conducted by the department of Highway Control of the State of California.

Nearly all makes made bids. Of these eight, ranging in price from $1050 to $1500 were submitted to tests in Speed, Reliability, Flexibility, Operating Ease, Steering Action and Freedom from Vibration, Shimmying and Overheating. Hudson, one of the lowest in price, alone finished with a perfect score.

Against these well-known, higher priced cars, Hudson received the highest praise from the experts and were purchased for the Highway Control department.

Special attention was directed to Hudson's "remarkable sustained high speed" and "clean performance." The experts also reported that at 60 miles an hour it still had a wallop for acceleration far exceeding any car tested.

Make These Proofs Yourself. We Will Send a Car to Your Door

Only by riding in or driving Hudson's Great 8 will you appreciate its delightful operation. You are invited to take a trial car and test it for smoothness, speed, acceleration, power, easy handling, comfort and economy. A telephone call will bring Hudson's Great 8 to your door.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORY

Mr. Blacksnake Is Driven Away

A situation that is tense
Is often saved by common sense.
—Old Mother Nature.

Danny and Nanny Meadow Mouse didn't know what to do. Mr. Blacksnake had found their new home up in a tree. It was lucky for them that neither had been in that home. "I guess," said Danny, "that we shall have to look for a new home elsewhere."

"I guess," said Nanny, "that you are right. And that was such a beautiful home! Never have I felt more safe than I felt there."

"You wouldn't feel safe there any longer," said Danny.

"No, I don't suppose I would," Nanny replied.

"Still," said Danny, "if Mr. Blacksnake should be driven away he might never again return. Somehow, I have a feeling that he is just traveling. I don't believe he lives around here. Oh, dear! I wish I were big enough to do something."

Just then Sammy Jay alighted in the tree. He didn't see Danny and Nanny, but he did see Mr. Blacksnake. "Thief! Thief! Thief!" he began screaming at the top of his lungs.

Now, when Sammy screams "Thief!" like that, every one knows that he has discovered an enemy, and most of the feathered folks within hearing flock to see what the trouble is. It wasn't long before the feathered folk began coming from all directions. Mr. Blacksnake withdrew his head from inside the tin can. He had found nothing to interest him in there. Now he was darting his forked tongue out and in rapidly, as he glared at Sammy Jay and the other feathered folk gathering around. He didn't like so much attention. No, sir, he didn't like so much attention. He never does like attention. He held himself in readiness to strike at any of his tormentors who might come within striking distance. But none did. They would come almost within striking distance, but never quite. Mr. Blacksnake began to look about for a way out. He glided swiftly down that tree. Danny and Nanny saw him coming and took to their heels. Mr. Blacksnake didn't see them. He reached the ground and started away at a great pace.

But he couldn't escape the sharp eyes of the birdfolk. After him flew the whole crowd, all screaming at the top of their lungs. It wasn't long before they were so far away that the sound of their voices reached Danny and Nanny only faintly. Mr. Blacksnake had been driven away.

"He won't come back," said Danny confidently.

"How do you know?" replied Nanny.

"I just feel it," said Danny. "We may as well keep our home. If we were living somewhere on the ground, there would always be the chance of a visit from Mr. Blacksnake."

"Perhaps you are right, Danny," said Nanny. "On the ground we would be in danger from others as well as Mr. Blacksnake. Come on; let's go back up home."

So Danny and Nanny climbed up to the old tin can, which was now their home. "I hate to think that that fellow has been in here," said Nanny, "but it can't be helped. We'll just hope that he'll never come again."

"He won't," replied Danny confidently.

And Danny was right. Mr. Blacksnake never did return.

POETRY

The Wakers

The joyous morning ran and kissed the grass
And drew his fingers through her sleeping hair,
And cried, "Before thy flowers are well awake
Arise, and the lingering darkness from thee shake.

"Before the daisy and the sorrel buy
Their brightness back from that close-folding night,
Come and the shadows from thy bosom shake,
Awake from thy thick sleep, awake, awake!"

Then the grass of that mounted meadow stirred
Above the Roman bones that may not stir
Though joyous morning whispered, shouted, sang;
The grass stirred as that happy music rang.

Oh, what a wondrous rustling everywhere!
The steady shadows shook and thinned and died,
The shining grass flashed brightness back for brightness,
And sleep was gone, and there was heavenly lightness.

As if she had found wings, light as the wind,
The grass flew, bent with the wind, from east to west,
Chased by one wild gray cloud and flashing all
Her dews for happiness to hear morning call * * *

But even as I stepped out the brightness dimmed,
I saw the fading edge of all delight.
The sober morning waked the drowsy herds,
And there was the old scolding of the birds.

—John Freeman.

The Gypsy Trail

It's the May time wind a blowing,
It's the whispering of the pines,
It's the murmuring water flowing,
It's the rustling of the vines;
It's the bird song in the distance
It's the flowers in the glen,
It's the lure beyond resistance
Of the gypsy trail again.

It's the green clad hills inviting
It's the woodland's cooling shade,
It's the winding road delighting,
It's the shadows in the glade;
It's the firelight softly gleaming
It's the camp when evening falls,
It's the long, sweet nights of dreaming
On the gypsy trail that calls.

SAILOR ROMANCE AT NEW LONDON PROVES TRIANGLE OF DEPRAVITY

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, May 27.—Another sailor love romance was revealed today with the arrest of Joseph D. Kiera, Filipino, stationed at the United States Coast Guard academy and his common-law wife, Nina, white, and Chief Petty Officer Alfred Morin, stationed at the submarine base. All were charged with lascivious carriage and will be in the police court tomorrow. Kiera obtained a surety on his bond of $50. Morin was released in the custody of base officials and the Kiera woman was locked up, for she was unable to obtain a surety on her bond. Kiera and the woman have been residing many months as man and wife at the light housekeeping house, 76 Golden street and the woman claims to have been the legal wife of Morin at one time, but this Kiera not only denied, but it became known as being an untruth because of events subsequent to the arrest of the trio. This morning Kiera received a special delivery letter at the academy from the woman, in which she stated that she had decided to part with Kiera because Morin had returned from the south. Morin did return to New London last night and he lost no time in ascertaining the whereabouts of the woman. Then the Kiera woman wrote the letter sent to Kiera. The latter lost no time either in acting, for he proceeded at once to police headquarters and made complaint against both his wife and Morin. In doing so he unknowingly accused himself for Kiera narrated how the man and woman had long resided together out of wedlock. Kiera also stated that he had intended marrying the woman about June 1. When the three had been arrested Morin signified his willingness to marry the woman until he was informed that her love-mate for months had been a Filipino and the chief petty officer then stoutly refused to wed her.

GROTON REFUSES MONEY FOR FITCH HIGH SCHOOL

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, May 27.— Groton held a special town meeting this evening to act on a proposition for an additional appropriation for the new Fitch school. The attendance was very large, for it was anticipated that there would not be harmony in the action taken. Many had to stand during the proceedings. Judge Cornelius Costello of the local police court was the presiding officer and Henry L. Bailey was clerk. The report of the school committee represented that there were 140 pupils in the school and that at the next term there would be 276. The appropriation made is not sufficient to provide accommodation for the anticipated attendance. Dr. Allyn, speaking for the committee, said the meeting tonight was through courtesy, and that the committee might have gone ahead and contracted the necessary debt to provide for the anticipated attendance, but the disposition was to be fair with the town, to show just what the money was needed for, and to disclose what was necessary. He gave figures to substantiate what he claimed were the facts in the matter.

A voice from the assembled voters requested him to sit down. When order was restored, Lyale Chesebro spoke in opposition to accepting the report, saying that the town was in bad shape financially at present. It should not appropriate any more money and could not do so at the fixed rate of taxation. Dr. Hill supported the report, declaring that there was pressing need of the appropriation. He said that changes should be made that would provide for the increased enrollment. He favored the acceptance of the committee report.

Percy Morgan made a telling opposition to the report, declaring that the committee had even used money for the school to build garages. He intimated that the committee might next go ahead and build a residence for the principal of the school. He moved to lay the report of the committee on the table. He declared the chairman of the committee, Dr. Allyn, was not sufficiently capable for the position he held and should not occupy the place. He again urged that the report be tabled. Dr. Allyn replied to Mr. Morgan and defended his acts, explaining that the garages had been rented at $3 a month and said the expenditure was a wise one. He said that through courtesy the meeting this evening had been asked to give approval to the acts of the committee.

When he had finished, the meeting very positively voted not to appropriate the money asked for and adjourned.

W. R. Perry, Hartford, has been ordered to appear in the police court tomorrow, charged with parking overtime on Bank street. Wesley MacQuarrie, Roslindale, Mass., is charged with parking overtime on Bank street; Iola Roy, Norwich, parking in restricted area on Huntington street; Alphonse A. Marke, 448 Main street, Palmer, Mass., parking overtime on State street; Isadore Diamond, 122 Montauk avenue, parking overtime on Bank street; Gretchen S. Hiscox, 41 Spencer street, parking overtime on Meridian street; John Smith, 78 Hill street, driving without registration.

When he went to police headquarters seeking lodging tonight, an intoxicated man was arrested by Sergeant Frank Howard.

Morris Menghin, of 581 Pequot avenue; Mrs. Edward Sousa and infant daughter, Groton; Master Hugh Hopkins, 381 Broad street; Fred Giraliano, Groton; Richard Chesbro, Stonington, patients at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, were dismissed today.

PAIR SENT TO JAIL— RIDING IN STOLEN CAR

Samuel Saulvan, 21, of New York and John R. Disharoon, Sparrow's Point, Md., 22, were in the police court this morning, jointly, on three counts of violation of the state motor vehicle law. After the young men had been penalized, it was decided that the automobile they were riding in when arrested had been stolen in New York. Saulvan and Disharoon were on State street late last night and as they entered the car, a Buick sedan, the driving of Saulvan attracted the attention of Patrolman Louis Pine. The officer held the car up and upon interrogating the pair it developed that neither possessed a driver's license or registration and that the car was improperty equipped for it did not have a foot brake. The counts of driving without a license or registration were nolled in court, but on the last charge Saulvan and Disharoon were each fined $10 and costs. Neither could pay so they were committed to jail. A short time after Saulvan and Disharoon had been taken to jail, a telegram was received from the Union Circulation company, New York, stating that the former had stolen the auto in New York recently and that it was the property of one of their salesmen. Saulvan will be re-arrested when he has worked out the fine and costs of the court and will be turned over to the custody of a New York officer.

HIGH SCHOOL OF COMMERCE UNNECESSARY EXPENSE

At the next meeting of the city council on the evening of June 2, the high school of commerce will be abolished. The council declares it an expense to the city that is not warranted. At the establishment of the school, it is alleged, the expense was but $1800, but it has grown to about $30,000. The council met as a committee last evening and was in session three hours during which time the situation was canvassed and the decision reached to do away with the school. That recommendation will be made to the council Monday, June 2. The few pupils now under instructions will get their education at W. M. I. This will necessitate the employment of two additional teachers at Williams, at a cost of $2000, but the claim is that a saving of $14,000 will be effected. A committee from the trustees of the W. M. I. attended the committee meeting last evening when the matter was thoroughly discussed. While the trustees did not offer to take over the instruction of the pupils of the commerce school, they did not announce that the pupils would be instructed and that they would be thoroughly trained. The commerce course will be added to the curriculum of the Williams school. Councillors A. T. Minor and W. C. Fox have been persistent in pointing out that the commerce school involved a needless expense and they have convinced the other members of the council of the accuracy of their point of view. The vote to abandon the commerce school was 6 to 1, so there seems no doubt as to what the action of the council will be when it takes up the matter for final action. It is possible that other phases of the school expense will be considered at the meeting the first Monday in June.

Frank Santacroce, 61 Poquonoc road, Groton, was charged with violation of the state motor vehicle law in parking his automobile beside the highway without lights being displayed. Santacroce drove to Williams street, near the Connecticut College for Women last night and stopped his car in a location that is not brightly illumined. Automobile Patrol Officer Clarence Martin observed the darkened auto and investigated. Finding Santacroce in the machine he arrested him. Santacroce was also given suspension of judgment.

Samuel Wilcoxson, submarine base, was charged with violation of the state motor vehicle law on two counts, passing an automatic danger signal at Ocean and Glenwood avenues and speeding on the latter thoroughfare. On the first count, Wilcoxson was fined $10 and costs and on the second charge a penalty of $5 and costs was meted out. Wilcoxson was arrested last night by Automobile Patrol Officer George Cockell.

Morris Gustov, a guest at the Hotel Winthrop, was charged with parking overtime on State street. He did not appear in court, so his bond of $2 was forfeited.

Two cases of intoxication were tried, both men being arrested last night on Main street by Sergeant Patrick Murphy and Patrolman Cornelius Moriarty. Each of the men was sentenced to 20 days in jail.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theatre

A snappy double feature bill is what is in store for the patrons of the ever popular Palace, today, When America's girl friend, petite Alice is seen in Show Girl in Hollywood, with Jack Mulhall and also Those Who Dance, starring the very beautiful Lila Lee supported by Monte Blue and Betty Compson.

"Show Girl in Hollywood," at the Palace theatre, with Alice White again playing the title role.

The adventures of the wise-cracking, delightful Dixie Dugan are taken up in the new Vitaphone version where they left off in the original, which was a silent picture made over a year ago. The earlier story concluded with Dixie's success as a musical comedy queen. Now she is brought to Hollywood, along with other Broadway players, to try her luck in talking movies.

Mervyn LeRoy, who directed Miss White in "Playing Around," directed "Show Girl in Hollywood." Jack Mulhall appears opposite Miss White as Jimmy Doyle. Blanche Sweet, Ford Sterling, John Miljan, Virginia Sale, Lee Shumway and Herman Bing are in the featured cast.

Proving that there is something new in story plots and situations for the screen "Those Who Dance" at the Palace theatre, brings a brand-new plot kink to the local audience.

In this George Kibbe Turner story, scenarized by Joseph Jackson and presented in a highly dramatic Vitaphone version by Warner Bros., a bashful girl and a bashful man, both innately virtuous, are forced to pose as crooks and unlawful sweethearts.

William Beaudine directed "Those Who Dance." Blue is a policeman whose young brother has been killed by gangsters. Miss Lee's brother is supposed to have shot him. She tries to guide the revengeful policeman in a detective missio nto find the real murderer and save her brother from the gallows. Boyd and Miss Compson enact a crook leader and his woman.

Girls! Some popular young lady is going to enjoy the summer with a vacatio nat Atlantic City as the guest of Warner Bros. theatre, with the wonderful wardrobe furnished by the leadings shops of the city.

Broadway Theatre

No more surprising case of talent miscast has ever been found than that of Nancy Carroll, thrown bodily into musical comedies and light frothy flapper roles, when all the time she was—and is—at heart one of the cleverest and most intelligent emotional dramatic actresses yet offered on the talking screen. In "The Devil's Holiday," her debut in drama, which opens at the Broadway today, you will find a tense and stirring drama, exploiting a daring theme, thoroughly human, and packing more thrills and climaxes than a dozen dramas of the past. On Nancy's slim shoulders as "Hallie," a frankly man-hunting, gold-digging manicurist, who, however "draws the lines," rests the burden of the story, but she is equal to it, and turns in as fine a dramatic performance as the writer has ever seen. Her supporting cast will thrill you at the bare mention of the names, Hobart Bosworth, James Kirkwood, Paul Lukas, Phillips Holmes, Ned Sparks, Morgan Farley and Zasu Pitts, with a host of minor starlets. The conflict of the crafty, sneering gold-digger with the stern, unrelenting Puritanism of her newly acquired husband's father and brother, is but one highlight of this tense drama of a stratum of life not so familiar to most of us, but which forms an important part in the fabric of our modern civilization, and which is literally crammed with thrills and sensations. You've seen the petite Nancy as a comedienne and raved over her "cuteness," now see her as the peer of all emotional actresses on the screen—bar none!—and you'll gasp at her dramatic power! Surrounding featurettes include an Our Gang comedy, "When the Wind Blows," Chief Shuntanona and his Indian Reservation Band in a distinct novelty, "The Moon Bride's Wedding," Eddie Buzzell in "The Pet Shop," and Milton C. Work, international bridge expert, together with the Fox movietone news. Tonight the Broadway "Summer Girl" award will be made from the stage, and some young lady patron will be the richer by a complete summer outfit of dainty clothing, including a beautiful red fox scarf.

The entertainers come from Norwich and recently staged their minstrel for the T. A. B. society on Broadway. This performance on Thursday is a stop in their tour of eastern Connecticut.

Driscoll, Carmelita Valentine, Miss Ann Connelly, Miss Gussie Lasky, Peter Diveto, Miss Theo. Allard and the Misses Lucille Gross and Mary Gallagher in their "steppin' around." Al Disco and Sam Sector are premier end men as usual.

This promises the best entertainment of the year.

Coming Of Heifetz Rests On Response

To be able to hear the great Heifetz, himself,—not by radio or record but in person—in our own Slater hall, to hear the playing that is almost magical in its beauty right here in our own city, is a possibility for all who would covet it. The assurance of his coming rests on the definite response made immediately by those who would like to have him here on the proposed date in November.

Some music lovers of Norwich heard Joshua Heifetz in his native land before he came as a boy prodigy to this country and are most anxious to hear him now after these years of marvelous development where he now equals the great Kreisler himself. Some have heard him in the large cities where he has played as soloist with all of the great orchestras of this country and from abroad. Still others hear him in their homes by radio and record but not in these years of the coming of many of the finest artists to our city has it been possible to include him in the Slater hall course. That is the plan, however, for the proposed course for this coming fall and winter, the complete list of which may be seen in the accompanying advertisement.

The necessary response referred to was explained in The Bulletin and Record of Saturday. A supplementary subscription list for those willing to act as patrons or guarantors to the extent of paying $10.00 for their course tickets, thereby being eligible to first choice of seats in selected and reserved sections of the hall, is now at the Cranston company's store or the pledge may be given to M. Archibald Mitchell, 4th, or to Miss Ruth A. Hamilton. See adv.

THE Packard Motor Car Company has just advised us by telegram that effective May Twenty-eighth (28th) prices of all current models of the Standard Eight have been reduced four hundred dollars ($400).

The new prices are as follows:

CLOSED MODELS

Five-Passenger Sedan	$2085
Two-Passenger Coupe	$2125
Two-Passenger Convertible Coupe	$2150
Five-Passenger Coupe	$2275
Five-Passenger Club Sedan	$2275

Four-Passenger Phaeton	$2025
Seven-Passenger Touring	$2125
Four-Passenger Sport Phaeton	$2325

(Prices f. o. b. Detroit)

These reductions are made because the Factory expects to announce in the Fall new cars which, though the same in size and of practically unchanged appearance, will have enough changes to classify them as new models. The new cars, like those we are now offering, will, of course, have straight eight motors exclusively.

The new prices give today's purchasers a very great price advantage, and also immediate use of the largest selling and most popular car in the fine car field.

Now, it is even more true—by four hundred dollars ($400)—that you are paying for a Packard. Why not OWN one? You will never have a better opportunity.

Two-thirds of those who buy the Packard Standard Eight give up other makes of cars. Thousands prefer to buy out of income. Your used car will be accepted as cash and if of average value will more than make the down payment on a new car.

Resinol Heals

"For a long time I suffered from a breaking out all over my body. The eruption was in the form of large red blotches. At night they itched so bad I could not sleep and it seemed as if I could scratch the skin off. Then they burned almost like fire. I tried Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap and the treatment healed my complaint. I wish I had known about it long ago."

Shields, was born and formerly lived in Norwich, graduated in the Academy here, was educated in America and Germany, received a doctor's degree, Ph.D., for her learning from Columbia university, where she is now actively a dean and sole adviser to graduate women students of the university. At the request of the publishers of the late and last edition of the Encyclopedia Britannica, she edited and wrote interesting articles along the lines of women's educational progress and achievements.

CHELSEA BOAT CLUB PLANS RIVER REGATTA

A meeting of the Chelsea Boat club was held at Kitemaug club house on Monday evening, and was attended by a number of members. Luncheon was served and several matters of importance were brought up for action.

Owing to a vacancy in the board of governors, Fred S. Crowell was appointed to serve the unexpired time of M. L. O'Connell. Harold Carpenter of Washington street was appointed vice commodore to fill the vacancy left by J. Lewis Chapman.

The first regatta of the season will be held on June 15, and will be free for all as regards amateur and professional drivers. The races are to be classified on their motor ratings rather than by boats, as outlined in the present National Outboard association rules. This was done with a view to giving all local enthusiasts an opportunity of racing, and, at the same time, to permit local dealers to enter their boats either to drive them themselves or have them driven by their employes. The races will start and finish at Kitemaug. The first starting gun will be 1 p. m., d. s. t. The races will be run in heats with the exception of the marathon race and the prizes will be awarded on the basis of points accumulated in the various heats. Another feature of the event will be a marathon race from Kitemaug to Norwich and return so as to give the people who are unable to come to the boat club an opportunity of viewing some of the events.

The secretary of the club has a liberal supply of entry blanks and all owners requiring them may secure these by addressing Chelsea Boat club, Box 388, Norwich.

NORWICH, ENGLAND, ASKS FOR CONTRIBUTIONS HERE

Contributions for the million shillings fund for the Norfolk and Norwich hospital in England are asked for here through a letter received by Mayor Lee Roy Robbins from H. R. Neville, secretary to the lord mayor of Norwich, England.

In part the letter to Mayor Robbins says:

"I take the libery of addressing you as the leading representative of the city of Norwich in the hope of enlisting your pratcical sympathy with the aged godmother of your town in her hour of need.

"I enclose an appeal which has recently been issued under the joint signatures of the lord mayor of Norwich and the lord lieutenant of Norfolk on behalf of the Norfolk and Norwich hospital: one of the finest institutions of its kind in England and a source of perpetual pride to Norwich people.

"This hospital has grown largely of late years and the increase in the number of beds has noted a more than corresponding increase in the nursing staff, owing to the specialization in the matter of wards. For this increased staff there is no accommodation for it is impossible to expect these devoted and hard worked women to put up, saved as a temporary expedient, with the present congestion.

Agricultural Depression; Stagnation in Trade.

"To raise the sum of 200,000 pounds required for this extension and for the extinction of the existing debt on the building account is a formidable task for a county suffering from agricultural depression and for a city that feels acutely the effects of stagnation in trade.

"The effort is being made, because the need is imperative; but we are compelled to seek help from all well-wishers and address you in the hope that a connection of such long standing may evoke in the breasts of the citizens of Norwich a chord of sympathy with the suffering poor of the ancient city from which they take their name.

"Any such token of affectionate relationship would evoke the warmest feelings of gratitude here, and I earnestly trust that this request will appeal to you and to all citizens of the town over which destinies yor preside.

"Contributions payable to the Norfolk and Norwich hospital million shillings fund, may be sent to me.

"(Signed) HENRY R. NEVILLE."

SPEAKS ON ADOLESCENCE TO CHILD STUDY GROUP

The last meeting of the year for the Woman's City club was held Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the clubrooms in the Wauregan hotel, when the child study group had as the speaker Dr. Charles W. Stephenson of Hartford, clinical psychiatrist for the neuro-psychiatric clinic at the Backus hospital. Many new and practical ideas were brought out by Dr. Stephenson in defining adolescence and its many problems, stressing the point that from earliest infancy the child must have found his parents helpful guides. He must have learned that they are really considering his interests, that they are not demanding of him the arbitrary or the unreasonable, that they are not confusing issues. All through the years of dependence the child must be allowed to grow in responsibility and power and in self-reliance, so that with the approach of adulthood, he comes to get such further help as parents can give on the level of man to man, and that an adult for generations must be educated to meet this high standard.

Many personal problems of parents and teachers were discussed with Dr. Stephenson in the open forum at the conclusion of the interesting and instructive talk. The social hour followed when members met Dr. and Mrs Stephenson.

Tea was served, Mrs. Charles B. Gilbert pouring, assisted by Mrs. Lester Greenman and Mrs. Charles V. James, Mrs. Clinton Atterbury and Miss Margaret Bridgers.

EARLY MORNING FIRE AT EAST GREAT PLAIN

Fire, believed to have been started by rats chewing on matches, caused several hundred dollars damage at the home of Ralph Malerba, on the New London turnpike, at East Great Plain, about 2:30 o'clock Tuesday morning. A telephone call was sent into fire headquarters and Acting Chief D. J. Brennan, Squad A and the Yantic Fire company responded. In the meanwhile Mr. Malerba and a neighbor, Arthur Burnham, attempted to check the fire with a garden hose. Thirty gallons of chemical was used on the fire by the firemen. The loss is partially covered by insurance.

While he was inspecting the tire the passenger drove away with the car. The registration number is 42193. Police are looking for the stolen machine.

Continuance in Doctor's Case

Dr. William B. Casey, local physician, was presented in the city court Tuesday morning on a charge of manslaughter, the case having been continued following his arrest recently. Trial of the case was again continued, this time, until June 5th.

Dr. Casey is charged with causing the death of Mrs. Edward Frechette, 20, through induced abortion. He is at liberty under bonds of $5,000.

PRESENT ADMINISTRATION MAKES FINE RECORD IN HANDLING CITY'S FINANCES

Since 1905 every city administration has had an overdraft in expenditures with the exception of two, these being that headed by the late Mayor Costello Lippitt, republican, 1909-1910, and the present administration, headed by Mayor Lee Roy Robbins, republican. A check of the city's records has revealed that overdrafts in the various administrations ranged from $300 to over $44,000. All but three of the overdrafts were in the thousands. The largest overdraft in the last 25 years, $44,643.60, occurred during the administration of former Mayor Milo T. Waters, democrat, in 1926 and 1927. The second largest overdraft, $27,310.11, also occurred during former Mayor Waters' administration in 1924 and 1925.

The present city administration, under the leadership of Mayor Robbins, not only ended its fiscal year on the 15th of this month with no overdrafts in any department, but ended the year with a cash balance of $44,979.64. The present administration is believed to have established a record in this respect, unequalled by any other city administration. Figures checked back 25 years show that during the quarter century period no other city administration has anywhere near equalled this record.

Below is the list of overdrafts in city expenditures for the last 25 years:

Year	Mayor	Party	Overdraft
1905-06	C. F. Thayer	Dem.	$2,186.50
1906-07	C. F. Thayer	Dem.	313.35

1910-11	C. F. Thayer	Dem.	16,260.71
1911-12	C. F. Thayer	Dem.	15,020.54
1912-13	T. C. Murphy	Dem.	2,135.56
1913-14	T. C. Murphy	Dem.	3,186.12
1914-15	T. C. Murphy	Dem.	851.97
1915-16	T. C. Murphy	Dem.	1,783.69

1923-24	M. R. Waters	Dem.	3,065.40
1924-25	M. R. Waters	Dem.	27,310.11
1925-26	M. R. Waters	Dem.	7,909.18
1926-27	M. R. Waters	Dem.	44,643.60
192-28	M. R. Waters	Dem.	8,025.16

The total overdrafts during this 25-year period were $234,259.49.

HOOVER VETOES NEW PENSION FOR SPANISH WAR VETERANS

Returning the Bill to the Senate, the President Said the Measure Contained Certain Principles Which He Believed Are Opposed to the Interest Both of the Veterans and of the Public—Would Reserve the Pension For Men Whose Disabilities Resulted From the War, and Exclude the National Award From Persons Whose Disabilities Have Arisen Since From "Vicious Habits," Certain Types of Disease, Alcoholism, Drug Habits and the Like—Senator Connally, Democrat, Made a Motion to Override the Veto—The Proposal Went Over Until Today.

WASHINGTON, May 28.—(AP)—For the second time, President Hoover sent a measure back to congress today bearing his mark of disapproval.

This time it was the senate bill to fix a new basis for pensions to Spanish war veterans. The veto message had hardly reached that branch before Senator Connally, democrat, Texas, moved to override the veto. This would require a two-thirds vote of each house.

Several senators asked time to study the message, however, and the proposal went over until tomorrow.

The president based his opposition to the measure on three points:

(1). That it would permit pensions to be awarded persons whose disabilities arise from vicious habits; (2) That it lowered the period for non-service connected disability pensioners; and (3) That there should be a requirement of need as well as disability for granting pensions.

His previous veto was of a bill to authorize the issuance of Gadsden purchase memorial coins.

In his message disapproving the pension measure today, the president said:

"I am returning this bill without approval. The bill establishes a new basis for pensions of Spanish war veterans. I am in favor of proper discharge of the national obligation to men who have served in war, who have become disabled and are in need. But certain principles are included in this legislation which I deem are opposed to the interest both of war veterans and of the public. My major objections to this bill are these:

"1—In the whole of our pension legislation over past years we have excluded from such national award persons whose disabilities arise from 'vicious habits.' This bill breaks down that exclusion and opens the door for claims of disability incurred at any time in the life of the pensioner arising from venereal diseases, alcoholism, drug habits, etc. Certainly such claims for public health cannot be fairly based upon sacrifice to the nation in war and must be opposed to national policy.

"2—This legislation lowers the minimum service period from 90 days to 70 days for non-service connected disability pensions.

"Under other provisions of law, men who served only one day and during that day suffered injury or impaired health became eligible for pensions. This law, however, provides that if a man should incur any disability at any time in his life he may claim pension with only 70 days of service.

"The 90 day minimum service has been maintained against the Civil war veterans all these years because less service than this was not considered to imply personal danger or risk which warranted pensions. If injury or unpaired health incident to service is clearly proven, other laws cover such cases.

"3—It seems to me that in the interest of justice to the tax payer and to maintain the fine body of citizens comprised in our war veterans free from stigma of encroachment upon the public treasury, there should be a requirement of 'need' as well as disability as a basis for these pensions.

"It is to me the height of injustice that citizens who are less well placed should be called upon to support from taxes those whose station in life enables them to support themselves or to live in independent security. The whole spirit of the pension system is that of a grateful nation rising to the support of those who have served in war, were injured or who have met with legitimate difficulties in after life which impose privation upon them. While many veterans may refuse to accept such pensions when they can get along otherwise, yet the cases of selfishness are bound to cause a constant irritation of feeling against a pension system that permits these unmerited and unnecessary payments."

FIRST DEFEAT FOR LIPTON'S YACHT, THE SHAMROCK V.

HYDE, England, May 28.—(AP)—The Shamrock V, latest of Sir Thomas Lipton's challengers for the America's cup, met her first defeat today in the Royal Thames Yacht club regatta. The race was especially designed to try out the craft under conditions similar to those she is likely to meet in the international contest in September.

Refusing for the first time the time allowance granted her by the larger craft in the regatta, the Shamrock sailed from scratch and finished 26 seconds behind the Luluworth, the winner, and 14 seconds ahead of Lord Waring's White Heather over the 34-mile course. The king's cutter Brittania made her first appearance in racing attire since 1928 but there was not enough wind for her and she made a poor showing.

TO CONCLUDE HEARINGS ON LONDON NAVAL TREATY

WASHINGTON, May 28.—(AP)—The pummelling of the London naval treaty came to a swift termination in the senate foreign relations committee today and Chairman Borah announced the pact would be taken up early next week to consider sending it to the senate.

Advocates are confident of a large majority to report it favorably.

At the same time, Chairman Hale of the naval committee announced he expected to conclude hearings by his group tomorrow.

After a final attack by Rear Admiral S. S. Robinson, superintendent of the Annapolis Naval academy, and Captain D. W. Knox, retired, before the foreign relations committee, Senator Johnson, republican, California, asserted "the case against the treaty is complete and conclusive."

ROUND TABLE DISCUSSION OF L. I. SOUND MIMIC WAR

FORT WRIGHT, Fishers Island, N. Y., May 28.—(AP)—Officers in all arms and branches of the uniformed services who bore a part in the joint minor army-navy exercises that ended today, gathered this afternoon in a round table discussion of what they considered of greatest significance that has resulted from the maneuvers.

This critique as officially called was entered into in a spirit of great good nature. The navy, that for three days has provided the offensive, modestly described itself, through its spokesman, as having run the target. Col. Charles H. Hilton, 11th coast artillery, commanding the harbor defenses of Long Island sound, outlined the organization of the "blue" defending force which he commanded.

HARTFORD AND NEW HAVEN P. O. EMPLOYES DISCIPLINED

NEW HAVEN, May 28—(AP)—Trouble among some of the postal clerks in the New Haven and Hartford post offices over affairs of the Connecticut Federation of Postal Clerks, had an echo from Washington today, when action of a disciplinary nature was announced from the post office department.

Francis Shay and Meyer Stodel, clerk and foreman, respectively in the New Haven office, are to be suspended without pay for sixty days. Of ten Hartford employes four were dismissed from the service, four suspended without pay for ten days, and two for five days "for conduct prejudicial to the proper maintenance of discipline and efficient service."

MORO OUTLAWS BATTLE WITH PHILIPPINE CONSTABULARY

MANILA, May 28.—(AP)—Moro outlaws today fought off another attack by a Philippine constabulary detachment which fired 300 shells from a mortar in a bombardment of an old fort in Lanao province, Mindanao Island, in which the tribesmen are entrenched.

At sunset the insular troops retired for the night, fearing ambush in the dense woods of the region.

One soldier was wounded. The casualties among the Moros, if any, were not determined.

Using fires, shotguns and large pistols the defenders kept up a steady fire on the constabulary. Col. L. R. Stevens, commander, kept his men under cover as much as possible and refused to permit a rush on the fort, desiring to avoid such casualties as were inflicted by the Moros May 7 when four soldiers were killed and ten wounded.

To prevent other Moros from joining those in the fort, a patrol was placed on all roads leading to it. It was presumed the constabulary would renew the attack tomorrow.

DRIEST JUSTICE DEPT. WE HAVE EVER HAD

WASHINGTON, May 28.—(AP)—Full faith in President Hoover and the belief that Attorney General Mitchell "is the driest justice department head we have ever had" were voiced today before the senate lobby committee as it completed an investigation into the board of temperance, prohibition and public morals of the Methodist Episcopal church.

Testifying before the committee, Deets Pickett, research secretary of the board, expressed these views and said the president, being responsible for enforcement, should have a free hand in determining policies.

Along with this testimony, the committee received into its records a report submitted to the board in December, 1928, by Dr. Clarence True Wilson, its general secretary, which said the prohibition problem had been "infinitely better handled by Secretary Mellon and his men" than it would have been by A. Mitchell Palmer, Harry M. Daugherty, or the "easy-going" John J. Sargent, all former attorneys general.

RASKOB DENIES RUMORS THAT HE WOULD RESIGN

NEW YORK, May 28—(AP)—Returning today from a European trip, John J. Raskob, chairman of the democratic national committee, denied rumors that he would resign that post.

"I have no intention of resigning," he told inquiring reporters.

He expressed the belief that proposed increases in the tariff would act as a boomerang against American industry and praised the recent supreme court decision that purchasers of liquor were not guilty of a crime. The decision represente a "common sense" attitude, he said.

BODY OF NEW HAVEN MAN FOUND HANGING FROM TREE

NEW HAVEN, May 28.—(AP)—The body of Elam Martin, 62, of this city, was found today hanging from a tree in the outskirts of the city. He disappeared yesterday after leaving a note at his home saying that he intended to commit suicide.

Friends and relatives were unable to give a motive for Martin's act.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

LONDON, May 28.—(AP)—The Daily Mail's correspondent at Rangoon, Burma, reported that 15 Indian coolie women had been massacred by fighting coolie mobs during the rioting that has taken such a heavy toll of life.

LONDON, May 28.—(AP)—Six American women were presented to Queen Mary and her son, the Duke of Gloucester, at tonight's last royal court, which in many ways was the highwater mark of one of London's most brilliant seasons in recent years.

ROME, May 28.—(AP)—A news agency dispatch said that as an outgrowth of the pope's action in hiring a ship in order to send Cardinal Lepicier as legate to the Eucharistic congress in Carthage, a group of American Catholics is raising a fund to buy the pope a yacht for similar purposes.

ROME, May 28.—(AP)—A new naval construction budget of $77,408,000, or $12,750,000 larger than the previous budget, was announced today in the chamber of deputies, but it was added that the program did not change Italy's disposition to resume negotiations for reduction of armament.

WARSAW, Poland, May 28.—(AP)—The Polish government announced that Germany had accepted proposals for a mixed committee to investigate the shooting of Polish frontier guards on the frontier between the two countries near the Prussian village of Marienwerder. The shooting occurred on Saturday and one of the Polish officers died of wounds.

HOUSE VOTES FOR PRIVATE OPERATION OF MUSCLE SHOALS

WASHINGTON, May 28.—(AP)—Thrusting aside protests against private operation of Muscle Shoals, the house today accepted the Reece plan for leasing the project as a substitute for the senate resolution proposing government operation.

The bill now goes to the senate for agreement to the change. Its chances of approval there were believed slight and it was expected to be sent to conference.

As finally adopted by the house by a record vote of 196 to 114, the measure would authorize appointment by the president of a board of three persons to negotiate leases with one more company within a year and a half. The lessee would be required to produce 10,000 tons of nitrogen for fertilizer in 3 1-2 years, and to increase this production annually as market demands warranted.

BOOK PUBLISHERS PROTEST RECKLESS PRICE SLASHING

NEW YORK, May 28.—(AP)—Predicting that "dollar books" may destroy the livelihood of 6,000 retail book dealers, 11 book publishing companies today protested against "reckless price slashing." They said books cannot be published at that price "on a fair business basis."

Their statement pointed out that the publishing industry in the country represents a capital investment of $50,000,000, employs 25,000 persons, and helps to support the allied paper, printing, cotton, electrotyping, printing and book-binding industries.

The following firms joined in the statement: Cosmopolitan Book Corp., Dodd, Mead & Co., Harcourt, Brace & Co., Harper & Bros., Alfred A. Knopf, Inc., Little, Brown & Co., Horace Liveright, Inc., Longmans Green & Co., Wm. Morrow & Co., G. P. Putnam's Sons, and Frederick A. Stokes Co.

INDIA QUIETER AFTER DISASTROUS RIOTS

BOMBAY, May 28—(AP)—Turbulent India was much quieter today than yesterday, when disastrous riots in four great cities piled up a toll of 82 dead and more than 800 injured, but tension still existed.

Two new flareups occurred at Rangoon, the Burmese capital, where bloody fighting grew out of a dock laborers' strike Monday and Tuesday. One conflict developed when police opened fire on Moslems who had held up a street car and assaulted Burman passengers. Two persons were killed and many were injured, the rioters meeting the police fire with stones.

The police opened fire on another occasion when a band of Burmans attacked residents in the vicinity of the contagious diseases hospital, but dispatches reaching here said it had not been determined whether there were any casualties.

R. J. CAPONE AND SEVEN ASSOCIATES INDICTED

CHICAGO, May 28.—(AP)—Ralph J. Capone and seven associates were indicted by a federal grand jury today on charges of conspiring to violate the national prohibition act. The charges resulted from recent raids on the Cotton club and the Montmartre, Cicero resorts, alleged to be owned by Capone.

More than 100 other indictments were returned, naming about 350 defendants as violators of the Jones law.

Capone was named in two indictments which charged him with possession and sale of intoxicating liquor, maintenance of a nuisance and conspiracy. Both indictments came under the Jones law, with possible penalties of five years imprisonment and $10,000 fine.

WEATHER AGAIN DELAYS START OF "K OF NEW HAVEN"

HARTFORD, May 28.—(AP)—Storms and thick flying weather as far south as Virginia today again delayed the start of the "K of New Haven" for Buenos Aires.

After being assured of financial support for at least another day, Lieut. Commander George R. Pond announced that the big monoplane would get away before noon tomorrow. Improved weather conditions were promised by forecasters in Washington and New York.

Lieutenant Pond said he would quit the flight tomorrow unless the "K" leaves the field.

GOLD STAR MOTHERS IN TOWNS MADE IMMORTAL BY WAR

PARIS, May 28—(AP)—One hundred and sixteen American gold star mothers today rejoined the sons and husbands they kissed good-bye thirteen years ago and never saw again.

The second group of war mothers has reached the mecca of its pilgrimage at the graves of the great battlefront cemeteries.

Tonight they slept in towns the war made immortal, Soissons, Chateau Thierry, St. Quentin and the long beleaguered Verdun. Tomorrow they will go out beyond these towns to where lie the doughboys each with his little white marble cross and robe of green.

Arrest Of Gem Thieves May Solve A Murder

One of the Victims Was Shot and Fatally Wounded In Hot Springs, Ark.

NEW YORK, May 28—(AP)—A $300,000 fortune in jewels, the first seizure in a police campaign against a band of alleged gem thieves which has resulted in arrest of five men and a woman, confiscation of about $1,300,000 worth of jewelry and a hint of a possible murder mystery solution, was spread out on a table in police headquarters today for claiming by the rightful owners.

There were only 28 pieces in this group but they were of unusual beauty. There were diamonds and rubies and emeralds, jade and onyx and lapis lazuli, rings and bracelets, brooches, pendants and chokers, the settings in platinum and silver and gold.

An ante-room was crowded all afternoon with the victims or more or less recent burglaries, mostly women seeking their stolen jewels—dignified dowagers, women whose appearance bespoke the stage, little Broadway butterflies, hard-working housewives and tremulous debutantes.

One by one they were let into the room of gems and permitted to scan the glittering baubles, but they came out, shaking their heads. In all the long procession, which was still in progress when darkness fell, only Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Herman of West End avenue were repaid for their trouble.

As soon as this first group of jewels has been viewed by all who think they might have some claim to ownership the second will go on display, 5,000 pieces estimated to be worth $1,000,000 and believed to be one of the most important gem seizures in police history.

Robert Nelson, the man in whose safe deposit boxes the million dollar jewels were found, was charged with criminally receiving gems stolen from Louis J. Dawson of Hollywood, Fla. Police were trying to link George Cole, one of the men arrested when the $300,000 worth of jewels were seized, with a hotel robbery in Hot Springs, Ark., during which a man was shot and fatally wounded.

CHINESE REBELS REPORT CAPTURE OF 50,000 PRISONERS

SHANGHAI, May 28—(AP)—The Northern Alliance rebels today claimed to have captured 50,000 prisoners in a crushing defeat of Nationalist government troops in northern Honan province. The Nationalists admitted they had suffered a reverse west of Lanfeng, which they evacuated in a retreat eastward.

The government asserted, today, that its air squadrons had made damaging raids behind the enemy's lines between Kaifeng and Chengchow. Penetrating the northerners' territory as far north as the Yellow river, the planes bombed the railway bridge, damaging piers. This stopped the movement of the rebels southward, government reports said. Fliers also bombed the northern arsenal at Kunghsien on the Haichow-Tungkwan railway, west of Chengchow, destroying a power plant.

The Nationalist forces, reports received here said, were retreating eastward along the Haichow-Tungkwan railway and southward on the tracks of the Peiping-Hankow railway, both in Honan province.

LEGAL CONTENTION OVER 9-YEAR-OLD BOY VIOLINIST

NEW YORK, May 28.—(AP)—Nine-year-old Ruggiero Ricci, San Francisco violinist who attracted attention by his playing in Carnegie hall and other places, today became the object of legal contention.

His father, Pietro Ricci, obtained a writ of habeas corpus requiring Mary Elizabeth Lackey, the boy's guardian, to show cause why the lad and his brother, Giorgio, also a violinist, should not be given into their father's custody.

Ricci charged the children's health has been endangered by exploitation of their musical talent by Miss Lackey. He also attacked the validity of Miss Lackey's guardianship. He said she was given papers of guardianship in California in 1928 by Judge Lincoln S. Rich of Alameda county, who did not have jurisdiction, and that the signatures of himself and his wife on the adoption papers had been obtained by false representation.

ENGINEER AND FIREMAN KILLED IN TRAIN WRECK

FLINT, Mich., May 28—(AP)—The Montreal Chicago Inter-City Limited, passenger train on the main line of the Grand Trunk railway, ran into an open switch at Belsay, five miles east of here today, while traveling between 60 and 65 miles an hour. The engineer and fireman were killed and five others injured. No passengers were hurt seriously.

The passengers are believed to have been saved from injury by the presence of several empty coaches between the diner and the rest of the train.

It was not determined just how the switch came to be open but railroad officials started an immediate investigation.

NAVY TUG SCIOTA TO TOW BARK CITY OF NEW YORK

PANAMA, May 28—(AP)—Announcement was made today that the navy tug Sciota will tow the bark City of New York for 72 hours from Cristobal after the Byrd supply ship goes through the Panama canal.

The Eleanor Bolling reported her noon position as 661 miles from Balboa with the bark in tow. She expects to arrive late Saturday evening.

Victory For British Labor Government

Cons[illegible] Motion to Up[illegible] Was Defeated By a [illegible] of 270 to 241.

[illegible]DON, May 28.—(AP)—Ramsay [illegible]Donald's labor government to[illegible] defeated a move to upset it by beating a conservative motion with a majority of 29 votes.

The conservative motion was to reduce the salary of J. H. Thomas, lord privy seal, and unofficial minister of unemployment. The vote for the government was 270 against 241.

The motion to reduce Mr. Thomas' salary merely was for the purpose of debating England's serious unemployment problem, which the opposition blames the labor government for not solving.

This is the second time the question has exercised the house of commons in the last two weeks. On the first division the government won by a majority of only 15.

The prime minister was expected to have a narrow squeeze tonight owing to the fact that the liberals yesterday agreed to abstain from voting and the number of left wing laborites who would adopt a similar attitude was unknown.

When the division was called several left wingers abstained, but a number of others who abstained on the first division changed their attitude and voted for the government.

Sir Oswald Mosley, who resigned from the cabinet last week in protest over the government's handling of unemployment, voted with the government tonight.

Debate started late this afternoon and lasted until nearly midnight, with Mr. MacDonald, Sir Oswald, David Lloyd George, Stanley Baldwin, Winston Churchill and Mrs. Thomas participating. Both liberals and conservatives blamed the labor government for failure to alleviate the condition of the jobless, of whom there are nearly 2,000,000.

The prime minister replied that the government was not to blame and the situation was a result of world conditions. He called attention to unemployment in the United States and other countries.

BIG COUNTERFEITING HAUL WAS MADE IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, May 28.—(AP)—A million dollars in spurious gold notes, a lithographing press, and paper enough to print $4,000,000 more in bogus currency were taken today by secret service men in the biggest counterfeiting haul made in New York in years.

They were brought to the customs house, and with them were brought Pericles Mannerini, Guiseppe Di Negri and Matteo Mattera—caught inky-handed, the federal agents said, over the gleaming plates of a money-making machine in the upper floor of a Brooklyn apartment house.

The three counterfeiters hadn't even taken the precaution to pull down the blinds on the windows behind which they worked, and for days secret service men had watched their operations from a room across the street.

A few minutes after midnight, as the three men congregated about the great press which filled one side of a wall, Special Agent Fiori of the secret service staff beckoned his men from their dark spy room and led them across the street, up the stairs, and through doors that yielded quickly to sledge-hammer blows.

The three dark-eyed men within gave themselves up quietly, and declined to talk even after their arrest, but the federal squad said it knew all it needed to know about them.

CLOISTERED ECONOMISTS REBUKED IN THE SENATE

Senator Hatfield Asserted the Mental Wares of the 1,000 College Professors, Who Have Requested Presidential Veto of the Tariff Bill, Do Not Enter Into Competition With Producers Where Wages Are Lower, Working Hours Longer and the Standards of Living Inferior to the Standards In America—Declared the Economists Seem to Be More Concerned With the Prosperity of Foreigners Than the Welfare of America.

WASHINGTON, May 28—(AP)—Friends of the $630,000,000 revenue-producing tariff bill struck back at its opponents today as the conferees awaited a meeting tomorrow to negotiate a new flexible provision that would be impregnable against further points of order.

Senators Hatfield, republican, West Virginia, asserted in the senate that the 1,000 college professors and economists who recently protested against the Hawley-Smoot measure "seem to be more concerned with the prosperity of the foerigners than the welfare of our own people."

The West Virginian had read a lengthy letter from Matthew Woll, head of the American Wage Earners Protective conference, replying to the economists' appeal for a presidential veto.

"The position of the economists and college professors on tariff legislation is generally well known," the letter said. "With few exception they are free traders. They are neither producers nor creators of any commodity or article of trade. They are generally cloistered in the atmosphere of the school room and their mental wares do not enter into the competition with producers where lower wage levels and longer working hours prevail and where standards of living are not only lower but in other respects much inferior to the standards built up in our own country under the American tariff policy."

"Here, indeed, we have a frank and elequent apeal for international capital and capitalists for international industrialists and commercialists, and not a word of sympathy for America's wage earners," the letter continued, adding:

"In many cases investments of American capital have been used to promote industries in foreign countries simply because they can dump the products of the foreign countries on the American market and receive from the sale of these products a larger profit than is obtainable through the sale of similar products produced in their American factories."

Meanwhile, it became known that the state department has received approximately 160 communications from more than thirty foreign nations containing protests and observations on the bill. Only a small fraction, however, express the views of the governments themselves, the remainder embracing contentions of foreign trade organizations and individuals.

All of the communications have been transmitted to the senate finance committee.

Senator McKellar, democrat, Tennessee, predicted today President Hoover would sign the tariff bill even though it "may not be what he wants," while Nellie Taylor Ross, former democratic governor of Wyoming, asserted there was "about to be perpetrated upon the women of the United States one of the greatest outrages of this generation, in the pernicious tariff measure now pending."

Both issued statements through the democratic national committee. McKellar said the "old guard republicans are obliged to pass the bill, however much some of them dislike it," and added the president "is never going to part company with the interests that contributed so largely to his campaigns and brought about his nomination and election."

"Judging from his internationalistic tendencies, and from his South American tour," he continued, "one would say that these economic differences with foreign countries brought about by this tariff bill are not pleasing to him; but just the same, if I am any judge, he will sign it; he will not offend his powerful industrial friends and his party's benefactors, but will sign on the dotted line whenever it reaches him."

Mrs. Ross said the time was at hand "for the women of the country to make so clamorous a protest that it can be heard at the doors of the capitol and white house itself."

SAYS ATHEISM THREATENS PROTESTANT DENOMINATIONS

CLEVELAND, May 28—(AP)—Thousands of delegates who opened the Northern Baptist convention here today heard Dr. Alton L. Miller, of Boston, declare in his presidential address that the forces of atheism are a menace challenging the Protestant denominations of the world.

Pointing out the magnitude of the forces opposed to Christian doctrines, he said the greatest danger comes from organizations purposely spreading the seeds of atheism.

"In denying the very existence of God, they strike at the heart of the Christian message. Such efforts have found the peak of their success in Russia where the soviet government is fostering atheism in order to loosen the hold of the organized church of the Russian people," Miller said.

Other conditions which the speaker called dangerous to religions are the "mysticism of the east, the materialism of the west, and the cynicism of youth."

Miller held little hope for world peace from treaties and urged Baptists to turn their attention to seeking the germs of war and to eradicate them. He saw as underlying all war, all race and class hatred, but one factor—selfishness.

SALVAGE OF $2,229,000 SUB MAY BRING THE NAVY $3,500

WASHINGTON, May 28—(AP)—The hulk of the submarine S-51, which cost more than $2,229,000 and in wich 34 men lost their lives when the undersea craft was rammed and sunk in 1925, may bring the navy less than $3,500 as scrap iron.

The submarine sank after a collision with the City of Rome off Block Island on September 25, 1925. Raised to the surface the next spring, she was stripped of her fittings and motors and later offered for sale.

Five bids, the highest $2,220, were offered today for the hulk. The secretary of the navy may reject all the bids or order that the highest be accepted.

ACCUSED MAN CRITICISED UNITED STATES ATTORNEY

NEW YORK, May 28—(AP)—In his first statement to the press since his arrest last week on charges of conspiracy to smuggle liquor into the United States, Edward Tatham, director of a British distillery, today criticised the United States attorney for "putting forth his view of the facts in the newspapers."

"This," he said, "is a method of which I was ignorant and which I did not presume existed in any Anglo-Saxon country where fair play was the rule of the game. A prosecution in court is one thing. A persecution in the newspapers is quite another."

He said he was confident he could "disprove before a New York jury the sinister inference drawn by such prosecution" from letters found in his luggage.

Robert B. Watts, assistant United States attorney, said the letters were to prospective customers—prominent New Yorkers whose names he declined to reveal.

Ten of these were subpoenaed to appear before the grand jury today but Watts was engaged in a trial all afternoon and their appearance was postponed until tomorrow.

Tatham's company is Justerini & Brooks, Ltd., of London. The government charges that Tatham and his associates planned to send liquor in their own ships to the twelve-mile limit, whence it was to be conveyed to shore by motor boats. Tatham is at liberty under $10,000 bail.

NO DRY VOTE AT THIS SESSION OF CONGRESS

WASHINGTON, May 28—(AP)—Prospects for any showdown on the prohibition issue in congress this session diminished today when Senator Blaine, republican, Wisconsin, author of the resolution for repeal of the 18th amendment, said he would not press his measure until opportunity was had for hearings.

Blaine asserted he would not have the opportunity for hearings at this session on his resolution because of other duties.

With leaders looking restlessly to adjournment it was agreed on all sides tonight that there was no prospect for any kind of vote on prohibition at this session.

Dry leaders have given the word they are ready to vote at any time on Blaine's resolution but there is no disposition by either the wets or drys to force the issue.

AUTO CRASHES INTO TWO CHILDREN, DRIVER FINED $50

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, May 28.—An investigation by local and state police of an accident in which two children received minor injuries and their tricycles were smashed by an automobile on Godfrey street Tuesday evening, led to the arrest and conviction in police court this morning of Joseph R. Berthiaume, 19, of South Coventry, on a charge of evading responsibility after an accident. Deputy Judge Russell A. Andrews imposed a fine of $50 and costs.

It was reported to the police Tuesday evening that Donald, six-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Morrissette of 17 Godfrey street, and Robert, seven-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Adelard Lord of 8 Godfrey street, had received injuries when the tricycles they were riding were struck by an automobile. The Morrissette boy received body bruises and slight cuts, while young Lord sustained a hip bruise.

Residents of the neighborhood had seen an old Ford touring car turning into Godfrey street from Windham road, traveling in a zig-zag fashion, and bearing two young men. At a point about 175 feet from Windham road the car crossed the sidewalk and struck the tricycle propelled by the Morrissette boy, also striking and dragging along the other tricycle. The driver continued on his way but a resident secured the registry number. It was established that the number secured corresponded to that of a Ford touring car owned by Fred Haddad of South Coventry. Police Officer Leo Piche opened the investigation and after midnight State Policeman Charles Dailey of the Stafford Springs barracks and Officer Albert Montie went to the Haddad home. They learned that Berthiaume had had the use of the Ford during the evening, but that when the car was returned nothing was said of an accident. Berthiaume was found in his home and there he admitted figuring in the accident, stating that after the mishap he saw the two boys run toward their homes and thereby gained the opinion that they had escaped injury, so he continued on his way. He pleaded guilty this morning through Acting Probation Officer William V. Palmer, Jr.

The musical sounds of the wood thrushes was heard down near the brook later in the evening.

Rev. and Mrs. H. Herbert Tompkins were in Hartford Wednesday, attending the Hartford Seminary foundation anniversary exercises and the exercises of graduation of Hartford Theological seminary, the Hartford School of Religious Education and the Kennedy School of Missions, held at the First Methodist church, Farmington avenue. Rev. Mr. Tompkins, pastor of the local Congregational church, took part in the exercises and received the degree of Bachelor of Religious Education. A large number of members and friends of the local church was in attendance.

Colchester Merchants' baseball team defeated the Colchester Town team on the local park diamond Tuesday afternoon, 13-12. The line-ups: Town team—Gyome, ss; Slavkin, 2b; Fedus, 3b; Sabin, 1b; Falbowski, cf; Solomon, rf; Polakevich, p; Lazinsk, lf; Berman, c; pinch hitters, Falk and Welch. Merchants' team—Gregory, p; Huron, 2b; Riley, 3b; Murray, lf; Deitch, 1b; Woymar, cf; Mintz, ss; H. Conrad rf; S. Cohen, c; pinch hitters, Bill Fedus and Horwitz. Umpires—Levine and [illegible]. Deitch, the Merchants' first baseman, made an error in the ninth inning, letting in two men, thus losing the game to the Town team by a single run. The entire game was close and exciting. Mintz made a home run for the Merchants and Cohen made several brilliant throws to second. Gregory, the Merchants' twirler, made ten strikeouts and Polakevich made only two strikeouts for Manager Zeke Falk's team. The Merchants' team made a fine showing in spite of the absence of Harry Smuckler, star center fielder, who was unable to play due to an injured hand. Riley and Murray were the star hitters for the Merchants and Falbowski starred for the opposition.

Umpire Tom Connolly of the American league is working at his job for the thirty-sixth season. He started in the New England league in the nineties. He's been in the American since it was organized by Ban Johnson.

DANIELSON

SIX JEWETT CITY PERSONS INJURED; TRAIN HITS AUTO

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, May 28.—Martin Misiazek, [illegible], of 12 Hill street, Jewett City, was grievously, if not fatally injured, just before 8 o'clock tonight when the new Buick sedan that was being operated by his daughter, Miss Katherine Misiazek, of the same address, was struck by a sound-bound freight train at the Franklin street crossing and tossed across the track which the machine had nearly cleared, when run down by the locomotive.

Other persons in the car were: Stephen Misiazek, who escaped with head bruises and a general shaking-up; Victoria Misiazek, who sustained what appeared to be minor injuries and who was suffering from shock; Miss Nellie Misiazek, who was cut about the head and elbows and who was treated in the Day-Kimball hospital in Putnam; Miss Stephania Misiazek, who had a cut near the left eye and suffered other minor injuries, and Stella Whitkins, of Brown avenue, Jewett City, whose face was bruised and who suffered considerably from shock.

The party, traveling in practically a brand new car, were coming through Franklin street, heading east, to visit friends who live on that street here when the train bore down upon them. The crossing is a blind one, approached from that side, but is protected by an automatic bell. The automobile had almost cleared the track when the locomotive struck it near the left rear fender. Miss Katherine Misiazek, the operator, told State Officer John Murphy who checked up the accident, that she did not hear the bell nor the whistle of the locomotive although the crossing bell was still ringing when the state officer arrived there within five to ten minutes after the accident happened.

Mr. Misiazek was picked up and placed in an automobile and taken to the office of Dr. Warren A. Tanner, on Academy street. The physician ordered his immediate removal to the hospital. Just before 10 o'clock tonight, Mr. Misiazek remained unconscious. The train was in charge of Conductor James McVeigh, of New London, who also was in charge of a Shriners special that hit a bakery truck at this same crossing last summer and Engineer Timothy Navin, of New Haven. The accident happened during the heavy rainstorm.

ANNOUNCES LINE OF MARCH FOR MEMORIAL DAY PARADE

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, May 28—Today Captain Harold E. Greene, grand marshal of the Memorial day procession to be held in Danielson, announced the order of formation and the line of march.

Captain Greene said that it will be greatly appreciated if organizations will assemble promptly at 1:45 p. m., at G. A. R. hall in order to reach the Orpheum theatre by one o'clock.

The line will be headed by an escort of borough police. Following will be St. James' band, Service battery, 192nd Field Artillery, Captain Gordon J. Gale commanding; Spanish War Veterans, American Legion, American Legion auxiliary, Killingly high school band, Sons of Veterans, Woman's Relief Corps, Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War, Canton Oneco, I. O. O. F., Guard of Honor, members of the Grand Army of the Republic in automobiles.

The procession will move from G. A. R. hall to the Orpheum theatre, there exercises will be held. On reassembling in Center street at the close of the exercises the line of march will be to Main street, to the Soldiers' monument on Davis park, where the usual memorial ceremonies will be held. Thence the marchers will go through North Main street to North street, to Westfield cemetery, where honors will be shown the soldier and sailor dead. After these exercises the procession will move back through North street, to Mechanic street and to St. James' cemetery, to do honor there to the dead who have served their country under Arms. From St. James' cemetery the marchers will go through Hutchins to Main street and thence to G. A. R. hall, where they will be dismissed.

The wish of those representing patriotic societies who have charge of the Memorial day arrangements that as many of the residents of the town as may find it possible to do so assist at them and thereby pay tribute due to those who in life had the distinction of having been protectors of their country and its ideals.

The Mrs. John J. Cody, Winsted, who, as told in a press despatch from that place today, is suing Mrs. Marie Marshall of Hartford for $25,000 for the alienation of her husband's affection, was a resident of Danielson for several years up to about 1918. Mr. Cody, now serving a term in the state prison at Wethersfield for embezzlement, was at that time engaged in Danielson as an automobile salesman. His recent imprisonment came about for irregularities in the manner in which he conducted a brokerage office in Winsted, where he went from Hartford after being engaged for a considerable time as a salesman of securities.

Special homage will be paid on Memorial day by the town's people to the ten remaining members of McGregor post, G. A. R., all of them far advanced in years and the majority of them feeble in greater or lesser degree, though in most instances able to be about. Of the long list of names that originally and through the years has made up the roster of the local post only these remain: Benjamin E. Rapp, Harry B. Beers, Vine R. Franklin, Emory L. Tubbs, Col. Henry W. Babson, life president of the Eighteenth Connecticut Volunteers association, R. R. James, Jabez Bowen, William H. Shippee and Thomas R. Bates. This town is very proud of them, most profoundly respects them and trusts they all may be spared through additional years, living reminders of the great conflict in which they served. Several of them, but unfortunately not all, will ride in automobiles in the Memorial day parade here Friday afternoon. A few of them are confined to their homes and in such a state of health as to forbid their participation in the exercises.

Transportation companies operating motor coach routes through this territory anticipate a good run of business from Thursday, when the holiday rush is expected to set in, through Friday, Saturday and Sunday. The majority of the services will operate additional coaches as required.

Members of Danielson patriotic societies will go to Brooklyn Memorial day morning to assist at the exercises planned to be held in that place. There also will be attendance from Danielson at the morning exercises at East Killingly, where Attorney E. L. Darbie is to make the address, at the Union Baptist church.

Mrs. Earl Wood of Cottage street entertained the members of the Entre Nous club. Winners at bridge were Mrs. Rene Buteau, Mrs. L. A. Woisard and Mrs. Lucien Lambert. Refreshments were served.

Enthusiasm of the trout fisherman wanes as the season rolls on. This is determined by the reports of special patrolmen on state-leased brooks, who now are called upon to check many fewer fishermen daily than was the case during the latter part of April and early May.

There is now some agitation contemplating the covering up of trolley tracks through that part of Main street below the railroad crossing with the same material with which the street is paved, the idea being to do away with the danger of skidding and possible resulting collisions, especially on wet days.

Mass will be celebrated today (Thursday), the feast of the Ascension, in Our Lady of Lourdes church at Hampton at 10 o'clock, D. S. T. Hampton is a mission of St. James' parish of Danielson.

A twilight league being organized will open its season about June 10, according to present plans. There will be six teams, two of them representing Powdrell and Alexander plants here, another representing this company's plant at Attawaugan, one representing St. James' parish, one Dayville and another to be made up of players selected in Danielson.

Several parties of boxing enthusiasts from Danielson and vicinity are being organized to attend the Sharkey-Schmelling match for the world's heavyweight championship in New York in early June.

Editor Frederick Babcock, Boston, of Fibre and Fabric, was one of those who came for the farewell dinner given in honor of Charles F. Alexander.

Miss Margaret Slattery, Boston, noted author and lecturer who was forced to cancel her scheduled appearance here last Sunday on account of illness, has written Miss Marjorie I. Gaffney, giving the information that she remains confined to her home with a throat affliction and that she still is running a temperature. Miss Slattery has promised to arrange a date for her appearance here at the earliest possible moment.

A young woman resident in the vicinity of Dyer street is facing the possibility of finding herself in a serious situation as the result of giving to a credit firm in Norwich where she wished to buy a diamond ring the name of a Danielson woman she does not even know as a reference. A check-up by a representative of the firm has disclosed this brazen procedure.

State highways hereabouts will be under constant control by state officers during the rush of traffic that is expected over the Memorial day period, with its three successive holidays this year.

Miss Elizabeth Reece of Hartford, for many years a resident on the West Side, will spend Memorial day with relatives and friends in Danielson.

George Crocker of Providence, formerly a resident here, was a visitor in town today. He made known his plans to attend the international gathering of Shriners soon to be held in Toronto.

And now after four days of more or less of it, rain is getting monotonous to many local people, longing for sunshine again.

Miss Angelica Mountblanc of Fall River is spending a vacation of a few days with relatives in Danielson.

This evening's concert at the high school auditorium by the Treble Clef Choir and String Ensemble under the direction of Henry Flagg and of the Willimantic Community orchestra was greatly enjoyed by those attending. The profits will be added to the Killingly Woman's club scholarship fund for students of the high school.

Sidney Storer of New York recently has been a visitor here with his brother, President Francis E. Storer of the Thames Bank and Trust company, and the latter's family.

Persons who have been roaming afield predict that there will be an abundant supply of berries in territory near Danielson during the coming summer season.

Miss Marjorie I. Gaffney, who has been ill for nearly three months, is reported as very much improved. Miss Gaffney is at her home on Main street.

There is no prospect of stores closing generally in Danielson Thursday afternoons during June, but the practice will be widespread during the months of July and August.

PLAINFIELD

Mrs. Arthur L. Burton of Cranston, R. I., is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Marsland.

Mrs. James Royle, Mrs. John Kingsley and Mrs. Thomas Marsland were in Danielson Monday.

Besides the services at St. Paul's Episcopal church, the van members of the church army are holding open air meetings from the van platform. Monday, they held such a service in Packer, co-operating in plans arranged by Rev. James W. Higgins, pastor of the Baptist church, Packer. The captains leave Plainfield early Friday morning. Saturday, they will visit St. Mark's church, Mystic, to hold mission services.

At St. Paul's, the missioners are making their home, as is their custom, in the parish hall rooms. Among the parish members entertaining the men in their homes at meal hours are Mr. and Mrs. Francis H. Baxter, Mrs. Sarah Alexander, Mrs. Arthur Holmes, Mr. and Mrs. William Collin, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Bardsley, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hodgkinson and Mrs. Annie Watson.

The army men came to Plainfield in response to an invitation extended by Rev. G. L. Drowne, minister in charge at St. Paul's.

Mrs. Agnes T. Greenhalgh has been appointed by the Venerable J. Eldred Brown, of Norwich, archdeacon of New London, a member of the Lay committee of St. Paul's Episcopal church to fill the vacancy on that committee caused by the recent resignation of Mrs. John Taylor, who has moved to Thompson.

PUTNAM

RESERVES DECISION IN LEGG DIVORCE ACTION

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, May 28.—In the superior court in this city today Judge Arthur F. Ellis entertained motions of attorneys for the submitting of briefs in the marriage annulment action brought against John Francis Legg, wealthy Worcester manufacturer, by his wife, Mrs. Jean Coleman Legg of Thompson and Brookline, Mass. Mrs. Legg was the only person to take the stand. Her estranged husband was in the court room, but neither he nor his counsel objected to her testimony which was related directly to Judge Ellis in a low tone of voice. Mrs. Legg sought to have her marriage declared null and void on grounds that they were married 15 hours before his nisi decree of divorce from a former wife had become absolute. In submitting his brief Attorney Ernest C. Morse, counsel for Mrs. Legg, asked the court to grant permission for the insertion of a clause providing his client with an alimony settlement of $1,750 in lump sum. Mrs. Legg also sought permission to resume the name of Jean Coleman, Coleman being the surname of her first husband. She stated that she had two sons by her first marriage and in view of this fact hoped that the court would grant her request. She said that she was married to Legg on Oct. 15, 1926, at Thompson and that they lived there until April 28, 1929, when Legg deserted her.

Inquiring of Mrs. Legg if she had quarreled with her husband, she answered Judge Ellis that there were no words of any nature. Explaining that Mr. Legg had been awaiting an opportunity which would serve as grounds for his desertion, Mrs. Legg stated that on the evening of April 27 she entertained several friends at a luncheon and requested her husband to remain at home and act as host. This honor, she said, he refused because of another engagement. Her guests not departing until a late hour, Mrs. Legg said, she retired leaving luncheon dishes and silverware unwashed on the table in the dining room. Her husband did not return until six o'clock the following morning and finding the cluttered room and the dishes, he went to his wife's room, arousing her and stating that the condition of the dining room was sufficient grounds for leaving her. Mrs. Legg testified that since her marriage she had learned that her husband's divorce decree under the laws of Massachusetts had not become final, which meant that he was still married at the hour of their marriage on Oct. 15, 1926.

Attorney William H. Hall of Worcester, well known divorce lawyer, took the stand at the request of Judge Ellis and explained the technicalities of the nisi divorce decree. He said that Legg was free to marry in any other state except Massachusetts at the date the decree became final, but learned that Legg was united in marriage with Mrs. Coleman 15 hours before the decree was final. At the close of the examination Judge Ellis reserved decision and accepted the briefs submitted by the attorneys.

About 50 members of the Putnam Rotary club and their friends were the guests of President and Mrs. Subbo Nickoloff at their Rock Crest home on Pomfret street last evening. The gathering was held in honor of Rev. and Mrs. James F. English who are to leave this city for Manchester, N. H., June 1, when the resignation of Rev. Mr. English, now pastor of the Congregational church, becomes effective. The beautiful sun parlor on the west side of the house served as a dining room. It was tastefully decorated for the occasion. The menu served was: Fruit cocktail, baked ham, lyonnaise potatoes, green peas, pickles, fruit gelatine, salad, rolls, cake, snow pudding, coffee, mints and cigars.

Professor H. H. Wade, head of the department of elocution and public speaking at the Worcester academy, addressed the members delightfully, punctuating his talk with amusing anecdotes and poems in dialect. He then read a poem dedicated to Rev. Mr. English.

At the conclusion of the dinner and social hour the Rotarians and the Rotary Anns expressed their regrets over the departure from this city of Rev. and Mrs. English and extended them their best wishes for success and happiness in their new field of endeavor.

MEMORIAL DAY PLANS FOR PUTNAM COMPLETE

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, May 28.—G. Stanley Shaw, past commander of the Anslem Mayotte post, American Legion, and general chairman of the committee in charge of the observance of Memorial day, announced this afternoon that plans for the day of honoring the memory of Putnam's war dead are complete. The programme will be opened with a parade which will form at the Soldiers' monument on Grove street at 9 o'clock. The procession will be headed by Major A. D. McIntyre as marshal, assisted by two mounted aides.

The line of march will be from the monument down Grove street, to South Main street to Front street to Church street to Providence street to St. Mary's cemetery, where disbandment will take place and the programme of exercises will be given in the following order: Invocation, chorus, by St. Mary's school children; recitation, Lincoln's Gettysburg address, by Joseph Bove; address by Rev. U. O. Bellerose, pastor of St. Mary's church; musical selection, by St. Mary's Boy Scout band; "Rest ye in Peace, Dead of Flanders," by St. Mary's chorale of forty voices; address by Rev. James F. English, retiring pastor of the Congregational church; selection by Boy Scout band; ritual prayers read by Father Bellerose; selection, "Tenting Tonight," by St. Mary's chorale; Taps, and "Star Spangled Banner" to be sung by assembly and choral.

The soldiers' graves in the cemeteries of the town will be decorated preceding the parade and exercises. The marching bodies will pause a few moments at the World war memorial bridge on Pomfret street where wreaths and flowers will be laid at the tablets on each side of the span in honor of the dead of the late war. Major McIntyre, marshal of the day, urges the commanding officers of all organizations planning to participate in the parade to be at the monument on Grove street one half hour before 9 o'clock, in order that the line of march may form and move sharply at the designated hour.

Arthur S. Macdonald, attorney-at-law and editor of the Putnam "Patriot," at a meeting of the board of directors of the chamber of commerce held in the organization's rooms Monday evening, was re-elected secretary of the merchants society for another year. He has been secretary of the chamber of commerce for the past few years. He is an able and conscientious officer, giving his time unsparingly to the movements of the chamber launched in the interests of Putnam. His excellent record built up while in this capacity, merited his re-election to the post.

Owing to the fact that Memorial day falls on Friday this year and will be observed throughout the city by all stores and business houses, the merchants bureau of the chamber of commerce announced this afternoon that grocery stores and meat markets which ordinarily remain open Fridays, will keep open Thursday evening instead.

Several young friends gathered last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lester G. Herlihy on Grove street where a party tendered in honor of John Herlihy, who was observing his 7th birthday, was held. Games were played by the children and refreshments were served.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert S. Hall of Farrows street have announced the engagement of their daughter, Emma Madelyn, to Ruben T. Swenson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Swenson of Hartford. Miss Hall is a graduate of Putnam high school, class of 1928, and is well known in this city. Mr. Swenson is a resident of Hartford and is in the employ of the Prudential Life Insurance company there.

Lionel Pourier of this city, who completed the prescribed course of study at the state police training school at Ridgefield, has been commissioned an officer of the state police department and is now assigned to duty at the Danielson barracks. Officer Pourier is well known in this city where he worked at the filling station of the Gulf Refining company on South Main street, until he was assigned to the force.

A number of the new traffic signs purchased by the police department to regulate parking in the time limited areas have been received and will be set out at vantage points within the next few days, Police Commissioner John M. Dean said yesterday. The signs were manufactured at the plant of the Putnam company in this city.

Painters resumed the work of revamping the traffic lines in the business section today.

The last of the steel braces in the overhead bridge at the railroad will be put in place today (Thursday). This will complete the iron workers' part of the contract. The railroad company has erected the tell-tale warnings for brakemen, as there is only four feet clearance above the top of a box car.

The Wednesday issue of the Providence Journal carried a cabinet size cut from a photograph of Miss Alice C. Armstrong. She is a member of the class of 1929, Rhode Island College of Education, and of the committee planning for the class reunion at the [illegible] hotel, June 6. Miss Armstrong, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Armstrong, is a native of Griswold.

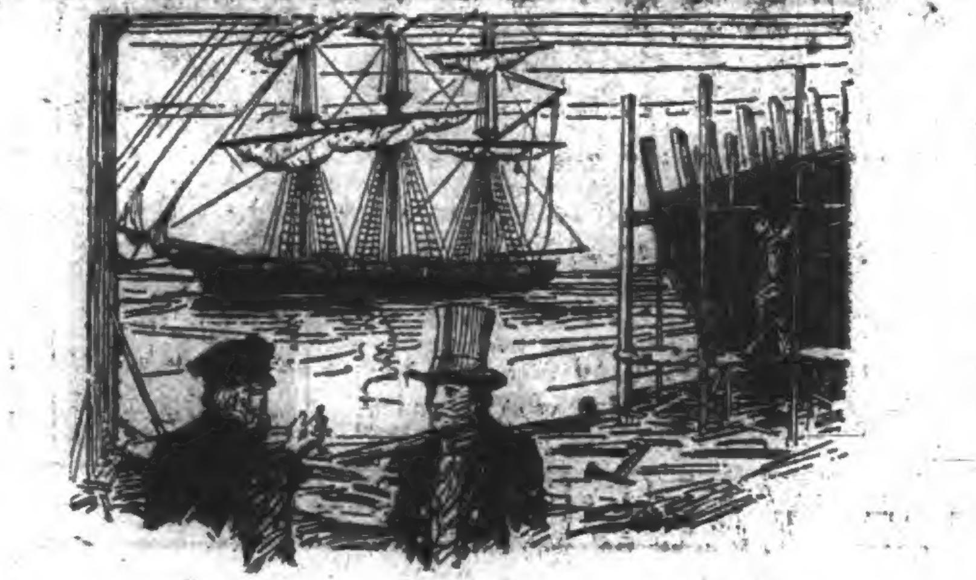
Pride—still impels the achievement of the Best



"Copper Fastened"

"SEE that vessel laying over yonder?" said an old shipbuilder beaming with pride. "Well, sir, the man I built her for was going to be satisfied to have her fastened with iron. 'No, sir,' said I. 'If I build her she's going to be doweled and copper fastened.' 'What's it to you? It's my vessel,' said he. 'What's it to me? It's my self-respect; it's my pride in my trade,' said I. 'It's my reputation for building only the best that can be built.'"

Conscientious pride in the achievement of the best still lives. It is the spirit upon which in 1874 at Manchester, New Hampshire, Roger G. Sullivan laid the foundation of 7-20-4—now the largest strictly hand-made cigar industry in the World. It is the same spirit that today—after fifty-six years of public confidence—refuses to lower its standard of workmanship and tobaccos at the sacrifice of the finest cigar Quality.

*An investigation conducted by the Association of Life Insurance Medical Directors and the Actuarial Society of America revealed the fact that the death rate increases practically 1% for every pound of excess weight carried between the ages of 40 and 44 years. In other words, a man 40 pounds overweight at this age has only 60% of the expectancy of life of a man of normal weight. We do not represent that smoking Lucky Strike Cigarettes will bring modern figures or cause the reduction of flesh. THE SPECIAL SESSION

That the disposal of the London treaty will not be put off until the end of the year has been assured by the agreement to have it taken up in a special session of the senate to be called directly after the close of the present session of congress.

When indications pointed to the postponement of action through delay in hearings and debate, the president confronted the senate with the fact that if action were not taken at the present session he would call a special one. In insisting upon action in the present session it was realized that this was a matter that concerned solely the senate and there was no justification for keeping the house in Washington while the senate wrangled over the matter. It was also recognized that it would be as well not to try to hurry action too greatly, but to permit the opposition to have its say and then proceed to vote, it being considered that there are enough supporters of the treaty to accomplish its ratification.

Thus the agreement to hasten the end of the present session of congress by disposing of the matters before it as rapidly as possible, and then get action on the treaty at a special session of the senate, will accomplish the same thing as holding the entire congress in Washington for something in which only the senate is concerned.

Much might be accomplished through the limitation of debate, but when such efforts are attempted they are subject to reactions which are not helpful. There is no reason why those who want to be heard on the treaty should not have full opportunity. It will be unfortunate if there is a wasting of time after the facts have been brought out, and it will be surprising if there isn't a strong sentiment in the senate to speed up a vote as rapidly as possible and get away from Washington, even though limitation isn't forced.

The importance of having our naval policy established cannot be overlooked. Neither can there be disregarded the desirability of giving prompt consideration to the treaty for the good effect it will have upon the other nations. At the same time, it seems only fair to our delegates who negotiated the treaty.

SENATOR JONES' ATTITUDE

One of the ardent drys in the United States senate and one who has lent his name to dry legislation is Senator Jones of Washington. The inference to be gained from his attitude is that it represents the sentiment of his state.

It must have been with considerable surprise, therefore, that he learned of the action of the Washington republican state convention in adopting a resolution for modification of the dry law. He hasn't as yet admitted that the convention action actually represents the changed sentiment in Washington, since he claims that it represents only a small section of the people, but he goes further than that in a statement which he has made and declares that if a referendum shows a changed sentiment he will accept it and vote wet.

That might subject him to the criticism of believing one thing and voting for another, but it is to be presumed that Senator Jones takes the position, that other senators have taken, that he is the representative of the people of the state of Washington. He has voted dry because he believes in prohibition and also believes that his state favors it. When he is convinced that Washington wants modification he is ready to vote for it, not because his views will be altered, but because those he represents have declared themselves and it is his duty to vote as his constituents wish.

There is nothing in such an attitude that differs from what is being done now by certain members of the senate who make no effort to conceal the fact that they are personally wet but declare that they vote dry regularly because that is the sentiment of their states. It is the same kind of reasoning that Senator Jones uses and it is not improbable that others will do likewise. It would, indeed, be a strange attitude for any senator knowing the sentiment of his state on any question to insist upon going contrary to its wishes. Senator Jones isn't ready to accept the expression of the convention but he takes advantage of the situation created by the action to set forth what his attitude will be when convinced that the state is wet.

MAKING HIGHWAYS SAFER

One doesn't have to study the situation very long to admit that there is great need for the national conference on street and highway safety, now being held in Washington for the third time. It is necessary because of the large number of lives that are being snuffed out each year, because of the much greater number of persons who are injured and because of the huge loss that is involved in the damage and destruction of motor vehicles. As the president said in his address to the conference, it is both a humanitarian and economic problem, and the solution of it cannot be accomplished any too soon.

What the death and injured list might total but for the regulations that have been established is impossible to tell. That the regulations have not brought as great a reduction in the casualties as desired will have to be admitted, but it is only by keeping constantly after the situation that relief can be secured.

Problems which have been solved in certain parts of the country furnish help for other sections. Through the study given to the policies adopted in the various states there can be ideas gained for bettering the general situation. Much better understanding of the highway conditions and problems has been obtained since the highway conferences for increased safety were instituted and it is to be expected that favorable results will follow the present one.

While recognition has been given to the importance of establishing uniform regulations in the handling of traffic and the equipment of cars, and certain groups of states have joined hands in this respect, it is disclosed from time to time that the opportunity for greater results still exists.

With about 32,000 persons being killed by automobiles each year, it is evident that there is a great waste of human life that should be checked as promptly and effectively as possible. From the record of the past there seems to be no chance that it will be accomplished at once. Even the prevention of an increase from year to year would be some satisfaction.

PRIMARY EXPENDITURES

What the primary is doing in the way of boosting expenditures in large states where hard-fought contests are waged is illustrated every time there is a primary in Pennsylvania and Illinois and there have been times when it showed up in Michigan.

It doesn't necessarily mean that the person spending the most money gets the nomination, but it usually means that if a person wants to be a candidate against those with a barrel of money to spend for the nomination he must make a smashing personal appeal to the people, backed up by a good record, or else he must be in a way to obtain plenty of available cash with which to get his name and his appeal before the voters.

The senate investigating committee has been digging into the Pennsylvania primary expenditures and found that Senator Grundy, who failed to get the nomination, spent $291,000 of his own money. Secretary Davis, who got the nomination, contributed $10,000 to the support of his ticket, while a sum not quite as large as Mr. Grundy spent was expended in behalf of the wet candidate seeking the republican nomination.

Nothing has been brought to light to show that the money was improperly used. The contention has been that it was necessary to spend much money for legitimate purposes, such as advertising, appeals to voters and organizing purposes. It seems to be felt that primary campaigns cannot be conducted with any certainty of success without indulging in a large outlay of money. It is one of the developments of the primary, one of the things the primary was expected to overcome, and yet it seems that a poor man stands a very bad chance in running against a man of wealth. And yet it doesn't always work out that way. In Illinois, wealth won against experience and in Pennsylvania, experience and organization overcame wealth, but the spending of much money was not prevented. Even senate investigations have not put a check upon it.

THE BUYER OF LIQUOR

Left for the supreme court to decide whether the purchaser of liquor is punishable under the existing law, the decision of the highest court in the land is that it is not. This decision supported the view that was taken in the district court where the question was first raised.

It was the contention of the government that the purchaser was equally guilty with the seller. The court cannot find that the law makes any such provision. If it was the intention of congress to make him so, there was a failure on the part of congress to include it in the provisions of the law. When it is not set forth among the things prohibited, it is impossible for the court to say that it is against the law.

Through the carrying of this case to the supreme court, there has been cleared up another phase of prohibition about which there has been much discussion. Inasmuch as the purchaser of liquor is not equally guilty with the seller, it becomes apparent that if there is a desire on the part of congress that he should be that legislation should be enacted that will so stipulate. Till such action has been taken it cannot be expected that enforcement officials will pay any attention to the purchaser's guilt, and it remains to be seen whether the decision will have the effect of hastening action upon legislation which has long been pending in congress, making the purchaser equally guilty with the seller.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The man on the corner says: Those who longed to be a-Maying are not displaying much enthusiasm.

This is the year when there will be a lot of political fence repairing started just as soon as congress adjourns.

"Defense of Cheese," says a headline. But there are some kinds that can get around and defend themselves and drive away opponents.

The National Restaurant association took no action on the abolition of the tip, yet one hotel manager claims it will be only a few years before no tipping will be insisted upon generally.

A DATE FOR THE DANCE

"And now it's our turn to entertain Mr. and Mrs. Hazelton at dinner. They have been dinner guests of all the other superintendents and their wives." So said Jack Bannister to his wife, Ethel.

"What are we going to do?" she asked doubiously. "If only we belonged to the Wahkonsa club, like the others do, we could entertain the Hazeltons there."

"I cannot afford membership in the Wahkonsa, you know that, and none of the other superintendents can either."

"Let's go to the Imperial hotel."

"Forget that. They say the boss hates a hotel, and we couldn't visit there with the freedom I understand he enjoys most."

Seven department superintendents were in the employ of the National Manufacturing company, of which Tyler Hazelton was president. Outspoken and opposed to pretense, Jack Bannister, the youngest, held his job because he worked like a machine gunner in action.

"It's rather unusual, Ethel," Jack continued, "for the head of a firm to dine at intervals of a week with his chief subordintes and I don't know just how it started in our organization, but I have a hunch Mr. Hazelton tactfully started it himself. That may be his way of getting a closeup on his men."

"We shall just have to go through the ordeal, much as I dread it," she said, "but we cannot have them come here."

"Why not? Our home is not lavishly furnished, but it is neat and cozy and Verna is an excellent cook."

"But the Hazeltons! Jack, he is a multimillionaire. He is used to so many things we do not have. What are you thinking about? Oh, you must join the Wahkonsa right away. You must measure up to the others before Mr. Hazelton."

"I simply can't join the Wahkonsa now without going deeply into debt, and I am not going to do that. I wouldn't join now if I could, because it would look as though I were putting on special airs for him. I am going to be natural, if nothing else. We'll invite the Hazeltons to have dinner with us here, and if they don't want to come they need not."

There was more argument, but Jack won. He had been successful and she was willing to go along with him in anything reasonable he was determined to do.

The Hazeltons came on the evening designated. Ethel was nervous, but Verna prepared the meal skillfully and served it perfectly. Bob and Ben, the 8-year-old Bannister twins, sat right up with the company.

"Ethel is the governess here," Jack explained, "and we always have our youngsters at the first and only table." Mr. Hazelton smiled. Mrs. Hazelton admiringly patted Bob on the hand and smiled across at Ben. Bob, startled at her move, jerked his hand away, overturned a glass of water and cried. Ethel suppressed a scream with difficulty. Jack arose, walked around to the boy, straightened up the glass, and said, soothingly "It's all right, little pal."

Mr. Hazelton smiled again. Before the dinner was over the Hazeltons and the Bannister twins were carrying on most of the conversation occasionally one of the lads got a bit out of bounds in his enthusiasm, but withal they acted about as any other normal well-trained children of their age might be expected to act under the circumstances. Ethel was horrified, though, when each one insisted on kissing Mrs. Hazelton good night, but she regained her composure when the lady approved of it and accompanied them to their bedroom.

Mr. Hazelton apparently asked few direct questions, but he was adroit and when he and Mrs. Hazelton departed Jack Bannister realized his employer knew his family's whole history, their opinions on many subjects, their general knowledge and their attitude toward life and things generally. He was conscious, too, of having been under scrutiny that amounted to complete mental dissection.

A week later the general manager resigned. The following day Jack was called to Mr. Hazelton's office.

"Do you think, Bannister," he asked, "you could handle the general managership of this company?"

"I know I could try," Jack replied.

"Well, I want you to try," Mr. Hazelton said, "and I am sure you will make good, for I can see only success for a man who is an out and outer like you are."—Exchange.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, May 28—Jack Garner of Texas, who looks the beau ideal of a British fox hunting squire, and is about as good as they come at the great American game of politics, has been having a gorgeous time since all the powers of minority leadership in the house fell into his hands.

That happened when Finnis Garrett of Tennessee, formerly associated in leadership duties with the Texan, droppd out to make an unsuccessful dash for the senate.

Which left the Hon. Jack in his element as digger-up-in-chief of many and various political monkey wrenches to hurl into the wheels of republican machinery for house management.

Favors Dividing Texas

And when Mr. Garner unbosomed himself in the Record of the notion that Texas always had been in a position to wrest political control of congress from the hands of New England and the north-eastern sea board, it must have caused a few shivers to run down republican backs.

It's such a plausible idea. For the one time Lone Star republic of Texas, when it joined up under the Stars and Stripes, reserved to itself many rights not enjoyed by any other state.

Among those was the right granted by congress to sub-divide itself into five seperate states if it wanted to.

That is what the Hon. Jack suggested be done, raising the southern representation in the senate by eight additional seats and votes aligned with the general political ideas of the folks south of the Mason and Dixon line.

That must present a horrid, nightmare of a prospect to republican old guardsmen.

The constitution forbids subdivision of states without authority of congress or without the consent of the state involved.

When Texas came in, congress granted its permission for subsequent division of its territory into "new states of convenient size, not exceeding four in number, in addition to the said state of Texas, and having sufficient population."

Size Sufficient

Hon. Jack has no doubt about the population available or the "sufficient size." Texas can cut up into five separate states, each with around a million and a half population and with enough territory to swallow unnoticed half a dozen New England states, he says.

And he sees North Texas, South Texas, East Texas, West Texas and Central Texas now coming forward to take their places at the senate table.

"I am making this suggestion for what I believe to be the benefit of the whole country, especially the south and southwest," Garner wrote, after excoriating various republican-made tariffs.

He must have grinned to himself as he wrote. And he virtuously added:

"It is needless to say that I have no political ambition that would be affected by such arrangement as I desire no office other than I hold."

YOUR HEALTH

Any Weak Bolts?

By D. E. Davenport, M. D., Takoma Park, Washington, D. C.

(From Gorgas Memorial Institute)

My father was an inspector on the Southern Pacific Railroad in California. Every time one of those big engines would come in he would go around with his hammer and tap the stay bolts in the boilers which confined the pressure. He would find where they were broken or cracked, and would put a ring around the bolt, and then other men would put in a new one. About this time one of the big compound locomotives on another road blew up. A short time after, the same type of locomotive was brought in for inspection. The engineer came and said "I have a wife and children at home. I understand there is some defect in this locomotive, and I am afraid to operate it." My father replied, "I have carefully inspected that boiler, and I can assure you that it is all right." Assured of safety, the engineer went on his run that night.

It seems to me that it should be just as great a consolation to us to have a physical check-up occasionally to know where we stand. There is no subject more important to each of us than the question of our health.

I had a very good doctor friend who made a special examination of himself. He found that he had a trace of diabetes—the beginning of diabetes. Nine years went by and he never made another examination or laboratory test to determine whether or not the disease was progressing. After the nine years, I helped remove one of his limbs, first at the ankle, then at the knee, and then above the knee, because of the gangrene which had set in. With diet and care, this operation could have been prevented.

Once I had a patient who was apparently in good health and was active, constantly interesting himself in others' welfare. I said to him: "The danger point with you is when you get to feeling well. Then you are careless in your diet." Later a friend asked me if I noticed in the paper that our friend had dropped dead. He said, "I saw him a day or two ago and asked him if he was being careful about his diet and high blood pressure and he replied that it was too much bother."

Very often when we examine a patient, he will say, "If my heart is bad, I don't want to know it, and if you find anything the matter with my lungs, don't tell me." I tell him that is like a person writing checks, and some day the cashier of the bank says, "Wouldn't you like to have me send you a statement of how much you have left in the bank?" And he replied, "Don't tell me. I don't want to know. It might be nearly overdrawn." If he did know he might use what he had a little more discreetly. He would not waste it. That is the way with our health.

IN THE DAY'S NEWS

Rangoon and Its Earthquake-Injured Shrine

Rangoon, Burma, where structures were shaken down and lives lost in one of the worst earthquakes of recent years, is the subject of the following bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society, which also discusses the traits of the Burmese.

"Rangoon, with a population almost as great as that of Indianapolis is the fifth city in size in India," says the bulletin. "It is a cosmopolitan city, so much so that one may land in it and see little of Burmese life until he has penetrated far from the waterfront. Thousands of Hindus, Singalese, Chinese and Japanese have moved to the city and are engaged largely in the commercial activities of the port. The Burmese are less aggressive folk than the newcomers and have been pushed somewhat out of the picture in their own largest city. In the residential sections of the town, however, in the markets where food products are sold, and in the rural districts surrounding the city, the people of the country are seen with few foreigners.

"The Burmese have a wholesomeness, a spontaneity of manner, and a happy outlook on life that has earned them the title, 'Irish of the Orient.' The cleanliness and love of color and fine clothing among even the poorest of the Burmese is in striking contrast to the habits of the Hindu peasants. Relations between the sexes are on a frank and open basis in the West. Women are not secluded. They work and play and worship side by side with the men. The two sexes even wear practically the same kinds of clothing—a loose knicker-like garment below the waist, a kind of jacket above. Most of the trading is carried on by the women.

"The outstanding feature of Rangoon, and the architectural highlight of all Burma, is the Shwe Dagon, the great towering Buddhist shrine whose pinnacle was shaken down by the recent earthquake. It stands on a low green hill bowered in grateful shade. Before the earthquake shook off its topmost ornaments, the shrine consisted of a gracefully tapering spire, gilded over all and surmounted by its hti or umbrella of skillfully wrought and gilded metal; hung on this hti was a chime of bells which was tinkled by the gentlest breezes. Surrounding the spire are scores of shrines of every sort, decorated with mosaics and richest teakwood carvings. The summit of the great central mass was higher than the top of the cathedral of Saint Paul in London.

"Words can hardly do justice to Shwe Dagon. Guarded by its characteristic leogryphs and built upon a mound, with groves of graceful palms, it started ages ago as a modest stupa-like mass of brick. It was not allowed by the Burmese to crumble to decay, as is the ordinary pagoda, built to-day as an act of merit, for nowadays there is little merit to be gained by repairs. The building is what counts hereafter. But what other pagoda sheltered actual relics not only of Gautama, but of three preceeding Buddhas?

"Tradition says that men bearing eight hairs from Guatama's beared rested, and that in 588 B. C. the original pagoda, about 30 feet high, was erected. This has been cased over by successive layers till now it has a circumference of 1,355 feet and towers 370 feet in the air. It is kept brilliantly gilded by subscriptions from the faithful. The surmounting umbrella was made from material valued at $250,000, given by Mindon Min when king of Upper Burma. The labor was voluntary, so the making cost nothing.

"The many surrounding pagodas and shrines vary in sizes, shape, and style. The near-by view of the whole group is most impressive about dark, when beggars and candle grease are not very evident. Then the shadowy forms of the praying people and the quiet chanting of the monks cause even the unbeliever to admire the true glory of the Shwe Dagon."

Stories That Recall Others

Hijacker

The sounds coming from the playroom gave evidence of an altercation between Sonny and his younger sister.

"What's the trouble, Sonny?" called mother.

"Sister wants the bootlegger's car and I need it!" was the five-year-old's startling reply.

Mostly Gratitude

Maxine is a truly "grown-up lady" although her years are not many, so when Mr. S., a neighbor, invited her to take lunch with him one day when Mrs. S. was out of the city, she gave thanks. The fare was cold meat, crackers and milk, for Mr. S. does not eat a heavy noonday meal.

"Will you say grace, Maxine?" her host asked.

"Dear Lord," the child responded, "bless the food and fill our hearts with gratitude."

"You say that mighty well," Mr. S. observed.

"Yes, I did, but there isn't much food, is there?" commented the guest of honor.

The wisest owl occasionally hoots at the wrong time.

WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION TO GO TO DAUGHTER

Filed in the superior court with Clerk John H. Walker is a supplemental finding and award made by Compensation Commissioner Albert J. Bailey in favor of Dolores Grace Mumford, dependent minor of Charles E. Mumford and of whom Grace Mumford Sheehan of 38 Broadway, this city, is guardian. By a previous award filed on Oct. 7, 1925, compensation to the amount of $18 per week was paid to Mrs. Mumford up to and including May 3, 1930, for a total of 245 weeks, because of fatal injuries sustained by her husband, Charles E. Mumford, Aug. 7, 1925, while in the employ of the Eastern Connecticut Power Co.

As his widow was remarried on May 4, 1930, to D. J. Sheehan an agreement has been reached between the interested persons, so that the dependent daughter of the deceased may receive the balance of the compensation to which she became entitled upon the remarriage of her mother.

Compensation Commissioner Bailey ordered that from May 4, 1930 and to continue during the remaining 66 weeks to which the claimant is entitled compensation, payments at the rate of $8 per week shall be made to Grace Mumford Sheehan, as guardian, 38 Broadway, this city, for the sole use of the dependent minor child of the late Charles E. Mumford, namely Dolores Grace Mumford, and also beginning May 4 and to continue for 66 weeks, the respondents shall deposit the remaining $10 per week in the Norwich Savings Society, Norwich, the payments to be made every fourth week, the account at the bank to accumulate for the future use of the minor child at such time as the entire 312 weeks originally awarded shall have expired.

BENEDICT ARNOLD DESK GIVEN WEST POINT MUSEUM

A native son of Norwich, who unhappily brought everlasting infamy on his name, is recalled in this story from West Point sent out this week. This is the announcement that the Benedict Arnold desk, long sought by museums and private collectors, whose history is closely interwoven with the Revolution, was to be presented to West Point Museum Wednesday by the New York State Officers' club of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

For many years this desk remained in what had been Arnold's office in Fort Constitution, now Constitution Island off West Point. In Revolutionary days a chain was extended across the Hudson River channel at this point to prevent the passage of the British fleet.

When the island became the Warner estate the desk was moved into the Warner home, but Susan Warner, author of "Queechy," "Wide, Wide World" and other books, would never use it "because it had belonged to a traitor."

The desk passed eventually into the hands of Mrs. Helen H. Denton of Peekskill. The Warner sisters, Susan and Anne, had left it to Mr. Denton with the understanding that it would go to West Point should he ever dispose of it. The New York State Officers' club of the Daughters of the American Revolution bought the desk last October for presentation to the Military Academy museum.

The little shop where Benedict Arnold trained as a druggist's apprentice, also the well at the house where he was born, have long been objects of interest at Norwich Town. Excuses have been made for his fall, for his cruelty in setting fire to New London and displaying such inhumanity at Groton in the Battle of Fort Ledyard: but it is an historical fact that his was a mean, narrow, bigoted nature, so that his supreme act of infamy was what was to be expected from him.

The Georgia Society of Colonial Dames has asked a former Norwich Free Academy student, cousin of Mrs. John F. Slater, Dr. James H. Penniman, of Philadelphia, information regarding a pair of guns, two brass six-pounders, presented the Chatham Artillery, of Savannah, by General George Washington, in 1791.

DINNER-DANCE OPENS INN WITH FESTIVITIES

Amid an atmosphere of cordial hospitality such as is only extended by the New England Inns, the new Norwich Inn was officially opened to the public on Wednesday evening with a dinner-dance. Nearly 300, many being guests from hotels of the L. C. Treadway Corp., were present to enjoy the opening night festivities.

Previous to the dinner there was a tour of inspection of the inn and all were generous with their praise of the attractiveness of the rooms. The lounge room, the English lodge room and the sunporch came in for especial praise for their attractiveness. The rooms were very pretty and their beauty was enhanced by the beautiful flowers, gifts of friends of the hotel corporation.

The evening was enlivened by the music of that splendid Club Worthy Hill orchestra of Hartford, which furnished an exceptionally fine dance and dinner program. The guests were at tables arranged about the spacious dining room with a space left in the center for dancing. Adding to the pleasure of the evening were several numbers rendered by Miss Catherine Sylvia of Hartford. Miss Sylvia responded to several encores.

The following was the delicious menu served by the hotel:

NORWICH SOCIETY IN NEW YORK ELECTS HOWARD C. RUSS PRESIDENT

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW YORK, May 28.—The 22nd annual dinner of the Norwich Society of New York was held this week at the New York Athletic club, through the courtesy of Howard C. Russ. The attendance, including the speakers, guests and members, amounted to 85, which constitutes a record for the tual members, or became members tual membrs, or became members during the course of the evening.

After sufficient time had been allowed for the fellows to mingle and exchange reminiscences, a very excellent dinner was served.

The meeting was called to order by President J. Olin Howe, who apologized for one of the promised speakers not being present—J. Henry Roraback, chief of the republican party in Connecticut, and a leading figure in its national councils. It was explained that when the subject was first broached, a tentative date was set (May 19th), but when plans were finally perfected for the dinner, it was decided to shift to May 26, and meanwhile Mr. Roraback had gone on a fishing trip to Canada and it was impossible to get in touch with him.

The treasurer reported a balance on hand of $235.84, but lest the members should derive any joy from there being a balance instead of the usual deficit, it was made clear that the cost of the present dinner had to be defrayed from this amount, and of course further supplemented from dues collected during the evening.

It was with a note of sincere sorrow that President Howe announced that during the past six months one of the most faithful members of the society had passed on—Winslow T. Williams. He mentioned that a delegation from the society had attended Mr. Williams' funeral last winter. The members were also informed that since the fall meeting the father of one of the society's charter members had died—an outstanding citizen of Norwich—Oliver L. Johnson. The secretary was authorized to draft appropriate resolutions to be sent to the immediate surviving members of the two families.

Resolution On Old Cemetery

President Howe announced that the Society of the Founders of Norwich were making a crusade in connection with perpetuating of a cemetery which has now passed out of the possession of the town of Norwich. The following resolution was read by the secretary and unanimously adopted.

In recognition of the effort now under way for the preservation and permanent protection of the Post-Gager burying ground, so-called, in Norwich, in which lie the bodies of the first of the original settlers of the town of Norwich to pass to the Great Beyond, Be it resolved by the Norwich Society of New York at its annual dinner at the New York Athletic club on the evening of Monday, May 26, 1930, that the endeavor of individuals and the Society of the Founders of Norwich to bring about the repossession of this cemetery and assumption of its future care by the town of Norwich seems to this organization most desirable. The Norwich Society of New York hereby expresses its sympathetic interest in this project and adds to that the earnest hope that it will be accomplished, and speedily. Be it resolved, further, that a copy of this resolution be transmitted by the secretary to the Society of the Founders of Norwich, as well as published in The Norwich Bulletin and spread upon the minutes of the Norwich society.

New Members Introduced

Mention was made by the chair that regrets had been received from Charlie Noyes of his inability to be present, as he was in Canada on a fishing trip, and that this was the first meeting which he had ever missed since the society was founded. It was said that owing to a crusade which had been made, recently, it was possible to announce at this dinner an influx of new members into the society consisting of 23 persons. Dr. Louis Alofsin, chairman of the membership committee, then read off the list of the following names, and nineteen men (all but four being present) rose in rotation as their names were called, thus constituting a formal introduction to the members:

Selden Bacon, F. Spencer Baldwin, Arthur Brooks, Max Henry Foley, Harry Torbush Goss, Frank W. Hamilton, Channing P. Huntington, Austin Avery King, Robert Lee Latimer, Henry Long, Dr. Edward R. Maloney, Anthony Morse, Kenneth M. Muir, Charles Nichols, Jr., Albert Chapman Norman, Harry Oguinick, Kenneth Reid, Eugene L. Scheilens, Clarence Schmell, Russell Perry Storms, Dr. Nicholas Vincent Walsh, Walter Abbott Waterman, Byron Card Wilcox.

Election Of Officers

"Ed" Crawford, chairman of the nominating committee, was then called on inasmuch as it is customary to elect a new president of the society every two years, and as this was the termination of President Howe's tenure of office, Mr. Crawford said that whereas it was customary to elevate the vice president to the presidency, it was the sense of the committee, that in this instance the usual procedure should be suspended and that one of the oldest members of the society, who many people thought had already been president, should receive recognition of his services to the society. It was mentioned that the present incumbent of the office of vice president, Charlie Hulburt, was entirely favorable to this suggestion and to postpone his accession to the presidency until after the expiration of Howard Russ' term. With this explanation, Mr. Crawford recommended the following slate of officers and committees for the ensuing year: President, Howard C. Russ; vice president, Charles N. Hulburt; treasurer, William T. McNamara; secretary, John R. Powelson; executive committee, Francis P. Bent, Raymond E. Stefferson, Charles H. Tirrell, Frank A. Lester, Warren K. Dowe, C. Leroy Storms; membership committee, Dr. Louis M. Alofsin, chairman; Marco S. Parker, John T. McIntyre, Charles R. Nichols, Sr., Joseph E. Shea. Nominating committee, Edward J. Crawford, chairman; Joseph D. Herr, O. Chester Johnson; Max Henry Foley, Kenneth Reid.

On motion of Alfred L. Aiken, it was unanimously voted that the secretary should cast a single ballot for the ticket as recommended by the chairman of the nominating committee.

The question was broached as to how many charter members were present, and the following six members stood up and were roundly applauded: Alanson P. Lathrop, Dr. Louis M. Alofsin, Francis P. Bent, William S. Gaylord, William T. McNamara, O. Chester Johnson.

HOWARD C. RUSS
Elected President

The president announced that an invitation had been extended the Norwich Society of New York by the Academy Alumnae association to have a representative at their annual meeting to be held on Monday, June 16. A suggestion had been made that the chair appoint a delegate, and the president-elect, Howard Russ, was chosen.

President Howe remarked that there was to be no valedictory by the retiring president, but that he thought the incoming president should say a few words. Howard Russ then said that although he was not a charter member, he came in the second year. He also again called attention to the fact that this was the largest meeting the society had ever had.

Address By Augustus Post

President Howe then introduced the first speaker of the evening, Augustus Post, as the first secretary of the Aero Club of America and as being one who was then and still is a leading figure in aeronautics. Mr. Post, referring in a facetious manner to the resolution regarding the cemetery in Norwich, said that several of his ancestors were probably buried there. Mr. Post, incidentally, is almost a Norwichite, as he has very often visited his relatives there. In fact, he referred to the time when he was there in a professional capacity in the early part of the twentieth century, in company with Capt. Thomas Baldwin. At that time Capt. Baldwin flew from the fairgrounds over the city in a dirigible.

Mr. Post touched upon the fact that one of Norwich's "own"—Edmund Clarence Stedman—had written a splendid article foreseeing the advance in aviation (which has since come about) and then laid down his pen and died.

Reinforced by some very interesting stereopticon views, Mr. Post proceeded in his inimitable manner to relate some of his harrowing experiences, such as one in Berlin in 1908 and his flight with Alan R. Hawley from Pittsfield, remarking that he intended to fly with him again in the wilds of Quebec in the not distant future. The most sensational experience which he had was during the Gordon Bennett cup race in 1910, starting from St. Louis.

Explorer MacCracken Speaks

In introducing the next speaker, the president said: "An igloo is as familiar to MacCracken as a bath-robe is to us. He has spent some five years in the Arctic. He knows enough Eskimo to converse with the Eskimo girls. His latest exploit was in the Aleutian Islands where he found mummies preserved from the Stone Age. We usually think of these only with reference to Egypt. Let me introduce Harold MacCracken, explorer, author, photographer, adventurer par excellence."

When MacCracken first ventured north, he went to British Columbia, but finally he found this a little bit tame and then pushed on to Alaska and made his living killing for museums. Eventually he began to realize that animals had babies the same as humans and he therefore changed his viewpoint and took up photography and subsequently motion picture photography. As he expressed it: "Almost anyone can go out and kill game with high-powered rifles, but it takes a good man to go out and get pictures of wild life. You have to know a lot about animals."

The speaker gave a vivid recital of some of his wonderful experiences and what he found in his search for the Stone Age mummies.

Members Present

A vote of thanks was extended to the two speakers for their highly illuminating addresses and they were by acclamation made honorary members of the society. The members disbanded at about 11:30. Those who attended the dinner were the following:

Harold MacCracken, Augustus Post, H. T. Hamilton, Howard C. Russ, J. Olin Howe, Francis P. Bent, Raymond E. Stefferson, Alanson P. Lathrop, John R. Powelson, Warren K. Dowe, William B. FANEUIL HALL BOSTON

This building called the "Cradle of Liberty" was built by Peter Faneuil of Boston, in 1742. At first it was used as a theater by the British soldiers but was later taken over by the Patriots. It was a meeting place of the people during the disputes with Great Britain which led to the Revolutionary War, hence the name "Cradle of Liberty." At present it is one of the largest market places of Boston.

Courteous and prompt attention to the most minute detail is characteristic of our service.

Modern Laxative Based on New Discovery

Science now knows that the success of any laxative depends on proper internal distribution—that unless it is thoroughly and evenly distributed throughout the intestinal tract irregular and unsatisfactory action will result.

This explains the success of the modern chewing gum laxative known as Feen-a-mint. As you chew this delicious gum, the tasteless laxative it contains is mixed with the saliva and carried to the intestinal tract evenly, smoothly, without shock to the system.

Because of its thorough distribution, you will find Feen-a-mint effective in milder doses than ordinary laxatives. With the proper dosage it is not necessary to increase the amount of Feen-a-mint you take nor to switch to another laxative for a change. Feen-a-mint is harmless and contains no habit-forming drugs. Therefore it is truly the health laxative. Ask for a package at any drug store.—Adv.

At Ashland park Tuesday evening an attendance of 400 partly frozen fans saw Stabley Derda, pitching for the Fisk Rubber Co., win his game from the Campers by the scant margin of 2 to 1. Both teams were evenly matched and gave a fine exhibition of semi-pro baseball.

A feature of the game was George Beaulieau's catch in deep right field which he had to mount a pile of rocks to make.

TWO LOCAL BOYS FAVORITES TO WIN IN MAJESTIC ROOF GARDEN BOUTS

TONIGHT'S CARD

Feature Bout

Matty Owens, New Bedford vs K. O. Bristol Brown, Bristol, R. I.

Semi-Finals

Young Fuzaro, Fall River vs Al Walker, New Bedford.

Preliminaries

Johnny Murphy, Providence vs Young Phillips, New London.

Jack Monty, Providence vs Tommy McCarthy, Norwich.

Larry McManus, Providence vs Johnny Rish, New Bedford.

Jimmy Quinn, Norwich vs Joe Spasato, Westerly.

Local fight fans will have an opportunity to see its first boxing show staged in the city proper tonight, when Jackie Burns, veteran boxing promoter, puts on a card of 34 rounds of fighting on top of the Majestic Roof Garden. The card consists of five bouts, each scheduled for six rounds and a bout arranged for five rounds, all of which promise to be replete with action and thrills. Two Norwich boys, Jimmy Quinn and Tommy McCarthy, favorites to win their goes, are appearing in the ring here for the first time in quite a while.

Owens Vs Bristol

Matty Owens of New Bedford and K. O. Bristol Brown of Bristol, R. I., have been chosen to appear in the feature bout of the evening. Both fighters will provide the fans with plenty of action, as they are well known for their eagerness to get in there and swap punches. Bristol has gained the cognomen of K. O. for his ability to floor his opponents with punches carrying a lot of steam. On the other hand, Owens has amassed a nice record around Fall River, as a result of his prowess in the ring and his heavy punching.

Brown has a very creditable record, beating such boys as Young Lefty of Fall River, Babie Jack Renault, Cambridge, Johnny Diaz, Fall River, Billy O'Leary and holds two wins over Johnny Metcalf, Pawtucket. Al Koziol of Norwich, terrific slugger, was beaten by Brown at Providence and also Joe Marchardo, Fall River, another good fighter.

Fuzaro-Walker

Another New Bedford boy, Al Walker, will face Young Fuzaro of Fall River in the semi-final go, and this bout is also expected to turn out to the liking of the audience. The contestants are reputed to be two of the toughest fighters in their respective sections of Massachusetts, having had considerable experience and are not afraid to take a little punishment.

McCarthy-Monty

A local boy, Tommy McCarthy, tackles Jack Monty of Providence in a preliminary bout, and the former is chosen to come out the winner. McCarthy of late has been fighting in Newark, N. J., section under Manager Freda and has been putting up a nice style of fighting. He, with Jimmy Quinn of Norwich, is the only local leather pusher to appear on the card. Quinn is scheduled to fight Joe Spasato of Westerly in the opening bout and incidentally engage in his first professional fight after a very successful stay in the amateur ranks. Quinn is a very smart boxer and is conceded a good chance to win over the Westerly boy by a decision.

Other Bouts

Two other preliminary fights that are certain to interest the fans are those between Johnny Murphy of Providence and Young Philips of New London with Larry McManus of Providence stacking up against Johnny Rish of New Bedford.

As a getter of goats this game golf has all other forms of recreation, etc., beat a thousand ways.

During my recent vacation the male half of our little love nest insisted that I take up the game. And like every other woman, I suppose, I thought I could go out and give him strokes and beat him.

You know he don't play such a terrible fast game, so I made up my mind that he was going to find that I wasn't such a dub as he thought I'd be. I wasn't, I was worse.

I get a brand new set of clubs and bag and I found the bag was the only thing I could use in accepted style as I had a caddy. Well, we started out or at least we went to the first tee to start.

He very graciously drove first and said: "Now, you do the same." I simply smiles to myself, making the mental comment that if I couldn't do as good I'd sell the club and buy a croquet set. Well, as I said before, golf can get your goat. It did, has and always will I guess.

Well, I tee up the ball in the approved fashion, take a coupla practice swings like the battle-axe did and then steps nonchalantly up to the ball to poke it down the fairway. I poked it all right but somehow that ball ducked just in time and the force of the poke simply dislodged it from the tee.

Still smiling, I tee it up again and repeat but this time the ball ducks and I miss completely. It was then that I realized that my goat was tugging strongly at its tether. Then once more I try. This time I manage to fool the ball and smack it one. It rolled under some trees in the long grass and I spent a few minutes digging it out.

Meantime the boy friend was simply smiling very quietly to himself. It's a good thing he smiled quietly for I bet I wouldn't miss him like I did the ball. Well, things went from bad to worse and my little goat was gamboling all over the pastures. I repeated all the words I never and then invented some brand new ones.

And to make matters worse, my esteemed husband who was becoming less esteemed every minute, said: "Listen, Sue old dear, if you'd hold your club this way and swing this way and keep your shoulder this way with your knee bent this way you'd be all right." Well that just about burned me up. How in time could anyone remember all those things at once and still hit the ball.

But I choked back what I thought about him and tried it. Wow, you should have seen the mess I made of it. But it gave me an opening and I says: "There, see I did everything you said but I didn't even hit it." "Well," says he, "You didn't keep your head down." "You didn't tell me to do that and besides I think my own way is best," I comes back.

"Go ahead and play your own way if you want and see if I care," he says kind of disgusted like. So I did and the more I missed the more mad I became. I guess I played about three holes before I decided that I'd had enough and I quit.

But believe me, no game of golf is going to lick me and I'm going to learn to play that game if I have to live to be 110 to do it.

Just let me tell any of you folks who think it's a kid's game and that you can play it without practice you got a big surprise coming to you—and how.

KILLEFER FINES FERRELL $50 FOR DUMB PLAY

ST. LOUIS, May 28—(AP)—Rick Ferrell, catcher for the St. Louis Browns, was fined $50 today by Manager Bill Killefer for what the manager termed a "dumb play" in yesterday's game with the Detroit Tigers.

It was the seventh inning, the Tigers were at bat and runners were on first and second when Sorrell, Tiger pitcher, bunted. The ball rolled outside the foul line and then back into fair territory. Ferrell picked it up in time, Killefer said, to force a runner at third, but instead stood there holding the ball until all three runners were safe.

JONES DEFEATS TOLLEY, DEFENDING CHAMP, IN THRILLING 19-HOLE MATCH

By FRANK H. KING
Associated Press Staff Writer

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland, May 28—(AP)—In a great 19 hole match with a thrilling finish which will add to the centuries of St. Andrews' golf annals, Bobby Jones today defeated Cyril Tolley, holder of the British amateur title for which the American open champion is campaigning and the only one he needs to complete his list of major golf honors.

Jones started his hard day of golf at 9 o'clock this morning against Cowan Shankland, with 500 early risers trailing, and with Tolley finished a terrific fight with crowds estimated at from 10,000 to 12,000 racing after them in uncontrollable excitement.

It was a golfing crowd second only in size to the gallery which saw Jones win the open title here in 1927.

Bobby's matches were the feature of the third day of championship play, but other Americans advanced to the fifth round with him by successfully battling the winds and difficult putting conditions.

Jimmy Johnston, George Von Elm and Francis Ouimet each won two matches and George Voight the one he had to play. Roland MacKenzie, after eliminating H. L. Holden in the morning fell before Kenneth Grief, St. Andrews' star, in the afternoon, reducing the Walker cup survivors to five.

Ouimet made a great comeback in the morning, forging from behind to win at the 21st.

Dr. O. F. Willing and Don Moe today saw the players who defeated them yesterday, William Spark and Rex Hartley, removed from the competition.

As for the remainder of the 30 Americans of all ranks, with the exception of Douglas Grant, who has long lived in London, they have gone the way all golfers go who can not solve the varied and changing problems these famous old fairways and huge putting greens present.

Against the American bidders for the title the British still can muster strong opposition. Roger Wethered, seems to have found his old time form and T. A. Torrance is going strong. John Nelson Smith, William Sutton, and Major C. O. Hezlet are others capable of going through.

Jones, Johnston and Voight are in the upper half of the draw and if they win their morning matches the open and amateur champions of the United States will clash tomorrow afternoon.

Conditions of play generally continued today as perplexing as was the case yesterday with a 30 mile wind whistling directly across the fairways.

After defeating Shankland, five up and three to play, Jones garbed himself in heavier plus fours and sweaters than he had worn in the morning match and entered on his nerve racking clash with Tolley.

From the outset the match developed into a terrific battle with neither player ever more than one hole in the lead. The match was squared six times.

The play was adventurous all the way with the drives scattering the crowds at many holes, Jones' shots hit spectators four times and while he received a lucky break at the 17th when his ball bounded back on the green he was equally unlucky at the ninth when his ball bounded from a spectator deep into whin bushes, completely out of sight.

Tolley's tremendous drives coming home were among the longest shots ever seen at St. Andrews.

Jones made a great putt at the 17th to halve the hole with birdie fours and Tolley made good a difficult one at the home hole to halve and carry the fight on to the 19th.

After each player had had three shots at the extra hole Jones' ball was within inches of the cup while Tolley was seven feet away and directly behind his opponent's ball. It was a dead stymie and the British champion had to make an effort to jump it. He failed and the great match was over.

File $10,000 Damage Suit Against Mandell

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 28—(AP)—Advised that Sammy Mandell, world's lightweight champion, had cancelled his Speedway eve fistic engagement with Spug Myers, Pocatello, Idaho, here tomorrow night, the management of the Washington Athletic club, promoting the bout, announced tonight they will file a $10,000 damage suit against the champion.

In addition, they said, Mandell will face the possibility of an attachment of the receipts of his next titular battle, and charges will be filed with the National Boxing association which may result in his indifinite suspension from the ring.

Mandell's decision to cancel the local engagement was based on the grounds "that the hall was too small for staging the fight," according to the promoters. Attorneys will bring the action against Mandell and his co-managers, Eddie Kane and Teddy Bodkins.

Eddie Shea, Chicago, and Billy DeFoe, St. Paul, Minn., featherweights, have been engaged for the ten-round headliner tomorrow night.

BIG DEAL BETWEEN REDS AND GIANTS IS COMPLETED

NEW YORK, May 28—(AP)—The biggest major league baseball swap of the season was completed today by the New York Giants and Cincinnati Reds, each with the hope that the results will improve their chances in the sensational National league pennant race.

Although made public as two separate transactions, the trade involves altogether the shipment of Larry Benton, right-handed pitching veteran, and Pat Crawford, slugging young infielder, to Cincinnati in exchange for Second Baseman Hughey Critz, Outfielder Ethan Allen and Pitcher Pete Donohue.

CAMEL
Don't look for premiums or coupons, as the cost of the tobaccos blended in CAMEL Cigarettes prohibits the use of them.
MANUFACTURED BY R. J. REYNOLDS TOBACCO CO. WINSTON-SALEM, N.C.

READ AGAIN the familiar message on the back of the Camel package. . . . Camel, introduced in 1913, when other cigarette brands were offering all sorts of premiums and similar inducements, jumped into leadership solely on the basis of its built-in goodness.

That statement, spread throughout the world each day on millions upon millions of Camel packages, stands as your guarantee of the maximum in smoke pleasure. It reaffirms on every package of Camels the steadfast aim to give smokers a cigarette in which every possible bit of the cost is put into real smoke-quality.

The delightful natural fragrance of Camel's choicer tobaccos, combined in the smooth, mellow harmony of a blend beyond imitation—that's what made Camel the world's foremost cigarette—and keeps it just that.

PENDLETON HILL

It is safe to say that the local missionary quota of nearly two hundred dollars, and which is paid in monthly installments, has been subscribed up to the month of November of the present year.

The baked bean and salad supper, with cake and coffee, given by the Ladies' Sewing society at the parsonage, was the usual success and netted a tidy sum.

The Sewing society held an all-day meeting at the parsonage Wednesday. The luncheon consisted of corned beef, lima beans, peas, warm biscuit and rhubarb, cake, peaches and coffee. The members completed a handsome quilt on which they have spent much time and tied and bound it. Two others of the same pattern brought ten dollars each.

Mrs. Vernon Thompson presented the Sewing society blocks, enough to complete a quilt. Mrs. Thompson's work is excellently done.

It is hoped that there may be a sizeable representation from this place at the home economics picnic to be held June 3rd at Mohican park, to hear Dr. Caroline Hedgers lecture on Health in the Home.

The Luckies in 4-H club of girls led by Mrs. Clifford B. Thompson, has a very successful record. Several of this group will attend Storrs short course this summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Johnson (Rose Crumb) are soon to take up their residence at Ashaway, R. I.

Harry Kenyon and Green brought a party from Providence, Arthur Billings, a party from Oak Lawn, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Colvin and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Potter had, with them Mrs. Mary Anna Sandford and Mrs. Charles Cottrell. Others came from North Stonington, Ashaway, Westerly, New Bedford Mass., and other places. The next will be a strawberry supper.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Cottrell and daughter, Doris, were supper guests Monday of Mr. Cottrell's brother, Charles and family.

Henry Johnson and Thomas Wheeler, who attended the sheep shearing demonstration at the C. V. B. Cummings estate in Woodstock, report a remarkable lunch of sandwiches, fruit, cake, with coffee as well as a fine demonstration, a real picnic party attended and enjoyed by nearly a thousand farmers of eastern Connecticut.

There were no services at the Hill church Sunday, owing to the rain.

SUMMER CLOSING TIMES IN CONNECTICUT COMMUNITIES

A survey of summer store closing schedules issued by the Connecticut chamber of commerce shows that out of a total of 44 communities, the merchants in 21 cities have decided to close Wednesday afternoons during the summer months, while those in a few communities will close Thursday or Saturday afternoons. Eighteen of the smaller towns in Connecticut will not participate in any store closing program, inasmuch as they cater to summer vacationists and their business is greater in summer months than during the winter.

In eastern Connecticut the communities' summer closing schedules will be in effect as follows:

A HISTORY OF CONNECTICUT INDUSTRY

Released by Manufacturers Association of Connecticut,

I. S. Spencer's Sons, Inc., Guilford.

The business, established in 1857, by Isaac Stowe Spencer and his son, Christopher, proved to be the small beginning from which grew the present company of I. S. Spencer's Sons, Inc.

On the death of the father, another son, George B. Spencer, came into the business, who after its incorporation following the death of the elder brother in 1902, became its president. He remained as such until his death in 1904 when the business passed on to members of the third generation.

At the outset, it manufactured plows and axle boxes for New York busses, which lines were gradually replaced with other demands. Within the past few years, art metal novelties have been manufactured in many varieties.

The consistent high quality of its products is universally recognized. In fact, the name Spencer is inseparably linked to the making of fine gray iron castings, while the allied lines of brass castings, scales and general hardware are equally well known.

The growth of the business has been in a conservative direction, and has always commanded the thorough confidence of its customers and the trade in general. Their generous support is largely responsible for the success achieved.

The present officers of the company are: F. C. Spencer, president and treasurer; C. E. Spencer, secretary.

POETRY

By The Margin Of The Great Deep

When the breath of twilight blows to flame the misty skies,
All its vaporous sapphire, violet glow and silver gleam
With their magic flood me through the gateway of the eyes;
I am one with the twilight's dream.

When the trees and skies and fields are one in dusky mood,
Every heart of man is rapt within the mother's breast!
Full of peace and sleep and dreams in their vasty quietude,
I am one with their hearts at rest.

From our immemorial joys of hearth and home and love
Strayed away along the margin of the unknown tide,
All its reach of soundless calm can thrill me far above
Word or touch from the lips beside.

Aye, and deep and deep and deeper let me drink and draw
From the olden fountain more than light or peace or dream,
Such primeval being as o'erfills the heart with awe,
Growing one with its silent stream.

—A. E.

To Butterfly

Do you remember how the twilight stood
And leaned above the river just to see
If still the crocus buds were in her hood,
And if her robes were gold or shadowy?
Do you remember how the twilight stood
When we were lovers and the world our Wood?

And then, one night, when we could find no word,
But silence trembled like a heart—like mine!—
And suddenly that moon-enraptured bird
Awoke and all the darkness turned to wine?
How long ago that was! And how absurd
For us to own a wood that owned a bird!

They tell me there are magic gardens still,
And birds that sleep to wake and dream to sing,
And streams that pause for crocus skies to fill;
But they that told were lover, and 'twas spring.
Yet why the moon tonight's a daffodil
When it is March—Do you remember, still?

—William Alexander Percy.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORY

Danny Meadow Mouse Finds a Neighbor

A song is always good to hear;
It means that happiness is near.
—Danny Meadow Mouse.

As you know, Danny and Nanny Meadow Mouse had their home on one side of the Green Meadows. They were living in an old tin can in the bushes. Being fond of the open meadows, as you know, Danny spent a great deal of time cutting private little paths in the grass of the Green Meadows. These little paths led from the edge of the bushes out to certain places on the Green Meadows where the grass was especially good.

Now, as Danny worked cutting these private little paths, he would stop every once in a while to listen to two beautiful songs. They seemed to come from the sky. In truth, they did come from up in the air. One was the song of Carol the Meadow Lark and the other was the song of Bubbling Bob the Bobolink. Danny knows the songs of many of the feathered folk, but he knows of none in which there is more joyousness than in the songs of these two lovers of the Green Meadows. For Carol the Meadow Lark and Bubbling Bob the Bobolink are meadowfolk.

"That was fine!" squeaked Danny

Although Danny had often stopped to listen, he had not given the subject much thought until one morning when he had carried a new path quite a distance out on the Green Meadows. Then it occurred to him that Carol the Meadow Lark seemed to be singing almost over his head. He looked up. There, just as he expected, was Carol. What a joyous song it was! Carol came down at the end of the song and it just happened that he alighted in the grass near Danny.

"That was fine!" squeaked Danny.

"What was fine?" asked Carol, pretending not to understand.

"That song," said Danny. Then he sighed and added: "I wish I could sing like that. Do you sing just for the pleasure of singing?"

"Sometimes," replied Carol. "Just then I was singing to Mrs. Meadow Lark. In fact, I do most of my singing to her. When she hears me singing to her, she knows that I am not far away."

"Where is she?" asked Danny quite bluntly.

"Just where she should be," replied Carol. "She is sitting on her eggs."

Danny was interested right away. "Do you mean that you and Mrs. Meadow Lark have a nest somewhere around here?" asked Danny.

"We have a nest," replied Carol, "and there are five eggs in it. I don't say that it is around here."

"You don't say it," said Danny, "but just the same I know it is. If you were singing to Mrs. Meadow Lark, that nest must be right near at hand."

"Oh," replied Carol, "my voice carries a long way. Mrs. Meadow Lark can hear me when I am halfway across the Green Meadows."

Danny grinned, but he didn't let Carol see him do it. He felt certain that that nest was very near. Carol wasn't fooling him a bit. "I am just wondering," said Danny, "if we are neighbors."

"Do you mean that you are living over here, Danny Meadow Mouse?" inquired Carol suspiciously.

"Of course I'm living over here," replied Danny. "You wouldn't find me here if I were not living here. Nanny and I have a home not far from here,—a very good home. Where did you say your home is?"

"I didn't say," replied Carol; and, spreading his wings, he mounted up, singing as he went.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Breed Theatre

Charles Farrell came to Hollywood with "Little Billy," vaudeville actor, and quit his job as manager to become a movie extra.

"Discovered" on Fox lot and given first lead in "Wings of Youth." Then played in Sennett comedies, and finally came back to Fox for a small role in "Sandy." Work in that picture won a long term contract.

Lasky borrowed him for lead in "Old Ironsides" and "The Rough Riders."

Won stardom rank with Janet Gaynor in "7th Heaven," starred in "Fazil," "The Red Dance," "The River," "City Girl," "Lucky Star," and "Sunny Side Up" and now scores his greatest success since "Seventh Heaven" in "High Society Blues."

This popular Fox actor portrays the leading masculine role in the all talking musical romance, "High Society Blues," now at the Breed theatre. Janet Gaynor is the other featured player in the Fox Movietone production directed by David Butler, and the supporting cast includes William Collier, Sr., Hedda Hopper, Lucien Littlefield, Louise Fazenda and Joyce Compton.

Palace Theatre

A double-feature bill which is decidedly worth seeing is now being presented at the Palace theatre with the showing of J. P. McEvoy's best seller in film form, "Show Girl in Hollywood," starring "America's Girl Friend" Alice White and Jack Mulhall and "Those Who Dance" a startling revelation of crime tactics with Monte Blue, Lila Lee, Betty Compson and William Boyd.

"Show Girl in Hollywood" relates the further adventures of Dixie Dugan and the playwright who crashed Hollywood with her and reveals many new phases of the lives of the stars. One of the most interesting features shows the filming of technicolor and this is something that is entirely new to most theatre-patrons. And how Alice White can sing and dance. She has plenty of pep and life and it is a pleasure to watch the enticing little blonde do her stuff.

Another fine crook drama has been made in "Those Who Dance" and it is the authentic story of an actual crime. Monte Blue is a policeman in disguise as a gangster, Miss Lee is his sweetheart, also a member of the gang, William Boyd is a sinister villian and Betty Compson as his girl plays a part unlike anything in which she has ever been cast before.

On Saturday the Palace will present Dolores Del Rio and Edmund Lowe in a romantic drama "The Bad One" in which Lowe exceeds the splendid work he did in "The Cock-Eyed World," "What Price Glory," and "In Old Arizona."

The popularity contest is going strong, every theatre patron should make an effort to attend the Palace more frequently than ever to avail himself of the opportunity to cast his votes for the girl in Norwich who best deserves a trip to Atlantic City and a lovely wardrobe of clothes to take along with her. Do it now and every time you think of it go to the Palace and cast five more votes.

Broadway Theatre

Hallie Hobart, young, zippy, dimpled and coolly calculating, was an avowed gold-digger, to whom men meant just nothing, outside of a possible addition to the bank account. Manhandling, or "pawing" as she derided it, was not in her code—love, just a word with no meaning to her whatever. But despite herself, Dan Cupid butted in and the sneering little cynic found herself married!—and happily, too, until she and her newfound hubby invaded the paternal homestead in the Minnesota wheat belt. There she found herself up against an unremitting, hide-bound Puritanism, with the father and elder brother determined that a woman of her "kind" should not be a part of their family. Then and there Hallie's Irish asserted itself, and a series of thrills ensued that will keep you on the edge of your seat in Nancy Carroll's first emotional role in "The Devil's Holiday" which opened at the Broadway yesterday and continues through today and tomorrow. Her supporting cast was admirably chosen including Hobart Bosworth, James Kirkwood, Phillips Holmes, Paul Lukas, Ned Sparks and other leading filmsters, but the burden of this stirring film sensation rests squarely on the slim shoulders of dainty Miss Carroll who carries off all the honors. The kiddies are not forgotten on the program, either for there is an Our Gang comedy, Chief Shuntanona and his U. S. Indian Reservation Band, Eddie Buzzell in "The Pet Shop," and other interesting featurettes, in addition to the latest Fox movietone news. Tomorrow, Memorial day, the program is continuous from 1:30 p. m.

IN NORWICH FIFTY YEARS AGO

Wednesday, May 19, 1880—The shad fishermen at the Greeneville dam caught 600 pounds of fish yesterday. The shad are running larger than usual in the Shetucket river and a large number weighing above six pounds are caught daily.

Powers Bros., then located on Main street, distributed part of the above catch.

Shetucket river shad are but a memory, but Powers Bros. are bringing just as freshly caught shad, directly from the Connecticut river early in the morning.

Look for the Red Arrow Place, 16 Bath street, or phone 114 for other fresh caught varieties.

WESTERLY

PLAINTIFF ON STAND WHEN COURT ADJOURNS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WESTERLY, R. I., May 28—Witnesses for the plaintiff continued on the stand at 4:30 p. m. at the close of Wednesday's session of Washington County Superior court before Judge Pouliot, in the $15,000 automobile damage case, Lewis Solomon vs. the Whitall Electric Co. begun at the morning session. The following jury was impaneled: Ernest L. Caswell, foreman, South Kingstown; Frederick J. McCarron, Richmond; George A. Matherson, North Kingstown; Benjamin C. Locke, South Kingstown; Edwin Fisher, Charlestown; Walter W. Sherman, North Kingstown; William [illegible], Westerly, challenged and excused; Henry F. Deady, Exeter; Ronald G. Hinchliffe, South Kingstown; Herman A. Garlick, North Kingstown; Charles D. Miner, Westerly; Wells R. Fowler, Westerly and Attilio Fraquelli, Westerly.

The plaintiff, Lewis Solomon was on the stand Wednesday night and will be the first witness this (Thursday) morning. He seeks to recover damages as the result of being struck and knocked down on Broad street shortly after 6:30 p. m., Dec. 5, 1929, by the motor truck of the Whitall Co. driven by an employe, Leonard J. Wells. The plaintiff was represented by Attorney John Ferguson and the defendant by Attorney Clifford Kingsley and Clarence E. Roche. The judge when it was learned that trial in the case would last two days at least, dismissed all spare jurors, to report Monday morning next at 10:45. Both parties to the suit agreed to a jury view and in custody of Sheriff Fred T. Mitchell and Deputy Sheriffs Bull and Edwards, Judge Pouliot, the attorneys and jurymen filed down Union street to Broad street to inspect the site of the accident in the highway between the Washington Trust building and the Traggis block at the corner of High and Broad street. On returning to the court room Jerome B. Solomon, son of the plaintiff who drove his father to a parking place near the trust building on the night in question, was the first witness. He testified that his father was struck and knocked down as he passed from the rear of the car to cross the street.

Other cases set down to follow the Solomon-Whitall case are J. R. Champlin vs. J. G. Phelps Stokes; Margaret W. Smith vs. Nancy M. Browning; William H. Smith vs. Nancy M. Browning; A. M. Gencarelli & Co. vs. Frank Cella and Jimmy Durkin vs. Stanley Dreczko et al.

Other witnesses for the plaintiff Wednesday were Officer Paul McCarthy, Mrs. Elizabeth W. Meikle, John Douglas, Dr. J. Gordon Anderson, Engineer A. L. Leon and the plaintiff.

BRAND OF CIGARETTES MAY CONVICT PONTRIE

The Westerly police are checking up on a possible solution of the week end break at the High street grocery store of William Segar and Company. A man, 22, is being held who gives the name of Joseph Pontrie, of 69 Cross street, Fall River, Mass., but is believed to be Joseph Pontrie alias Joseph Bulsky, who has a court record.

The man was picked up in Noank, Conn., at about 3:15 o'clock Wednesday morning by Patrolman John F. Scroggins, who became suspicious of the stranger, who was carrying a sack on his back. The officer stopped the man and inspected the sack. He then notified Officers Peabody and McGarret of the railroad police in New London, who questioned him. The man, it is claimed, told the railroad police he had found the articles in the sack in Pawcatuck and he was bound for New York to dispose of them.

The contents of his sack proved to be cigarettes, cigars and candy which checked up with that stolen at the Segar store. There was one particular brand of cigarettes stolen from the store which is not carried in many places. Pontrie had them with him. The young man was brought to Westerly and locked up to await further investigation. The police say they have a record showing that he has served 18 months in the Elmira, N. Y., reformatory and 10 days at Deer Island. He was arrested in New York, the police claim, on a charge of attempted burglary.

"TAKE THAT AND THAT, YOU DOG!" denounced CRUSHER KAZOULIAN

"Even a cauliflower ear can stand just so much—the dreary din of your fog-horn voice goads me to violence."

"Blow the boloney, bozo," rasped Wire-nail Welch, his opponent. "Do I get a return match?"

"What good is any kind of a match to you, you blighter? Unless you let the honey-smooth heart-leaf tobacco one-two that yowl and K. Try this TASTE TEST that helped thousands find their favorite ginger ale...

There are three types of ginger ale flavor . . . Golden, Pale Dry and Sec (extra dry). To know which one exactly suits you, we urge that you make the "Taste Test" described below

Clicquot Club
GINGER ALES

THERE are three types of ginger ale flavor sold today. And Clicquot Club makes all three. All are different, all are delightful.

But one of these ginger ales is sure to suit your taste better than either of the other two. And because it is not generally known that ginger ale comes in three different flavors, we are urging people everywhere to test their tastes and find which flavor suits them best.

As a result of making this simple test, thousands of people now get greater pleasure than ever before from drinking ginger ale. They have found the flavor that suits them perfectly.

The Test—To make this test you go to your dealer and get a bottle of Clicquot Club Golden, a bottle of Clicquot Club Pale Dry and a bottle of Clicquot Sec. Sample them all, one by one. Note the mellowness that is characteristic of them all. And note the difference in their flavor.

Clicquot Club Golden has long been known as a delightful health beverage . . . Clicquot Club Pale Dry is famous for its flavor either in recipe drinks or alone . . . and Clicquot Sec for that luscious "drier" flavor. You are sure to find, in one of these ginger ales, exactly the flavor you have always been looking for.

Same Quality Ingredients—Pure table sugar, fine Jamaica ginger root, real fruit flavors and pure water from deep rock springs . . . these are the ingredients that go into all three Clicquot Club Ginger Ales. The difference in flavor comes from the difference in blend, for each of these three has its own exclusive formula.

As a further evidence of their goodness and purity, all Clicquot Club Ginger Ales are put up in clean, new bottles. The all too common practice of using second-hand bottles is not countenanced here.

Aged Six Months in the Making—The rare, distinctive mellowness for which Clicquot Club Ginger Ales have long been famous comes from ageing six months in the making. This process is a secret with the Clicquot Club Company—a carefully guarded secret known to the makers of no other ginger ale. That is why you can never expect to duplicate Clicquot Club flavor, never find it in any ordinary ginger ale.

Therefore we urge you to go to your dealer and make the "Taste Test" today. It will show you beyond all question which ginger ale best suits your taste.

Hear the famous Clicquot Club Eskimos every Friday night at 9 o'clock over WEAF and associated stations.

PROMINENT STOCKS CLOSED HIGHER IN IRREGULAR SESSION OF THE MARKET

NEW YORK, May 28.—(AP)—Returns from the security and commodity markets were generally colorless and indecisive today. Professional stock traders made valiant efforts to swing the list one way or the other and only succeeded in making it irregular. Bonds were dull, despite another easing in time money. Grain prices fluctuated narrowly.

The share market was lagging in normal pre-holiday fashion until the last hour. In that interval bullish pool operations in a few issues drew out covering elsewhere and sales during the last 60 minutes accounted for 25 per cent of the day's total business, which was 2,405,350 shares. The prominent stocks, with the exception of the rails and related issues, closed higher. There were several new highs for the year, but a larger number of new lows.

Wall street has become accustomed to unfavorable news and paid little attention to the announcement that steel operations had declined to 73 1-2 per cent of capacity against 75 per cent last week and 76 per cent two weeks ago. The fact that U. S. Steel was being maintained at recent levels drew some encouraging comment, and there was also a ray of good cheer in the weekly trade reviews. Iron Age said that although demand and prices continued to sag, there was a noticeable improvement in some lines, especially pipe and reinforcing bars. The survey also called attention to the prospect that the present rate of automobile production would be maintained and to the sustained activity among shipbuilders and road machinery manufacturers. There was no relief from the series of poor railroad earnings statements. The first 70 carriers reporting April operating income showed a decrease of 33 per cent over the same month a year ago, although this figure represented an improvement from the March comparison. Liquidation of the railroad stocks continued, with Southern railway, Atchison, Missouri Kansas Texas, Baltimore & Ohio, Chesapeake & Ohio, Great Northern preferred, Reading and New York Central selling down 1 to 5 points. Part of the losses were recovered in some instances. Rail equipment shares were conspicuously soft. Pullman and New York Airbrake made new lows. General American Tank Car joined the decline on large offerings.

Utilities featured the morning trading and American and Foreign Power, Detroit Edison, North American, Standard Gas and Electric and Stone and Webster carried through gains of 1 to nearly 5 points. The group yielded place to the petroleum and food shares in subsequent hours, the former responding to the signs of improvement in the industry. Standard Oil of New Jersey was the leader and crossed 80, showing a net gain of 1 3-4. Buying in the food division, which has profited by the low prices of staples, carried National Biscuit, United Biscuit common and preferred, Coca Cola "A" and the Hershey Chocolate issues to new highs for the year. Park & Tilford was also strong.

U. S. Steel, which sells ex-dividend tomorrow, did well and reached 175. It, as well as General Electric and Westinghouse Electric, rose a point on the day, while American Can, Continental Can, Vanadium, Radio, International Harvester, Eastman Kodak, Fox Film and J. I. Case improved somewhat more. American Rolling Mill and Lambert went to new lows, but were supported by short covering. Great Western Sugar made a new low on the dividend reduction.

The credit situation was decidedly favorable. Time money rates, pared a quarter of a per cent in the short maturity, are now at the lowest levels in about ten years. There was a contraction in the supply of funds available in the outside call market at 2 1-2 per cent, but otherwise there was no indication that both the month-end and a holiday, with their heavy monetary requirements, were at hand.

The decline in bar silver persisted, carrying the quotation down to the lowest since 1833. In consequence, Far Eastern exchanges softened again, but European rates firmed.

Wheat was up 1-2 to 7-8 of a cent at the close on reports of dry weather in Canada and a frost forecast for Illinois. Corn was an eighth higher to an eighth lower, while cotton was equally quiet, net unchanged to 9 points higher. Sugar was dull.

BOND MARKET

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, May 28.—(AP)—Not even further easing of time money rates, already close to lowest levels, aroused the bond market from its lethargy today. The day's trading in listed bonds cut a ragged pattern and the net result left the price levels unchanged.

The activity of the bond market has been particularly disappointing this week. It started dull and irregular with the smallest volume for the year, and the past two days have not added lustre to the tone. Here and there prices have improved, but generally narrowly. That was true today when prime bonds held firm, while others were depressed. Stock privilege issues gave a mediocre performance.

Money rates are now at the lowest point in a decade. Call money has continued for a prolonged period at 3 per cent, and time loan rates are gradually pared. Today the short maturities were cut.

Obligations of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul & Pacific recovered from the depression of the past fortnight to make a good gain. The adjustment 5s were up 2 points, and 5s of '75, up 1 point. An extensive turnover in Missouri Pacific 4s left the price unchanged. Baltimore & Ohio convertible 4 1-2s and Great Northern 7s yielded 1-4 of a point on heavy accumulations.

Liquidation of a substantial block of American Metals 5 1-2s drove the price down 1 7-8 points to a new 1930 low. Colorado Fuel and Iron 5s touched a new high for the year on a 2-point rise. Pathe Exchange warrant 7s continued down grade, losing more than 4 points. Yesterday the bonds lost 6 1-2 points.

United States governments showed quiet strength with treasury issues most in demand. Treasury 4 1-4s advanced 6-32 and Liberty first 4 1-4s rose 7-32 to make the greatest improvement.

Foreign bonds ruled steady. Chile Republic 6s of '61 lost 1 7-8 points and Japan government 5 1-2s eased on extensive trading. German governments and industrials were steady to firm, reflecting the stimulus to buying of these issues given by the approach of the German annuity issue. Unconfirmable reports today indicated the $85,000,000 American portion may be out Monday, priced at 91.

Treasury Balance

WASHINGTON, May 28 — (AP) — Treasury receipts for May 26 were $11,989,012.36; expenditures $6,404,778.80; balance $122,754,580.01.

Stockholders of the United Cigar Stores Company of America have approved reduction of the par value of common stock from $10 to $1, and subsequently to no par value in effecting a recapitalization. George Morrow, president, said average net sales for the first four months showed a 15 per cent increase over the corresponding period of 1929.

THE CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, May 28.—(AP)—The curb market showed new signs of life today, as a selection of utility, oil and specialty stocks made substantial headway in the most active trading in this market since early last week. Total sales were close to 1,000,000 shares.

Electric Bond and Share was again a leader, rising more than 2 points in heavy trading. Electric Power and Light A warrants, American and Foreign Power warrants, and Northern States A rose 2 to 3 points. American Super Power and Niagara Hudson were active but failed to make headway. American Gas yielded a couple of points of yesterday's 8-point gain in profit taking, and Associated Gas was soft.

The natural gas issues were fairly active, particularly United Gas new, which rose more than a point. Among the lower priced issues, Appalachian was firm on the news that it had completed plans for acquisition of a 75 per cent interest in Southwestern Natural Gas company. This will give Appalachian outlets to wider fields. It recently acquired a one-third interest in Memphis Natural Gas. Arkansas A was also a firm spot, but National Fuel sagged a point.

In the industrials, some of the recent weak spots rallied substantially. Deere rallied more than 6 points in short covering, in response to Wall street reports that the lull in farm implement buying had been comparatively moderate for this company. Technicolor, which recently dropped to new low ground, sold up about 5 points in response to announcement by Warner Brothers, that it will feature technicolor films in 1931 program. Taylor Milling, a comparatively inactive issue, rose more than 8 points to a new high at 33, and Aluminum company made a similar gain.

Detroit Aircraft was a firm spot in the aviation issues, selling up to 8 1-2, its high of the year. Wall street heard unconfirmable reports that this company, the fourth largest aircraft producer, was being sought by General Motors for its aviation combine. Two General Motors officials are on Detroit Aircraft's board.

In the oils, Gulf and Humble made moderate gains, but Cities Service sagged 3-4 in heavy trading. Root Refining reached another new top at 22. In the investment trusts, U. S. and Overseas sold up more than a point to a new 1930 peak at 23.

A weak spot was Art Metal Works, which dropped 4 points to a new low for the year at 17.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, May 28.—(AP)—Notable upturns in wheat values took place today, but the market reacted later because of selling to realize profits. Unfavorable crop advices from the southwest and northwest, and from Ohio and Indiana as well, with France and Italy reporting crop deterioration, too, had a stimulating effect on buyers. An outstanding feature was that much wheat southwest appeared to be making less progress than improved weather would warrant.

Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled, 1-2 to 1c a bushel higher than yesterday's finish. Corn closed irregular, ranging 3-4a7-8c decline to 1-4c advance, with oats a shade off to 1-8c up, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 12c.

Provisions averaged higher, responsive to upturns in the value of hogs.

NEW YORK, May 28.—(AP)—Unconfirmable reports in Wall street say that the American portion of the German annuity loan under the Young plan, will be offered next Monday. The report fixed $85,000,000 as the amount, 5 1-2 per cent as the interest rate, and 1965 as the maturing date.

Wall street heard today that General Aviation corporation, new aircraft holding company formed by General Motors around the nucleus of Fokker, was negotiating for the Detroit Aircraft corporation but the report could not be confirmed. General Motors is already represented on Detroit Aircraft's board.

CUB'S PENNANT HOPES STAGGERED BY SUDDEN DEATH OF HAL CARLSON

CHICAGO, May 28.— (AP)—Pennant hopes of the Cubs, already staggered by a series of injuries to several of their outstanding stars, received perhaps a knockout shock today with the sudden death of Hal Carlson, one of the veteran mainstays of the pitching staff.

Death overtook the Cub pitching ace at 3:35 a. m. at his apartment in a Northside hotel. He arose shortly after 2 a. m. after a sleepless night, called in his teammates, Riggs Stephenson, Kiki Cuyler and Cliff Heathcote, but died shortly after the Cub physician, Dr. John F. Davis, arrived.

Dr. Davis said death was caused by hemorrhage of the stomach. Carlson had been suffering from ulcers of the stomach for two years and often predicted just such a death as overtook him this morning. He was 36 years old, married and the father of a three-year-old child. His home was in Rockford, Ill.

Funeral services are to be held in Rockford Saturday afternoon. A brief ceremony was held here tonight with the Cubs attending. The Cincinnati-Chicago game, scheduled for tomorrow, has been postponed in respect for the veteran ball player.

Carlson was one of the few members of the Cub pitching staff to cause any comfort to Manager Joe McCarthy this season. A veteran of many campaigns, he possessed remarkable control and a good change of pace that not only won many games for the champions but saved almost as many in the relief role. His career was blighted by an oversight during the World war when it was decided to eliminate the "spitball" pitchers. In the list of those employing the "spitter" Carlson was omitted by error and he was forced to start all over again, his protests for inclusion in the list being of no avail. He came to the Cubs three years ago from Boston for $30,000 and two players, Kaufmann and Cooney.

While nothing official was heard, it was known tonight the Cubs are already looking for some one to take Carlson's place, preferably a veteran. The Cub pitching staff, as a whole, has been a big disappointment to McCarthy and the Wrigley purse is wide open if dependable pitchers can be bought at any reasonable price.

Carlson's death climaxes a series of blows to Cub pennant hopes. Not once during the season have the champions been able to put on a solid front. Rogers Hornsby is still handicapped by his sore right heel and while he is playing, he may be jerked any day for a long rest. The extent of his injury is mystifying and only last night he remarked that the average fan knew about as much about it as he did. Riggs Stephenson, hard hitting outfielder, who has been out of the game most of the season, is playing under the handicap of a bad shoulder and he, too, may be forced to the bench again. Third Baseman Lester Bell, purchased last winter in an attempt to plug up the weak spot of the lineup, is out again with his sore arm, while Guy Bush, one of the pitching aces of the Heydler circuit last year, is far from his usual form. Bush is under weight and probably will not come close to his 1929 record.

BILL TILDEN AND AUSSEM DETHRONE DEFENDING CHAMPS

AUTEUIL, France, May 28.—(AP)—The capture of the mixed doubles championship by Bill Tilden and his young German partner, Cecilie Aussem, and the stubborn opposition encountered by Mrs. Helen Wills Moody on her way to the fourth round in the singles featured the French hard court tennis tournament today.

Tilden and Fraulein Aussem dethroned the defending champions, Henri Cochet of France and Mrs. Eileen Bennett Whittingstall of England, in straight sets, 6-4, 6-4, in a somewhat tame and disappointing final match. Mrs. Moody was forced to produce her best game to defeat a courageous English girl, Phyllis Mudford, 6-3, 6-4.

Big Bill won in the singles from Nicholas Mishu of Rumania at 6-3, 6-0, 6-2, to reach the fourth round and two other American players also won in straight sets. Helen Jacobs, who seems at last to have struck her stride, defeated Anna Payot, Swiss champion, at 6-0, 6-2, to reach the quarter-finals. Wilbur Coen showed classy tennis in disposing of the left-handed Georges Glasser who ranks among the first 30 players in France, 6-0, 6-2, 6-3. Coen's fourth round match against Baron Humbert De Morpurgo of Italy should be the acid test for the Kansas City youth.

All three doubles events have been decided with the United States in possession of the biggest share of the honors. The women's doubles title went to the American combination of Mrs. Moody and Elizabeth Ryan, the men's doubles to Cochet and Jacques Brugnon of France and the mixed doubles to the German-American team of Fraulein Aussem and Tilden.

SHARKEY WORKS INDOORS BEFORE AUDIENCE OF 400

ORANGEBURG, N. Y., May 28.—(AP)—Jack Sharkey went back to work today after a two-day vacation and turned in an interesting exhibition of his boxing prowess. The big Boston sailorman boxed like a featherweight in three rounds with Johnny Grosso and King Soloman.

The cold weather forced Sharkey to work indoors but a crowd of 400 saw the drill. He punished Grosso severely in the second round with the New York battler. He weighed 201 pounds and announced that he would work every day from now on until his weight falls close to the 196 mark he desires.

BOOTES GREENE WILL HURL FOR N. F. A. AGAINST HARDING

One of the keenest rivalries that has sprung up in Connecticut high school athletics in the space of only a few years will be renewed here tomorrow when Warren Harding high of Bridgeport tackles the Academy at the campus. This will be their fourth Memorial day meeting and the Academy leads in victories by 2 to 1, although outscored 17 to 10.

Boots Green will carry the Academy baner on the mound tomorrow for his first start in one of the big home games. Greene has shown unmistakable signs of having the goods this year and, given support by the team, should give the Harding sluggers—the seven .300 hitters and all—a busy afternoon. Butsy Weisgraber will be in an outfield post, probably left, while the rest of the lineup is expected to be about the same as that which started against Windham.

Coach Jack Mead of Harding has four pitchers ready for the call, Altieri, Palmer, Marks and Houlihan, with the odds favoring either of the first two.

SEIBOLD PITCHES BOSTON TO VICTORY OVER PHIES

BOSTON, May 28—(AP)—After three postponements because of rain, the Braves and the Phillies got into action here today and Harry "Socks" Seibold, handed Boston a 3 to 1 victory.

VON PORAT KNOCKS OUT GAGNON IN SIXTH ROUND

CHICAGO, May 28—(AP)—Otto Von Porat knocked out Jack Gagnon in the sixth round of their ten round fight at the Chicago stadium tonight after knocking him down five times in previous rounds.

CHICAGO SCORES EARLY TO DEFEAT CINCINNATI, 6 TO 5

CHICAGO, May 28—(AP)—A drastic rearrangement of the Chicago Cubs lineup had its good effect in the first inning today and enabled the Cubs to defeat the Cincinnati Reds, 6 to 5. Chicago scored four runs in the opening frame.

STEWART TURNS IN 7TH VICTORY FOR ST. LOUIS

ST. LOUIS, May 28—(AP)—The St. Louis Browns, after losing three in a row to Detroit, defeated the Tigers today in the final game of the series, 4 to 2.

GIBBS DROPS BELOW .500 IN BATTING; STILL LEADING

Capt. Chubby Gibbs of the Academy has come to the big Memorial Day game with Warren Harding with one of the best averages that a Wildcat player has registered in the past four or five years. In 16 games Gibbs has batted for an average of .492 with 31 hits in 63 times at bat, which even eclipses for this stage of the season the work of such other noted Academy sluggers as Lloyd Jarvis, Johnny Greene, Buck LeCroix and Hal Cummings. Gibbs has dropped below the .500 mark for the first time with today's averages but is so close to the mark that a good day against the Bridgeporters will push him up and over again.

Mickey Breen, third baseman, is second with an average of .431 and is not out of the running for the batting crown by any means. He has been up 48 times and has socked out 23 hits. Bud Fontaine is third with .354 and of the regulars, Butsy Weisgraber, with .328, rounds out the 300 hitters. Speed Reardon is the fifth batter, having a mark of .289.

Gibbs has the most hits, 31, and the most total bases and runs batted in, 45 and 26, respectively. Alec Arico has scored 27 runs, for the lead in that department. Breen has seven doubles, Gibbs leads in triples with two and Gibbs and Mack Pepin are still tied in the home run race with two each. Gibbs has 13 stolen bases against eleven for Weisgraber and these two are tied for the sacrifice hit lead with two apiece.

The team average picked up five points during the last three games and is now .312.

The averages:

NEW LONDON DAUGHTER ACCUSES MOTHER OF THEFT AND NEGLECT

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, May 28. — Julia Leitkowsky was ordered tonight to appear in the police court tomorrow and defend a charge of theft of furniture, also a charge of failure to provide properly for her minor children. The complaint that resulted in the summons of the woman was made by her daughter. From all indications a family feud will be aired when Judge Daniel M. Cronin takes the bench.

George A. Cone, 57 Pequot avenue, made a complaint to the police this afternoon that boys returning from school were causing him much annoyance because of their running across hedges and destroying his flowers.

Parking Laws Ignored

Parkers continue to refuse to adhere to the traffic regulations and as a result of the apparent indifference, several autoists have been ordered to present themselves in the police court tomorrow. Among those who violated the ordinances are: Lester A. Chappell, 29 West street, overtime parking on State street; Beatrice T. Bourke, 2 Converse lane, charged with the same violation. Martha J. Johnson, Essex, was arrested, charged with overtime parking on State street, but she was released with a warning to adhere to the traffic regulations in the future.

The Savings Bank of New London has improved its garage entrance on North Bank street materially, for today a force of masons installed a complete cement driveway to each of the series of spaces, so that wet or stormy weather in the future will not be a hindrance to the users of the garage. Heretofore, the drivers were compelled to use a dirt surface in order to enter or leave the stalls.

Reckless Driving

Aleo Guisti, 50 Smith street, was arrested this evening by Patrolman George Bruhns upon complaint of Louis Levine, charged with reckless driving. Guisti will explain in the police court tomorrow. The arrest was made following a near collision between cars that Guisti and Levine were driving, Levine alleging that Guisti was at fault.

The oarsmen and coaches arrived at Gales Ferry shortly before 3 o'clock. Tomorrow the crews will take their preparatory row on the river. Harvard is scheduled to go to Red Top Sunday afternoon.

Employes of the city's highway department have been engaged for several days spreading tarvia on the macadam streets throughout the city and this work has been practically completed. It may be necessary before the summer is concluded to apply another coating, but ordinarily one application of the treatment is sufficient.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel has ordered the suspension of the drivers' licenses of Boleslaw Sefcik and Robert Seiger, suspended for driving while under the influence of liquor.

THIRD CONVICTION GETS PECKHAM TWO $200 FINES

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, May 28—Howard Peckham, 21 Howard street, was in court today on a charge of violation of the liquor law on two counts, keeping with intent to sell and possession. He pleaded guilty and was fined $200 and costs on each count. Peckham was arrested last Saturday night when a raiding force went to his home and found about 40 gallons of liquor of the home-made brand, together with about five gallons of gin essence. It was Peckham's third conviction of violation of the prohibition law.

SHIFTING HUSBANDS CUTS NO ICE WITH THE LAW

Joseph D. Kiera, Filipino stationed at the United States Coast Guard academy and Nina Doyle, a waitress, were tried in the police court today charged with lascivious carriage. They pleaded guilty and each was fined $50 and costs and paid. Kiera entertained the opinion that because he had lived with the woman out of wedlock about a year and a half at 76 Golden street and had permitted the latter to use his name that he was immune from punishment for the crime that resulted in his arrest. Kiera became angered when the Doyle woman sent him a letter stating that she had decided to discontinue relations with him because of the return from the south of Alfred Morin, a chief petty officer stationed at the submarine base, whom Nina declared was her legal husband. Kiera declared that Morin was not married to the woman, nor never had been. He went to police headquarters and related his story and it was then that the illicit relations of the couple were revealed; by his own admissions, the Filipino and the woman were equally guilty of misconduct, so both were arrested. Morin, who was detained at the submarine base until today, was not prosecuted in court, for although the sailor had rented an apartment and represented that he was married, the couple had not occupied it.

ELEVEN PINTS IN LOCKER COST BARUTY OVER $200

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, May 28—Joseph Baruty, proprietor of the store and locker room, 96 Main street, was also charged with violation of the liquor law, but on one count, keeping with intent to sell. He also pleaded guilty and was fined $200 and costs. It was Baruty's first arrest for this offense. Baruty's locker room was raided last Saturday evening when a search warrant was issued by Judge Daniel M. Cronin. Baruty was absent when the officers arrived at the locker room and he refused to go there that the lockers might be opened and searched. When Baruty persisted in remaining away from his establishment, the searchers forced the lockers and found 11 pints of whiskey secreted in them.

Edward F. Smith, 97 Truman street, charged with driving while under the influence of liquor, was fined $100 and costs. Smith, who is a painter was arrested last night by Automobile Patrol Officer Clarence Martin.

Two cases of intoxication were tried. One man who went to police headquarters intoxicated and for no good reason, was locked up by Desk Sergeant Frank Howard. He was sentenced to 10 days in jail. Hanna, Alleged Check Passer, Arrested in Groton his elusiveness, gave as his mother's maiden name that of Mary Azzline, this family name being one which it is said he has used promiscuously in signing fraudulent checks.

The check-up to date shows that Hanner has won for himself about $300 or more in fraudulent checks which he has succeeded in cashing, the majority of them in banks and the remainder in chain stores. Twenty-one different counts were listed against him at police headquarters in Willimantic tonight, where he was taken following his apprehension in Groton shortly after 5 o'clock. His case is scheduled for police court Thursday morning, but it is expected to be continued to allow further investigation.

Following his marriage in Taftville, May 20, Hanner and his bride took a honeymoon trip leading to Colchester, thence to Massachusetts and returned to Colchester; then to the home of Mrs. John Mullen on the outskirts of Groton. He was arrested tonight as he sat in an automobile in the center of Groton, the car bearing New York registration markers, 1L5406. The arrest was made by County Detective Wheeler, Deputy Sheriffs Ernest Holland and Lester H. Blish of this city, Chief McCarthy and Officer Edmund E. Griswold of the Groton police.

Hanner formerly resided in Plymouth and Fairhaven, Mass., and at 1120 Lafayette avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y., there under the name of Francisco Souza. Signing checks under the name of William Azzline, he began his known activities in this section by passing a check for $25 in a chain store at Norwich, April 2. He then came to Willimantic and realized cash on three checks, they being $20 at the Thread Mill Economy store, $20 at the High street A. & P., and $30 at the Willimantic Savings institute under the name of John B. Kelly. At the Savings institute his check was for $40, but he had the good will of leaving $10 in the savings deposit. He then returned to Norwich and passed another check for $25 on an A. & P. store there. At Plainfield National bank he deposited a worthless check without result. He then appeared at the Jewett City Trust company and at the Moosup Trust company, where he received no funds. At the Brooklyn Savings bank at Danielson he procured $20 in cash and a deposit of $15 out of a $35 check. In rapid succession he then victimized the following three banks for $20 each: The Windham County National, Danielson Trust of Danielson and the Putnam Savings bank. He then secured amounts of $5 to $25 from the following banks: National Bank of Commerce, New London; Milford Trust and Milford Savings of Milford, Conn.; the Morris Plan bank, First National and Middletown Savings of Middletown; Meriden National, Farmington Savings, Farmington, and the Thames Trust Co., Norwich.

All of the bank books which he secured from these institutions on the deposits which he made on part of the checks have been recovered, some of them on his person and others in a dress suitcase in his room. The investigators also found two checks for $35 each drawn on the Riverside Trust Co. of Hartford by William Smith, ready for cashing. Several of the checks which he succeeded in cashing during his Connecticut campaign were drawn on the Uncas Merchants National bank of Norwich and others on the Phoenix State Bank Trust company of Hartford.

It is expected that a broadcast of his arrest with a description of the young man will bring in many additional demands for his prosecution.

John Muldoon, father of six, was fatally injured when pinned between a pleasure car and an ice wagon in Port Chester, N. Y.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Possibility of Great Contralto's Coming

To be acclaimed by leading critics of America and Europe as "one of the world's greatest contraltos" is a rare and distinct honor, but to Katharine Meisle, leading contralto of the Chicago Opera company, belongs this recognition.

If the proposed plan for the Slater Hall Concert course for this coming fall and winter is successful, Miss Meisle will be the artist for one of the four delightful concerts—the others on the roster being the great violinist, Heifetz; George Meador, distinguished tenor, and the New York String quartette.

Not only is such general acclaim as the above given to Katharine Meisle, but after this last fall's season of opera in San Francisco and Los Angeles, where she had been one of the foremost figures, Marie Hicks Davidson said of her in the San Francisco Call: "Meisle is the greatest contralto of the world today. The mantle of the beloved Schumann Heinck has surely fallen on her shoulders."

Closing her opera and concert season last spring, she went abroad and made her European debut in June at the Cologne Opera, filling roles in "Il Trovatore," "Aida" and other operas, sang as soloist with the Kurhaus orchestra at Schveningen and was invited to sing at the Berlin State opera but was unable to accept the last invitation because of engagement to sing under the baton of Albert Coates at the Stadium concerts. She will, however, return to Europe again this season, at the close of her concert tour here, and will appear in recital and opera in leading German music centers. The Kolnische Zeitung of Cologne said of her: "An absolutely satisfying contralto with an extraordinary charm."

A supplementary list for the signatures of those who are desirous to see this splendid course of concerts realised under the new plan of promotion is now at Cranston's store or, if preferred, pledges may be given to Archibald Mitchell, 4th, or to Miss Ruth A. Hamilton.

WILL ADVISE NOLLE IN LAFAYETTE MAIN CASE

According to a statement made Wednesday by State's Attorney Arthur M. Brown, he will recommend to Judge Allyn L. Brown in criminal superior court that the case of the state against Lafayette Main, of North Stonington, be nolled. Mr. Main was bound over to the superior court by a justice court in Ledyard on a charge of illegal setting of traps.

Mr. Main defended himself personally, in the justice court, and was preparing to do likewise in the superior court if his case came to trial.

PREFERS NEW LONDON JAIL TO NORWICH

Found guilty of a charge of resistance, John J. O'Malley was sent to jail for 30 days by Judge Arthur F. Libby in the city court Wednesday morning. In addition O'Malley will have to work out $19.52, costs in the case. After the sentence had been pronounced O'Malley requested the court to send him to the jail in New London rather than to the local jail. He explained, through experience, that the jail in New London was a better place but the court informed the accused that the request could not be granted.

O'Malley was arrested some time ago after a disturbance on Thames street. Officer Albert Lamphere, while making the arrest, sustained injuries inflicted by O'Malley, that confined him to his home for 10 days. O'Malley bit the officer's finger, kicked him in the ribs and also on the knee. Accused denied all the charges but witnesses corroborated the officer's testimony. Since the arrest O'Malley was confined in jail awaiting the recovery of the officer so that the case could be disposed of.

HUBER, FOUND GUILTY, COLLAPSES AS JUDGE IS ABOUT TO GIVE SENTENCE

William S. Huber, 33, of 243 Broad street, was found guilty of arson by a jury in the criminal superior court Wednesday evening. The verdict was returned at 8:15 o'clock, d. s. t., and State's Attorney Arthur M. Brown immediately moved for sentence.

As Judge Allyn L. Brown was about to pronounce sentence, Huber swayed and collapsed. Court attendants caught him as he collapsed and he was taken to an ante room where he was attended by Dr. George H. Gildersleeve. Huber's wife collapsed immediately afterward and was also taken to an anteroom. Judge Brown immediately recessed the court. It was fully a half hour before Huber revived sufficiently to sit up and later he was removed to his home.

The jury had the case under consideration practically the entire afternoon and evening. They once reported to the court that they were unable to reach a verdict, but were sent back to the jury room by the judge. An hour later they were excused for supper, afterwards retiring to the jury room. At 8:15 o'clock the court was informed that the jury was ready to report and they filed into the court room rendering the verdict of guilty.

As soon as State's Attorney Brown moved for immediate sentence, Judge Brown started to address the accused. He spoke of the previous good record of the accused and was just about to pronounce sentence when Huber's collapse brought a halt to the court proceedings. Many men and women were in the spectators' seats when the verdict was rendered.

At 8:50 o'clock, d. s. t., Judge Brown re-convened the court. State's Attorney Brown moved that in view of the condition of the accused man, sentence be deferred until Friday morning, June 6, at 8:30 o'clock, standard time, and that the same bond be continued until that time. Judge Brown immediately adjourned the court until that date.

The maximum sentence for arson is five years in state's prison and the minimum one year with two months off for good conduct.

Most of Wednesday morning in the court session was occupied with the arguments, Attorney Joseph Shapiro, counsel for Huber, concluding his argument which he had begun Tuesday afternoon; and State Attorney Brown making the closing argument for the prosecution. Judge Brown delivered his charge to the jury, completing this about 1:30, when the jury was allowed to go to lunch, returning in an hour and taking up their deliberations in the jury room. Nothing was heard from them until about 5:20, when they came in and reported that they were unable to reach a verdict. Judge Brown sent them back again and after another hour had them recalled to the court room and directed that they be taken out to supper in charge of Deputy Sheriffs Oscar H. Main and Manuel Martin.

When the jurymen returned after supper, they deliberated for about 45 minutes before they returned a verdict that Huber was guilty of arson for the fire which took place about midnight on Saturday, Jan. 25, at the Turner-Stanton mill on Broad street.

The jury in the case was: William S. Case, John R. Fowler, Louis O. Potter, John D. Rogers, Norwich; Charles M. Geisthardt, Arthur C. Smith, Daniel Lynch, Preston; William K. Raymond, Colchester; Andrew G. Littlefield, Clark H. Standish, Lebanon; James W. Huntington and Lewis L. Starkweather, Franklin.

GRACE MEMORIAL CHURCH RAISING FURNACE FUND

At a recent meeting at Grace Memorial Baptist church, upon the suggestion of the pastor, Rev. S. F. Dickson, D. D., the members of the church decided to launch a campaign to raise funds of about $300 for the purchase of a new heating plant. A furnace is much needed in the church, as the present one is beyond repairs. To raise this fund, a very unique plan was suggested and put into action. The rally is called "The Twelve Tribes Rally," representing the twelve tribes of Israel. Each tribe is asked to bring in a good report in order that the required amount may be raised. This campaign will come to a close with an all-day service at the church Sunday, June 8. The pastor will have charge of the morning and evening services, while Rev. Edward W. Gantt, pastor of McKinley Avenue A. M. E. Zion church will preach at 3 p. m., also his choir will render the music. Mt. Calvary Baptist church Rev. H. B. Harris acting pastor, and McKinley Avenue A. M. E. Zion church will co-operate in this service.

The teams are made up with captains and lieutenants as follows: James Hackley and Lucius Dabney, Ben. F. Drake and C. Wood and E. Minnis, John Farrar and Peter Harris, Kenneth Thompson and Richard Mark, Fanny W. Dickson and Virginia Anderson, Josephine Hackley and Hattie Geer, Josephine Jenkins and Grace Whitford, Mary J. Greene and Kate Harris.

The church hopes that the pastor will be present at their rally. He, at the present time, is suffering from a broken arm, but is comfortable.

POST OFFICE HOURS FOR MEMORIAL DAY

The Norwich post office will be closed all day. Box holders will receive their mail as usual. Outgoing mails close at the usual time. The last mail for Boston and New York will close at 7:00 p. m. standard time. There will be a collection from the same boxes as those collected on Sundays at 3:00 p. m., standard time. As this is a national holiday, no deliveries will be made by either city or rural carriers. No money order business will be transacted at any of the sub-stations.

Coles Home Beautiful

One of the most attractive places in Norwich Town is that of Dr. and Mrs. Frank D. Coles, of 169 Harland road. The beautiful large lawn is at its best at this season. A stately horse-chestnut tree in full bloom stands in one corner at the extreme front. On either side of the front entrance are decorative ever-green trees and in various locations on the wide lawn are flowering shrubs of different colors, as well as a variety of shrubbery planted effectively. On the left of the driveway is a flower-bed containing a variety of the season's flowers and at one side of the garage is a bed of handsome pansies. Rose bushes, dahlias, peonies, asters, nasturtiums, phlox, tulips and other plants are included in this large space reserved for flowers. In the center of the lawn which now looks like a big green velvet carpet is a magnificent bed of tulips of various colors, from the center of which rises a tall, white flagpole. At the rear is a large vegetable garden, symmetrically laid out and in a thrifty condition. The beauty and fine lines of this modern home, with its attractive setting of nature's decorations, appeals to the many tourists that pass that way. Whenever he has leisure, Dr. Coles delights to improve the grounds and work among the flowers and shrubbery, assisting his caretaker, Edwin C. Gay.

Mr. and Mrs. John Dwyer of Webster, Mass., motored to Norwich Town Tuesday afternoon, and were callers on Mrs. Dwyer's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin L. Kennedy.

When the Intermediate C. E. society of the First Congregational church held its party Saturday afternoon on the lawn at the Hyde homestead, Washington street, the fifteen present including the leader, Miss Jessie E. Hyde and her faithful assistant in the C. E. work, Miss Ernest Washington, had a most enjoyable afternoon. A number of games were played in charge of Ruth Avery, and the hostess served punch. The party was from 3:30 to 8. Basket lunches were eaten at 5:30.

At the meeting Monday afternoon in the Congregational chapel of the Intermediates, the Junior C. E. society assembled with them for the opening exercises. A number of the boys were in charge of the meeting, Edward Jordan, who also accompanied with his cornet when the patriotic hymns were sung, and Raymond Barber, George Kinney, Culver Floyd, John Laskowski and Robert Barber. After a brief time devoted to the observance of birthdays of members since November, 1929, when cards were exchanged, etc., at the close of the devotional exercises, several questions were asked by the juniors which were answered by the Intermediates. After the societies had separated, the Intermediates held a business session with Ruth Avery, leader. The group of boys again took over the meeting and conducted memorial exercises. When it was time for closing, the Juniors again united with the Intermediates. Jordan, Kinney and Laskowski repeated the scout benediction; Robert Barber pronounced the Wolf Cub benediction and the members of both C. E. societies repeated the Endeavor benediction. At the meeting to be held next Monday afternoon, parents and adult friends have been requested to attend. Three girls will be graduated from the Intermediate society and a special guest, Miss Gertrude Avery, of India and Norwich Town, is to be the speaker.

Following a period of silent prayer at the patriotic services Sunday morning at the Congregational church, requested by Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey, for those who had sacrificed their lives, Edward Jordan responded by playing the cornet, also sounded Taps.

Misses Rose Durr and Helen Schwenk were in the company of 14 Endeavorers from the Norwich Town Congregational church Sunday evening, when a union C. E. service was held at Taftville Congregational church.

OPINES HOOVER WILL SIGN THE REVISED TARIFF BILL

Belief Expressed By Senator Watson, Republican Leader, In Reply to Question By Senator Robinson — Revised Flexible Clause, Approved By the Conferees, Is Patterned Along the Lines of the Present Law—The Report Will Be Taken Up Monday, With Prospects That the Debate Will Last the Remainder of the Week.

WASHINGTON, May 29.— (AP)— A statement by Senator Watson, of Indiana, the republican leader, that he "imagined" President Hoover would sign the tariff bill even though he preferred a different flexible provision, climaxed a heated debate in the senate today over an earlier action by the conferees in revising the presidential rate-fixing clause.

The Indianan's assertion was in response to an inquiry by Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the democratic floor leader, and came after Senator Smoot, republican, Utah, had presented a new flexible clause broadening the president's powers and restricting those of the tariff commission as provided in the original conference draft.

Declaring the president was "hungry for more power" Senator Harrison, democrat, Mississippi, attacked the new provision.

Replying, Senator Watson said the democrats were responsible for the new proposal since one of their number had raised a point of order against the original compromise which would have restricted the president's power and which Mr. Hoover was ready to accept.

Asked by Senator Robinson if he thought the president would sign the bill with the new flexible clause, the Indianan replied he could not say whether the executive would sign or veto any measure "but I imagine he will sign this tariff bill."

The revised flexible clause, approved earlier in the day by the conferees, is patterned along the lines of the present law. Under it the president could take all the time he wanted to act on an increase or decrease in rates up to 50 per cent as recommended by the tariff commission and the rate would not become effective until the executive proclaimed it and 30 days grace were allowed.

The conferees struck out the original proposal that the president be given 60 days in which to approve or disapprove a commission finding and the provision that a commission rate change would automatically go into effect if the executive took neither affirmative nor negative action within the 60-day period.

It was on the latter provisions that Senator Barkley, democrat, Kentucky, based a point of order last Tuesday which was sustained by Vice President Curtis and sent the supplemental report containing the flexible provision back to conference.

Presented again today, the report will be taken up Monday with prospects that the debate on this and the first report, already approved by the house, will last the remainder of next week.

Going directly to the senate floor from the conference room, Senator Harrison launched into a lengthy denunciation of the new flexible clause, saying that the fight "has been waged to retain the flexible provision of the present law on the theory that the president would increase tariff rates still higher."

Senator Watson denied the president wanted more power. He said in every talk he had had with Mr. Hoover on the flexible controversy the president emphasized the need for a non-partisan tariff commission with power to fix rates.

Senator Barkley, defending his course, said on the floor he had raised the point of order "without consulting any one" and because he believed the conferees had violated the rules of the senate. He also believed, he said, that if congress could not have the flexible power restored to it as provided in the original senate coalition plan he would rather have the rate changes made by "some one responsible to the people rather than a hand-picked commission not responsible to the people."

The Watson-Harrison exchange led to a general round of argument with the Indianan, asserting that "if we accept the utterances of Governor Smith at Louisville, the democrats mounted so high on the protective tariff platform that they almost pushed us old stand-patters entirely off."

"Yes, and perhaps that contributed to their overwhelming defeat at the last election," put in Senator Glass, democrat, Virginia.

Senator Harrison attacked as a "political pamphlet" a press statement issued by the tariff commission last week in which, he said, the contention was made that the tariff bill would largely benefit the farmers.

FORD HAS CONFIDENCE IN MEN OF MATURE YEARS

DETROIT, May 29.— (AP) —Henry Ford believes more "than ever" that business and industry must depend upon the leadership of men of mature years. He told the Associated Press today that he had found no occasion to change his previously expressed opinion that if all the men of 55 years and older were removed from industry "there would not be brains enough left to carry on."

"This is no reflection upon the youth of today," he said. "I think that while they are different, today's youngsters are a fine lot and they decidedly are not headed for perdition. Moreover, they have greater opportunities today than the youth of 40 and 50 years ago."

Mr. Ford was asked whether he always had conceded the wisdom of age.

"You didn't think that back in 1894 whany ou began tinkering with your horseless carriage, did you?"

"I always had older men for friends and I always went to them for advice. I could cite them one after another. Old men understood my idea better than young men did. With mature years I realized more and more the value of that advice.

"I realized that in my youth I hadn't waked up yet."

Gangster's Gun Was Concealed In Golf Bag

Reputed Follower of Capone Was Jerked From Auto In Chicago.

CHICAGO, May 29.—(AP) —A gangster who caddied for an execution squad was held as hostage by the police tonight while they hunted high and low for a dead or wounded victim of the gang.

Sam Hunt, reputed Capone follower, was jerked from the running board of the assassins' automobile as it gathered momentum in flight from the scene of the shooting, the golf bag over his shoulder sheathed a shotgun, its load discharged.

Nearby, in an alley was parked another car, windshield shattered as by shotgun slugs, and a box of cartridges on the floor. Its license had been issued to a "Harry Greenfield," supposedly the assumed name of the gang's victim, for he was unknown at the addresses given.

Possessing every evidence of a gang murder yet without a corpus delicti, detectives advanced the theory that the executioners had reversed the familiar practice of taking their foes for a last "ride." They believe he was attacked in his own car, dragged to the gang's automobile and his body carried away for disposal where the evidence might be destroyed. Witnesses who caught a glimpse of the wounded man as he was pulled into the car, said his head was shot full of shotgun slugs. A special policeman, nearby as the shots were fired, rushed to the scene in time to drag Hunt from the car.

Scars of shotgun slugs on a new apartment building near the scene led police to canvass the building. They found Leo Mongoven, body guard for George "Bugs" Moran, was a resident and hazarded a guess he might have been the target. In one of the apartments they found ten half-gallon cans such as are used in transporting alcohol.

Harry S. Ditchburne, assistant states attorney, announced he would hold Hunt until the victim, dead or alive, is found.

We Keep Memorial Day

When the May has culled her flowers for the summer waiting long,
And the breath of early roses woos the hedges into song,
Comes the throb of martial music and the banners in the street,
And the marching of the millions bearing garlands fair and sweet—
'Tis the Sabbath of the Nation, 'tis the floral feast of May!
In remembrance of our heroes we keep Memorial day.

They are sleeping in the valleys, they are sleeping 'neath the sea,
They are sleeping by the thousands till the royal reveille;
Let us know them, let us name them, let us honor one and all,
For they loved us and they saved us, springing at the bugle call;
Let us sound the song and cymbal, wreathe the immortelles and bay,
In the fervor of thanksgiving we keep Memorial day.

FATE OF CHARTER OAK PARK RESTS ON LEGAL DECISION

HARTFORD, May 29—(AP)—The fate of Charter Oak Park, almost historic for the events which have occurred on it in the last half century, may rest in the outcome of legal action which began today when a temporary receiver was named for the Connecticut State Agricultural society.

The application was made by William J. Goltra, who owns 216 shares of the 1390. Fred B. Griffin was named as receiver and the matter of making him permanent receiver, will cove up June 20 in superior court.

The park holds the famous race track on which Grand Circuit harness racing was held for many years. The park is of 121 acres and while its prospects for development purposes have long been viewed with favor the society has been unable to sell it since deciding to dissolve.

Court action may be the means of throwing the property upon the market.

The increase was gained without any additional territory being incorporated. Thickly populated areas in Jefferson and St. Bernard parishes just outside the city limits were not included.

Crashed In Test For Air Pilot's License

Henry Hunt Was Seriously Injured At Roosevelt Field, N. Y.

ROOSEVELT FI[illegible] Y., May 29.—(AP)—While ta[illegible] test for a transport pilot's [illegible] Henry Hunt of Hills Grove, [illegible] was seriously injured today [illegible] his monoplane crashed.

Hunt had [illegible]ken off in a low-winged pl[illegible]ed by the Buttonwood, R. [illegible] Service, Inc., when, in atte[illegible] make a tight turn, 75 fee[illegible] the ground, the plane went ou[illegible] control.

It landed on its nose, breaking the fuselage in half and tearing both wings from the body. Hunt was taken from the wreckage and rushed to Nassau hospital at Mineola. There it was said he was suffering from a fractured skull, internal injuries and probably a broken back. He was in such a critical condition from shock that a thorough examination was not possible.

Hunt arrived at the field shortly before 2 o'clock with a man named Charles Loring, believed to be from Buttonwood. Giving proof of 300 hours flying and presenting a doctor's certificate as to health, Hunt was allowed to start the transport license test. SENATE IS TO VOTE MONDAY ON THE PRESIDENTIAL VETO

An Attempt Will Be Made to Override Chief Executive's Disapproval of the Bill to Liberalize Pension For Spanish War Veterans—A Movement Has Been Started to Recast the Measure to Meet the Objection of President Hoover.

WASHINGTON, May 29.—(AP)— An agreement was reached in the senate today to vote Monday on the first proposal made in that body to pass a bill over President Hoover's veto.

The vote will be on a motion by Senator Connally, democrat, Texas, to override the chief executive's disapproval of the bill to liberalize pensions for Spanish war veterans.

President Hoover vetoed the measure yesterday and Connally, himself a Spanish war veteran immediately presented his motion. He demanded action on it today but agreed to postponement upon a request by Senator McNary of Oregon, the assistant republican leader.

Connally said he thought his motion, which required a two-thirds vote of both houses, would pass.

Meanwhile, a movement was started to recast the measure to meet the objections of the president. Representative Knutson, republican, Minnesota, chairman of the house pensions committee, planned to present a new bill in the house Monday after the Memorial Day recess.

Chairman Robinson, of the senate pensions committee, conferred with his committee today but no agreement was reached. He said the group would wait for the senate action Monday before deciding what procedure to follow.

Before agreeing to postponement today Connally said in the senate that "certain influences are interested in delaying action to the last possible moment for the purpose of killing the bill."

McNary asked for delay on the ground that a number of senators were absent and it would be unfair to vote without giving them notice.

This was the second bill vetoed by President Hoover. The first was a measure to authorize the issuance of Gadsden purchase memory coins. An unsuccessful attempt was made in the house to override the veto but no action was taken by the senate.

HAVANA PREPARED TO RECEIVE GRAF ZEPPELIN

HAVANA, Cuba, May 29—(AP)—As the dirigible Graf Zeppelin swept through the tropical breezes of the south Atlantic tonight on her journey from Pernambuco to Havana, this republic polished up its plans to welcome the big German airship probably tomorrow.

The Graf reported at noon that she was 170 miles northeast of Cape Orange, Brazil, and apparently was making good progress. She was notified by a wireless station at Cocorito, Trinidad, that bad weather would be encountered before the Cuban coast was reached.

Havana has made elaborate plans to receive the dirigible, but they hinge somewhat on the time of arrival, as a night landing will remove some welcoming features.

The weather here is oppressively hot now, with little air stirring, and aeronautical experts believe that if Dr. Eckener intends a daytime landing beneath the blazing tropical sun, he will be compelled to let a considerable portion of the Graf's hydrogen escape. Hence they believe he may wait until night to come down.

If the ship is sighted tomorrow afternoon, as is now expected, or after daybreak Saturday morning, as may happen if strong head winds are encountered near the Cuban coast, a fleet of Cuban army planes will escort it to General Machado airport and maneuver above it while the Graf is being brought to the ground.

SIX PERSONS NOW UNDER ARREST FOR GEM THEFTS

NEW YORK, May 29.—(AP)— The big stolen jewel round-up which began early this week went on today, with developments popping out on all sides and further sensational angles in the offing.

The status of the case tonight was this: Five men and a woman are under arrest here and in Chicago. Police have $1,300,000 worth of recovered jewels here and today they got permission to open a safe deposit box in Chicago they believed contained $200,000 more. Additional arrests were promised and some of the men to be arrested were said to be prominent jewelers.

Police considered their most important prisoner was Robert Nelson, in whose deposit boxes here $1,000,000 worth of jewels were seized. It was alleged to be a box of his, too, that was found in Chicago today. Next in importance were the four men and a woman arrested with $300,000 worth of jewels the day before Nelson was taken. They were: Hilda Carter, of Rhode Island; William J. O'Connor, of Buffalo; George Cole, James Watson, of Buffalo, and Jacob Rosen of New York.

FOUR MEN AND TWO WOMEN ARRESTED FOR ROBBERY

WINDSOR, Ont., May 29—(AP)—Four men and two women, arrested today in connection with the robbery of two homes here, were said by police to be members of a gang operating in Canada and the United States.

Police said they recovered $2,500 worth of furniture and jewelry stolen from the summer cottage of a Dr. Giffen, at Puce. None of the $10,000 lost from the home of Samuel Stover, however, has been recovered.

Zenkauskas admitted his identity when faced with his fingerprints. He had $10 in his possession, which, he said, was all he had left of his one-third share of the Watertown holdup proceeds. He and all the others, except Albert Jacobs, were charged with theft. Jacobs was held on a nominal charge of vagrancy.

SCHOOL BUDGET FOR YEAR GETS ASS'N APPROVAL

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, May 29—The budget for the school budget for the year 1930-'31 as drawn up by the town school committee and amounting to $204,000, has been approved by the committee of the Taxpayers' Protective association invited to make a study of the proposed expenditures.

The taxpayers' committee consisted of Dr. George E. Wilcox, president of the association; Michael L. Falvey, secretary; William P. Jordan, Judge William A. Arnold, Alphonse L. Gelinas, Samuel Porcaro, Fred E. Turner and Herbert D. Pollard.

An increase of $4,000 over the budget for last year was explained as due to the increased registration at the Windham street school of over 50 pupils at the rate of about $80 each. During the coming year the town must pay to the state about $57,000 for maintenance of the Model school. Assurance was given the taxpayers' committee by the school board that the budget would cover all school expenses of the town for the year.

In reply to an opinion of Fred H. Turner that it would be better for the town if only students from Windham were allowed to attend the high school, Secretary Egbert A. Case of the school board explained that the attendance of out of town pupils served materially to keep the cost per pupil down. This cost in Windham high at present is the lowest in the state for high schools in towns between 10,000 and 30,000 population. The tuition charged last year was $110 per student, this having been increased to $120 for next year. The town nets a small profit on each pupil out of these tuition fees which totaled $34,000 last year and will amount to $38,400 next year.

Although the total of the budget for next year is $204,000, only $156,000 is from direct taxation. The average school tax in the state is 10.7 mills on about a 90 per cent valuation of taxable property. For the present year the school tax in Windham for current expense is about 6.5 mills on the present grand list. In the event that attendance at the high school was restricted to the town, the cost per pupil would be increased from $35 to $45, according to comparative figures cited by Secretary Case. In preparation for an increase in registration at the high school next term, the school board has voted to secure an additional teacher. The budget must be in the hands of the selectmen next month so as to have the amount made a part of the call for the annual town meeting.

Young Out Of Air Tour

Harry C. Young, this city's first and only known licensed pilot, has been forced out of the "air hike" being made by 28 planes of the New England air tour. A news report from New Bedford, Mass., stated that Pilot Young of the Bird plane, who broke the center section stay wires at Colebrook, N. H., again brought the hearts of spectators and pilots alike into their throats when he over-shot the airport at Manchester, N. H., and struck a tree with his lower left wing. The tree was not a large one and after staggering through the air for several seconds, Young was able to right the ship and circle for a landing. Although coming in down wind he managed to get the plane on the ground. Three feet of the leading edge of the lower left wing had been pushed into the forward spar in the accident and Young immediately cancelled his plans for continuing in the tour.

The modernistic note is carried out in the counterscreen, the furniture, hangings and all interior decorations. The vault, which was the source of no small amount of attraction, is entirely fireproof and burglarproof and contains safe deposit boxes for the use of the bank's customers. PUTNAM

MISIAZEK IS STILL ON THE DANGER LIST

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, May 29—A late report received from Day Kimball hospital tonight where Martin Misiazek, 42, Jewett City, is a patient suffering from a fracture of the skull, said that the grade crossing victim's condition was unchanged. The hospital authorities stated that Misiazek continues on the danger list. During the late hours this afternoon the report said that the patient was semi-conscious and that owing to his critical condition physicians had not definitely determined whether or not he was suffering from a skull fracture.

Misiazek was committed to the hospital early last evening after an automobile in which he was a passenger collided with a fast south-bound freight train at the Franklin street crossing in Danielson.

State Officer Elton T. Nolan of the Danielson barracks arrested Edwin Bayer of Thompson yesterday afternoon when he found the young motorist operating an automobile without a muffler and without a driver's license. Bayer was summoned to appear in justice court in North Grosvenordale this afternoon but because of a previous engagement of an imperative nature, the court granted Bayer a continuance until Saturday.

Eustace Champaigne, father of several minor children, went to jail this morning to begin a sentence of 60 days imposed by Judge M. H. Geissler in the city court when found guilty of charges of non-support and intoxication. The weight of the testimony of Selectman Edward F. Girard and Probation Officer Peter A. Gardner, of the deplorable and pitiable conditions existing at the Champaigne home on Main street, together with the admission of Champaigne that he had wilfully neglected his wife and children, served to draw out the stiff sentence. Officer Gardner stated that he visited the defendant's home yesterday and found the children with scarcely enough food for one meal, and because of the circumstances they were forced to go about scantily clad. Mr Gardner said that he investigated the case last winter and found the Champaigne children without sufficient clothing or shoes, while Champaigne entertained four or five men at a drinking party.

A sentence of 30 days was meted out to a Jewett City man, who pleaded guilty to a charge of disorderly conduct and intoxication. The offender admitted that he had consumed about a pint of ordinary rubbing alcohol before he felt in the mood to go on his flaming rampage which terminated when he was accosted by Officer Joseph Page on Main street late last evening. The quart of giggle water was exhibited to the court by Attorney Johnson, who remarked that he believed it just another of nature's wonders that the consumer was present this morning possessing all of his senses.

The Putnam high school baseball squad went to Worcester yesterday, where they were the guests of the Holy Cross athletic association at the ball game between the Quantico Marines and the Crusaders, which was played at Fitton field. Although the game was called in the eighth inning, because of rain, the Noyesmen were favorably impressed with the showing of their hosts.

Upon a motion entered by Judge M. H. Geissler in the superior court this morning, Judge Arthur F. Ells authorized the divorce action of Mrs. Dorothy M. Prince against her husband, Frederick M. Prince, formerly of this city, to go to trial before Referee Leonard Nickerson of Cornwall, Conn.

Taking up the short calendar, Judge Ells immediately entertained the motion of Judge Geissler, attorney for Mrs. Prince, who said that he had corresponded with Mr. Nickerson and had received a reply from the referee advising that he would be agreeable to trying the case. There was a large court assemblage, which had gathered anticipating that the case would be claimed for trial this morning. With the trial of the case before Referee Nickerson, all testimony and evidence to substantiate the charges of unfaithfulness on the part of her husband, which Mrs. Prince employs for grounds to warrant her action, will be heard in chambers.

The funeral of Mrs. Stella L. White of East Thompson, who died Tuesday, was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock in the Brandy Hill Baptist church with Rev. Mr. Lyons officiating. Burial was in the East Thompson cemetery. Mrs. White was 76 years of age and had been a resident of the village of East Thompson for more than 40 years. She was the widow of Francis E. White.

A new page was added to the already large volume of superior court history of Windham county yesterday, because of adherence by Judge Arthur F. Ells of Waterbury to the old adage of "Work when there's work to be done." Ascending to the bench Wednesday morning promptly at 10 o'clock Judge Ells listened patiently to cases which entailed the long drawn out testimony of many witnesses, with only a short recess now and then to break the gruelling monotony. At 6:30 o'clock in the evening, a case which had been in progress for nearly three and a half hours was closed. Anxious to accommodate counsel in another case, which had been pending for several days, Judge Ells arose and in his pleasing and inimitable manner, which has won for him the high esteem and admiration of the members of the Windham county bar, glanced at the court room timepiece which then showed the time to be 6:40 and, after noting the hour, informed Attorneys Babcock of Norwich and Danielson of Moosup that he would return to the bench at 8 o'clock to listen to their arguments.

Judge Ells returned a few minutes before 8 o'clock to find that the extra session of court was not necessary, since the attorneys had reached a settlement during the recess. However, the act of the magistrate was a history-making incident and May 28 will go down in the annals of Windham county superior court as being the first time (as far as could be learned from the older members of the bar today) that civil business ever ran into a night session. It was just one of those things that happen once in a lifetime.

Although all are octogenarians, nine surviving members of the A. G. Warner post, G. A. R., who fought with Grant, Sherman and Sheridan in '61, defied the advancing years today and in anticipation of bright sun and blue skies Friday, brought out of their wardrobes—a blue campaign hat and the old dress coat with its buttons of brass, slightly tarnished after a year, but which were polished religiously this afternoon until the shining lustre was restored. Those venerable old personalities who refuse to be crowded out by Father Time will be on hand early Friday morning, attired in their post-war time garb, with renewed strength and vigor to honor once again the memory of their comrades who have gone on. Putnam veterans of the Civil war will take their place in the parade riding behind the younger service men, veterans of later years. Of the nine remaining, all but one will "fall in." The "last squad" will be made up of Chauncey Morse, Richard Gibney, John Whitney, Anson A. Buchanan, Hiram L. Barrett, Marcus Lewis, Thomas L. Taylor and James Bigelow. John Lavallee of Van Den Noort street is the ninth survivor. Although his spirit runs high, Mr. Lavallee is forced by his infirmity, brought on by advancing years, to refrain from taking an active part in the memorial observance.

This morning at Putnam high school the thin remnant of the A. G. Warner post paid its annual visit to the school to be graciously received by the admiring student body. The march of the veterans to seats on the platform of the auditorium presented a dramatic scene which became touching as the soldiers managed to sing a few words of the familiar old songs which came into flower during the hectic days of 1861-65.

The Drop-In class of the Congregational church met for the last time this season at the church parlor on Main street yesterday afternoon. The hostesses at the meeting were Mrs. Walter A. Rich, Mrs. Lillian Phillips and Mrs. Wendell R. Witter. The regular meetings of the class will be resumed again in the fall.

Because of inclement weather, Coach L. Y. Noyes of Putnam high school cancelled the diamond tilt between Tourtellotte Memorial and the Noyesmen, scheduled for Wednesday afternoon.

Alderman John M. Dean of Mechanics street has returned from a New York business trip.

Erwin Ciehowski of Revere, Mass., formerly of this city, was the guest of Manager James F. Mahoney of the Bradley theatre today.

Willimantic attorneys who attended the short calendar session of superior court here today were William A. King, Harry A. Gaucher, James T. Kelly, Samuel B. Harvey and Frank Foss.

Noted 41st Anniversary

The A. G. Warner department, No. 38, Woman's Relief corps, celebrated its 41st anniversary this week with a dinner served to the members and two guests, Marcus Lewis and Thomas Taylor, G. A. R. veterans. A feature of the dinner was a large fruit cake, given by the president, Mrs. Hattie Miller. The committee in charge of the dinner was Mrs. Blanche Covell, chairman, assisted by Mrs. Ethel Tourtellotte, Mrs. Gladys Benoit, Mrs. Fred Willis, Mrs. Nancy Harrington and Mrs. Hattie Miller. The business meeting opened at 2:30 o'clock, the president, Mrs. Hattie Miller, presiding, when it was voted to contribute $5 to the Salvation Army appeal. Following the business meeting a pretty May basket was presented to the president by Mrs. Leslie Steere in behalf of the corps. She accepted in pleasing manner.

Mrs. Gladys Benoit rendered two solos, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Marion Dow. Mrs. Elmira Perry, of Wallingford, a former past president of the corps, was a visitor. The salute to the flag and singing of America closed the meeting.

Mrs. Hattie Miller will entertain the veterans of the G. A. R., Memorial day, at her home for dinner. Wednesday afternoon, members of the Relief corps held memorial services at the Grove street cemetery, which were very impressive.

Chocolate and Virginia Glow

MENTION of VIRGINIA brings to mind many things. Rich in history and in the achievements of her sons and daughters. But in these normal times, Virginia suggests peanuts first of all . . . Nowhere do they grow as well! Big, meaty, rich in "nutty" flavor. A dressing of cream, and sugar, and then frozen in Ice Cream—peanuts are an even greater delight to the taste that way.

Chocolate is included in the combination this week. These two are miles apart in the measure of flavor, but the greater the contrast, sometimes, the better the mating! You'll praise our chef's judgment, we're sure.

Paul B. Sanger delivered a special patriotic discourse. Owing to the stormy day many were prevented from attending the service.

YANTIC

A speed limit should be set for drivers going through Yantic as the roadway is narrow and several intersecting roads make fast driving exceedingly hazardous. Tuesday afternoon, about 5:15, an accident was caused by fast driving. A car going toward Fitchville, sideswiped one headed for Norwich, near the [illegible] terminal. The southbound car lost its two left fenders and running board and the driver got a badly cut hand. The northbound car was able to drive off with only a fender dented.

William Belowitz has purchased from the American Woolen company the lot on the Franklin road, known as the baseball lot.

George Sherman has purchased the lot between the canal and the Yantic river.

Frank Johnson, assistant manager of Green Acre Kennels, Fairfield, Conn., was a guest at The Towers Tuesday.

Mrs. John F. McMahon and children, Jane, Ann and John F. Jr., are spending the week here with Mrs. McMahon's sister, Miss Katherine Curry.

GILBERT'S SERVICES

With the international bank taking up the duties imposed upon it by the Young plan which has been ratified, there is no further need for the services of S. Parker Gilbert, who has for five years served as agent-general for reparations. He has been working under the provisions of the Dawes plan and he has done his work in a manner which has gained much attention for its thoroughness and fairness.

It was not the easiest task that a young man might be assigned to as the result of the war and the arrangements that were made for reparations adjustment. It was a job that was given to an American because it w's easier to get an agreement upon representative from this country n from any other of the European ntries. When Mr. Gilbert took up work he was but 32, but thoroughly able, and he has demonstrated that 'e was no mistake made in his selon. He showed that he had the ity, the understanding and the

The Dawes plan was based upon iding scale which required more ch year from Germany to meet the demands of the allies. It rested with Mr. Gilbert to so study the industrial situation in Germany that he would be in close touch with the conditions there and know whether it could continue to meet its obligations. It was inevitable that he should encounter obstacles and opponents, that there should be political as well as financial problems to deal with, but he pursued his duties in a manner which disclosed full confidence upon the part of the allies and, in the end, there was justification for the reports which he made concerning conditions in Germany.

Mr. Gilbert made a record in his handling of the reparations problem under the Dawes plan which makes it evident that he will not lack for employment in the future.

THE NATIONAL A. A. U. RUN

Norwich welcomes today the aggregation of runners being brought together by the Duwell Athletic club for participation in the ten-mile run for the championship of the United States, under the National Amateur Athletic union.

For several years, on Memorial day, the local club has been providing interesting road races, but this year it is furnishing a stellar attraction with some of the country's best ten-milers out for new honors. Such an event is rarely provided in a city of this size, but the Duwells have found that Norwich as a community has been willing to cooperate in the necessary efforts that were necessary to bring it here. It is a fitting response to the interest in athletic events which this club has been stimulating for the past several years and makes it apparent that its work has been heartily approved.

Furthermore, the large list of entrants indicates the favorable impression which has been created by previous runs similar in character but not approaching the importance of a national contest.

Norwich cannot fail to look forward with interest to the feature sporting event of the day and hope for favorable weather and that the best man will win.

MEMORIAL DAY

Time has brought us once again to the observance of Memorial day, the day when we pay tribute to the memory of those who defended their country in time of stress, made great sacrifices that it might be protected and upheld and in many instances laid down their lives that we might enjoy the freedom and advantages of the present day.

It would, indeed, be an ungrateful people if those deeds were to be forgotten, even though there is a strong and growing desire for peace. Those who have gone fought for a principle. Whether they fell on the battlefield, succumbed to disease in hospital or prison, lived to benefit from the success which they helped to obtain, or are still with us as the veterans of the several wars, it is not to be forgotten that they volunteered when the call for their assistance came or responded when they were chosen and did their duty like the loyal and earnest patriots they were.

It is thus no more than should be done when a day is set aside for decorating the graves of those who sleep and for keeping green the memory of the valiant soldiers in all wars, two of which have been fought since Memorial day was inaugurated. Memorial day has been observed through the efforts of the G. A. R. until the time came when age made it necessary for the remaining Boys in Blue to shift the responsibility to other shoulders. Through the Sons of Veterans, the veterans of the Spanish-American war and those of the World war, the spirit of the day will not be allowed to wane.

But it is not solely those who have participated in the wars of this country to have a hand in Memorial day and such exercises as are arranged for the occasion. There is a public duty which cannot be overlooked, there is a moral responsibility resting on those who are enjoying the fruits of the sacrifices to see that due honor is paid the nation's defenders and the causes for which they fought.

It is a small part that is asked of the general public in making Memorial day a success by giving attention to the exercises and a thought to the occasion. Memorial days should not dwindle in interest or attendance as the years roll on. Make them real Memorial days.

REPORTING DRIVING VIOLATIONS

Probably there is no one who has occasion to express himself concerning the disregard for the rights of others and the rules of the road by motorists more than motorists themselves. They experience the evasions of regulations, the refusal to grant the right of way, the cutting in and the stunts on the highway which, if they do not actually cause them to participate in an accident of some kind, force them to do some quick thinking and acting in order to avoid serious consequences.

Time and again the motorist voices his feeling in one way or another. Whether it does any good, it helps to relieve his disgust at such unfair treatment, but when we stop to consider that report of the motor vehicle commissioner in which he declares that there has been a noticeable increase of late in the number of traffic violations which have been reported by motorists it would seem as if these disturbed drivers were taking means to correct conditions through complaints.

Patience is a great thing, but the idea of tolerating all sorts of impositions isn't exactly human. If by saying something concerning the wild and dangerous driving, conditions are going to be improved there is an incentive for motorists to make reports concerning flagrant cases. There are many instances when it is impossible to catch the numbers so that a report can be made, but if after reports are made and the department succeeds in getting those reported to refrain from unsafe driving, it will be a contribution to the safety of the highway for which all motorists will have reason to be happy.

No one likes to make reports of such a character but when it comes to a matter of death, injuries or damages or their prevention, there should be no question as to what ought to be done. Preventive measures save many regrets and self-preservation is highly desirable.

THE COMING CITY ELECTION

Next Monday the voters of the city will go to the polls for the election of city officials. This is the year when a mayor is to be chosen for the coming two years, when half of the court of common council is to be selected and when city treasurer, city sheriffs and a member of the water board are to be elected.

In the choice of city officials the uppermost demand of the voters should be good government. As we look back over the past two years, the years when Mayor Robbins has been at the head of the city government, we cannot fail to be impressed by the manner in which affairs of the city have been administered.

When chosen there was that same demand for good government and as we look over his stewardship we find many reasons for feeling that it has been furnished. We have witnessed the introduction of changes which have demonstrated that the city's affairs were being handled in a businesslike manner. We have seen economical and efficient direction of departmental work where haphazard and extravagant administration previously existed. We have noted the determination to carry out the vote of the city meetings and yet keep within the amounts appropriated and we have seen that most unusual result of finishing the year with a cash balance, that of the second year being much larger than the first.

If this means anything, it certainly means that the voters of Norwich have reasons for gratification, and it should mean that they will insist upon a continuance of those policies in the future that have been so pleasing in the past. That will be assured by the reelection of Mayor Robbins to succeed himself and placing in office along with him those who have been nominated on the ticket as printed above in this column. Most of them have had a hand in helping him to accomplish the fine results of the past two years. They can be relied upon, with the aid of the new nominees, to see that it is continued, and it is to be remembered that by electing them next Monday there will be assurance of the maintenance of the same high grade of public service for the next two years.

With such a record of accomplishment as has been made in the past two years, the voters of Norwich will be unmindful of their own welfare if they do not insist upon the continuance of good government and endorse the good work that has been done for the city by insisting upon more of it. Norwich cannot afford to take a backward step.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Why not a pleasant day, Mr. Weatherman, for Memorial day?

Now that the purchaser of liquor is not a violator of the law, a lot of people are going to rest more easily and keep on doing it.

Memorial day, when we decorate the graves of the deceased veterans and recall the valiant service of both the living and dead.

When Senators Jones and Walsh declare they are ready to stand by the outcome of rum referendums in their states they are either confident they could show dry results or recognize the growing wet tendency.

MANY HAPPY RETURNS

"Do you know what day this is?"

John Carroll made the final nice adjustment of his tie, flipped a hand over his curly blond hair, and slid into his coat. He had not answered his wife's question, but he was thinking rapidly. Was it? It must be her birthday because he was certain that it wasn't their wedding anniversary. But he was shaky about his dates. He never could remember mother's birthday, or sister's wedding day, or his wife's bridge dates, or any others, for that matter. But he was certain this time.

"Sure I know, honey," he assured Midge as he kissed her and darted out the door before she could ask any more embarrassing questions.

"Well, if it's her birthday—and I'm dead sure it is," he thought as he backed the car out of the garage, "I'm not going to get caught flatfooted again. I'll just give her the surprise of her life. And I'll take the morning off to get her presents."

As he steered his coupe in and out of traffic he ran over in his mind the things Midge wanted. Then, mentally, he trimmed this list down to the things she wanted and that he could afford to get. By the time he reached his bank his shopping list was made up.

Ten minutes after leaving the bank with a roll of bills he stopped at the shop where he and Midge had paused, two nights before, to admire a white fox fur. It was still in the window and the clerk was more than glad to take it out for him—for a price that considerably diminished his roll of bills. But he was game and paid gracefully and with the fur safely stowed in the car he drove to a florist shop.

"Roses are what she likes," he soliloquized, "and roses are what she'll get. Three dozen of the biggest, reddest, thorniest roses in the city—all wet with dew." He was feeling poetic.

The girl in the flower shop selected three dozen long-stemmed roses, added a sprig or two of fern, and packed all carefully in a long box. Again the bank roll shrank.

"Now for sweets," he said as he stepped on the starter button and pulled out into the traffic. He had to visit three candy stores before he found a box of chocolates and bonbons that he considered worthy of the occasion. The fancy box added a few dollars to the bill, but he was in a spending mood and, besides, nothing was too good for his wife on her birthday.

"Can't let her do any cooking today," he thought as, the last purchase made, he steered for home. "I'll take her downtown tonight and buy her the finest dinner in the city. I've forgotten to buy some tickets."

He turned the car around.

"How these ticket speculators do expand the high cost of high living," he muttered as he pocketed the tickets to the best show in town and ruefully regarded his change.

Now that the excitement of gift buying was over he began to experience a few qualms over the reckless manner in which he had scattered his money. But he quickly dismissed the mood and lectured himself for thinking of pinching pennies on his wife's birthday.

He got out of the car very cautiously, hoping that he might sneak into the house with his bundles unobserved. Stealthily he entered the kitchen door. She wasn't there. Now if he could only make the bedroom unseen he could hide the presents. He pushed open the dining room door and stepped through only to stumble noisily over a rolled rug. The furniture was piled about the room.

"What's the matter with Midge," he thought, "cleaning house on her birthday?"

"Is that you, John?" called Midge from the bedroom. "A fine one you were to run away like that while I was still talking to you." She came in and saw him with his arms full of bundles. "Why, for goodness' sake, what have you been buying now?"

"Didn't you ask me if I knew what day it was?" he answered with a knowing grin. "And wasn't I clever to remember it was your birthday? Many happy returns of the day, Midge! Here! Take 'em! No use trying to hide 'em now."

"My birthday! Oh, John, I don't know whether to laugh or cry."

"Well, isn't it your birthday?" he demanded, looking foolish and crestfallen with his load of packages.

"Why, John, of course it's not! This is the day you were to stay home and help move. There's the van now."—Exchange.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, May 29—One person who got a lot of amusement out of and who promptly saw valuable possibilities in the London naval treaty side show engineered by Chairman Hale of the senate naval committee was Senator Dave Walsh of Massachusetts.

He attended the opening sessions regularly, and chuckled over the rows Hale had now and then with Shortridge of California who volunteered at times as administration defender of the pact.

But what struck out quickly in Walsh's own questioning of the admirals called as witnesses by Hale was that he glimpsed a chance to put in a few heavy merchant marine licks.

Ignored In Treaty

The treaty ignores that aspect of naval preparedness.

Walsh drew from Admiral Pratt the admission that Great Britain had at least 200 merchant liners suitable for carrying 6-inch guns in war and to serve as auxiliary commerce raiders.

Meditating on that, Walsh very soon barged into the Congressional Record with about the first treaty speech of many certain to be made in the senate sooner or later. He had extracted a lot of statistical information about British and American merchant shipping relativities from the navy department experts which he put in.

"It is evident, said Senator Dave, "that Great Britain while having a two to one superiority over us in general merchant tonnage, has a superiority of nearly three to one in vessels which might have distinct military use.

"Parity with Great Britain seems clearly in sight so far as the naval fleets are concerned. Parity in sea power is still far away in view of these statistics."

So it is quite clear that even if the London pact is ratified, pressure to go far beyond the strictly combat naval building it would sanction for this country and to launch a new drive for merchant tonnage construction under a national defense plea is to be expected. And that ought to attract a lot of support in a period of business depression, how much remains to be seen.

Walsh Motives

Senator Walsh probably was moved to take the matter up in the senate by the fact that the Hale committee hearings developed for a week or two merely into an echo of the foreign relations committee investigation.

The naval group got all second day witnesses for quite a while. As a result its part in the affair did not get very wide front page attention. The Borah committee got far the most publicity.

So Walsh put his merchant marine aspect into print in the Record.

As a matter of fact, the naval committee hearings drew almost no "gallery." Frequently not half a dozen spectators were present and on occasion Senator Hale himself was the only committee member present.

But a great deal was certain to be heard from that committee in the senate, never-the-less.

Stories That Recall Others

At Her Word

Eileen, age ten, had received her first pair of silk stockings for her birthday. After trying them on she came to her mother and said: "Mother these stockings are too long."

Her mother who was preparing supper, absent mindedly said: "Well, go cut them off, then," never thinking her daughter would take her seriously. About five minutes later Eileen came back and showed her mother the stockings neatly trimmed off about an inch above the knee.

Mystery Solved

A sedan was parked on a residential street. Two women climbed out excitedly and carried two children to the curb. Motorists passing, stared with an air of curiosity. Then the women hurried over and broke two switches off a bush in the yard.

An observer figured that for some reason the children were going to be chastised. Instead the women went to the car and beat furiously inside with their switches. Finally out of the window flew a bumblebee. The mystery was solved.

Against the 18th Amendment

Mr. Editor: We honestly and truly believe that the Constitution of the United States should have been more carefully and securely guarded, that it should not have been contaminated by the 18th amendment (and some others). I use the word contaminated because it has made such a terrible mess, and will continue to cause an enormous amount of trouble and expense as long as it remains. Laying aside for the moment the question of whether the 18th amendment can or cannot be enforced, the attempt to control or regulate the traffic in intoxicating liquors should not have been saddled onto the government. Constitution tinkering is very risky and should be discountenanced. Those who are strong supporters of prohibition as a federal law would have us believe that, if one is opposed to the 18th amendment he is in favor of a saloon, but please understand at the start that that is decidedly not so. We certainly do not want the saloon. There are probably many millions in this country of good, capable, law-abiding citizens who believe in, and practice temperance, who are opposed to the 18th amendment. As long as it has been made a law, they feel in duty bound to help support it, but when the proper time comes will vote for its repeal. There is another class in this country—and a very large class—who look upon the law and treat it with contempt. These are they who patronize the bootleggers, and if they are parents it is natural to suppose that their sons and daughters would have the same ideas and opinions in regard to the matter; thus we have growing up around us, according to all accounts, many youths and maidens who are becoming tipplers because they think it is smart but, in their case, it is very liable to result in more serious trouble in the fact that it leads to and promotes immorality. Then we have a very large alien population—about 14,000,000 who were foreign born. A part of these aliens have been brought up to consider wines as a part of their living and others who considered beer as a part of their living; if these two sub-classes could have their favorite beverage they would be satisfied, would probably use it moderately and not much harm could be done, but, because the bootleggers cannot handle wines and beers, very many of these aliens are making it in their homes and other places and some of them are making it to sell. If they get caught a fine or a few days in jail means no disgrace to them; they pay the penalty and do the same thing again.

It seems much more than probable that quite a large majority of the people in this country demand the right and privilege of procuring alcoholic beverage in some form. After ten years of trial every indication goes to show that conditions are getting worse instead of the bright picture which is being drawn by those who allow themselves to see only what they want to see. The 18th amendment is wholly responsible for the large army of bootleggers who are engaged in an extensive business and backed by an unlimited capital. According to reports, it seems that the number of victims of the dope fiend has increased very materially in the last ten years and we know crime is increasing rapidly, although the improper, intemperate, immoderate and abusive use of the automobile is largely responsible for that.

In considering this matter it seems wise to look at it from three different angles; what was, what is, and what ought to be. It is impossible for anyone to tell, off-hand, beforehand, and in detail what ought to be, but we would suggest that salesrooms or distributing depots be established where there is a demand for them, under the sanction and control of the state, where alcoholic beverages could be purchased in limited quantities, in sealed containers, not to be drunk on the premises, and every sale correctly recorded and every purchaser required to give satisfactory reference; also that these salesrooms should be under the management of reliable citizens and that they be paid a salary. It is not a question of whether one is or is not in favor of prohibition, but rather a question of how to deal with an evil which has existed from time immemorial, that is to say, the intemperate and immoderate use of intoxicating liquors, for we all recognize the fact that liquor has its use and sometimes is very essential. There never was a law made yet, nor can one be made, which will control a person's appetite: moral suasion goes a long ways beyond any attempt at coercion. Human nature very naturally resents that. No, we do not want the saloon, neither do we want the 18th amendment, and it seems extremely improbable that any modification of it would be satisfactory.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORY

Danny Watches Carol

'Tis neither wise nor right to yearn
For that in which you've no concern.
—Carol the Meadow Lark.

Danny Meadow Mouse had something to think about. He was sure that the nest of Carol the Meadow Lark was somewhere in the neighborhood, but where he didn't know. Danny was interested. He knew that Mrs. Meadow Lark builds her nest on the ground. Carol had already told him that there were eggs in that nest. Now, Danny Meadow Mouse isn't above stealing an egg when he can do it in safety. He got to thinking of those eggs in that nest of Mrs. Meadow Lark's. The more he thought of them, the more he wanted to sample them. So he began spending a great deal of time looking for that nest.

Now, as you know, Danny Meadow Mouse is a small person. Already the grass was quite tall and, of course, Danny couldn't see over it. This was a very great disadvantage. He could look up and see Carol in the air, but when Carol came down Danny never could see just where he dropped into the grass. It was much the same as it would be with you if you were in the Green Forest and saw Redtail the Hawk soaring overhead. As long as he remained up above you would be able to get glimpses of him through the tree tops; but the moment he descended you would lose sight of him. It was exactly that way with Danny Meadow Mouse.

However, Danny noticed that Carol most often disappeared in the grass in a certain direction. "Right over there is where that nest is," thought Danny, and began cutting a little path in that direction. Little by little that path grew and as he worked he could look up and see Carol. It didn't once occur to Danny that Carol looking down might see him.

Once as he stopped to rest he saw Carol with an insect in his bill. He disappeared down in the grass just ahead. Danny chuckled when he saw this. "He's taking that to feed Mrs. Meadow Lark," said Danny to himself. "Yes, sir, he's feeding Mrs. Meadow Lark on the nest. He's saving her the trouble of going to look for food. That nest must be only a little way ahead. I ought to find it pretty soon now."

He disappeared down in the grass just ahead

A few moments later Danny heard the sound of wings and Carol flew up out of the grass from a point only a few feet away. Danny's eyes brightened. He as sure that he was just about to find that nest. If he found that nest he would have eggs, for he would watch his chance to steal them when the nest was left unguarded for a moment. He knew exactly here Carol had flown up from.

"I'll be very careful now," thought Danny. "I'll be very, very careful. I don't want Mrs. Meadow Lark to see me. If she should see me, she would be suspicious."

So Danny worked very, very carefully until he came to the place from which Carol had flown. He knew he wasn't mistaken. He was positive that Carol had been right there. But though he looked and looked, Danny found no nest. He found no trace of a nest. He sat still for a few minutes to think it over.

"It must be," thought Danny, "that Carol walked away from that nest before he flew. He wouldn't fly up directly from the nest for fear that some enemy might see him and so find the nest. But it cannot be very far away. A little patience is all I need.

He heard Carol singing up above. At the end of the song he saw Carol start down. At first he thought that Carol as going to alight right beside him. But he didn't. He passed right over Danny's head and alighted only a short distance away; a very short distance. Danny peeked between the grass-stems and caught a glimpse of Carol. "Now," thought Danny, "I'll find the nest."

Epilepsy And The Motor Car

By Dr. Donald Guthrie, Sayre, Penna.
(From Gorgas Memorial Institute)

Epilepsy is a disease as old as mankind and its cause is as much of a mystery today as it was to the ancients. The modern treatment of epilepsy is in no way curative—all that can be done is to control the attacks and prolong the interval between the seizures. If the disease develops early in youth it may disappear in later years with or without treatment—and rarely, the type which follows injury or accompanying brain pathology and is confined to certain motor areas of the body may be benefited by surgery. But it is very safe to say that one unfortunate enough to have or to have had epilepsy is subject to attack and is therefore potentially dangerous to himself and to others, should he be employed in industry or allowed to drive a motor car or an airplane.

Many types of industry, but unfortunately not all, have disqualified the known epileptic from employment. This is because fatal accidents have occurred due to the employee having an attack while work over his machine or driving an engine, this attack proving fatal not only to the victim of epilepsy, but to his coworkers, passengers or to the innocent by-stander as well.

There are two types of epilepsy—(1) the grand mal, which is attended by a warning, the fall, the spasm, followed by the twitching spasm, frothing at the mouth and biting of the tongue, all occurring during a period of complete unconsciousness and the whole attack followed by a prolonged period of sleep if the victim is left undisturbed; (2) the petit mal or mild form, characterized by momentary lapses of consciousness, staring into space, without the fall or spasms mentioned above. During these attacks, which are fleeting and short, the victim is completely unconscious and without a doubt is a source of danger to himself and others in industry or upon the highway.

I have before me the motor vehicle laws and the application blanks for a motor license of ten of our largest states and I regret to say that not in a single instance has any of these states taken any measure to protect the traveling public from the epileptic, other than to ask the applicant whether or not he or she has epilepsy. The number of persons with epilepsy who are allowed to drive motor cars is unknown, but it is very safe to say that many thousands are granted operators' licenses. I personally know several epileptics who obtain motor licenses year after year without any trouble whatever and I shudder every time I see them drive upon the highway. It is very possible that many of our unexplainable accidents which happen to careful drivers may be due to the incident of epilepsy among licensed motor drivers.

Anyone who has epilepsy owes it to himself and to the public to choose such occupation and recreations as shall involve no danger from his weakness, either to himself or to others. This is a personal responsibility in the field of health. If he does not act for himself, something should be done soon to exclude him as a driver not only from the highways, but from the streets of our towns and cities.

Solution of Yesterday's Puzzle

A HISTORY OF CONNECTICUT INDUSTRY

Released by Manufacturers Association of Connecticut

The Sprague Meter Co., Bridgeport.

From 1887 to 1898 H. H. Sprague was a practicing architect in Chicago. In 1892, he frequently went to Indianapolis to superintendent a building he was erecting there.

On one of these visits his attention was called to a gas meter patent. He thought it an ingenious device and later purchased it thinking its development would be an interesting "side line." This "side line" soon became a "main line" of more absorbing interest than his architecture. Incidentally the patented device, purchased, he soon discovered would not work. This hit his pride and stirred ambition to make one that would. After much study and many experiments he finally came to Bridgeport to start the manufacture and exploitation of a perfected meter device, which then existed only his mind. This was in 1900.

Renting a small space on the third floor of the McMahon and Wren building, he made his working drawings and a perfected model with his own hands. From this beginning there has been a steady growth and in 1907 the Sprague Meter company was incorporated.

At this time the business had outgrown its old quarters and justified the purchase of a factory of its own. This has been several times enlarged to meet the requirements of their expanding business. Now their products (gas meters and regulators) go into every state in the Union with a growing foreign trade. Branches are maintained at Los Anelos, San Francisco, Davenport, Iowa, Newark, ..., Houston, Texas, and Melbourne, Australia.

The present officers are: H. H. Sprague, president; W. P. Hutchinson, vice president and general manager; A. I. Ayre, secretary and treasurer.

Mahlon Saylor, of Union town, Pa., bought a fat hen for 30 cents. Preparing it for dinner, something harder than usual was felt in the craw of the fowl—a $10 gold piece, which the chicken had swallowed.

IN NORWICH FIFTY YEARS AGO

Wednesday, May 19, 1880—The shad fishermen at the Greeneville dam caught 600 pounds of fish yesterday. The shad are running larger than usual in the Shetucket river and a large number weighing above six pounds are caught daily.

Powers Bros., then located on Main street, distributed part of the above catch.

Shetucket river shad are but a memory, but Powers Bros. are bringing just as freshly caught shad, directly from the Connecticut river early in the morning

Look for the Red Arrow place, 16 Bath street, or phone 114 for other fresh caught varieties.

HELD MEMORIAL SERVICES FOR REVOLUTIONARY SOLDIERS

Faith Trumbull chapter, Daughters of American Revolution, held the annual memorial exercises at the old cemetery at Norwich Town at 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon in honor of the Colonial and French soldiers of the Revolution.

David Brewer and Russell Edmonds, the color bearers of the Children of the American Revolution, held the state flag and the C. A. R. flag at the entrance to the grounds while the thirteen-star flags were held by other members of the chapter.

The exercises were opened by a bugle call given by the Boy Scouts. Devotional exercises were conducted by Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey followed by the singing of America the Beautiful led by Mrs. Louis A. Wheeler, Mrs. George L. Ingalls and Mrs. Albert J. Bailey.

Boy Scout troop 12 of Park church and Troop 2 of Norwich Town gave a very interesting flag exercise.

After the singing of America Rev. Dr. Theodore M. Shipherd of Park Congregational church gave a very inspiring address, and Joseph O. Tellier sang the national anthem of France, the Marseillaise.

Mrs. Albert M. VanWagenan, regent of Faith Trumbull chapter, expressed the appreciation of the chapter for the poppies made by the Ladies' auxiliary of Fletcher post, American Legion, which were then placed around the boulder in memory of the 20 French soldiers buried there.

The Star Spangled Banner was sung and a firing squad from the local artillery companies fired the volley, which was followed by one minute of silent prayer. The Boy Scouts sounded taps and the members of the C. A. R. strewed flowers on the graves of the 122 Revolutionary soldiers. The museum at Norwich Town green was opened for the season and many availed themselves of this opportunity to see the many interesting relics there.

Piles Go Quick

No Salves or Cutting

Thousands of Pile sufferers have not yet learned that quick and permanent relief can only be accomplished with internal medicine. Neither cutting nor any amount of treatment with ointments and suppositories will remove the cause.

Bad circulation causes piles. There is a complete stagnation of blood in the lower bowel and a weakening of the parts.

Dr. J. S. Leonhardt, after years of study discovered a real internal remedy and called his prescription HEM-ROID. He prescribed it for 1000 patients with the marvelous record of success in 960 cases, and then decided Pile sufferers everywhere should be able to get HEM-ROID from their own druggist with a rigid money-back guarantee.

Don't waste any more time with outside applications. Get a package of HEM-ROID from Lee & Osgood Co. today. They always guarantee it to give you quick and lasting relief or money-back.

NEARLY 100 RUNNERS OF NATIONAL NOTE WILL RACE FOR 10-MILE TITLE HERE TODAY

De Mar, Veteran Marathoner, Will Be Among Those Who Will Seek National Title—Moore and Henigan Given Good Chance to Beat McDade Present Titleholder—Horse-Racing and Air Circus to Add to Attractivness of Program.

The geratest field of athletes ever to gather at one time in the state of Connecticut will assemble at the Norwich fairgrounds this afternoon and at 1:30 o'clock (D. S. T.) will set out in chase of the national 10 mile crown, which last night Jimmy McDade of New York produdly sported as he stepped off the State of Maine. McDade, a Millrose A. A. harrier, won the title at Long Island a year ago and this afternoon will lineup with 90 others as the defending champion. Whether or not he will tote the title back to New York with him is a question at this time but one thing is certain, if he does it will be because he is truly a great champion.

Never in the history of an event of the calibre of the National A. A. U. 10 mile championship run has a field as classy as the one lined up for today assembled. The field includes practically all of the celebrities of the long distance business, nearly everyone who amounts to anything being listed.

The greatest of the great is without doubt Clarence De Mar, the Keane N. H. schoolmaster. Although De Mar is not conceded much chance to grab off McDade's title he stands head and shoulders above the entire field despite the fact that there are some who over the 10 mile distance may be a bit faster. Clarence seven times winner of the Boston classic, has taken part in 37 full distance marathons during his career and won 16 of them. A year ago he ran in the Duwell race and although not conceded much chance he led a field of 80 to the tape. Who knows what he may do today? De Mar, who will be accompanied by his wife, will arrive here shortly before noon and during his stay in the city will be the guest of Robert O. Fletcher post, No. 4, American Legion.

Two others, who accompanied the Melrose veteran to Europe as members of the American Olympic long distance team in 1928, Whitey Michaelson of New York and "Smiling" Jimmy Henigan of Dorchester, Mass., will be included in the pack. Michaelson at the present time sports the 15 mile national championship and "Smiling" Jimmy once wore the mantles which now drape the shoulders of McDade. Both are looked to for considerable trouble this afternoon.

Another pair, expected to cause McDade plenty of trouble and probably relieve him of his honors, is Fred Ward, of New York, national 20 mile king, and Gus Moore of Brooklyn, who on Sunday beat both McDade and Michaelson to win the Metropolitan 10 mile championship. Ward is a member of the Millrose team and Moore wears the colors of the Brooklyn Harriers. The latter is picked by many of the wise ones to win ther ace.

Other celebrities who will rub shoulders are Willie Kyronen, Finnish-American star who finished second to De Mar at Boston this year, Max Lamp, Millrose A. A. athlete and holder of the German 10,000 meter championship and last but not least our own Bill Kennedy, the veteran Port Chester bricklayer.

Eastern Conn. will provide the bulk of the entries from this state, 13 being listed from cities and towns east of the Connecticut river.

VETERAN DISTANCE RUNNER

CLARENCE DE MAR WHO RACES HERE TODAY

Djdja ever see such nasty weather.

Here I go over to the Majestic roof to see some boxing bouts and all I get is a cold in the head.

Can you imagine a coupla hundred folks being simple enough to sit out in a cold and chilly rain to see a dozen or so alleged boxers slap one another with wet gloves.

And not only that but to pay good money for it. With me it was different, Jackie Burns gives me a coupla Annie Oakleys and besides the company pays me for going so that's my alibi.

But how those boys in the ring must have suffered with the cold. They didn't move around enough to keep warm and they were very scantily clad. If Gus Sonnenberg had been on the card it would have made one of the best wrestling exhibitions seen in a long time.

The most enthusiasm displayed was by two feminine boxing enthusiasts who kept shouting words of encouragement to the boxers. The young women also demonstrated their vocabularies in talking back to the fans.

Jimmy Quinn, local boy, shapes up as a pretty neat little boxer but until he learns to punch he is going to have tough going. Jimmy hits when off balance and when he is dancing around and his blows lack any potent power.

So much for the boxing bouts, but are you going to see the national ten-mile run at the fairgrounds today? If mile run at the Fairgrounds today? If you don't you'll miss seeing all the best distance runners in the country.

This is the first national event that Norwich has ever had in the way of athletics and it's up to the local people to show their appreciation by their attendance. Not only that but you'll see athletic history in the making.

See you at the Fairgrounds.

ROBINS TIE FOR FIRST PLACE, BEATING GIANTS

BROOKLYN, May 29—(AP)—The Brooklyn Robins regained their tie with the St. Louis Cardinals for first place in the National league today by defeating their closest rivals, the New York Giants, 4 to 1. The Cardinals were among the six idle clubs in the circuit.

Babe Herman and William Watson Clark as a combination proved two much for the Giants. Herman hit two home runs, one off Carl Hubbell and the other off Joe Heving, who relieved Hubbell in the eighth inning, and batted in three of the Robin runs. Clark allowed the Giants only six hits, one at a time, and was deprived of a shutout only by Andy Reese's homer in the fifth.

The first Brooklyn run was scored in the second on Moore's double and Lopez's single. The score:

ANNUAL MEMORIAL DAY GOLF TOURNEY TODAY

A field of nearly 100 golfers will start in the qualifying round of the annual Memorial day golf tournament at the Norwich Golf club this morning. One of the largest entries for this event is expected toady.

OWENS GETS DECISION OVER BROWN IN FEATURE BOUT OF TAME CARD

About 200 or so fight faithful braved pneumonia, rheumatism, influenza and other kindred ailments to see a tame card of boxing last night atop the Majestic roof. Those who sat in the drizzling rain were rewarded by one good bout, the six-round final between Matty Owens of New Bedford and K. O. Bristol Brown of Bristol, R. I., in which Owens earned the decision. But for the local interest in the first two bouts there was nothing to get excited about in any of the other boxing-wrestling bouts.

To mar even the tameness of the bouts was the condition of the ring. The canvas became slippery under the drizzle and the ropes about the ring were so loose that spectators held their breaths whenever the boxers came against them. In fact, there were several times that the boxers tumbled headlong out of the ring. In the semi-final, Freddy Slader tumbled through ropes and hurt his back. In the final bout Brown and Owens, locked in each other's arms, pitched through the ropes to land on their backs among the chairs and spectators.

The main bout, which was the redeeming feature of the entire show, was a real fast bout but should have gone eight or ten rounds instead of the shorter distance of six rounds. Owens and Brown really fought with Owens carrying the fight to Brown practically throughout the bout, scoring heavily on the in-fighting. Brown packed a hefty wallop but Owens' clever defensive work offset the deadliness of the Bristol boy's punching.

Jimmy Quinn, of Norwich, making his professional debut widely outpointed Jack Monty, Providence colored boy in four rounds. Quinn, a clever boxer, seemed to lack any semblance of a knockout punch and it was his ability to jab and hook and get away that won him the verdict. Monty, a much harder hitter than Quinn, rocked the local boy in the second round but was unable to follow up his advantage although Quinn was severely hurt.

Tommy McCarthy, the other local boy on the card, won a hairline decision over Joe Sposato of Westerly, in a four rounder marred by much holding and wrestling. McCarthy did not look as well as in his last local bout due largely to the fact, perhaps, that he was boxing a southpaw battler. There was little to choose from between the two, McCarthy having about a one-point margin at the end. Sposato was supposed to have fought Quinn but came in overweight, while Monty was under the mark so the boys were switched, Monty taking Quinn and Sposato going on with McCarthy.

The other bouts on the card were far from hot. Johnny Murphy of Fall River won on a technical knockout in the fourth round of a scheduled six round bout. Murphy knew too much about the boxing game and Phillips, although game as they come, took plenty of punishment before Referee Bill Taylor decided that Phillips was not match for the Fall River Irishman.

The bout between Young Fizarra of New Bedford and Eddie Walker of Fall River was a pure and simple farce. Neither boxer, if they can be called that, had anything but a pair of boxing gloves. Fizarra was awarded the decision through his aggressiveness alone and his body punching in the frequent clinches.

The semi-final bout between Larry McManus of Providence and Freddy Slader of Fall River started off fast when McManus knocked Slader down in the first round for a count of six but this was the only bit of real action iin the bout. The only other exciting moment in this bout was when Slader toppled backwards out of the ring. McManus was given the decision.

Promoter Jackie Burns took a financial licking due largely to the bad break in the weather. All agreed that the Majestic roof seems to be the ideal place to hold boxing shows in Norwich and it is hoped that a better card will pack them in at the next show.

CONN. AGGIES PLAY TWO GAMES AWAY TODAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

STORRS, May 29.—The Connecticut Aggie baseball team will play the only doubleheader of the season, Friday, May 30, meeting Trinity college at Hartford, in the morning, and Wesleyan university, at Middletown, in the afternoon. The Aggie nine has had little practice since returning from the northern trip last week, due to weather and field conditions. In the games on Gardener Dow field earlier in the season, Wesleyan nosed out the Aggie team 7-6 in a fast contest, while the Storrs nine had little difficulty in defeating the Trinity team by a 21-4 score.

Benedicts vs. Bachelors.

The married men of the West Side are engaged in what is said to be a real diamond battle with the single men of the West Side at Hollyhock Island, at 9.45 a. m. today, May 30.

PIPGRAS HALTS WINNING STREAK OF SENATORS

NEW YORK, May 29—(AP)—With George Pipgras playing the leading role, the Yankees checked the winning streak of the Washington Senators today after seven straight victories. The score was 4 to 2.

The "Great Dane" allowed nine hits, but kept them well scattered after the first inning when the Senators started off with three successive singles to score one run. It was his sixth victory in nine starts.

The Yankees took the lead in the second inning as Chapman doubled after Gehrig and Cooke had walked and never were seriously threatened. Ruth drove in the third Yankee run after Combs had tripled and scored the fourth on his double and a single by Hargrave. Washington did not score again until two were out in the ninth inning. With two on base, Pipgras made a wild toss for an error and Bluege came home from third. The score:

ACADEMY MEETS HARDING HIGH IN ANNUAL MEMORIAL DAY CONTEST

Pepin, cf	rf	O'Connell
Fitzgerald, 2b	p	Altieri
Reardon, 2b	p	Palmer
Greene, p

Game starts at 4 p. m.

One of the biggest games on the Academy schedule is down for settlement this afternoon at the campus when the Wildcats entertain Warren Harding high of Bridgeport before what is expected to be the banner crowd of the year. The starting time has been set for 4 o'clock, to accommodate the national ten-mile run at the Fairgrounds.

Boots Greene will make his seventh start of the season today and will be seeking his sixth win. Boots had won on his first five appearances until losing to Bulkeley last week but this was due mainly to poor support so that with any kind of a break from his teammates today he should be able to give the slugging Harding team a busy afternoon. Among the impressive performances turned in by Boots this year was a 7 to 0 shutout of Gilbert high of Winsted, and a 3 to 1 victory over Deep River high, in which he was hooked up with the brilliant Hagen in a twirling duel.

Harding, according to the advance notices, comes to the campus today with its best hitting and fielding team since the school was founded back in 1925, but below the average in pitching. If this be the case, then the fans are in for an afternoon of long and hard hitting as the Academy, with a team average of .313 is the best hitting aggregation of which Eastern Connecticut can boast. Harding, however, with seven of the eight regulars, not counting the pitcher, batting over .300 has it on the Wildcats, who have but four in the charmed circle. Harding has three of its players in the .400 class while the Academy has two, Capt. Chubby Gibbs and Mickey Breen.

The Academy's starting lineup is still a bit uncertain. The final selection on three positions will not be made known until game time by Coach Brigham. Either Bud Fontaine or Les Crowell will do the catching with Jerry Fitzgerald or Speed Reardon at second and Ed Flather or Bob Geer in right field. Butsy Weisgraber will be in left and Hack Pepin in center while the rest of the infield sees Alex Arico at first, Gibbs at short and Breen at third.

With the team still possessing a mathematical chance for the league title and by the same token, for state honors, they cannot afford to take any chances with today's game but must play ball right from the start. The Wildcats have won 12 of their 15 games which is still one of the best records in recent years.

The school band will again be on hand and play both before the game and between the innings. Everything is set for the usual big Memorial day turnout.

JONES BEATS JOHNSTON IN HARD MATCH TO REMAIN IN TOURNAMENT

(By Frank H. King, Associated Press Writer)

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland, May 29—(AP)—In a grim 18-hole All-American golf battle, between the open and amateur champions of the United States, Bobby Jones this afternoon succeeded in beating off a great rally by Jimmy Johnston to win at the last hole and remain in the hunt for the British amateur championship. Jones halved the hole to win from Johnston, one up.

George Voigt, who like Jones won two matches today, is the only other Walker cup player from the United States, to enter the last eight of the 270 competitors who started the championship play Monday.

George Von Elm and Francis Ouimet were beaten in the morning's play, Von Elm in an upset which was one of the sensations of the day. The Hon. Michael Scott, 52-year-old player, member of a famous Northumberland golfing family, got ahead of the former American champion and was never caught although the Detroiter chased him to the 20th hole.

Ouimet was a victim of a sturdier foe, Lister Hartley, who won another match in the afternoon and remains in the running.

Douglas Grant, another quarter-finalist, is a Californian but he has lived long in London.

If Jones and Voigt win their morning matches tomorrow they will meet in the semi-finals in the afternoon.

Voigt today defeated William Campbell, four and two, in the fifth round, and W. L. Hope, two up in the sixth. Jones' victories today were over G. O. Watt, seven and six, and Johnston.

Grant too scored two victories the first over Kenneth Grieg and the second over Scott conqueror of Von Elm.

Golf gossip in St. Andrews tonight still centers on Jones' chances of winning the title he covets most.

Tomorrow he faces more stiff opposition. Eric Fiddian boys' champion three years ago, is regarded as one of the best of the younger crop of British golfers.

If the open champion of America defeats the youngster, he has Voigt to face, and the New Yorker, with his execution run-up shots has won hosts of admirers. His stock went up today when he defeated Hope, a great match player, after losing the first three holes. Voigt, however, shot three birdies in succession to even matters.

Jones played effortless golf this morning but this afternoon, as was the case yesterday, he struggled for his figures particularly on the homeward route.

MAHAFFEY HAS BETTER OF DUEL WITH GASTON

PHILADELPHIA, May 29—(AP)—Mahaffey, the Athletics' pitcher from Portland, Oregon, beated Milt Gaston in a twirling tangle here today, pitching the Mackmen to a 3 to 1, victory over the Boston Red Sox.

A two-base boot by Regan on Haas' grounder in the seventh inning paved the way for the winning run that was scored on Cochrane's two base hit to right.

The only member of the Red Sox to pass second base on Mahaffey was Oliver, who singled in the sixth, advanced on an infield out, and scored on a double by Durst. Today's win was the Athletics fourth straight. The score:

SHYMAS MEET H. N. S. IN DOUBLEHEADER TODAY

Two of the fastest amateur teams in Connecticut will come together today at the Providence street grounds, Taftville, when the Holy Name team of Jewett City will clash with the Shymas of Taftville in a double header, one in the forenoon at 10 o'clock, with the afternoon game scheduled for 2 p. m. Both of these teams have yet to meet defeat, both boasting of fine records, with the odds favoring the Jewett City boys who have won all of their games by a big margin. This game should be a hummer for there is still the old Jewett City and Taftville rivalry existing between the two towns and the Jewett City boys are bringing down a big delegation of fans to help them bring home the bacon. Jewett City will send down its regular lineup with either Liberty or Vachon pitching the morning game, with Pizzo on the receiving end, while the battery for the afternoon game will be Bernal, pitch, and Pizzo, catch.

The Shymas have been hard at practice during the past week knowing that they face their hardest task of the season and that they will have to be at their best if they expect to come out of the doubleheader on the winning column. Lefty Lucier, leading pitcher of the Dusty league and captain of the local team, will draw the pitching assignment in the morning game with Burelle on the receiving end. The rest of the lineup will be: Wilke, first base; Bunk, second; Ulewisz, third base, with N. Lemieux at the shortstop berth; A. Lemieux, Raymond Benoit or Dudex will patrol the outfield. In the afternoon game Faucher will pitch, with Burelle catching; the rest of the lineup will be the same with the exception of Lucier who will play the outfield.

WESTERLY

CHARGED WITH CLOTH THEFT, SATORO PAYS TOTAL OF $20.90

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., May 29.—Judge Oliver H. Williams held a special session of the Third district court at 4 p. m., Thursday. Genuaro Satoro, 41, of Providence, who was held at the plant of the Bradford Dyeing Co. until Chief Brown and Officer Robert Kessel went to Bradford, late Wednesday afternoon, to investigate the reported theft of cloth, was charged with the theft of 80 yards valued at 50 cents a yard. In the police investigation at Bradford, some of the cloth was found wrapped around the man's body and some was found at the Bradford boarding house, where in a clothes press in a locked brief case was found more cloth. In court the man told Judge Williams that he had been ill in the hospital before coming to Bradford, about five months ago, also that he was the father of several small children who lived with their mother in Providence. He was inclined at first to plead not guilty and was taken to the cell room. Later, Court Officer Leroy H. Norman returned to the court room to say that the accused desired to again come into court and plead guilty. The case was continued until an official of the Bradford Co. could come to Westerly to appear in court. At the continued hearing, Satoro was found guilty and given a fine and costs amounting to $20.90, which was paid.

JOSEPH POUTRIE GETS SUSPENDED SENTENCE

Joseph Poutrie, alias Joseph Pulsky, of Fall River, arraigned on the charge of breaking and entering the grocery store of William Segar & Co., Sunday last, claimed that he was so hard of hearing that he could not understand the complaint, which was handed him to read. It alleged the larceny, at 11 p. m., Saturday, of 193 packages of cigarettes at 15 cents, amounting to $28.95; 68 cigars at 10 cents, $6.80 and $5 in currency, a total of $40.75. The accused was apprehended by Officer Robert Kessel when he went to Noank with Chief Brown. A rambling story was told by the accused of his travels and at the time in question he declared he was asleep in a box car at the Auburn freight yard near Providence. As the case was beyond the jurisdiction of the district court, Judge Williams directed a plea of not guilty, set bail at $1,500, and ordered his commitment to Washington county jail, Kingston, to await trial in superior court.

At the continued court session, Poutrie came into court and admitted his guilt. He agreed to report to the probation officer for the next five years and sentence was suspended.

Thursday afternoon all defense testimony in the Washington county superior court had been entered, but Judge Pouliot decided that it was too late for the attorneys to make their pleas and later for him to charge the jury, so the $25,000 automobile damage case was continued to Monday morning next. MYSTIC

LEDYARD'S GRAVE MARKER PRESERVED FROM VANDALS

C. C. McGaughey and a force of men from Mystic, were at the Colonel Ledyard cemetery at Groton Heights Wednesday, where they placed a large granite block, containing the original grave marker of Colonel William Ledyard. Souvenir hunters had chipped off pieces from the marker to such an extent that the state decided to remove it to the capitol in Hartford, where it would be safe. At the last session of the legislature, however, a large delegation from Groton Heights went to Hartford and protested against the removal of the stone. Instead, they secured an appropriation with which to have the stone preserved in such a way that it would be impossible for visitors to chip pieces off. A large block of granite was therefore cut and the marker placed in it. This was covered with unbreakable glass and a bronze moulding, thus making it secure in the future.

Miss Aileen Bently, teacher at the local school, is ill. Mrs. Alice Chester has been substituting in the sub-primary during her absence.

Memorial Exercises

The Memorial day parade will be led by Dr. E. P. Fitch as marshal. The line will form at the Third district hall, Main street, at 10 o'clock. The Bulkeley band of New London will furnish music. Various patriotic organizations of the village will be in line, also the Boy Scouts and school children. The parade will march up Pearl street, down Chester avenue to High street, down Sylvan street and into Elm street. Then services will be held in the Noank Valley cemetery. The speaker will be William I. Spicer. The parade will return by way of Spicer avenue to Front street, through Church street into Main street, and will disband at the Third district hall.

A struggle between an owl and the engineer of an electric express train has been reported at Linkoeping, in southern Sweden. The bird, probably attracted by the headlights of the locomotive, burst against one cab window and broke the glass. Well inside, it sank its claws into the shoulder of the motorman and attacked him with its bill. The engineer could not leave his grip on the switch, and a fierce battle ensued while the train raced on its way. At last the motorman succeeded in strangling the bird, which was an unusually large specimen.

MERCHANDIZING, FOOD AND SPECIALTY SHARES FEATURES OF STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, May 29—(AP)—The stock market shut up shop for the week end today after worrying through typically dull pre-holiday session. Buying of the merchandising, food and specialty shares enlivened the late proceedings and brought out some of the largest net gains of the week, but the tone of the general list, with the exception of the rails, was only firm.

The price indices for 90 stocks showed an advance of slightly more than two points for the short trading week. Utilities fared well, making a gain of nearly six points, while the rails, steadily liquidated on the April earnings reports, lost more than a point and are now near their 1930 low.

News of either a constructive or an unfavorable tenor was lacking and traders declined to take much of a stand with a three day vacation ahead of them. The move in the favorites embraced perhaps a score of stocks, which rallied 2 to 9 points under the leadership of Worthington Pump, up 9 1-8 to a new high, Air Reduction, Ingersoll Rand, Vanadium Steel, Columbian Carbon and such merchandising shares as R. H. Macy, Sears Roebuck, Safeway Stores, Real Silk Hosiery, Hahn Department Stores preferred, Gimbel Brothers preferred and United Cigar Stores preferred, the last two going to new highs for the year. National Dairy, Borden, National Biscuit and Proctor and Gamble also made fresh 1930 records.

The brokers' loan figures, showing a gain of $7,000,000 to a total of $4,022,000,000 compared with $5,288,000,000 a year ago, showed an increase of $122,000,000 in loans for New York city member banks own account, but a contraction in the amounts for out of town bank and for the account of others, indicating a withdrawal of funds by the interior banks presumably because of the low interest rates prevailing here. The average rate on call money during May was 3.11 per cent, the smallest since November, 1924. Minus the brokerage charge, 3 per cent money means a net return to lenders of only 2.1-2 per cent which is two per cent less than can be obtained at present from prime bonds. Interest rates elsewhere are still generally higher than in New York, where funds now constitute the proverbial drug on the market.

An expansion in outstanding federal reserve credit, contrasting with the recent declines, was noted in the weekly statements of the banks. Total bill and security holdings of the system rose about $27,000,000, virtually all of which was at the local bank. Discounts for the system increased nearly $37,000,000 and for the New York bank $23,000,000. Holdings of U. S. government securities rose nominally. There was a gain of $13,000,000 in federal reserve note circulation for the twelve banks.

The weekly business reviews called attention to the unfavorable effect of unseasonable weather over a large area on trade during the holiday week, and found that repression of business activities had been the rule.

Grain prices were slightly irregular, but little changed on the day. Wheat was an eighth of a cent higher to 1 1-4 lower on large contract deliveries and beneficial rains in Canada. Corn closed in almost the same range, influenced by various Iowa state reports and by liquidation of May.

Bar silver again went to a new record low, carrying Far Eastern exchanges down. Other exchanges showed slight changes.

THE CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, May 29—(AP)—The spotty and creeping bull market in curb stocks went forward without notable interruption in today's pre-holiday session. Trading slackened somewhat, with total sales of 756,100 shares, compared to nearly 1,000,000 yesterday. Utilities and industrial specialties dominated the day's activity, joined by a few of the oils.

In the industrial and specialty group, Dresser B, Carnation company, Cuneo Press, Ulen and Company and U. S. Foil B rose 1 1-2 to 3 points to new high levels for 1930. Deere, under heavy pressure early in the week, rallied more than 2 points. Some of the aviation issues were firm, including Aviation Corporation of the Americas and Fokker, Detroit Aircraft, recently stimulated by merger rumors, rose a fraction to a new high, but closed unchanged. Technicolor slipped back a point, and Dow Chemical, Driver Harris and Pepperell, 2 to 3.

Electric Bond and Share was again an active feature moving up about a point to a new high for the movement. Electric Power and Light warrants, Consolidated Gas of Baltimore, American Light and Traction, American and Foreign Power warrants, and Cleveland Electric rose a point or two. Associated Gas and European Electric each lost more than a point, the latter reaching a new low at 17 3-4.

Vacuum was a feature of the oils, rising about five points. Cities Service sold up a fraction in heavy trading. Gulf sold off, although acquisition of Paragon Refining by Mellon interests is expected to provide a new unit for Gulf.

Investments trust generally moved in narrow ranges, but Trans-America ran into considerable selling, losing about 2 points, and closing off 1 3-8.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, May 29.—(AP)—Quietness continued to rule the bond market today. Inquiry was dull on the eve of the holiday and few important changes appeared in the investment list. There was a slight appreciation in the demand for industrials, but the high grade rails and utilities stagnated. Time money rates showed no change.

There were a few exceptions to the slowness of rails. Chicago Great Western 4s advanced 1 1-4 in a substantial turnover and the St. Paul adjustment income 5s, which were in low ground earlier in the week, extended their more recent improvement by about half a point. Missouri Pacific 5s and Wabash 5 1-2s made a similar gain. On the other hand, Long Island railroad 4s sank 2 5-8 to a new minimum for the year at 88 1-8.

Industrial issues attracting attention included Container corporation 6s, up more than 2 points; General Steel Castings 5 1-2s, Inland Steel 4 1-2s, International Match 5s, International Paper 6s, Murray Body 6s, Walworth 6s and Eastern Electric 6s. Gains, however, were mostly fractional.

American and Foreign Power 5s, traded on the New York Stock exchange for the first time, ranged between 88 and 88 1-2.

The American Telephone series was firm, but elsewhere there was little activity in the utilities. New York Tractions bonds advanced on fair volume.

Convertibles shared in the dullness. Both the telephone issues in this description moved up a point. General Theatres 6s, 1944 maturity, advanced 1 3-4, while Loew's 6s were firm and Warner Brothers Pictures eased.

The foreign list held steady. Japan 5 1-2s were active at slightly lower levels. Batavian Petroleum 4 1-2s and Columbia 6s (January) improved about a point each. Finland 6 1-2s lost half a point. Obligations of the leading European governments were firm.

Liberties and treasuries scarcely appeared on the tape, and price fluctuations in the few issues traded were inconsequential.

A banking group headed by Halsey Stuart and company was awarded a $15,750,000 issue of Canadian National Railways 4 1-2 per cent equipment trust certificates.

THE FARMER'S TALK TO FARMERS

THE DANDELION

(Written Specially for The Bulletin)

Consider the dandelion. Like the lily it toils not, nor does it spin, yet it manages to attract a good deal more attention than some less obsteperous occupants of lawn and garden.

It certainly has its enemies. But they are mostly confined to suburbanites who think they can make a "lawn" out of a ten by 12 grass-patch in less than the English minimum of 200 years. With a few recruits from the feminine contingent who object to its uninvited appearance among their more polite flowers.

In truth, the dandelion has claims to respect and admiration which are not to be set aside by any mere calling it names. — — — By the way, there are very few plants that have more distinguished and jaw-breaking names, when you get a really formal introduction.

In my early years the text-books called the plant Taraxacum Densleonis, — — — Taraxacum for the genus, and Densleonis for the species. Later the botanists for a while favored the name Taraxacum officinale, now they seem to have settled upon Taraxacum taraxacum.

I confess I fancy most the first mentioned name. "Dens leonis" is Latin for the tooth of a lion. And it is from the French name of the flower, "Dent de lion," "lion's tooth," that we get the English word "dandelion." The original idea was that the leaves were shaped something like lion's teeth.

But who am I to set up my preferences against the dictum of the botanists? Taraxacum taraxacum they've made it, and Taraxacum taraxacum it'll have to be, — — — till they think up some other twist to give the name.

And one can't help feeling a sort of instinctive respect, — — — a sort of take-your-hat-off-atveness, for a plant which is addressed by those who know it best as Taraxacum taraxacum. You can't treat anything with that name as you might a "Bill," or "Tom," or "Mike."

Nor is that by any means all of it. Not only has the flower a Latin name four syllables long and repeated twice, but it is firmly announced by the scientific gents to be also a "cichoriaceous plant." Not only that, but it is "a liguliforal composite." And its milky juice contains a "peculiar crystalline principle called Taraxacin" which has valuable medicinal qualities.

Begin to feel a little better, now? Let's hope so, for we haven't got halfway through the first chapter, yet. Want to know what a "cichoriaceous" plant is? That sends your Uncle John to the dictionary, which explains that it means pertaining to the chicory family. And "liguliforal?" Well, the same useful dictionary says that means that the petals are strap-shaped, or more accurately, shaped like a little tongue, from the Latin word "ligula."

Medicinally, it is stated to be valuable as a diuretic, a stomachic and a cholagogue. Don't know what a "cholagogue" is, eh? Well neither do I. Let's ask Webster again. "Promoting the discharge of bile from the system," Noah says. Which leads the cynical mind to the belief that some people ought to be fed on dandelions for about a month, if such a diet would get any of the bile out of 'em!

But, some objector complains, - it's "yaller." Well, so is a ten dollar gold piece "yaller," but does that make it so unattractive that we want to throw it over the fence? I never knew either lady or gentleman to refuse a gold eagle because of his or her disapproval of the color.

When King Henry of England and King Francois of France met and wanted to exhibit the very top-notch of royal magnificence they had their thrones set up on a field covered with "cloth of gold." I'll bet my last ducat it wasn't any "yallerer" than the North Acre I can see right now from my window, starred and spangled and riotous with yellow dandelions.

"It's nothin' but a weed" urges still another dandelion-hater. Well, dear sir or madam, just what is a "weed?" My neighbor Waterhouse, who raises onions, pulls up every clover plant he finds intruding in the onion rows as a "weed." My neighbor Sherman, who has a dairy, sows clover every year, and considers it his most valuable crop. Yet it's the same clover.

Once I plowed a lot of cider-mill pomace under a part of my garden for the humus it might afford. For the next two years I spent a good part of my time pulling up young apple shoots which threatened to smother out my carrots and beets. Over to another side the mountain Nurseryman Sprouls was raising just such apple seedlings by the thousand to furnish grafting stock for the Baldwins and Mackintoshes he sells. What were weeds in my garden were his crop.

So you see that it's pretty hard to draw any straight line between weeds and useful plants. Perhaps as good a definition as any is the old one which describes a weed as a plant out of place. From the cultivator's standpoint, that covers the ground well enough. If he wants to raise onions dandelions in the onion-patch become weeds. If, per contra, he wants to raise dandelions for the medicine mills to extract drugs from, then onions in his dandelion garden would be weeds.

You pays your money and you takes your choice.

"They're such pests," says another critic; "you can't kill 'em; cutting one off only starts six others to growing in its place." Well we take a certain comfort in saying that "you can't keep a good man down." It is also emphatically asserted that "truth, crushed to earth, will rise again." Very much the same can be said of dandelions. Why honor the characteristic in one case and wax angry over it in the other?

The dandelion root makes useful medicine; dandelion leaves provide wholesome "greens" and salads; dandelion stems make dandy "chains" for the tots to play with; dandelion flowers, properly entreated, make a forbidden but highly popular beverage. It is hard to think of another plant which has so many and varied uses, and serves ungrateful humanity in so many ways. Why, then, is it so despised?

The answer is simple and easy. Because it is so common.

It is a curious characteristic of that junk-heap we call "human nature" that it is rarely satisfied with anything it can have, but is always sniveling for something out of its reach.

If every waste corner in Connecticut were growing up with gladioulses and there were only 12 dandelions in the whole state, people would dig up the gladiolus bulbs and throw them away to make room for a high-priced pair of dandelion roots.

Some years ago a Connecticut-born woman, who had spent her married life in Kansas, came back to the old home. And one of the first things she did was to commission a photographer to make a 20x24 inch picture of the daisy covered lawn at her old home. Her Kansas neighbors were paying 25 cents a root for daisies to plant in their flower-borders, and wouldn't believe her when she told them they were regarded as common pesky weeds in Connecticut. She wanted the photograph to back up her statement.

You see, in a state where daisies grow as luxuriantly and universally as Connecticut, they're "weeds"; where they don't grow naturally and have to be coddled and cosseted, as in Kansas, they're "exotics" and worth 25 cents a root.

Yet a daisy is a daisy and a dandelion is a dandelion, whether you call them weeds or flowers, whether you uproot them as pests or brag about them as rarities.

The other day, in the course of a ten mile drive between roadsides yellow with the flaunting flowers, I counted no less than seven automobile parties, with baskets and bags, gathering the blossoms. Some were cramming them into old bran bags, some into pillow-cases, one party had an old pineapple-crate. For their sake I was glad that neither Mr. Volstead nor Bishop Cannon was traveling that road, that day.

But the most enticing sight of all was a small, a very small tot, sitting contentedly in a specially thick bunch of the posies and gurgling with glee as her chubby fingers pulled off one flower-head after another, each one yielding with a little snap. It was such a picture of utter happiness that I found myself compelled to turn round, a mile further on, and go back just to pass it once more. There seemed no limit to the dandelions and, the second time I passed, there showed no lessening of glee in the tiny maiden's sparkling eyes. She was simply having a ge-lorious time, and I blessed the dandelions for giving it to her.

All the same, you don't want your lawn cluttered up with dandelions, you say. Very well: just what are you going to do about it? Digging 'em up, one by one, will make your darling lawn look as if a drove of hogs had rooted over it. Cutting them off, just below the surface, will simply encourage them to renewed growth. Salt will kill some of them and turn the surrounding grass a sickly gray. Even if, by some miracle, you should succeed in extirpating them, this spring, seeds blown from the surrounding neighborhood will re-stock the lawn, next spring.

When Henry Ward Beecher was playing at farming in Westchester county, he found Canada thistles too much for him. After several years experience he reported that the only plan which seemed to offer any hope of success was to cultivate the things, — — — actually treat them as a crop. Then he considered it possible that the bugs would attack them and the blights infect them and the droughts dry them up.

There's an idea in that for those who really want to get rid of their dandelions. I'd like to see some one try it.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, May 29.—(AP)—End of the month deliveries of wheat on a big scale proved to be a decided handicap today for friends of higher prices. The market at times made strong rallies on account of bullish crop reports, both domestic and foreign, but the gains failed to hold well. Today's deliveries on Chicago May wheat contracts aggregated 1,627,000 bushels, with further large deliveries looked for on Saturday.

Closing quotations on wheat were irregular, ranging from 7-8c a bushel setback to 1-2c gain, compared with yesterday's finish. Corn closed 1-8a1-4c off to 5-8c up. Oats unchanged to 5-8c higher, and provisions unchanged to 20c decline.

Provisions reflected downturns in the value of hogs.

NEW YORK, May 29.—(AP)—The usual Sunday calm in the New York financial district will extend from Thursday night to Monday, as most of the people associated with its activities enjoy a three-day vacation. With Memorial day falling on Friday and business slack, the security and commodity exchanges with the exception of certain of the commodity markets on the produce exchange, will remain closed Saturday. Brokerage houses and many business concerns have followed suit, banks being the only general exception. Most stock exchanges followed the lead of the New York security mart. Chicago and Winnipeg grain boards will conduct business as usual on Saturday.

The daily average of business failures throughout the country increased this week, R. G. Dun and company reports. The total for the five-day business week totaled 416 as compared with 480 defaults for the six days last week, and 274 in the corresponding week of 1929.

MOOSUP

TOWN'S MEMORIAL EXERCISES TO INCLUDE ALL SECTIONS

Plainfield is to have a community Memorial day program representative of the entire town. Conversations have been carried on over a period of a year which culminated in a joint Memorial day order of exercises. Last year the Ladies of the G. A. R. and the American Legion each conducted separate exercises. This year, these organizations have joined forces in honor of all who have offered their lives in the military service of their country. Representatives of the patriotic orders have already begun to plan for next year. It is aimed to include all elements; the Ladies of the G. A. R., the Daughters of the American Revolution, the Legion, the Legion auxiliary, Veterans of Foreign Wars and of the Spanish-American war. New graves of deceased veterans are being discovered every year, William Hill having reported nine graves of soldiers of the American Revolution, which he discovered in Union cemetery, Moosup, this year. The order of Memorial day exercises follows: Reveille and salute, 6 a. m.; Moosup section gather in Moosup, at the Boy Scout rooms, 7:30; dedication decoration of the Town Honor roll, Town hall, Central Village, at 8; decoration of Evergreen cemetery, Central Village, 8:15; prayer, Rev. George H. Reese; Union cemetery, Moosup, 9; prayer, Rev. Dr. A. Elwyn Tingley; parade to All Hallows' monument, 9:30; prayer, Rev. Father Philip L. Massicot; All Hallows' cemetery and delegation to Hammett's cemetery, 10; Old Plainfield cemetery, 10:45; prayer, Rev. William C. Prentiss; 11:15, prayer, Rev. J. W. Higgins; St. John's Plainfield, 11:45; prayer, Rev. Father John H. Landry; lunch at St. Paul's Plainfield, for the G. A. R. section and in Moosup for the Legion section, at 12, served by the American Legion. There will be a very brief address to those gathered in the Franco-American hall, Moosup, for lunch, when Rev. Chester Armstrong, of Danielson, will speak. The Central Village school children are to assist at Evergreen cemetery, the Moosup children at the Union cemetery and the Plainfield children at Old Plainfield. The Boy Scouts are also assisting, securing evergreen for the G. A. R. ladies, also in the parade. The district nursing association, through Miss Maynard, and the Daughters of the American Revolution will also assist in the day's ceremonies. The Legion and auxiliary assist in the services in Oneco at 1:15. There are also graves to be decorated by the Legion in Ekonk and by the auxiliary in Wauregan. All ex-service men of Plainfield and vicinity have been invited to share in the activities of the day.

Auxiliary Activities

Wednesday evening, the auxiliary to Ernest G. Gaudreau post, American Legion, met in Foresters' hall. Mrs. May Grenier, treasurer, reported that 600 carnations had been sold to the public for Mother's day. It was reported that 15 additional capes had been ordered for new members, the total membership being about 50. There are four gold star mothers, Mrs. Allen Sayles, Ekonk; Mrs. Joseph Vanasse, Plainfield; Mrs. Ovale Saivas and Mrs. John Potvin, of Moosup. There are the graves of three sisters to be decorated today (Friday), Mrs. Harry Biggonesse, Mrs. Jeremiah Doyle, both of Moosup and interred in Wauregan, also Mrs. Mary Thornton of Griswold, interred in Union cemetery, Moosup. It was voted to place white geraniums on their graves after the regular Memorial day program. Albert Deforge outlined the Memorial day plans and asked the auxiliary to provide lunch, Memorial day about 12 noon, for about 100 in the Moosup or Legion section, including the band and the scouts. The members were asked to help make wreaths Wednesday afternoon in the Town hall, and Wednesday evening in Masonic hall. A letter was read from headquarters pointing out the duty and privilege of cooperation with all other interested organizations in observing Memorial day, especially with any survivors of the original founders of the day which has become a national institution in memory of the dead, both civilian and military. The secretary, Miss Mary Lyons, reported that a special white cape and cap had been ordered for the president, Mrs. Joseph Godchild. All present had an informal but very happy social hour, sitting about the tables and chatting over pictures which Rev. Mr. DeWolfe brought from France.

Meeting Follows Steak Supper

At 8 o'clock Monday, a steak supper was served at the Moosup hotel, by Mr. and Mrs. Adelard Maynard, to 20 members of L'Association Canado-American. After the supper a meeting was held for the purpose of stimulating enrollment, and to organize for a field day this summer for members and friends. Committees were appointed to arrange for the outing. The president-general of the society, M. Elphege J. Daignault, of Woonsocket, presided. Others present were J. O. Tellier, R. C. Dion, David Lambert, Albert Boire and Paul Pellier, all of Taftville; Charles Lavallee, Joseph Levesque, Emile Canlay, Edmund Mercier, Theophile Metivier, all of Plainfield; Dr. S. A. Bouvier, Endor Champagne, Mr. Desevey and Lavallee, of Moosup. Joseph Hall, Alfred Bernier, Edgar Baonier, of Danielson, also were present. The organizer of the society is H. Bourgeois, of Woonsocket.

The X Y Z club dance was held Wednesday night.

The Eastern Connecticut Men's association directors met Wednesday evening in Plainfield to arrange for an outing.

The American Legion is planning for an outing in June or July.

Mr. and Mrs. John C. Gallop leave this (Friday) afternoon for their summer home at Wamphassuc Point, Stonington. Their residence here will be closed for the season.

Mrs. Floyd Main and daughter, Pauline Eleanor, arrived home from the Backus hospital, Thursday afternoon. This is the third daughter in the family.

Mrs. Ray Gallop and little new daughter, Barbara May, arrived home from the Day Kimball hospital Thursday night.

The directors of the Masonic Building corporation met at the hall, Tuesday night. Plans are under way to install toilets and a heating system in the hall. Richard Dagget, president; Edward Tillinghast, secretary; Benjamin Dawson, treasurer; Milo Appeley, William Marshall, Clark Gallop and Floyd Main were present.

POETRY

Beauty Ever Lingers

While stood I in a winter wood,
 Beneath a white, descending sky,
As if in prophecy of good,
 A flock of tiny birds flew by.

Wherever little twigs gave room,
 They perched upon a barren tree;
Like living bud of joyous bloom,
 They spoke together, musically.

Then one flew down into a growth
 Of seeds that stalked above the snow;
Another came; then all, till both
 Bushes with birds were bending low.

I watched them from my still retreat—
 Such lovely art-be-feathered things;
Bright caps and olive backs, replete
 With black and white bars on their wings.

The winds may shake an empty tree;
 The snows heap high a seed-stalked ground;
But, in my thought, I still shall see
 The lovely kinglets, golden-crowned!

—Grace Wight Buckle in Boston Transcript.

The Motorist's Theme Song

Heigh ho, my lads, heigh ho.
It's time to up and go.
 Winter is gone,
 The road leads on,
There are new haunts to know

Where shall we go, my friends,
To all the world's four ends?
 Kalamazoo,
 Or Timbucktu,
Or where the fancy sends?

The motor is tuned, heigh ho
Behind the wheel and go.
 Chapultepec,
 Detroit, Quebec,
And back to Kokomo.

Step on the gas, careen
Along the pavement's sheen.
 Come out, emerge,
 I feel the urge
To burn some gasoline.

—Cecil Betron, in the Detroit News.

KALEIDOSCOPE

Field museum at Chicago received 1,168,430 visitors last year.

Georgia counties last year received $2,180,009 as their share of tax on gasoline.

The American Legion Post at Lowell, Mich., will plant 30,000 pine trees this year.

Nearly 140,000 persons attended vocational agricultural meetings in North Carolina last year.

Nearly 40 per cent. of the Negro enrollment in public schools in North Carolina is in the first grade.

The first two railroads built west of the Alleghenies have observed the 100th anniversary of their foundings.

Motor highway maintenance equipment will replace nearly 100 horse-drawn outfits on South Dakota roads this year.

To celebrate her 101st birthday, Ann Wilson Stout, of Flemington, N. J., ate a piece of pumpkin pie for breakfast, but said she, "I missed my regular morning onion."

Fifty per cent. of the candidates for bachelor's degrees in the Sorbonne, or University of Paris, during 1929 were women, according to figures of the university directors. In former years women students were frowned upon and some professors would not admit them to their classes.

Sixty-one years without a break in the family circle of fifteen is the seldom-equalled record of Mr. and Mrs. Willard B. Wright, of North Newry, Me., who have observed the sixty-first anniversary of their wedding. All of their children and grandchildren were with them to enjoy the occasion.

Morrill, in Waldo county, Maine, reports: A pleasing sight on one of the quiet streets of the town is that of a young girl driving a large white dog, Joe, properly harnessed into a little red cart, with a pet black hen, Silver by name, sitting in the wagon, all unconfined and balancing herself perfectly no matter how rough the roads, evidently enjoying her ride.

Another record is shattered. A man named Auto Jim Quinn has long claimed the distinction of being the first man arrested in America for auto speeding. That was in 1905. Now comes along a statistician of the auto industry, who says the honor should go to Thomas W. Shevlin, of Minneapolis, who was dragged into court in that city in 1902 and paid $10 for driving his auto more than ten miles an hour.

MISS MAHONEY, NORWICH, RECEIVES GIFT FROM CLASS

The second-period Ancient History class tendered an agreeable surprise to Miss Mary Mahoney, of Norwich, Monday. Miss Elsie Daley, in behalf of the class, presented her a silver meat platter, as an evidence of their regard. At the end of the school year Miss Mahoney will become the bride of Richard Barry, of Hartford.

A very gratifying announcement came to Superintendent Chapman this week concerning the recent National League of Nations examination. Donald C. Gallup, P. H. S. '30, was one of four ranking contestants for the state of Connecticut, He, in common with Miss Ruth Hornby, of Chapman Technical high school, New London, received honorable mention.

The Annual Alumni Essay contest, open each year to the five seniors having the highest average for the three years' work and the first semester of the senior year, has been in progress. The committee appointed to judge these five essays and select the best three for reading at the Alumni meeting has just reported. The essays chosen are: Essay No. 4—Our Mechanical Age, Mildred Sykes; Essay No. 3—Opportunities of Today, Helen Krauss; Essay No. 6—The Future of Commercial Aviation, Elizabeth Baker.

There is one nine-year-old boy who likes music anyway. A Ft. Fairfield (Me.) mother found her young son with a sheet of paper upon which he had drawn lines for a staff and copied notes on them. He told her they were the notes he had in his music at school. When compared, they proved to be the same, showing a good memory as well as interest.

PLANTING TREES ALONG HIGHWAYS OF STATE

Highway beautification work conducted by the landscape division of the Connecticut highway department is reaching new heights during the current spring with the planting of 1,363 trees, innumerable shrubs, vines and wild growths along the highway rights of way, according to a statement made by Commissioner John A. Macdonald. Luther M. Keith, department tree warden, is supervising the work.

Under one contract, 669 new trees are being set out chiefly in the southwestern sector of the state, the tree planting activities of the division alternating between the eastern and western areas each year. The principal trees being planted under this contract are white elm, sugar maple, white ash, pin oak, silver maple, weeping willow and Norway maple.

Another contract calls for the replacement of 694 trees which have died or have been destroyed in one manner or another since the highway beautification work was started in 1926. This planting is fairly widespread throughout the state. The dead trees will be replaced with trees of the same species. They are chiefly elm and sugar maple.

HERE'S WHY THE HUNDREDS OF THOUSANDS OF USERS have not spent a cent for service

FLAWLESS mechanism—sealed in steel—makes the General Electric Refrigerating unit trouble-proof and service-free. Thousands of persons in hundreds of cities have seen it actually submerged in water—operating perfectly day after day. No other mechanical refrigerator could withstand such a gruelling test—a test which has dramatically shown why no owner—out of hundreds of thousands—has ever paid a cent for service.

General Electric Refrigerator gives you a perfect mechanism, permanently oiled, properly placed and hermetically sealed. Dust, dirt and moisture cannot get inside the steel-walled unit. Nothing—not even complete submersion in water—can halt faithful operation. This refrigerator serves you quietly, efficiently and unfailingly.

The cabinet, striking in modern beauty, is all steel, porcelain-lined and easily movable. Food-storage space is far greater. Let a refrigeration specialist show you the model that best meets your particular needs.

A General Electric Refrigerator can be installed in your home for as low as $25 Down

Broadway Theatre

That opportunity is always just around the corner was never better demonstrated than in the case of Nancy Carroll, who hitherto known best as a most popular little screen comedienne, has suddenly blossomed forth as a sterling emotional actress of rare talent. Comediennes there are in plenty, but real actresses are not so plentiful, and Nancy found a niche waiting for her in her latest success, "The Devil's Holiday," which is being shown for its final times in the continuous program at the Broadway today. Telling a story most daring and different in theme, little Miss Carroll achieves rare success in a role that would test the abilities of many a more experienced star to the utmost, and furnishes an hour and a half of thrilling, intense dramatic romance, brimming with action. The surrounding featurettes include an Our Gang comedy, Eddie Buzzell in "The Pet Shop," a vitaphone comedy-variety, Chief Shuntanona and his U. S. Indian Reservation band, a distinctive novelty, and the latest Fox movietone news. Four complete shows are offered, starting at 1:30.

Startling news is broadcasted in the return from the grave of that wily Oriental devil Fu Manchu, who comes to the Broadway screen tomorrow in the "Return of Dr. Fu Manchu," the deadly feud between the House of Fu and Scotland Yard being resumed with more ferocity than ever. Warner Oland, of course, is Dr. Fu, and O. P. Heggie, Neil Hamilton and Jean Arthur resume their well known roles in this continuance of the history of Sax Rohmer's famous characters.

NEW LONDON IS LOOKING FOR BIG MEMORIAL DAY DEMONSTRATION

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, May 29.—The annual Memorial day parade this year will be one of the most striking demonstrations of members of the uniformed forces witnessed in New London in several years. When the parade starts moving through State street at 9:30 o'clock (daylight saving time), fully 1,300 sailors and about 300 soldiers will be in line. The bands of the U. S. Coast Guard and U. S. S. Camden, together with the 192nd Field Artillery band will provide music for the marchers. Besides the navy and coast guard sailors and the military units, numerous patriotic societies will be represented by a liberal number of members, all assisting in making the parade a spectacular one. The line will be headed by a platoon of police, consisting of Sergeant William Babcock and Patrolman Frank Linehan, Clyde Murphy, Clarence Wells, Michael Dorsey, Braxton Hill, Dennis Cavanaugh, William Riordan, George McCaskey, Albert Iverson, Edward Riordan, Louis Wheeler and Carlos Stone and by a motorcycle squad, consisting of Officers Elwood Bailey and William Corcoran and two state police officers. Mototcycle Officers Clarence Martin and George Cockell will precede the parade about 300 feet so as to cause any autoists that might interfere with the passage of the marchers to cause their cars to be driven from the street. Traffic officers will be on duty at all important intersections along the line of march and officers will be on duty at the reviewing stand, Williams park, where city and military officials will witness the passing of the marchers to the graves of soldiers and sailors in Cedar Grove and St. Mary's cemeteries, where brief exercises will be held.

No trolley cars will be permitted on State street during the passage of the marchers through that thoroughfare.

NORWICH SPECIALIST ADDRESSES ROTARIANS

At the weekly luncheon of the Rotary club, held at the Hotel Mohican today, Dr. R. G. Urquhart of the staff of physicians at Uncas-on-Thames, delivered an interesting address, his theme being Tuberculosis. Dr. Urquhart used motion pictures to illustrate the method employed in the treatment of the more severe cases, the pictures including the showing of an operation whereby a nerve in the throat is cut so as to produce inactivity of one lung.

An automobile in which Mr. and Mrs. John M. Hudson, South Broadway, Nyack, N. Y., were riding was crashed against, last night in Waterford, by an auto driven by George D'Amico, of Fairfield. Both machines were damaged and Mrs. Hudson sustained lacerations of the face and head. She was brought to New London and taken to the office of a physician where the injuries were dressed. D'Amico was arrested by State Police Officer James Dygert, charged with reckless driving and will be tried in Waterford town court Monday next. Mr. and Mrs. Hudson were driving toward New London on the Boston Post road and when about to pass the Niantic river road, the car driven by D'Amico appeared suddenly and at a fast rate of speed. Before Hudson could guide his car from the course of the other machine, the latter crashed into the Hudson auto.

Lenient With Strangers

Byron McClelland, 27 Spring street and George L. Kinsey, of the Y. M. C. A., were arrested today, charged with parking overtime. The drivers posted a bond for their appearance in the police court tomorrow. Gaspero Manceri, 1160 Madison street, Brooklyn, N. Y., and John F. White, Dorchester, Mass., were also arrested for the same offense; but owing to their being strangers in New London the drivers were released with a warning to observe the traffic rules and regulations in the future.

WIDOW MARRIES AGAIN—DOMESTIC TROUBLE STARTS

Mrs. Julia Leitkowsky, 33 Mill street, was ordered yesterday to appear in the police court today and defend charges of theft of furniture and neglect of two of her minor children. The woman was not tried, for there was no session of court and it is believed that the complaint against the woman, which was made by her daughter, will be settled without procedings. Mrs. Leitkowsky's husband died recently and left the house and furnishings at 28 New street to his wife and children. The various members of the family could not reach an amicable agreement as to the disposition of the property and matters were further disrupted two weeks ago when Mrs. Leitkowsky married again. In vacating the New street house, Mrs. Leitkowsky removed much of the furniture and this act prompted the daughter to lodge a double complaint with Prosecuting Attorney Max Boyer.

Withdraws Complaint

Aldo Guisti, 50 Smith street, arrested last night by Patrolman George Bruhns, charged by Louis Levine with reckless driving, on the Boston Post road, East Lyme, will not be prosecuted, for a few hours after Guisti's arrest, Levine withdrew the complaint. Guisti was arrested following a collision between the auto he was driving and a car operated by Levine.

Mrs. Robert Kelly and infant son, of 53 Adelaide street; Mrs. Birt O. Fowler, Groton; Miss Jennie Chapman, 832 Bank street; Miss Elizabeth Morrill, 452 Main street, patients at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Charles T. Tooker

Mrs. Mary E. Tooker, 55, widow of Charles T. Tooker, of 8 Division street, died this noon at the residence of Mrs. John Ballantyne, 28 Pearl street, death being caused by a shock which she suffered yesterday. Mrs. Tooker is survived by a son, Patrolman Louis Tooker; a daughter, Mrs. Thomas Miller, and a sister, Mrs. Rose Webber, all of New London. She was born in Norwich, but had resided in New London many years. Mrs. Tooker had suffered two strokes prior to the attack yesterday, but was apparently in excellent health. Yesterday afternoon she went to the Pearl street house and while seated in conversation with Mrs. Ballantyne and members of the family, she was stricken. Mrs. Tooker's condition was considered serious from the start for she lapsed into unconsciousness and remained in that condition until she expired. Mrs. Tooker was a member of St. Mary's Star of the Sea church.

A public service automobile driven by Samuel Bisconti, 8 Montauk avenue, collided with and damaged a fence in front of the property of the Hawthorne Sash & Blind company, Shaw street. The accident occured when Bisconti drove upon the sidewalk to avoid a collision with another auto.

Charles Kokosky, 16, residing at 26 Sixth street, and employed by the Max Pollack company, Groton, is a patient at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, suffering from a fractured thigh, which injury he sustained yesterday afternoon when he fell from an automobile in Groton.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred G. Smith, 35 Perry street, are spending a few days in New York.

RUM-RUNNER SEIZED WITH CARGO WORTH $50,000

The auxiliary fishing boat, Winifred H., owned in Sayville, L. I., was seized in Block Island sound late last night as a rum-runner. A cargo of various brands of whiskey and of the estimated worth of $50,000 was found in the boat's hold. The boat and her crew of five men were brought to port this morning, but will be taken to New York, where the crew will be presented for trial, since the capture was made in New York waters. The United States Coast Guard patrol boat, CG—231 had been performing patrol duty the entire night and shortly before 12 o'clock sighted the Winifred H., near Shagwong reef. The patrol boat gave chase to the craft and quickly overhauled her. A search of the boat revealed a great number of sacks which contained the liquor and which it is believed was intended for delivery at New York. The Winifred H. has never before been seized, nor has she been suspected of being a rum-runner. It is believed that the Winifred H. received her cargo from a larger boat while at sea and that the shipment was originally obtained at a Canadian port.

Mrs. Fred S. English of 186 Willetts avenue, a patient at Home Memorial hospital, was discharged today.

FUNERAL

Mrs. Isemell Charron

The funeral of Mrs. Natalie Charron, widow of Isemell Charron, formerly of Groton, who died several days ago at Pawtucket, R. I., was held this morning at 9 o'clock at Sacred Heart church, Groton, the mass of requiem being celebrated by Rev. Oliver T. Magneil. Relatives acted as bearers. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

Auto Strikes Motorcycle

Frank Crandall, 45, residing on Riverview avenue, Groton, and employed by the Max Pollack company, sustained injuries yesterday afternoon in Groton. He received a fractured leg and numerous lacerations and bruises as a result of the motorcycle he was riding being hit by an automobile driven by Margaret C. Newton of West Hartford. Crandall is now a patient at Lawrence-Memorial hospital. Miss Newton was arrested on a charge of reckless driving and will be given a hearing in the Groton town court Monday next. The cycle and the automobile were traveling in the same direction, easterly on Poquonoc road. When the cyclist reached a point opposite a gasoline station near Trail's corner, the autoist started to pass just as the instant Crandall signaled that he intended to make a left turn. As the cycle changed its course, it was struck with great force, Crandall being hurled into a ditch.

LAUNDRY DRIVER LEFT TOWN—GIRL DANCER GONE ALSO

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, May 29.—The police are seeking Edward S. Vine, 26, married, and until recently employed by the Pequot Laundry company as driver and collector, for he is charged with embezzlement of $150 and conversion of an automobile to his own use. It is probable that a third charge, violation of the Mann act will be made against Vine if he is apprehended for simultaneous with his disappearance it is revealed that Dorothy Turner, 17, of 28 Starr street, an amateur dancer, has disappeared also and as Vine and the Turner girl are known to have been on very friendly terms, it is believed that wherever Vine is found, the girl will be with him. It is known that Vine has been in Seymour, Ind., for today the police received information that the automobile Vine rented of the Hire and Drive It, Inc., had been found in that town, it being presumed that the car has been abandoned. Vine hired the automobile May 19 and left the city in it. When he decided to leave town he abandoned a truck of his employers. It developed that Vine was short in his accounts. Complaint was made to Prosecuting Attorney Max Boyer and a warrant for Vine's arrest was issued. Since then it is revealed that the Turner girl left the city at the same time Vine did.

NORWICH GIRL BRIDE OF STANLEY G. HASTLING

Stanley G. Hastling, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Hastling of this city, and Miss Kitty A. Swartzburger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Swartzburger, Norwich, were married at Greenfield, Mass., by Justice of the Peace William S. Allen. Mr. Hastling is an iron worker by occupation.

Sentenced To Atlanta

Samuel Goldstein, an Elizabeth, N. J., young man, arrested by state police in Groton several days ago, charged with being a drug addict, was sentenced to 15 months in the federal prison at Atlanta, Ga., by Judge Warren Burrows when he was presented in the United States district court at Hartford today. When arrested Goldstein had a large quantity of opium in his possession.

Misses Harriet and Dorothy Hobbs, of Hendersonville, N. C., are being entertained by Mrs. George Reichel, 58 Pacific street.

Michael L. O'Connell has sold a building lot on Stuart avenue, Ocean Beach, to Max Maislin.

Eagle Realty company has sold four building lots on Bayonet street to Mr. and Mrs. Salvatore Messina.

Isaac and Fannie Resnikoff have sold realty on Reed street to Sarah R. Neistat.

Announcement is made by Mr. and Mrs. Archibald C. Chester of Groton, of the engagement of their daughter, Miss Gladys L. Chester, to Hector A. LeBeau, Hartford, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur C. LeBeau, of Farmington avenue, Bristol.

ANNONCEMENTS

Breed Theatre

Instant popularity has greeted the newest vehicle for Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell, "High Society Blues," Fox Movietone musical romance, which is now current at the Breed theatre. A fine supporting cast includes William Collier Jr., Joyce Compton, Hedda Hopper, Louise Fazenda, Lucien Littlefield, Brandon Hurst and Gregory Gaye. David Butler directed.

Five song numbers are sung by the stars, of which at least "Just Like A Story Book," "I'm in the Market for You" and "Eleanor" seem certain of national popularity. "Just Like A Story Book" has the same piquant quality which made "I'm A Dreamer, Aren't We All" in "Sunny Side Up."

Palace Theatre

Dolores Del Rio and Edmund Lowe are the principals in "The Bad One" the all-talking and singing drama which will be presented at the Palace theatre tomorrow and which will be continued through Tuesday of next week. In this comedy-drama of the French water-front cafes the stars of "What Price Glory" exceed the remarkable work of their initial appearance together. "The Bad One" gives them both a chance to show their ability and versatility in character parts and as Lita, a cafe girl who has been thrust into the sordid life of a seaport town where her living depends on the exploitation of her charms, the timely winking of her eyes, and the refilling of empty glasses. Dolores Del Rio demonstrates her aptitude for melodramatic action as well as characterization in voice.

Dolores Del Rio in "The Bad One" with Edmund Lowe

Edmund Lowe is again the character he was in "What Price Glory" although his profanities are this time the wise-cracks of an American sailor who boasts that he can get any girl in the world. He is the kind of man that is hard for any girl in the world to resist.

"Show Girl in Hollywood" which tells the further adventures of Dixie Dugan with Alice White and Jack Mulhall as the leads and "Those Who Dance" a thrilling tale of the underworld are the two pictures which comprise the double-feature bill which will be presented for the last times today.

And do not forget that the popularity contest is going strong and interest is rapidly rising in the speculation as to the winner of the most votes. Make the effort that you have been putting off for so long to get there today and cast your five votes that will help the most popular girl in Norwich get a free vacation to Atlantic City with all the nice clothes that will be given to her as part of the award.

Come-to-Grief Airman—I was trying to make a record.

FINDS KNIFE OVER 170 YEARS OLD

William A. Somers, who lives in what is known as the old Huntington house on Huntington avenue, Norwich Town, made an interesting find there while turning over an old rubbish pile in the yard. He unearthed an old-fashioned clasp knife which contained on the handle the words "Success to the British Fleet 1758."

From its long burial in the rubbish pile the knife was well rusted but when cleaned up, the blade was shown to be in fairly good shape and the inscription cast into the sides of the handle was plainly visible.

The Huntington house was built in 1717 and before Mr. Somers occupied it was for many years the home of Owen S. Smith, from whom Mr. Somers bought the place.

SSUES CALL TO KNIGHTS TEMPLAR TO LEAD CRUSADE AGAINST ATHEISM

REV. THOMAS RICHEY

More than 40 members of Columbian Commandery, No. 4, Knights Templar, W. Avery Gallup, commander, attended the Ascension day services at Christ Episcopal church Thursday evening, in addition to a large congregation of members and friends of the church, Rev. Thomas Richey, rector.

Assembling at the new Masonic temple on Washington street shortly after 7 o'clock, the large delegation of Knights marched to the church in a body. The members, attired in full uniform, were escorted into the church and took their seats in a reserved section at the front of the church, while the organist, Edward Hall, played the processional hymn.

Rev. Mr. Richey delivered the Ascension day sermon, taking his text from St. John, 14th chapter, first verse, "Let not your heart be troubled; ye believe in God, believe also in Me." The preacher briefly spoke of the earliest days of the Knights Templar organization and alluded to the practice of its enemies in circulating falsehoods about it, but in spite of this the order did not cease to function, but lived

Rev. Mr. Richey pointed out that the same enemies practiced the same thing against the church, and in this connection said that the ideals of the church are imperishable. He also mentioned the crusade of early days and went on to say that there is a crying need for a crusade today.

There are enemies of the order and church today, just as unscrupulous as in the days of old, declared the preacher. They do not work in the open, but secretly, and their main object is to undermine men's faith. They are disciples of atheism, and do not believe in God. This group tries to turn others against God, the preacher said, and ridicules the brotherhood evidenced in all fraternal organizations.

The boys' and men's choirs led the congregation in the singing of appropriate hymns.

PASTOR'S RESIGNATION ACCEPTED WITH REGRET

At the close of the mid-week service at the First Congregational church Thursday evening, in the chapel, a special meeting was held to act on the resignation of the pastor, Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey, Herbert L. Yerrington, clerk of the church, presided. James F. Connolly was chosen moderator. The subject of the resignation was brought before the meeting by Mr. Connolly, who spoke at some length of Mr. Bailey's work. It was voted to accept the resignation. Mr. Yerrington then read a tribute to Mr. Bailey's worth. It was voted that a copy of this be placed on the minutes of the church, also to forward a copy to Rev. Mr. Bailey. This appreciation read as follows: The church desires to place on record that the Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey has been a most loyal and devoted pastor for more than ten years of his service here, having the best interest of the church at heart and working in every possible way for the upbuilding of the same. As a pastor he has been a very sympathetic visitor among the sick and afflicted in the parish. His sermons have been most helpful expositions of the Word of God. His time and services have always been willingly given to community affairs. It is with profound and sincere regret that we feel obliged to comply with his wishes and accept his resignation as pastor of this people. Our prayers and very best wishes will follow him, wherever his lot will be cast in the future.

The committee appointed to confer with Mr. Bailey comprises Deacons Clyde M. Beebe and John L. Browning, also Charles E. Schwenk, chairman of the trustees. A committee on supply was named which includes Senior Deacon Dwight W. Avery, chairman, Mrs. Walter T. Clark, Deacon Henry G. Frazier.

Terence J. Buckley, Adam Troeger, Ralph Lillibridge and Victor C. Davis went to Noank early in the week on a fishing trip. They had an open boat, and when miles out in Long Island sound, a storm came up, the rain fell in torrents, drenching the fishermen in very thorough fashion. Although they made the mainland with difficulty they landed agreeing that they were "all wet." Undaunted by their rough treatment by the elements, they plan a similar trip this week, hoping that they might catch something else besides colds.

Miss Helen Breault, the president, presided at the meeting of the members of St. Veronica's society held Wednesday evening at their clubrooms on Providence street.

An elaborately hand-carved picture frame and clock, the work of Peter Rex of Terrace avenue, has been on exhibition in the window of Ada LaFreniere's specialty shop on North Second avenue, and has been greatly admired by Mr. Rex's friends and acquaintances, because of the delicate carving of flowers, birds and animals.

A consignment of several hundred baby chicks, one of the largest this season, was received at the local postoffice on Wednesday. The little fellows appeared to have stood the trip well and kept up a lively chirping in the postoffice lobby, until they were called for by the owner.

HOOVER PLEADS FOR UNITY IN MEMORIAL DAY ADDRESS

Thousands Stood Silent On the Gettysburg Battlefield As the Chief Executive Delivered the Briefest Presidential Address At Gettysburg Since Lincoln's Immortal Speech In 1863—President Hoover Spoke Slowly and Earnestly and At Times Was Visibly Moved By His Own Words.

GETTYSBURG, Pa., May 30—(AP)—Leading the nation in its Memorial day tribute to the war dead, President Hoover came to Gettysburg today, and amid the graves that dot the battleground, pleaded for the preservation of the spiritual solidarity that has created a great people.

Then putting aside for the time official cares the chief executive turned northward for a 150-mile automobile drive through the Allegheny mountains to the hunting and fishing lodge of Jay Cooke, Philadelphia financier whose guest he is to be until early Sunday.

Thousands, packed on the hillside stretching away below the stand from which the president spoke, stood silent through the course of the address, the 1020-word text of which was the briefest presidential address at Gettysburg since Lincoln's immortal speech in 1863. Speaking slowlyand earnestly, visibly moved at times by his own words into the microphones which carried his voice to the massed crowds within view and the millions throughout the nation, the president recalled the "lonely vision of Lincoln, whose immortal words dominate this scene."

The spot where Lincoln spoke in dedicating the national cemetery now is marked by a high monument at which Mr. Hoover paused and left his car to lay a memorial wreath while en route to the covered, flag-draped cupola from which he delivered his address.

A bright sun beat down upon, Among the row on row of graves, flags whipped in brisk wind. On the graves also were flowers which had been strewn by hundreds of children as the president reached the cemetery.

Behind the president, at a remnant of the "thousand brigades which marched in that great conflict." The dark blue of the 56 Union veterans contrasting with the Confederate gray of a lone Confederate cavalryman, William Haines, aged 93 of Washington. He was the first survivor of the southern ranks to sit on the platform at Gettysburg memorial exercises.

Mrs. M. O. Smith, 87, of Hanover, Pa., who sang in the choir on the platform when Lincoln dedicated the cemetery, was back in a place of honor today.

Grouped about the president also were Secretary of War Hurley; Henry P. Fletcher, former ambassador to Italy; Governor Fisher of Pennsylvania, who presided and introduced the president, and others prominent in state and national life.

Only as the chief executive began speaking and at the end did applause break out. As Lincoln had stood 67 years ago and in his brief address held the crowd silent by the beauty of his thought, so Herbert Hoover stood today and called for leadership of the nation, tempered by moderation and the calm vision of the Civil war president.

"Every American's thought of this great battlefield of Gettysburg flashes with the instant vision of the lonely figure of Lincoln, whose immortal words dominate this scene," he said. "No monument has been or can be erected here so noble and enduring as that simple address which has become a part of this place. Greater than the tribute of granite or bronze remains that memorable message to the American people. That appeal for the unity of our people and the perpetuation of the fundamentals of our democracy is as vital today in our national thinking as it was when Lincoln spoke."

Reviewing the ideals of Lincoln, Mr. Hoover declared that whatever terms may be used to enunciate them or whatever new conditions they may be applied to, they must be held eternally valid. "The weaving of freedom," he said, "is and always will be a struggle of law against lawlessness, of individual liberty against domination, of unity against sectionalism, of truth and honesty against demagoguery and misleading, of peace against fear and conflict. In the forming of this pattern, the abuse of politics often muddies the stream of constructive thought and dams back the flow of well considered action."

In conclusion, the president pointed the "paths of true glory for this action," as lying in the cherishing of religious faith and tolerance of all faiths, reflecting into every aspect of public life the spirit of charity, abandonment of blind prejudices, diligent pursuit of the common welfare, an denhancing the greatness of the nation, "and thereby find for ourselves an individual distinction."

Leaving Washington after reviewing the capital's Memorial day parade from the east portico of the white house, Mr. Hoover and his cavalcade of nine cars, escorted by motor cycle policemen made a rapid trip to the camp of Lawrence Richey, his secretary at Catoctin Furnace, near Thrumont, Md., there the party lunched and the chief executive changed to his formal clothes, From Catoctin the cavalcade moved at a leisurely pace to Gettysburg where they were met by the official escort, including the "governors own' cavalry troop.

As the chief executive rode through the cheering crowds on to the cemetery, a battery of artillery, greeted him with the presidential 21 gun salute.

Upon the completion of the services here, the presidential party was escorted from the battlefield to the center of the city by the cavalry and then proceeded, with motor cycle escort, to Harrisburg and on through to Williamsport and the Cooke preserve 30 miles further into the heart of Pennsylvania.

HOW MEMORIAL DAY WAS OBSERVED ABROAD

PARIS, May 30—(AP)—America's gold star mothers today lent a new note to Memorial day in Europe.

The presence of several hundred war mothers of the United States at the several ceremonies in France furnished texts for speakers and inspired the thousands who heard them with the significance of the observance which has been maintained in their sister republic for three-score years.

With all France paying homage to the American gold star mothers and the sons whom they came here to honor, it was pointed out by officials that today's celebration and the pilgrimages would do more than diplomacy ever could to smooth out the petty differences that had crept into Franco-American relations since the close of the great war.

The third contingent of mothers arriving at Cherbourg on the liner George Washington, was just too late for the ceremonies, but those of other contingents were at Bony, where Ambassador Walter E. Edge was the speaker; at Chateau Thierry, to hear Theodore Rousseau and at Romagne.

On the slopes of Mt. Valerien, overlooking Paris, in the Suresnes cemetery, Ambassador Edge praised the results of the recent London naval conference in which America and France joined in a new attempt at disarmament.

Many other cities throughout Europe also held observances.

In Warsaw, Poland, American Ambassador John N. Willys placed a wreath upon the tomb of Poland's Unknown hero. The staff of the American embassy witnessed the ceremony.

Three hundred Americans in Istanbul, Turkey, held two separate celebrations for decorations of civilian graves, there being no American soldier dead in Turkey.

MEMORIAL DAY IN THE NATIONAL CAPITAL

WASHINGTON, May 30.—(AP)—The capital led today in the national observance of Memorial Day with a pilgrimage to the Arlington Hills across the Potomac where the clustered graves of veterans received their annual homage of flowers and prayers.

There came from the obscurity of civil life the man who nine years ago was given the solemn privilege of choosing the body of the unknown soldier who now lies, enshrined in the national cemetery.

Sergeant Edward S Younger, a little stouter but still trim in his khaki, placed flowers on the unknown's tomb while about was gathered a group of veterans in which blue uniforms added a touch of color to the more sombre hues of those signifying participation in later conflicts.

They had marched earlier in the day in thinned ranks through the streets of Washington, past the white house where President Hoover received their salute of dipped flags.

They did not march all the way to the graves of their comrades, but yielded to the burder of the years and rode to the gates of the national cemetery.

There they heard Col. U. S. Grant, 3rd, grandson of the Union commander, eulogize the dead of the Civil war and they banked the monument raised to their comrades with heaps of flowers.

At the grave of the unknown soldier the simple notes of the bugler's "Taps" rang out.

SHORT MEMORIAL DAY PARADE IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, May 30.—(AP)— New York paid homage to her soldier dead today with a Memorial Day parade, two miles long, up Fifth avenue. Hundreds of veterans passed in review at the Soldiers and Sailors monument in Riverside drive.

Less than 60 of the boys in blue—the active survivors of the once formidable ranks of Civil war veterans—participated in the ceremonies, and only half that number were able to march past the reviewing stand behind the attered banners they once followed into battle.

Major General Hanson E. Ely, commanding officer of the Second Corps area, reviewed the parade. The ranks of the Spanish-American and World war veterans were swelled by United States infantrymen and national guard troops and Russian and Italian war veteran organizations.

NEW STEPS TO CHECK CIVIL DISOBEDIENCE IN CHINA

BOMBAY, May 30—(AP)—The Indian government took new steps today to check the rising wave of civil disobedience.

At Simla, Lord Irwin, viceroy of India, promulgated a nordinance against picketing of shops, non-payment of taxes, and tampering with the loyalty of government servants, all feature's of Mahatma Gandhi's strategy.

Strict enforcement of this ordinance will rob the nationalists of some of their most frequently used weapons. It will be made immediately effective in the Bombay presidency, and comment today was that it is an indication the governments intends stiffening its attitude toward the nationalist campaign.

There is much speculation as to what developments are likely to arise from it.

Graf Will Arrive At Lakehurst This A. M.

NEW YORK, May 30—(AP)—The Graf Zeppelin, soaring northwesterly over the Atlantic ocean at an average speed of well over 70 miles an hour tonight was expected to reach Lakehurst, N. J., sometime tomorrow morning—an[illegible]where from midnight on.

But the big dirigible, which lef[illegible] nambuco at 9:13 a. m. E. S. T[illegible] nesday morning, will stay in [illegible] try only briefly. She will re[illegible]he Lakehurst naval air sta[illegible]load passengers and mail and [illegible] others, and Sunday night will [illegible] again across the Atlantic to Seville, the Spanish city whence she sailed for South America May 20.

When the Zeppelin left Pernambuco she intended to stop at Havana, but because of unfavorable weather and rapidly dwindling fuel, Dr. Hugo Eckener decided today to pass up the Cuban capital and head directly for Lakehurst.

CONSIDERING FLETCHER AS AMBASSADOR TO JAPAN

WASHINGTON, May 30—(AP)—Once again President Hoover is scanning his list of possible candidates for an ambassadorial post in an effort to select an envoy to Tokyo.

Considerable thought and care are being devoted by the chief executive to filling the post in view of its importance and the delicacy which attaches to the handling of affairs in the capital of the far eastern empire.

The designation is necessitated by the recent death of Albert H. Washburn, minister to Austria, who had been selected for the Tokyo position. William R. Castle, Jr., assistant secretary of state, has been filling the post as special ambassador during the London naval conference, but is now en route to the United States to resume his former duties.

The name of Henry P. Fletcher, of Green Castle, Pa., former ambassador to Italy, Chile, Belgium and Mexico and one-time under-secretary of state, has again come to the fore as a candidate for the Tokyo post. A close friend of the president, Fletcher is generally looked upon by both American and foreign diplomatic circles as one of the outstanding figures of the foreign service of the United States.

Racing Car Plunged Into A Grandstand

Four Persons Were Killed and 20 Injured At Winchester, Ind.

WINCHESTER, Ind., May 30.—(AP)—Fo[illegible]rsons were killed and twenty [illegible]red, one probably fatally, to[illegible]en a racing car on the dirt [illegible]way here plunged over the south [illegible] into a grandstand.

Details of the accident were not immediately obtainable, nor was the name of the race driver. His car the "Silent Bullet," plunged into the crowd on the second lap of the second race of the day's program. The driver was slightly hurt, but aided in lifting the racer to release persons pinned beneath it, and then pushed it back on the track.

A spectator reported that a woman saved her baby from possible injury by tossing him into the air several feet over the heads of the crowd to safety.

WENT THROUGH NIAGARA WHIRLPOOLS IN BARREL

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y, May 30.—(AP)—William (Red) Hill, daring river man, won for himself a new place today among the heroes of the Niagara by riding through the whirlpool and lower rapids in a specially constructed steel barrel. At times it appeared that the Niagara would not submit to conquest by the adventurer as his craft was caught three times in treacherous eddies.

Hill entered the stream from the American landing of the Maid of the Mist at 1:15 o'clock and emerged at Queenston docks at 6:05 o'clock (D. S. T.), his face bloody and his shoulders and arms battered from the pounding he received as the barrel was shot through the lower rapids His wife and 16-day-old baby with other members of his family were on hand to greet him.

One of the high lights of Hill's wild ride was his trip through the whirlpool rapids. His barrel was shot into the whirlpool with terrific force from the fast currents above and, as he reached the whirlpool, he raised the cover of the barrel to watch proceedings. Six times the barrel was whirled around the whirlpool.

CONVICT SHOT TO DEATH IN RIOT AT PRISON FARM

LONDON, O., May 30—(AP)—Guards at the London state prison farm today shot one convict to death, who with 46 other inmates attemted to batter their way to freedom from a cell block. The 47 were among prisoners brought here from the Ohio penitentiary April 28 after the Easter Monday penitentiary fire in which 320 convicts perished.

The prisoner shot was Sam Mazello of Trumbull county. Bullets pierced his head and heart when he and his mates refused to obey orders of the gaurds to stop the disturbance.

The shooting came as a climax to 48 hours of unrest within the prison. After the convicts had broken much of the equipment in their cells and begun to storm the gates, Superintendent W. F. Amrine gave the order to fire on them. No prison wall surrounds the farm and had the prisoners escaped from the cell block they would have had free access to the outside.

Mazello was serving one to 15 years on a charge of burglary.

GLENN CURTISS FLEW FROM ALBANY TO N. Y. IN 80 MIN.

NEW YORK, May 30.—(AP)— Down the old air lane he took 20 years ago to write a new page in the history of aviation, Glenn H. Curtiss today flew from Albany to New York.

At the controls of a giant, twin-motored transport plane he retraced his flight of May 29, 1910, from the capital city to Governors Island in New York harbor in almost exactly half the time it took him 20 years ago. Then he flew the 137 miles in 152 minutes. Today the time was 80 minutes.

In 1910 he flew alone, sitting on the front of a box kite plane that few aviators of today would risk their lives in. Today he carried with him 12 passengers and a co-pilot—Capt. Frank Courtney of transatlantic fame. Three accompanying planes carried 30 more persons.

Mr. Curtiss had little to say at Curtiss field, Valley Stream, where the big transport landed after circling the old objective—Governors Island—but he did say that he enjoyed the trip immensely.

ROWING TO NEW YORK FROM JACKSONVILLE, FLA.

MYRTAL BEACH, S. C., May 30.—(AP)—After spending the night here Lathrop Withington, Brookline, Mass., and J. K. Richards, Lexington, Mass., continued their trip from Jacksonville, Fla., to New York in their double rowing shell.

Withington was a member of the Harvard crew from 1907 to 1911, and Richards is well known in rowing circles.

They Couldn't Know

Back in 1818 the greatest newspaper of the day declared that the world had reached the limit of human expansion. It even went further, saying that there weren't enough supplies in the world to support further growth of population.

The mind of 1818 couldn't vision the future. It couldn't imagine the wonders of agriculture, manufacturing, transportation, sales methods. It couldn't see the vital part that would be played by advertising.

Even today there are those who fail to realize what an important factor advertising has become. Advertising is as much a part of today's life as electricity, antiseptic surgery or automobiles. It keeps us up to date in all directions.

The advertisements save time, money and effort for those who read them and follow their guidance. They are practical guarantees of satisfaction.

Don't lay aside The Bulletin without reading the advertisements daily.

ARNOLD WON 500 MILE AUTO RACE WITH LEAD OF 10 MILES

Crowd of 170,000 At Indianapolis Cheered the Chicago Man to Victory and Purse Worth $52,150—Averaging 100.448 Miles An Hour, Arnold Covered the Course, With Only One Stop, In 4.58.39.72 — Series of Smash-Ups Resulted In One Fatality—Only 14 of the Original 38 Starters Finished.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 30.—(AP)—A boy just 23 years old, won the 500-mile automobile race at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway today and a pot of gold worth $52,150.

With a record smashing crowd of 170,000 cheering him to victory, Billy Arnold of Chicago, the triumphant youngster, leading all the way except the first two laps, and making only one stop, won the race with a lead of ten miles in 4:58:39.72, averaging 100.448 miles an hour.

William "Shorty" Cantlon of Detroit, finished second, three laps behind the speeding Chicago youngster. Louie Schneider of Indianapolis, was third, five laps behind the winner. Louie Meyer of South Gate, Calif., winner of the race in 1928, was fourth, with Wild Bill Cummings of Indianapolis, fifth.

Only 14 of the original 38 starters survived to finish due to an unprecedented series of smashups which resulted in the tragic death of one contestant. The victim was Paul Marshall, of Detroit, riding as a mechanic for his brother, Cy Marshall, of Indianapolis. The accident in which their car figured was one of several that occurred on the treacherous north turn of the two-mile-and-a-half brick oval, causing injury to two other entrants and eliminating 17 other cars from the race.

Marshall met his death when their car, speeding at the rate of 100 miles an hour crashed into a retaining wall at the banked curve, plunged up the track and bounded over upside down, falling 25 feet to the ground. The mechanic was pinned beneath the racer, but his brother was catapulted free of the wreckage. The mechanic sustained a fractured skull and other injuries from which he died a short time after reaching the hospital. His brother had a broken jaw and other injuries but his condition tonight was said to be improving.

The two other persons injured were in a nerve tingling smashup that wrecked six cars in the same north turn

They were Deacon Litz, a driver of Dubois Pa., and Aaron T. Vance, of Indianapolis, riding as a mechanic for Chester T. Gardner, of Pittsburgh, Fred Roberts of Danville, Ill., driving relief for Peter De Paolo, one of the favorites in the race, lost control of his car in attempting to bring it out of a skid and collided with the speeding machine piloted by Marion Trexler of Indianapolis. Four other machines coming behind them piled up one after another. These cars were being driven by Litz, Johnny Seymour, Escanaba, Mich., Babe Stapp, Los Angeles, and Lou Moore, Los Angeles.

Miraculously, all six drivers and their mechanics escaped death, but Litz sustained a broken right wrist and the mechanic, Vance, was lacerated about the head.

The race was just a parade for the youthful Arnold after he once got his eight-cylinder, front-drive car humming along at a speed of more than 100 miles an hour. He jumped into the lead at the start of the third lap and retained it to the finish with Spider Matlock, of Los Angeles, huddled along beside him as his racing mechanic.

Arnold made only one stop during the perilous 500 miles, he pulled into the pits after speeding 278 miles and spent three precious minutes taking on fuel and changing his rear tires.

Arnold won $20,000 as first prize and also bagged approximately $17,000 in lap prizes, receiving $100 for each lap in which he led the race. In addition, he won other prizes offered by accessory manufacturers to make his total winnings $52,150.

Today's race was witnessed by a crowd of 80,000 over the attendance of a year ago, setting a new record for the event. The weather was perfect for the drivers, but altogether too chilly for the spectators.

Motion pictures are partly to blame for the present difficulties confronting law enforcement, the report says.

MANY PARTICIPATE IN MEMORIAL DAY OBSERVANCE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, May 30—Full homage to its soldier and sailor dead was paid by the town of Windham today in fitting exercises that were attended by many. At the various cemeteries the graves of 483 Windham veterans and that of one allied veteran buried in the new Willimantic cemetery were decorated. Provision was also made for the care of the graves of 18 Windham soldiers buried out of town. The list of graves includes those of 347 Civil war veterans, 41 Spanish-American war, 39 World war, 12 War of 1812 and 24 of the Revolutionary war.

Morning Pilgrimage

Under favorable weather conditions that prevailed for the first time this week, the impressive morning pilgrimage to the three "Windhams" and St. Joseph's cemetery was held today. Under direction of Chief of Staff Jeremiah A. McCarthy the veteran organizations and their auxiliaries assembled at the town building at 7:30, making the trip in auto trucks and pleasure cars. The procession was accompanied by a platoon from Company C, 169th Infantry, Connecticut National Guard, which furnished a firing squad and bugler. Music was by the B. P. O. Elks band and the Knights of Columbus Boys' band.

The first stop was made at Windham Center cemetery where the graves of 56 veterans were decorated. Of the number 22 are veterans of the Revolutionary war, 22 of the War of 1812, 48 Civil war, one Spanish-American and three World war. The pilgrims then proceeded to the North Windham cemetery. Here there are 23 veterans' graves, one of the Revolutionary, four of 1812, 17 of the Civil war and one of the World war. The bands played patriotic selections and brief, but stirring eulogies were delivered by Rev. T. Hawthorne Jones, pastor of the Mansfield Center Congregational church.

The third and final stop of the pilgrimage was at St. Joseph's Catholic cemetery where a crowd awaited the arrival of the procession. At this cemetery there are 133 graves, five of which are fresh since last Decoration day. The orator at St. Joseph's was Past Department Commander James Haggerty, one of the four surviving Civil war veterans of the town and the only one of the little group to make the memorable morning pilgrimage. Prayer was invoked by T. Frank Cunningham, of James J. Shea post, No. 19, American Legion. Owing to a misunderstanding of the time, one of the priests of St. Joseph's church was not present to deliver the scheduled sermon-address.

Italian Society Services

In memory of the dead of their nationality, with special emphasis on the deceased who were war veterans, the annual Memorial day exercises and parade were carried out this forenoon by Guiseppe Garibaldi lodge, No. 267, Ordine Figli D'Italia and Principessa Iolanda society No. 1526, assisted by a newly organized society of young women and girls. Following a custom, the Italian Citizens' band marched from the band rooms on Mansfield avenue to the rooms of Garibaldi lodge on Main street to act as escort to members of that order. The paraders then counter-marched by way of Church, Valley and High streets back to Main street to be joined by the ladies of Principessa Iolanda society and the girls' society at the Capitol building, and proceed to St. Joseph's church where a brief service was conducted by Rev. Michael J. Thompson. To the sorrowing tunes of dirges, the procession then marched to St. Joseph's cemetery where Rev. Father Thompson gave a short sermon-address and led in prayer. The orator of the exercises was Angelo Bartolini of New Haven, State Grand Deputy of New Haven, state grand deputy of the Sons of Italy. An eulogy was then read by Mrs. Vita Ardovina, president of the woman's society.

IN NORWICH FIFTY YEARS AGO

A half century ago this week Norwich was faced with a shortage of water. According to The Bulletin the reservoir was built on the basis of providing 30 gallons of water per day per person but three times this amount was being consumed. Interesting extracts taken from the files of The Bulletin of May, 1880, are as follows:

Monday, May 24, 1880—Mr. H. Heman Roath captured a blackfish that weighed three pounds in the Shetucket river, Saturday. It is seldom that this fish is found in fresh water.

The addition to the Wauregan company's mill, at Wauregan, will accommodate 194 looms.

The market is receiving new beets, turnips and tomatoes from the south and onions and potatoes from Bermuda.

Mr. Amasa C. Hall, who was taken seriously ill last week, was pronounced to be improving, yesterday, by his physician.

The country roads were free from dust, yesterday, for the first time in a month.

Tuesday, May 25, 1880—The whooping cough still prevails in this city and several adults continue to whoop and wipe their weeping eyes.

The City Guard, Capt. J. J. McCord, commanding, held a practice drill on our thoroughfares last night. They will act as escort for Sedgwick Post, G. A. R., on Decoration day.

The Norwich Literary society render the charming piece entitled, A Cup of Tea, at their rooms in Williams block this evening.

The superintendent of the First Congregational church Sunday school, at Greeneville, gave as one reason for his recent resignation of that office the presence of so many unbaptized children in the organization.

The annual wash of the Norwich fire department will take place on the north end of Central Wharf next Saturday afternoon at four o'clock. The companies should govern themselves accordingly.

Wednesday, May 26, 1880—The expansion of the rails at the yard of the Norwich & Worcester railroad yesterday, under the noon day heat, was so great that two men could not turn the switches, and an application of cold water had to be made to effect a contraction of the rails before the switches could be operated.

The Norwich & Worcester Railroad Co., are facing up the Shetucket river wall with cement, making it water tight, against the incursion of spring floods.

The city watering carts have received orders to take no more water from the reservoir mains, and today they will begin to draw their supply from the river.

John Burke of the Blackstone Hose Co., was overcome with the heat while running with the machine Tuesday morning.

A false alarm of fire was raised at 8.40 a. m., yesterday, and a run was made by the Niagara Hose Co., Blackstone Hose Co., and Wauregan Hook and Ladder Co., to the Richmond Stove works on Thames street.

Thursday, May 27, 1880—An old fisherman, who has followed the Thames river for 65 years, declares that not more than one salmon has been caught there in that time, all stories to the contrary notwithstanding.

Mr. G. T. Bushnell has begun the shipment of edible frogs to Newport and the Chicago market.

Mr. I. H. Roath of Preston is high line on peas. He has in his garden vines well podded and will before many days be dining on their fruit.

There was not depth of water enough at Allyn's Point wharf, yesterday, for the steamer Tilley of the Norwich and New York Transportation Company's line to land. The steamer Bolivar was sent up to take the freight accumulating there.

Friday, May 28, 1880—The inhabitants of Norwich are very intemperate in the use of water. The water works were constructed upon a basis of 30 gallons per day for each resident, and as soon as they had free access to a good thing, they began to draw on the average of one hundred gallons per day, per person. That is the habit that is threatening to exhaust the reservoir and produce a water famine here.

Mr. Henry Lyon of Lisbon has purchased a large tract of standing wood, covering a thousand acres in Ledyard from which he is cutting Chestnut telegraph poles for companies in all parts of the country.

Niagara Hose Co. is one of the oldest, if not the oldest fire company in this city. It was organized in 1784. The 100th anniversary of its organization is in the near future.

Saturday, May 29, 1880—T. C. Murphy, amateur oarsman of this city, is in practice to enter the World's International regatta on the Seekonk river, Providence, R. I., on the 17th of June.

The Norwich & Worcester division of the New York and New England railroad, will reduce their passenger rates on June 1st. The new tariff is on the basis of three cents per mile. This reduces all points between Norwich and Worcester.

The Norwich Croquet club has daily contests with the mallets and the balls on their fine grounds. They are getting into practice for scientific work this summer.

MOSES PIERCE MEDAL GIVEN IN FALL RIVER

A medal from a fund established by the late Moses Pierce of this city was presented Thursday evening at Bradford Durfee Textile school, Fall River, through the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers. Mr. Pierce who was one of the founders of Ponemah mills, Taftville, established a fund for the purpose on his 90th birthday, in 1900. Lacking a textile school training himself, he was much interested in educational work in textiles. The medal goes to the student for general excellence in a course in cotton manufacturing which must include cotton carding, drawing, spinning, warp preparation, weaving and designing.

DANIELSON

DANIELSON PAYS TRIBUTE TO ITS HONORED DEAD

(Special to The Bulletin.)

DANIELSON, May 30—This community's tribute to its honored dead was paid today under lowering skies, suggesting the memorial nature of the occasion and the services. In keeping with the solemn occasion, there was almost utterly lacking that note of frivolity that has crept into the observance too frequently in recent years, as those who regard Memorial day as a play day have gone about seeking after erstwhile pleasures.

In accordance with the arrangements the organizations taking part in today's procession here assembled at G. A. R. hall at 12:45. Captain Harold E. Greene, as marshal, formed the line, and it was underway promptly, proceeding to the Orpheum theatre, where the formal exercises previously outlined in this column were carried out.

Following the exercises at the theatre the marchers reformed their lines and went to the Soldiers' monument at Davis park, where the usual brief service was held. The line of march was from that point to Westfield cemetery, where honor was paid the soldier dead and the ceremony of presenting a flag to the Westfield Cemetery association by the Woman's Relief corps was carried out, and acceptance made in behalf of the association. From Westfield cemetery the marchers came through North and Mechanic streets to St. James' cemetery to honor the soldier dead buried there, and thence back to G. A. R. hall, where the parade was dismissed.

Large numbers attended the services at the theatre, where the address was made by Rev. J. Rees Jones, and there were many at the monument and at the cemeteries to observe the proceedings.

At Brooklyn this morning and at East Killingly at the same time Memorial day programs were carried out in accordance with the arrangements and with large numbers in attendance.

Two Auto Accidents

The heavy rain of last night—the eve of Memorial day—was a contributing factor to two automobile accidents that occurred in the eastern section of the town at Little Rest, near the Rhode Island border, about five miles out on the Providence road. There were no serious personal injuries in either accident.

William A. McGuire of Providence was operator of one of the cars that crossed over the state line from Rhode Island, perhaps a bit too fast, to negotiate the steep hill he immediately encountered. His car rolled over, but he and two other persons riding with him escaped with minor injuries.

Samuel Place, Providence, was the operator of the other car that became involved in an accident at Little Rest. There were no personal injuries in this accident, either. State Officer Lionel Poirier checked up on these accidents. There were no arrests.

Charles Trudeau of Goodyear, at liberty today under bonds of $2,000, is scheduled for an appearance in the town court Saturday to answer to charges growing out of a raid at his place in Goodyear last night, when State Officers Royal V. Scranton and Elton Nolan seized a quantity of moonshine and some home brew in a raid.

The special borough meeting scheduled for Tuesday evening is of more than ordinary importance. It has to do with such important matters as issuing bonds to fund the borough's debt and to pass upon sidewalk construction matters and to make the necessary appropriations. One the whole this particular special borough meeting rates to command more general interest than any that has been held here recently.

Persons with statistical minds concerned themselves for a time, at least, today with computing the cost of the flowers so lavishly used in the decoration of the resting places of departed loved ones in the cemeteries of Danielson and hereabouts. From far and near, many from very distant points, relatives came to Danielson to visit the cemeteries and to place upon graves beautiful floral pieces. In the aggregate the cost of the decorations ran into many hundreds of dollars.

Many assembled at Davis park this afternoon at 2:30, to listen to a well played concert by the Killingly high school band, which previously had taken part in the Memorial day exercises. It may be mentioned that during the course of the procession the school band attracted particular attention, the members wearing their recently acquired uniforms. It is possible that the town's people may be privileged to hear the school band in concert again at the park before the end of the school year, about two weeks hence, for during the summer season the members will be scattered and there.

Mrs. Augustus Higgins and daughter, Miss Sarah Higgins of Pawtucket, former residents of Danielson, spent Memorial day visiting with relatives and friends in Danielson.

A squadron of aeroplanes flying northeasterly, evidently Boston-bound, were of interest to many persons here just after 11 o'clock this morning.

Erwin Bennett of Woonsocket, years ago a resident of Danielson and in business here, has been visiting with friends in town.

This is to remind you to deposit in our savings department. The Windham County National bank.—Adv.

This summer the Service battery, an organization of the 192d Field Artillery, will do its annual tour of field duty at Niantic, with other companies of the regiment. Special troops stationed at the state armory here will go to Camp Devens.

A large number of Danielson people were at Norwich this afternoon to watch the 10-mile race in which many runners participated, including a local entry, Armand Bernier, of the West Side.

Mrs. James Monohan, Miss Alice Monohan and Miss Johanna Whalen of Providence, all former residents of Danielson, were visitors with relatives and friends here today.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Woodworth of Broad street were at their summer cottage at Pleasure Beach over the holiday period.

Early June will witness the beginning of the work that will involve construction of approximately three miles of concrete highway between Wauregan and Danielson. Unexpected delay has been encountered in starting this work, which will likely continue until early fall.

Little River grange at Hampton will be the host this Saturday to members of Quinebaug Pomona grange from various sections of eastern Connecticut. It is to be an evening meeting, with a supper hour from 6 to 7 p. m. standard time, and with a business session to follow at 7:30. C. L. Johnson, commissioner of domestic animals, will deliver the principal address, and a play will be presented by the Dramatic club of Connecticut Agricultural college. Musical numbers also will be included in the program.

State Bank Commissioner Lester E. Shippee of Hartford was a visitor today with relatives at East Killingly.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Call of Taftville were visitors with friends here today.

Clare Turner of Waterbury was here for the holiday and will remain over the week end with his family, resident on Broad street.

Miss Florence Ellison was at Willimantic last evening to attend a social function arranged by students of Windham high school.

Mrs. Nellie Seaver, a former resident of Danielson, spent the holiday in Danielson.

PUTNAM

TRUDEAU ARRESTED FOR LIQUOR LAW VIOLATION

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, May 30—Prohibition enforcement may not be a success in other parts of the country but it seems to be doing pretty well in this city, where another kitchen bar room went out of existence at midnight Thursday when officers of the local police force under the direction of Capt. A. J. Dubreuil and Sergt. A. J. Sponcey staged a raid at the home of George Trudeau at 42 Ballou street, seizing 13 cases of home brew beer, a small quantity of potent liquor and a number of cases of empty beer bottles. Trudeau, with Wilfred Cartier, a relative, were placed under arrest and will be arraigned in city court Saturday morning on various liquor laws violations.

The raiding squad made their nocturnal invasion of the north end a few minutes before midnight going directly to the residential home brew dispensing establishment. Entering the house the officers found two guests who had been served. A search of the premises was concluded in the cellar where the contraband cache was revealed. The police removed the evidence to the police station in a large truck.

Thursday night's raid is the second to be staged in Putnam this week. The last violator to fall was Edward Benoit, a former police officer, who was arrested Saturday evening when state officers of the Danielson barracks paid a visit to his improvised barroom in stall "14" of the Bridge street garage.

A nolle prosse and a probation sentence were the dispositions made in the Worcester county superior court this week in the cases of Frederick Bernier and Theodore Raymond Putnam young men who were arrested in February by Whitinsville, Mass., police on charges of criminal assault, preferred against them by Miss Irene Boiselle of Whitinsville. The charge against Bernier was nolled and Raymond received a probation sentence of one year when he entered a plea of guilty.

A capacity house greeted the members of the 26 piece Putnam high school band, which made its debut Thursday evening at a concert given at the Bradley theatre. The first appearance of the new musical organization was part of the programme of a movie benefit arranged by Manager James F. Mahoney of the Bradley for the purpose of swelling the uniform fund of the band. The affair was a complete success.

Nelson Frink, director of music in the Putnam schools and organizer of the new band, directed his youthful artists at their initial appearance. At the close of the concert Mr. Frink was favored with a host of congratulations for his laudable work in the forming of Putnam's first student group.

The 1930 trotting season of the Burrillville Driving club at Burrillville, R. I., was opened today and numbered among the interested crowd of spectators at the initial races were a number of local horse lovers, who gathered at the track at Pascoag this afternoon.

Principal H. H. Ellis of the State Trade school announced Thursday that the summer courses in the home economics department at the school will open this year on June 30th, the work to continue for a period of five weeks. Sessions will be from 8 a. m., to 12 o'clock noon, five days each week.

The work as generally planned provides for beginners class and another phase of the work is outlined for those more advanced. Mr. Ellis said that the classes have been of considerable benefit in years past, not only to girls of school age but also to women of the community who can arrange to attend the group meetings. In the case of the adult members, instruction is planned to meet the individual need rather than any hard and fast class work programme. In the case of the grammar and high school girls the students usually wish to follow a prescribed course of study more in line with the fulfillment of their general plan school training.

Enrollment may be made at any time while the school is in session. Miss Hannah Pease and Miss Ethel Spooner are teachers in charge of the work. Anyone interested may secure additional information from these teachers. It is especially requested, however, that enrollment be made previous to the opening day.

Gorden "Flash" Winslow, student at Holy Cross college, is spending the week end holiday at the home of Mrs. Bernard P. Murphy on Sunnyside.

Frank Donovan of St. John's Prep school, Danvers, Mass., is visiting with his parents Mr. and Mrs. Andrew P. Donovan of 18 Lyons street.

A motion of Judge M. H. Geissler, counsel for Spiro Talabac and Alphonse Valade, that the firm of W. T. Rawleigh company, plaintiff in a suit against the former, be required to produce an original contract for filing with the clerk of courts, in order that it may be examined by handwriting experts, was granted by Judge Arthur F. Ellis, Thursday at the short calendar session of superior court. Judge Geissler in petitioning the court stated that the defendants deny signing the document and the examination of the instrument by experts is of vital importance to the defense.

Miss N. Alice Dalton of Northampton, Mass., spent Memorial day as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Bulger of Farrows street.

A judgment of foreclosure of mortgage was awarded A. Macdonald, Jr., administrator of the estate of R. L. Bullard by Judge Ellis in superior court, Thursday, on property now held by Howard R. Bullard on Killingly avenue, consisting of a house and barn and 40 acres of land. Bullard is now a prisoner at the county jail in Brooklyn it was explained by Attorney Macdonald. The property is one of the obstacles delaying the closing of the trust of George M. Coffin, receiver of the defunct First National bank and the court order for sheriff's sale was sought yesterday in an effort to expedite the termination of the bank trust. Two mortgages are held in the property. Large interested amounts are due in addition to its taxes being unpaid for a number of years back. The court authorized the sale, which will be made at auction in June.

Various Putnam civic and fraternal organizations and individual contributors are sending money to Nashua, N. H., to be used in the relief work for the sufferers who were put to untold loss through the recent conflagration that swept over that city leaving a wide path of devastation in its wake.

BALTIC

The St. Jean society and a number of other friends and relatives tendered Miss Viola Charon a miscellaneous shower at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Eustache Charon, on Main street, Tuesday evening, in honor of her approaching marriage with Martin J. Bishop of Bristol. The house was artistically decorated with spring flowers and ferns, in a color scheme of green and yellow. The colors were repeated in the table decorations. A huge May basket in green and yellow, held the gifts and tiny May baskets filled with nuts were given as favors. Mrs. Eustache Charon, mother of the bride-to-be served dainty sandwiches, cake, cookies, candy, peanuts, coffee and fruit punch. An enjoyable evening was spent in playing games and many popular songs were sung. Miss Charon received a number of attractive gifts including cut glass, pyrex, pictures and useful kitchen utensils, etc. Miss Charon, whose home is in Baltic, but who has been employed as a typist by the Arrow-Hart & Hegeman Co. of Hartford for a number of years, was given a beautiful linen shower recently by her friends there. She also received $25 in gold from her office associates. Her friends in Bristol, where she is to make her home, tendered her a miscellaneous shower. JEWETT CITY

HONOR PAID HEROIC DEAD IN FRIDAY'S CEREMONIES

Jewett City's Memorial day celebration was never carried out with so many smoothly moving attractive features as were to be noted Friday. Forming at nine o'clock, the right of the line rested in front of the town hall with Jewett City's honored. Dr. George H. Jennings as marshal, his aides being H. George Wilcox, John T. Barry and Adrain Maynard. Including the police escort at the head of the procession, the officers on duty were Henry Vegiard, chief; William Blake, Alfred Bacon, John McCarthy, John Foley, Hector Sibelleaud and Joseph Gill.

In the first division were the flag bearers, John Davis carrying the National colors, William Robinson the Post flag, and George Comages, who bore the stars and stripes in honor of the G. A. R. The armed color guards were Walter Leymour and Fred Raill. Following these came the firing squad of the Legion, in charge of Wallace H. Payne, commander of the post. These included Carl Benjamin, Edward Blanchard, Walter Benjamin, Victor St. John, Dona Morancey, Irving Thornton, J. H. Bicknell and Charles Barber.

The second division included the Ashland Boys' band, 26 pieces, Fred Bourque leader, with thirty members of Orville La Flamme post, American Legion and veterans of the Spanish war. In the automobile section there rode two G. A. R. men, James Jennings and Alfred Davis; two Gold Star mothers, Mrs. Alice La Flamme and Mrs. Martin Monsus. Then came local members of the D. A. R., the clergymen of the borough, town and borough officials, members of the legion auxiliary, and representives of the Red Cross and Daughters of Veterans.

All along the line of march there were murmurs of approval for the fine appearance of the 300 school children that made up the next division, they were from the higher grades of the St. Mary's and Riverside schools. Each carrying a flag, they marched well, and were earnest and orderly, giving evidence of their own interest and of careful drill. They were in charge of Superintendent Chester L. Howe, assisted by the following men from the 40 and 8: George Rocheleau, Edgar Knox, Charles Campbell and Stanley Savage. The commander for the R. G. S. boys was John Daneluk; his lieutenants were James Wakely, Harold Frink and Percy Katz. For the girls' divisions Louisa Nowakowski was in command, her aides being Charlotte Albertine, Julia Stadwiki and Mary Parzych. The drum corps in lead included Louis Gill, Raymond Cathcart and Rollin Tripp. The flag bearer was Anthony Vanchu. In the last division of the parade, three boys rode ponies— Donald McNicol, William Dearnley and Lionel LaCroix.

The line halted before Slater library where following the playing of Nearer My God To Thee by the band, Miss Eva LaFlamme and Miss Ida I Foster placed wreaths of laurel and poppies on the roll of honor boulder and the D. A. R. World war memorial tree. Following this ceremony, the Jewett City, St. Mary's and Baptist cemeteries were visited and the memorial rites were carried out in prescribed form. The prayers were offered by Rev. Albert Clement, Rev. John J. McCabe and Rev. Elmer E. Scates. Three volleys were fired by the armed division from the legion. Taps were sounded, which included the very impressive echo efect. When the notes of the second bugle were heard from a distant section of the yard, the reverent silence was complete. The trumpeters were John Oropello and Raymond Zagraniski.

At Quinebaug bridge, the line was halted, where, following Pleyel's hymn, played in chrge meter by the band, Otto Anderson and Charles Gardis stepped to the rail, and in memory of those who sleep in the deep, dropped baskets of flowers upon the swiftly moving current of the stream. These baskets were prepared by Miss Rosanna DesJardins. At the monument following a selection by the band, Comrade James Jennings, aged veteran of the Civil war, placed a magnolia and palm wreath from the D. A. R., at the base of the granite shaft. Prayer was offered by Rev. J. W. Carter, the band played as Mrs. George Sarazin directed the singing of Star Spangled Banner.

Pachaug Services Sunday

If the weather is favorable, the postponed memorial services at Pachaug will be held Sunday afternoon at 2.30. Commander W. H. Payne of the American Legion urges that his men be at the town hall in Jewett City at 2 o'clock sharp. Rev. Harold L. Arnold will deliver the address. The firing squad will be in attendance and the cemetery gates will be decorated with a memorial wreath.

AN ELOQUENT ADDRESS BY REV. FATHER M'CABE

The memorial address, before the monument at the David Hale Fanning park was delivered by Rev. John J. McCabe, pastor of St. Mary's church. In accordance with his usual custom this brilliant speaker had something worth while to say, to which the assemblage of over a thousand, listened with interest and profit. He considered it a privilege and honor to participate in the solemn and holy exercises of this immortal American custom in which the whole nation joins, giving tribute to the grand religious sentiments of the country, when just honor is paid to the great army of our nation's heroes, who sleep in the silent cities of the dead. What great blessings are ours, he said, because of our belief in God, and the immortality of the soul, through which we may know that the passing from this transitory existence is not the end, but only the gateway to eternity! He pointed out that today it was more and more becoming the part of the American Legion and the rising generations, to perpetuate the beautiful customs of the Memorial season. "You men of today," he said, "must receive from the failing hands of the rapidly thinning ranks of the Civil war veterans, these standards of duty which are emblematical of liberty, justice and abiding faith.

"Let us not forget how this great silent army took up arms, said fond good-byes and marched away to vindicate that sentiment of democracy that is innate in every heat. We must give not lip service alone, but must cultivate the broadest spirit of tolerance; there must be equality of liberty, with no thought of race, creed or color. If America is to endure, then one grand army must stand united, ever remembering our common need of keeping inviolable, all these sacred trusts." The speaker told something of the outstanding characteristics of Lincoln, whose sacred memory we more and more revere, as the years go by. "Finally," he said, "let us keep unsullied these great principles which stand for true democracy, with impartial religious and national liberty, ever remembering our grand America, whose name we love and for which we would gladly die."

The closing number was America by the band, the school children joining in singing the patriotic stanzas.

Community Dinner for Marchers

A bountiful dinner of baked beans, salmon and potato salads, brown bread, rolls, relishes, cake and coffee was served in the Baptist vestry. The blessing was asked by Rev. E. E. Scates, pastor of the church. On the baptistry curtain the large American flag was displayed that covered the casket containing the body of Earl Gray, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Gray, when it was brought from a government hospital for burial in Jewett City cemetery, and afterwards was given to his parents. The women who served the dinner were a committee from the four [illegible] and were given hearty applause at the close of the dinner. Their guests were veterans of all wars, the Ashland band, the poppy girls, clergy, town and borough officials, Gold Star mothers, with sons and daughters of veterans. The committee appointed by Mrs. E. M. Gray, president of the Legion auxiliary, included Miss Alice A. Brown, chairman, Mrs. Samuel Cathcart, Mrs. Lewis Hewlitt, Miss Susie Morgan, Mrs. Abraham Zegeer, Mrs. Frank Ray, Miss M. A. Burdick, Mrs. E. H. Hiscox, Mrs. M. F. Shea, Mrs. Edmond Jodoin, Mrs. Henry Vegiard, Mrs. Mary Godek, Mrs. A. C. Burdick, Mrs. J. W. Carter and Mrs. Ella Geer. The waitresses were Misses Margaret Driscoll, May Driscoll, Anna [illegible], Claire Shea, Josephine Amber, Ruby Gray, Virginia Goodenough, Ethel Fiske, Eleanor Stetson and Ruth Cathcart, Mrs. John Oakes, Mrs. Adelbert Babcock, Mrs. Joseph Wharton, and Mrs. Walter Benjamin.

A huge May basket, containing a breakfast set of china, with fruit and flowers, was hung at the parsonage, the home of Rev. and Mrs. Edward Kelly and son Arthur, Friday night, May 23. Mr. and Mrs. Kelley were greatly surprised and thanked the donors for this fine gift. Seventy-seven were present, including old and young. Cake, sandwiches and cocoa were served. Moses Gallup sang two favorite songs.

The Happy Maids met at the home of Mrs. Carl Holdridge, May 13. Escalloped eggs and celery were prepared and cocoa was made from syrup prepared at the previous meeting. These young ladies are very enthusiastic about their cooking lessons.

COLCHESTER MAN SUES FOR DAMAGES OF $12,000

Damages of $12,000 are sought by Max Cohen of Colchester against Harry J. Lebovit of Bayonne, N. J., in a suit filed with Clerk John H. Walker of the superior court which arises out of an automobile accident in which his son, Ruben Cohen, also of Colchester, a minor, suffered severe injuries about the face, arms and body, etc. It is alleged in the papers that [illegible] has suffered the permanent loss and destruction of several teeth and has lost the permanent use of his right hand and arm, in addition to having a permanent scar and disfigurement of his mouth and lips.

The accident happened on Aug. 24, 1929, when the Colchester youth was driving a Ford auto on Hayward avenue, Colchester, and it collided with a machine operated by Lebovit at the intersection of the Norwich road. As a result of the crash Rubin claims that he was thrown from his machine and landed on his face in the highway. It is claimed that Lebovit at the time was negligent in that he was driving his car at a reckless and rapid rate of speed, did not have his car under control and was driving on the left and wrong side of the intersection.

DON'T FAIL TO VOTE MONDAY

In the city election which comes Monday the voters of Norwich should not overlook the importance of getting out to the polls and voting. There is a duty involved which rests upon the shoulders of every voter who desires good government, economical government, efficient government. There is never a time to take the view that one vote makes no difference, for at every election there should be an effort on the part of all voters to get out and vote and thus personally have a hand in the result. Even if one more vote makes no difference, there should be a desire to contribute it in behalf of good government and as an endorsement of a highly creditable administration.

This year, in particular, the electors have the best of reasons for recording their votes. They have experienced two years of unusual attention to city problems, city departments, city expenditures. They have seen the work directed in a masterly manner. They have witnessed the completion of municipal projects and they have seen the expenditures in all departments kept within appropriations. Efficiency has gone hand in hand with economic management. It is recognized and appreciated by the citizens regardless of their political affiliations. They are ready to give credit where it belongs and, that being so, there should be an equal willingness to get out to the polls next Monday and pull the republican lever as the means of insuring its continuance for another two years.

With the cold hard facts of things accomplished before them, there can be no willingness on the part of the voters to take chances with uncertainties. There can be no desire to encourage a return to previous conditions by neglecting to respond to a voter's duty. At the city election next Monday each and every voter, regardless of party, should be anxious to get to the polls and through his ballot give expression to his satisfaction over the way in which the city's business, and, therefore, his business, has been administered and at the same time aid in making doubly sure that it isn't going to be replaced by an unknown quantity.

Get out the vote next Monday. Make certain that good government will be continued and let there be no cause for regrets. The republican ticket is made up of well-known, able and experienced men whose record of service is an open book. Having labored well for the citizens of Norwich it is time to return the compliment.

WHERE ACTION IS NEEDED

When the senate put through the Norris bill providing for the operation of Muscle Shoals by the government it was known that there were days when the house had indicated a favorable attitude toward government operation. That it does not hold any such view at the present time was displayed by the turning down of the Norris bill and the bringing forth of a measure that would provide for the leasing of the big power project to private capital.

That bill having gone through the house, the two branches of congress are at loggerheads. It means that the matter must be dealt with in conference, but from the attitude of the respective houses there seems to be slight prospect of a compromise that will get approval at this session.

This is a matter on which congress should have taken action a long time ago. It isn't a small matter, since it involves a project on which the government has spent a large sum of money, but it is time that some disposition was made of it.

It is easy to say that disposition might have been made some time since had there been a willingness to have the government operate it or had there been the disposition to turn it over to the highest bidder for a lease. There have been serious objections to both plans, but by the house bill just adopted the claim is made that the interests of the government are protected in such a manner that previous objections should disappear.

The plan provides for leaving it for 50 years with the understanding that the government would have the right to take it over if it so desired in case it had need of such a plant because of the possibility of war. There would be an adjustment for the leasing corporation under such conditions, but it would give private capital a sufficiently long period of control in which to carry out its plans and get results.

While authority to make such a lease as the bill provides for should get due consideration and something be done with the plant the prospects for action at this time are by no means rosy.

NORWICH ELATED, KANSAS CITY DISAPPOINTED

A deficit in the city finances has been experienced by Kansas City for the past fiscal year. It has naturally caused much disappointment. There is a feeling that it should not have happened. Kansas City has a city manager, and of its city manager the Kansas City Star says, concerning the deficit, "It is his duty from month to month to see that the budget is not exceeded."

Norwich has no city manager and it has no deficit in its city finances for the past year. But it has an alert and conscientious mayor with a capable council and cooperating heads of departments, who not only have kept close watch on the departmental expenditures but have fulfilled their obligations and brought the city through the last two years with flying colors. There is no disappointment in Norwich, there has been no going in the hole, and there is nothing but praise for the admirable manner in which the city has been run.

This is an accomplishment, one that cannot be treated with impunity or shut out by any attempted smoke screen. It has meant the complete reversal of past practices and, unless we are greatly mistaken, Norwich is going to show its appreciation in the expected manner by going to the polls next Monday and retaining the mayor and those nominated with him by a large and deserved vote.

Norwich cannot call for good government, and pay-as-you-go government, and do otherwise.

FIGHTING THE MOSQUITO

New Canaan isn't the only town in the state which has had unfavorable experiences with mosquitoes. It is not the only town or community that would like to be rid of the pest, but it is the battleground of a fight by the Connecticut experimental station against the mosquitoes that has aroused much interest and will continue to hold attention.

Last year, with 70 breeding places discovered, a good start was made in eliminating them through oiling and the use of larvacide and through the introduction of killifish, which eat mosquito larvae, and also black-nosed dace. Experiments begun there are to be continued this year and from them there should be much of profit for the rest of the towns of the state, or at least those which are concerned with the fresh water mosquito.

It is no small or easy job involved in fighting the mosquito, but those communities which are bothered with them have a common interest in all efforts at elimination. Experience has shown that the effective method of control lies in removing the breeding places. This is fully recognized at New Canaan and nothing better could be hoped than that the progress made there this year will be so successful that its extension to other parts of the state where needed will be assured and hastened.

THE VETOED BILL

This is the day when an effort is to be made in the senate to override President Hoover's veto of the pension bill for the Spanish-American war veterans. Because the effort is to be made doesn't mean that it will succeed, and yet with the lineup that has prevailed in the upper house of congress there is no telling what may happen. Knowing what the president wants or what he doesn't want, knowing what he favors or opposes, knowing what he regards as desirable and what he considers dangerous, has in the past been reason enough for a coalition in the senate to take a contrary attitude. It is a two-thirds rather than a majority vote which will be required to override a veto.

In applying his veto to the measure, President Hoover pointed out in three particulars why he couldn't give it his approval.

He is not opposed to a reasonable pension policy.

He is opposed to the bill because there is lowered the minimum service requirement from 90 to 70 days, which departs from the policy established for the pensioners for the Civil war.

He objects to the plan of taxing needy persons to pay a pension to others who are in comfortable circumstances and terms it an economic injustice.

He disapproves the provision which opens the way for claims of disability incurred not solely in the war but at any time, even through negligence and misconduct.

In noting his disapproval, President Hoover has taken into consideration points which were apparently disregarded by congress. His veto has been based upon sound judgment and it has been apparent that while he opposed the bill as presented to him he would undoubtedly sign it with the elimination of the objectionable features. Having been pointed out, they should be as apparent to congress as to the rest of the country. While much liberality is usually displayed when pension bills are being considered, there are limits, and the president has given good reasons for fixing those in his veto.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The man on the corner says: The Duwells did well. More power to them.

Don't fail to vote Monday. Vote early and vote right by pulling the republican lever.

Even though the purchaser isn't guilty with the seller, that doesn't reduce the chances he takes with some of the stuff.

With several dry senators favoring a state referendum on prohibition, can it be that they have been studying the Digest poll?

One good term deserves another is the way in which the thoughtful citizen must regard the record made by Mayor Robbins and the council.

Good government is hard to get. Having it, by all means insist upon keeping it by returning Mayor Robbins and the republican ticket to office.

Those who have been inclined to pick the day for passing the tariff bill have learned to wait until a hopeless senate has concluded its political football practice.

THE MAN WHO TALKS

Once in a while you will overhear a person saying something like this: "I have lived in this old hole for more than 20 years and it has not done one blooming thing for me during all this time!" When you hear such an ugly outburst as that what is the logical conclusion? Chiefly this. The person making such an unreasonable complaint feels that society is greatly in debted to him because of the honor he confers upon it by living in the community. The person who is everlastingly running down the place he lives in is usually the one who does absolutely nothing to strengthen the community spirit. He is never interested in any kind of community welfare, and if he notices it at all it is usually to sneer at what others are doing. A man with such a disposition can be relied upon to do nothing more than to belittle what others do.

The substance of the foregoing paragraph resolves itself to this: There is a certain type of mind that entertains the delusion that human society is under an obligation to gratify its every wish whatever be its attitude toward society. If you ask such a person what has he ever done to strengthen the community in which he lives and he will look at you in blank amazement. Now it has never occurred to him that he is under a moral obligation to help the community in which he lives in every way he can. He has never learned the fundamental lesson of life that he must be willing to do something for society if he expects that society is going to help him. He is one of those misguided persons who thinks he is oing to get something for nothing—he is going to get something for nothing. A greater error than this does not obsess the present generation.

Is it not at this point where emphasis is put on the idea of reciprocity? We have needs and society has something to give which we must have if we are to be full-fledged human beings. Now society reacts to everything the individual does in its behalf. In other words every person who works for society is remunerated by society. It is an act of investment in which one gets an adequate return on what he invests. Now the man who puts a thousand dollars into a savings bank or into stocks and bonds does not expect so large a return as the one who invests ten times that amount. Now we get out of a thing according to what we put into it, whether that thing is community life or a business enterprise. If a man puts nothing of his time and strength into his community is there any reason for howling if he gets nothing out of it?

The true lover of nature who roams over the hills and through the woods at this season of the year sees the world of vegetation at its lovliest. There is something about the new vigor of the natural world in May that is not so impressive later on when the heat is at its climax. Not only is the vigor of this new vegetable life more pronounced but the color is fresher than at any later period. To the writer's mind an analogy to this is found in youth. It is pleasing to many of us who have reached the October stage in the calendar of life to look at May as it is—for instance at the boys playing baseball. What vigor! What suppleness! How the youngsters turn, twist, jump, run, shout, and do everything the game demands as an outlet for superfluous energy! At such a glorious sight no one but an old crab will scowl at this exhibition of May!

Was it not an act of inspiration back in 1868 when General John A. Logan made the suggestion that in the latter part of May when the blossoms were abundant, a day should be set apart for the purposes of decorating the graves of those who fought and bled and died in the service of their country? Seldom has a great idea been so quickly received and put into action as "Decoration day" as it was called at that time. Not only does the day pay a just tribute to the heroic dead, but it honors those who still belong to the Grand Army of Republic, the greater number of whom are now on the other side of the Great Divide. Memorial day—as it has been called in later years—cannot fail to show how America went forward by leaps and bounds as soon as the cancer of slavery was taken out of its political body. Had it remained possibly the body itself would have become extinct.

One wonders if Memorial day will be perpetuated after the last survivor of the War of the Rebellion has passed away! Of course that is not of a far distant day. The youngest man who entered the Civil war in 1861 if now living must be far advanced in the eighties. That terrible strife began nearly 70 years ago. Outside the larger cities there is scarcely one active society of the Grand Army of the Republic, for the natural reason that the vast majority has passed on. But we rejoice that the monuments built to their memory will not soon pass away. Those in whose memory the Hotel Des Invalides in Paris was erected have long since passed from the earth, but the splendid memorial still stands and will for generations to come. A reconstructed and prosperous south is the American Des Invalides. It is more significant than The Lincoln memorial or Grant's tomb.

Let not the tender memories of May 30 allow us to underestimate some other great national events that transpired in the last part of the month of May. Today it is no more than a little incident that on May 28, 1778 the battle of Monmouth, N. J., was fought, and some battle it was if the historians can be relied upon. It was this battle that caused General Charles Lee to be court martialed and relieved of his command. It marks one of the darkest hours of the American revolution, because in point of time it is closely joined to Valley Forge. In more modern times on the same day of the month in the year 1919 the treaty of Versailles was signed which was the closing act of the World war. Possibly this may account for the readiness with which the boys of the World war entered so feelingly into the exercises of Memorial day. Both wars were in the interest of human freedom.

These are the days in which the seaside cottage is being scrubbed up ready for occupancy in sultry August. Is there anything that better illustrates the material condition of the general run of American working men than the ownership of a little cottage on the borders of a lake or at the seashore? The automobile makes it possible for him to do the day's work at the usual place of business and spend the night with his family at the modest little summer home. What other nation within the pale of civilization makes such pleasures so largely possible? Not only does it afford a change from the ordinary humdrum of the daily life, and especially the heat of the workship in August, but gives him that physical stimulus of body that is necessary if he is to keep up at concert pitch.

Ruins of an ancient Indian communal colony near Globe, Ariz., are to be restored.

FIRST MEMORIAL DAY IN NORWICH, AS DESCRIBED IN BULLETIN OF JUNE 1, 1868

Celebration of Memorial day was first advocated by the Norwich Bulletin in its issue of April 26, 1867, as follows:

Our Martyrs' Graves

Today is set aside throughout the south as a "Memorial day," upon which the graves of rebel soldiers are to be repaired and decorated. If the graves of those who died in a vain attempt to destroy this union are thus carefully protected and beautified, should not the resting places of those boys who died to preserve it have, at least, the same care? It seems as if in the whirl of the present we are too apt to forget that to them we are indebted for the fact that we have a nationality. If we cannot have a soldier's monument here, which many of the smaller towns and villages in the states have already provided for their fallen heroes, must we neglect the too-often unmarked graves of our brave dead?

The city evidently took this appeal to heart, for the first celebration of Memorial day in Norwich, took place the following year. The event is thus reported in the Bulletin of June 1, 1868:

Decoration of the Graves of Deceased Soldiers

The ceremony of decorating with flowers the graves of deceased soldiers in this vicinity, took place, in compliance with the recommendation of General John Logan, commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, under the conduct of Sedgwick post, No. 1, of this city, on Saturday afternoon. The arrangements made for the observance of the occasion were excellent in eevry respect, and but for the rain, the display woud have been one of the finest that has ever taken place in this city.

The response to the call made on the citizens for flowers was liberal. From ten o'clock in the forenoon until the procession moved, bouquets and wreaths were sent in, in some cases with the name of the soldier for whose grave they were designed, but generally, to be placed with the other contributions. N. S. Gilbert and Huntington & Lawrie, furniture dealers, kindly placed their handsome new wagons at the disposal of the committee on which to carry flowers. A frame work was affixed to the top of each wagon on which the flowers were neatly arranged, in pleasing contrast with the bright colors of the wagons themselves and the flags with which they were adorned.

The members of Sedgwick post assembled at the hall at an early hour. Each wore a badge with the name of the post, location, etc., printed on it, and white gloves. At the hour announced for the procession to move, the post marched to its place in the column.

The Norwich light infantry, Capt. Smith, marched to the hall from the armory and took the position assigned it. The mayor, aldermen, and common council met at the council chamber at half past one o'clock and proceeded from there in carriages, joining the procession on Church street. The procession moved shortly after two o'clock in the following order:

Band
Co. B, 3d Regiment, Capt. Smith, 60 men
Post Commander
Senior and Junior Vice Commanders
Officer of the Day
Relief Committee
Color Bearer
Sedgwick Post No. 1, of Norwich, 60 men
Wagon with flowers
Special Committee
Soldiers who are not members of the Order
Mayor of the City
Aldermen
Common Council
Citizens
Carriages

The line of march was from Church street to Washington, up Washington to Sachem, up Sachem to Yantic, and up Yantic to Yantic cemetery. The sidewalks for a long distance up Washington street were lined with spectators, and at every residence people were gathered to see the display. At the residences of Col. C. A. Converse and Henry B. Norton on Washington street, the stars and stripes were exhibited. As the train turned up Sachem street a brisk shower came on and continued for some minutes.

On arriving at the cemetery the military were drawn up in line while the procession passed through the gate, when the line was broken, the members of the post forming two abreast and holding flowers. At each grave the name of the soldier was given with the company, regiment, date and place of death, where they had been furnished, and the grave was then decorated, the comrades uncovering their heads as they deposited the flowers. Considerable time was consumed here, from the number of graves to be decorated, but the ceremonies were very solemn and impressive, and the large crowd watched the proceedings with deep interest.

On their conclusion the line was formed again and moved from the cemetery through Williams avenue to Broadway, down Broadway to Broad street, thence down Franklin street to Oak, and up Oak to the gate of the old cemetery. Here there was another crowd, and the same order of procession with regard to scattering flowers was observed.

From the old cemetery the procession moved up Oak street and thence through Cliff street and up the Greeneville road to High and First streets and thence to the cemetery at Greeneville. In the meantime a detachment had been sent to the Preston side of the river near the iron bridge, to deck the grave of James E. Benjamin, of Company D, 18th Connecticut regiment. Two graves were pointed out here which had not been placed on the list, and they also were visited. The detachment then joined the main body.

As the procession entered the Greeneville cemetery 'America' was sung by a company of ladies and gentlemen. The graves of the soldiers buried here were strewn, and the line of march was taken up for the Catholic cemetery. On completing the decorations here the procession was dismissed and the various bodies composing it returned to the city, arriving at about six o'clock.

From the time the line was formed on Church street until it was dismissed there was nothing to mar the solemnity of the occasion. The march through the streets was very disagreeable; the mud in some places was several inches in depth, yet the men bore it without a murmur. The band of the Third regiment, which was in position at the head of the column, played finely. It was understood at first that the Norwich Light Infantry would not turn out if it rained, they having voted to go as a body in case the day should be pleasant, but, notwithstanding, they made their appearance on time and aided materially in carrying out the programme laid down. The city authorities, also, are entitled to credit for the spirit they have manifested throughout.

The wish was frequently uttered that a day might be set apart in every year for the performance of a similar ceremony, and thus keep fresh and green the memory of the brave men who gave up their lives for the country's sake. That their heroic sacrifices have not been forgotten this action of those who stood up with them in the heat of battle, and of those whose sympathies and prayers were with them during the struggle, fully proves. It was a tribute from warm, loving hearts to the memory of brave men. Its repetition could not fail to impress us with a sense of the gratitude we owe them.

It is reported that the graves of one or two soldiers were not decorated with the colors. If this is true it is to be regretted. The list of names of deceased soldiers buried in this vicinity was made as complete as possible and the relatives and friends of each were requested to furnish such information as they could. Except where friends made special provision honors were bestowed on all alike, so far as the knoweledge of the members of the post extended.

Mayor Blackstone entertained the members of the common council and other past and present city officials with a supper at the Wauregan house on Saturday evening. The arrangements were complete in every respect, and the table, which was handsomely ornamented with bouquets of choice flowers, was spread with the components of a feast fit for an epicure. Complimentary and humorous speeches, with genial conversation, added to the pleasure of the occasion, and the company separated with expressions of hearty good will for the host.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

City Administration And Political Shades

Mr. Editor:— With utter disregard for whatever the bounds of political expediency or policy might demand under the circumstances, I beg your permission for the use of a small space in your paper to express my reaction to an article appearing in your publication of May 28 under the heading of "Present Administration Makes Fine Record in Handling City's Finances." I am positive that Mr. Robbins, our present mayor, was not the author or advocate of this article, and I hope that the day will never come when I, in seeking any office, no matter how high that office may be, will find it necessary to resort to a criticism of highly respected and efficient officials who are no longer in a position to defend themselves.

The history of the administrations of the past 25 years has been briefly summarized in an "overdraft epitome" which casts its reflection on the dead as well as the living. The accomplishments and attainments of Charles F. Thayer, Costello Lippitt, and Jeremiah J. Desmond are apparently forgotten, and we are reminded of the fact that during the respective periods of each of them as mayor of the city of Norwich overdrafts were necessary to carry on their work. They are no longer able to rise in defense of the policies which marked their administrations, and the writer of your article does not even suggest that overdrafts during these administrations may have been due to the fact that their regimes were marked by constructive and progressive policies and accomplishments. The other past officials mentioned in your article are, still among the living, and are in a position to defend themselves, and, their administration if they should feel that the challenge is deserving of a recognition. The consistency of overdrafts over so long a period of time is sufficient evidence in itself to convince any thinking person that they must have been inevitable. Certainly my republican friends would not belittle the efficiency and accomplishments of Allyn L. Brown and Herbert M. Lerou, the administration of either of whom might well be taken as a model by any successor to that office.

"I have asked myself the question: Why were there no overdrafts during the present administration? You have preached economy, but let us consider the question further. Much praise has been given because of the fact that some $13,000 has been turned back as a "saving" on the installation of the North Main street pavement which was laid from 33 North Main street to Central avenue. Upon the estimate made by the city engineer an appropriation of $50,000 was obtained for this work and only $37,000 was expended. In referring to the Council Journal for 1927-1928 at page 449, under date of May 21, 1928, I find upon the estimate of this very same city engineer the democratic administration asked for an appropriation of $32,000 for this very same work of laying a concrete pavement from 33 North Main street to Central avenue. Certainly the lapse of two years does not explain the $18,000 increase in the amount of this appropriation when the work was to be done under a republican administration. I also call attention to an item contained in the list of extras set forth for next year. You will note that No. 5 of that list is entitled "Asylum Street Improvement, from Starr to Newton Streets," and the appropriation asked for is $30,000. In the Council Journal for the year 1927-1928 at page 449, under a democratic administration, you will find the following appropriation asked for for this very same work, it being listed as item 11: Asylum street, tar bound macadam, Newton to Starr streets, $19,500. Why is the existence of this margin of $10,500 where the estimate was made for a republican administration? Are they planning next year in showing a $10,000 'saving' on the Asylum street work? Under no condition should the return of the balance representing nothing but the amount of the excess of appropriation be listed under the name of a "saving." Overdrafts should never again be necessary provided one could always rely on there being such excessive appropriations based on inflated estimates.

Our present administration boasts of saving some $45,000 during the past year. This "saving" was accomplished on a 13 mill tax on a grand list of $36,035,256. Yet for the coming year on an increased grand list of $36,134,928 they find it necessary to recommend an increase in the tax rate of 13 3-5 mills. I find no explanation of the increased tax rate when a saving this year was accomplished with a lower rate and on a lower grand list. If there is an answer I sincerely trust that it will be in the form of a hope for accomplishment rather than in the guise of a promise of a paper display of saving.

Diarrhea

By Horace Soper, M. D. St. Louis, Mo.
(From Gorgas Memorial Institute)

Diarrhea is particularly prevalent during the summer months, and this article considers the prevention and treatment of simple acute diarrhea in adults. The cause can usually be traced to eating foods so difficult of digestion that the intestines are irritated, such as green apples and other unripe fruits, or to infected foods. For example, raw vegetables such as lettuce, celery, radishes, green onions, etc., may carry disease germs. Some years ago an epidemic of tropical dysentery among workers in the celery fields was found to be caused by the manure which adhered to the roots. They were in the habit of eating the celery just as it came from the ground. All raw vegetables should be scrubbed in cold water, which in most cases cleans them sufficiently.

Milk contains a multitude of disease germs. This is true of your best certified dairy product. Milk is a natural culture medium and may be contaminated by dust in the air. We have traced epidemics of dysentery to the milk supply. The only absolute protection is to boil all milk for five minutes.

Foods left over, particularly if exposed to the air or to flies, are a frequent source of intestinal infection. Yet people often eat custards, ices and other dairy products that have been prepared days or weeks before they reach the consumer.

A few simple rules suffice for the home treatment of simple diarrhea. The diet should be restricted to tea and toast. Ice cold drinks are avoided. A good dose of castor oil should be taken at once. If there is griping pain or vomiting the attack is not a simple diarrhea but something more serious and instead of employing home remedies you should seek medical advice.

For several days after an attack of diarrhea care should be taken to avoid all raw foods. The bowels may not act for one or two days after the diarrhea has subsided and one should not take a purgative of any kind during this time for fear of irritating the bowel. In the event of a recurrence of the diarrhea with or without pain a physician should be consulted.

If these simple rules are not followed chronic diarrhea may result, which is always serious and calls for treatment by physicians especially trained in internal medicine.

SUNDAY MORNING TALK

Courage

Courage has put the world deeply in its debt. Were the vast multitude of mankind left to themselves, they would be slaves, for the few only are courageous, but courage has led them to liberty. Three brave men, confederated by a solemn oath, so wrought upon the minds of the Swiss, and so influenced them by their contagious courage, that they humbled the pride of their oppressors, and established the little mountain republic. The courage of the men called "Beggars of the Sea" made Philip II turn pale and established the liberties of Holland. The courage of Moses, Paul and Peter has done much for the world. The voices of departed heroes, in deep-toned concert, swell the sublime paean. The same is true of courage in the matter of opinion. Be brave enough to have an opinion of your own, and to express it. We cannot respect a person lacking courage to express their opinion. Be courageous at home, abroad or wherever you may be. There is no such word as fail with true courage. It compels us always to stand for the right, no matter what the cost, knowing that the Saviour will be with and help us at all times. There is a true satisfaction and pleasure for the one with true courage never felt by the one lacking this noble trait. We need courage every day and at all times, even in the every day events of life and if we have courage for the every day problems, we will have courage to meet the great crisis of life. We will have courage to stand for the right, even when it may seem hard.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORY

Carol Is Clever

'Tis strange, but true, as you'll agree,
The obvious is hard to see.
—Carol the Meadow Lark.

Carol the Meadow Lark is one of the feathered folk who believes that trees are simply to sit in once in a while. He and Mrs. Meadow Lark love the Green Meadows. They want to be out in the open. You'll never find them in the Golden Forest. Once in a great while Carol will visit the Old Orchard, but he never stays there long. Once in a while he will visit the Old Pasture. He prefers, however, the Green Meadows.

He is rather a handsome fellow, is Carol the Meadow Lark. His yellow waistcoat trimmed with black is very handsome. And how he does love to sing, especially in the spring. There is no song more springlike than that of Carol the Meadow Lark. Now, loving the Green Meadows as Carol and Mrs. Meadow Lark do, it is natural that they should build their nest there, and this is just what they do. The build it on the ground.

"It is the safest place," declared Carol to Peter Rabbit one time. "Yes, sir, it is the safest place—if only you take care to hide it properly. Nests that are in trees and bushes can be found more easily, because those who are seeking them know just where to look. But just look across the Green Meadows, Peter Rabbit. My nest may be anywhere. How is any one going to even guess where to look for it?"

"By watching you," replied Peter. "By watching you or Mrs. Meadow Lark."

Carol chuckled. "That is what I want people to do," replied Carol. "The more they watch me, the less likely they are to find that nest."

So it was that, unknown to Danny Meadow Mouse, Carol was having a lot of fun leading Danny astray. He knew Danny well enough to know that Danny wouldn't be above stealing some of those eggs if he had a chance. So Carol was too clever to ever go directly to the nest, or ever to fly directly from it. As a matter of fact, the place where Danny saw him drop down into the grass so often was in quite the opposite direction from where the nest was. Carol was simply misleading Danny and having a lot of fun doing it.

"That little scamp thinks he's smart," thought Carol. "Yes, sir, he thinks he's smart. He has been doing a lot of work for nothing. Perhaps it wasn't altogether for nothing, for I suppose he ate a lot of the grass as he cut it. But he won't get any eggs; and he won't find out where my nest is."

Meanwhile, Mrs. Meadow Lark was comfortably sitting on five beautiful white eggs spotted with brown. She was very proud of those eggs. As she sat there and listened to Carol singing to her, she was very happy. So far, no one had found that nest. Not once had she had to spring from it in fright. She knew nothing about Danny Meadow Mouse. Carol hadn't told her about him. He didn't want her to worry. Of course, he didn't think there was any cause to worry, but it might make Mrs. Meadow Lark anxious to know that some one was actually looking for her nest. So Carol continued to fool Danny Meadow Mouse; and Danny continued to be fooled.

At last, however, Danny began to suspect that there was something wrong. He was beginning to grow weary of looking for something he couldn't find. He hadn't told Nanny Meadow Mouse about it. He had wanted to find that nest all himself. Then came a morning when on his way back, Reddy Fox almost caught Danny. It was just pure good luck that enabled Danny to escape. Then and there he decided that he was no longer interested in the nest of Carol the Meadow Lark. Eggs would be nice, but they were not necessary.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, May 30—With an adverse majority of something like a quarter of a million votes rolled up in Pennsylvania against his further senatorial ambitions, the question arises as to whether "Ol' Joe" Grundy would not move his line of "backward states" over toward the east coast.

Certainly Pennsylvania was very backward about coming forward with votes for him.

The Bystander feels he is entitled to something like an "I-told-you-so" attitude in connection with the outcome of the Jimmy Davis-Joe Grundy clash.

He was satisfied after watching the labor secretary in Washington for quite a number of years that he would disclose a remarkable ability as a vote getter.

While his previous experience in that line, politically speaking, has been limited, his fraternal order activities and successes made it clear that he had a touch of political "it," of vote appeal, so to say.

Real Campaigner

And now that he has rolled under in so decisive fashion, the old master of Pennsylvania politics, who more or less aspired to the role once played so strikingly by the late Boies Penrose, who can doubt the campaigning abilities of Secretary Davis?

It seems reasonable to assume that the Davis fraternal and labor contacts had a lot to do with the outcome, probably much more than the tariff or anti-Grundyism.

At any rate, the Bystander cannot recall that many of the Pennsylvania political prognosticators in Washington were willing to concede Secretary Jimmy more than an outside chance before the votes began to roll in.

He certainly has surprised 'em and they will be busy for weeks cooking up explanations.

The Davis success has its odd aspects from an administration point of view. It was generally conceded that President Hoover kept his former cabinet colleague on the job after he took over the white house only because of the difficulty of finding a successor.

So Secretary Davis has by no means occupied the enviable position that his fellow Pennsylvanian, Uncle Andy Mellon, did.

He was regarded as just a carry-over from the Harding and Coolidge regimes.

His Stock Soars

But now, with a whacking primary victory to back him up and a possible—some say almost certain—senate career ahead of him, Davis stock has gone up in Washington.

Quite likely, if he does win in November, his will prove a definite transfer to the actual vote getting field of politics.

But for his foreign birth, Secretary Jimmy might now be harboring vice-presidential nomination dreams. Such a smashing victory as his is apt to promote all sorts of ambitions in the victor.

He'll be worth watching if he gets into the senate.

A HISTORY OF CONNECTICUT INDUSTRY

Released by Manufacturers Association of Connecticut.

The Stamford Foundry Company, Stamford.

The business of The Stamford Foundry company was established by George E. Waring about the year 1830. January 1, 1846, Isaac Wardwell, James B. Scofield and Jonathan M. Hall became associated as partners of Mr. Waring in the business.

Later Jonathan M. Hall sold his interest to Joseph D. Warren who succeeded him in the firm. George E. Waring retired from the firm in 1849.

In anticipation of, and to avoid the consequences of the death of James B. Scofield, the business was incorporated in 1869 as The Stamford Foundry company.

The first president of the company was Joseph D. Warren, who continued to be president until his death on April 3, 1900. He was succeeded by his grandson, Henry J. Warren, who died September 10, 1926. The business of the company, stoves, ranges and furnaces, for burning coal, wood, oil or gas, under the trade names Stamford and Shipmate, has expanded until the sales extend to the limits of this country, to South America, Philippine Islands, West Indies, and many other countries.

Gas ranges, of which this company has a very large line, have materially reduced the use of coal ranges. The use of gas has extended to vessels.

The present president came to the company as bookkeeper in 1886; the present secretary as shipping clerk in 1890.

The present officers are: Wm. T. Andrews, president; Claison S. Wardwel, vice president; William Warner, secretary; Wm. T. Andrews, treasurer.

When the neighbors wonder "How does he get that 'weigh.'" Mother merely mentions "A quart of milk a day."

Pure milk, perfectly pasteurized and delivered in sterilized bottles, is what we offer you.

First Communion Class.

There was a large congregation at St. Patrick's church Friday at 5 o'clock when a class of 127 children—57 girls and 70 boys—received first holy communion from the rector, Rt. Rev. Msgr. M. H. May. The class was in charge of three altar boys, Malcolm McKeag, John Shugrue and James Dennis. The junior choir sang the hymns, accompanied by Organist Henry J. LaFontaine. All the children wore white for the eventful ceremony.

Flags in Poquetanuck Cemetery.

On the morning of Memorial day, after a prayer, a committee of the Poquetanuck Parent-Teacher association, placed flags on the graves of soldiers in the Poquetanuck cemetery where such had not already been placed. The committee was composed of Mrs. John H. Taylor, Mr. William H. McKelvey and the Rev. Thomas H. M. Ockford.

Northern Lights.

There was a brilliant display of the aurora borealis, or northern lights, after midnight Friday, which probably accounted for the sudden drop in temperature through the night.

Dependable Treatment for Constipation

Millions of people have welcomed a new discovery of modern science that assures a safe dependable treatment for constipation. It is no longer necessary to shift laxatives or to suffer irregular, uncomfortable bowel action.

Science now knows that the success of any laxative depends on uniform internal distribution—that unless it is thoroughly and evenly distributed throughout the intestinal tract irregular and unsatisfactory action will result.

This explains the success of the modern chewing gum laxative known as Feen-a-mint. As you chew this delicious gum, the tasteless laxative it contains is mixed with the saliva and carried to the intestinal tract evenly, smoothly, without shock to the system.

Because of is thorough distribution, you will find Feen-a-mint effective in milder doses than ordinary laxatives. With the proper dosage it is not necessary to increase the amount of Feen-a-mint you take nor to switch to another laxative for a change. Feen-a-mint is harmless and contains no habit-forming drugs. Truly the health laxative. Ask for a package at any drug store.—Adv.

Willard Jackson Hull

After a long period of failing health, Willard Jackson Hull passed to the higher life Friday from his home on Salem road.

He was born in Buffalo, N. Y., May 27, 1854, the son of the late Willard J. and Lucy Mosier Hull.

He was left an orphan at the age of 13, his school life ended, and work his portion. But being of a studious nature, and possessed of a wonderful memory, he read and made his own the best thoughts of the best minds of all ages, thus acquiring an education such as few possess.

In his young manhood he became interested in the philosophy of Modern Spiritualism, accepted its teachings, gave up his position as a train despatcher on the Erie railroad, and for years wrote and lectured on that subject, also being editor and publisher of The Light of Truth in Chicago for many years.

Always the knowledge he had of the close inter-communion between him and those in the unseen was a part of his very being, but as time passed on he grew to realize that the truths of this philosophy were universal, not set apart for a certain few, that the teachings of Christ in their utter simplicity absorbed and assimilated all else, and that life and love were continuous. His was a nature reserved, but to his close friends, of whom he had many, one of great tenderness and beauty.

He was twice married, and leaves three children, an invalid daughter, Mrs. Walter O. Pontius, of Columbus, Ohio, Mrs. J. J. Edward, of Pasadena, Cal., and Mrs. D. M. Logsdon, of Gilroy, Cal., one grandson and a great-grandchild.

NATION'S SOLDIER DEAD HONORED IN EXERCISES FOR MEMORIAL DAY

Eight of the nine surviving members of Sedgwick post, No. 1, Grand Army of the Republic, participated here Friday in the parade and exercises for the celebration of Memorial day, with the same unquenchable spirit that they showed on the field of action from '61 to '65.

Side by side with Commander George C. Crocker of Sedgwick post in the celebration of the day were John Curran, John Service, George F. Tillinghast, George Parkinson, Edward G. Willey and Frank Clark. Joseph T. Mitchell, another Sedgwick post member, viewed the parade from an automobile with members of his family, and George V. Shedd, who resides at Preston City, took part in the celebration there.

The citizens made a generous display of flags in recognition of the day and turned out in large crowds to line the sidewalks as the parade went by and to attend the exercises at the soldiers' monument at Chelsea Parade.

Parade in the Morning

The parade was given in the morning, starting at 10 o'clock from Burnham square, when Capt. Charles Colt, marshal for the day, gave the word that set the line in motion and led the line with his aides, Capt. W. G. Tarbox and W. G. McKean.

After the marshal came the police squad, under command of Sergt. John Casey, and consisting of Officers Quinn, Gendron, McAvoy, T. Driscoll, Fenton, Farrell, P. Driscoll, Pounch, Gwiazdowski and Calkins.

Swahn's full military band furnished inspiring music at the head of the line and after them marched the two local companies of the 192nd Field Artillery, and the members of Major R. S. Griswold command, United Spanish War Veterans.

The Rotary Boys' band made its first public appearance, consisting of 41 members wearing attractive uniforms in the Rotary colors of blue and gold in capes and caps, with white trousers and white shirts. They played for the detachment of R. O. Fletcher post, No. 4, American Legion, which was followed by the Legion auxiliary in their blue-cape uniforms, and after them came Richard Hourigan post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, with three members of the auxiliary carrying the colors.

Spirited music was rendered by the drum corps of the Boy Scouts of St. Patrick's church, who were led by a diminutive drum major twirling a baton in professional style. They supplied the music for the fine-looking troops of uniformed Boy Scouts and Cubs, who had 208 in line, the Cubs all carrying small American flags.

After them came the detachment of Girl Scouts, 60 in all, in their attractive green uniforms, and these were followed by the automobiles containing the post members, Gold Star mothers, members of Sedgwick Woman's Relief corps, members of the American Legion auxiliary and the city and town officials.

As the line moved along Main street the automobile division fell in at the Buckingham Memorial, where the Sedgwick post men had gathered and at the New Haven railroad station plaza where the automobiles for the city and town officials lined up.

Each organization in the parade carried the American flag with its own special flag, and the sidewalk flags waved greeting to the gray-haired veterans and the marching columns.

Sunshine for Exercises

The parade proceeded by the usual route up Washington street till Chelsea Parade was reached where the veterans and city and town officials took their places on the stand at the Soldiers' monument for the programme of exercises, which were favored by good weather, with the sun coming out from behind the clouds to brighten the scene.

Memorial Address

Rev. Mr. Foster spoke as follows in his memorial address:

We are indeed grateful to the comrades of the Grand Army for instituting the observance of Memorial day; a day, not for sports nor for partisanship; not for bitterness and rancor nor the glorification of war but rather for the message of reconciliation, forgiveness and fraternity; so, through the changes of 60 years and more, these blue coated veterans have led in the annual observance when men who have stood the shock of battle join with citizens and school children of tender years in strewing flowers on the graves of the nation's patriotic dead.

The official order of General Logan in 1868 directing the observance implies the story of the response of the call to arms; the strife and anguish of the battlefield and the welcome home for the troops after the conflict.

Those of a later day see in historic perspective the two-fold objective of that war, the destruction of chattel slavery and the preservation of the federal union. Men of vision saw the objective in their own day and were ready to sacrifice in battle that the age-long evil of slavery might be removed and that the federal union of sovereign states, championed by Jackson and by Webster, as the greatest experiment in the history of representative democracy in all history might be preserved. That was the call of the higher patriotism to which the men of that generation made so generous a response.

In the thought of the reformer with the evil of slavery has been the age-long evil and curse of liquor; if drunkenness were a reproach and an economic waste in the days of the simple life, it is a two-fold social menace in a day when we are engrossed in the operation of high powered and intricate machinery. The citizens of this generation have pronounced a judgement on the legalized liquor traffic and that judgment will stand as the expression of a sober and law respecting people.

This generation is also keenly interested in another significant issue which transcends party lines and is suggested this day by the presence of boys in khaki who were safely ferried over seas 2,000,000 of them—to combat the brazen defiance of Prussian militarism in the World war. It is the policy of increased cooperation with other nations; it is the application of the American principle a federal union of sovereign states; in Lincoln's day, made to include the states spanning a continent and races as diverse as the white and the black and in our day, when science has made the world as one great neighborhood, to be applied to the advantage of international understanding and world peace. Unless this be done, the boys whose bodies lie beneath the poppies in Flanders Field shall have sacrificed in vain.

Tennyson, with prophetic vision of the 19th century, forecast the complexities of our day when he wrote of "the nations' airy navies grappling in the central blue, till the war drum throbbed no longer and the battle flags were furled in the parliament of man—the federation of the world." Let the London naval conference treaty, now pending, be ratified, or America stands apologetic before the other nations. How fittingly these words of Comrade Hosmer express the ideal which yet lures us on: "And Thou, O, my country, from many made one; Last born of the nations, at morning thy sun Arise to the place thou wast given to fill, And lead in the world triumph of peace and good will."

Dinner At Buckingham Memorial.

At the conclusion of the exercises, the parade marched back down along Broadway and the Sedgwick post members, Spanish War Veterans, and the special guests returned to the Buckingham Memorial, where the women of Sedgwick Relief corps took their special part in the day in supplying the dinner, which they do each year as a loving service to the old soldiers.

When the dinner call sounded, the guests marched in to the tables between the four color bearers, Rev. C. H. Ricketts asked the blessing and the dinner was served under direction of the executive committee, Mrs. Florence Dean chairman.

The menu was one of the best ever served at the Memorial day dinners and included roast beef, mashed potatoes with gravy, string beans, chicken salad, cabbage salad, apple pie with cheese, and coffee, topped off with Duwell cigars.

Ex-Mayor Waters Present.

At the conclusion of the meal, Arthur L. Peale of the Sons of Veterans acted as toastmaster in an informal way. Commander Crocker spoke briefly of the significance of the day and a rising expression of greeting was given to Ex-Mayor Milo R. Waters, Spanish War veteran, who was a guest having come here from the Soldiers' home at Noroton. Upon motion by Capt. Colt a vote of thanks, which was hearty and unanimous, was passed to the Sedgwick Relief corps women for the excellent dinner.

MEMORIAL TREES DEDICATED AT ELIZABETH ST. SCHOOL

In the presence of many interested spectators an impressive dedication ceremony was conducted Memorial day on the grounds of Elizabeth street school, where five trees had been planted and five bronze tablets were unveiled Friday morning in memory of five heroic graduates of the school who sleep among the immortals and are enrolled on the sacred banner roll of democracy.

The ceremony was in charge of George Gifford, president of the West End Community association which won the $200 bag of gold offered by the Red Arrow club and devoted the bulk of these funds to planting the fine maple trees and preparation of the bronze tablets in honor of the five graduates—Sigmund Siegel, Leroy A. Swann, Charles W. Willey, Israel A. Cohen and James H. H. Perrin.

Walter F. Lester, president of the town school board, made the opening address and accepted the trees on behalf of the school board, giving official sanction to the ceremony and praising the work of the West End Community association.

The first tree was planted in memory of Sigmund Siegel, class of 1905, who was drowned August 1, 1922, and was awarded the Carnegie hero medal. The tablet was unveiled by Charles Barker, acting for Max Hanover, who has gone to Long Island, near New York, for a period of recuperation.

Rev. Percy A. Kilmister, pastor of West End Baptist church, made a most appealing address in unveiling the tablet in honor of Leroy A. Swan, class of 1909, killed in service June 19, 1918.

J. B. Stanton, principal of the Elizabeth street school, spoke feelingly of all the boys who received training under his supervision and unveiled the tablet for Charles W. Willey, class of 1905, lost at sea, October 4, 1918, in service for his country.

Rabbi Joseph N. Rosenberg made appropriate remarks in dedicating the tree and unveiling the tablet in memory of Israel A. Cohen, class of 1912, U. S. Marine corps, killed in action on October 3, 1918.

Owing to the absence of Rev. Mr. Harris, of Hartford, Rev. Mr. Kilmister paid a high tribute to James H. H. Perrin, class of 1904, who died in the service on September 25, 1918, in whose honor the fifth tablet was unveiled.

A detachment of Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts was in attendance and a bugler sounded "Taps" after the ceremony at each tree.

The committee in charge was: George Gifford, chairman, Miss Nina Perry, Charles W. Parsons and Fred Geer.

NORWICH MAN'S MACHINE IN SIX-CAR CRASH

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, May 30.—Six cars were involved in a spectacular accident on Main street, opposite Winter street, shortly after 11:30 o'clock tonight. Five of the cars were parked on the north side of Main street, while the drivers and parties were at a gathering of friends in the neighborhood. The machine that was involved in motion was a Nash sedan operated by Ignatius Straub, 21, of 163 High street, Norwich, who was notified by Officer Monty to appear in police court Saturday morning on a charge of reckless driving. Two passengers in Straub's car, Vic Darr, well known Norwich prize fighter, and Stanley Camarack, also of Norwich, were injured. Both went to St. Joseph's hospital, Darr being rushed to the institution by Winslow McIntyre of this city. Two stitches were required to close a sharp gash across the forehead. Other cuts were of a minor nature. He was attended by Dr. F. E. Wilcox. Camarack left the hospital before receiving treatment. Straub, who had been attending a dance at Lakeside Casino, South Coventry, previously in the evening, was headed westerly on Main street. His machine first ripped part of the running board from a Buick touring car owned by Conrad Dessureaseaux of 241 Main street, this city. It then sideswiped a Ford sedan owned by George Langlois of Montville, denting the left front fender and pulling off the hubcap. The next machine to be involved was an Overland touring car owned by Arthur Camire of Uncasville. The entire front end of this machine was badly damaged, both wheels and front axle being ripped from underneath the body. Straub's car then made a sharp right turn into the curbing and in doing so struck the left rear of an Oakland roadster, also parked in line, and owned by Rosaire Lefebvre of Limerick, Me., badly damaging that section of the car. The Oakland in turn was propelled forward into the rear of an Auburn sedan owned by Rene Becotte of Uncasville, puncturing the gas tank and spare tire on the stand. The roadster suffered considerable additional damage to its front end as the result of this second impact. The three more badly damaged machines were hauled away by Leonard Bros. wrecker, this including the Nash sedan, the front end of which was badly damaged.

SALVAGED MILLIONS OF YELLOW PERCH EGGS

Salvage work during the spawning season, conducted by agents of the state board of fisheries and game along the Connecticut river, has resulted thus far this year in the saving of 60,300,000 yellow perch eggs, which were incubated until ready to hatch and then distributed in 299 lakes and ponds on the state. The eggs, for the most part, were gathered from trees and bushes, where they were left suspended as the water receded after periods of high water.

Special work has also been done in taking adult fish from municipal reservoirs and distributing them in waters open to public fishing. More than 11,000 such fish were netted, including pickerel, perch, bass and bullheads, and transplanted in 27 ponds of the state. In addition to these 91,000 shiners were purchased and transferred to public waters.

The eggs saved this year were several millions less than in 1929, when 65,880,000 fry were gathered. This year's crop was far ahead of 1926; however, when only 33,850,000 were saved. In 1927, the number was 61,650,000. This work of conservation has been carried on by the state board since 1923, and has resulted in a tremendous increase in mature perch now inhabiting Connecticut ponds.

Transplanting adult fishes takes from public water supplies has been carried on also for a number of years. Since 1927, a total of 925,279 fishes have been transferred, including about 422,000 bullheads and shiners bought to stock lakes and ponds which had been depleted. In the work this year, there were netted 1,370 pickerel, 6,200 yellow perch, 1,988 white perch, 55 black bass, 164 calico bass and 1,842 bullheads.

New suits in the superior court, which are returnable in June, have been filed this week with Clerk John H. Walker as follows:

Damages of $50,000 are asked by Otis M. Townsend of Ocean City, N. J., from Thomas Enders of Stonington on the common counts.

Richard P. J. Raymond and Donald Gregson, doing business as the Gregson Cleaning and Dyeing Co. of Norwich, are made the defendants in a $5,000 damage suit brought by Maurice W. Killeen of Montville, who alleges personal injuries as the result of an automobile collision on Main street, East Side, Jan. 21, 1930, involving a car in which the plaintiff was riding and one owned by the defendants.

As a result of the collision, Killeen alleges that he sustained a fractured left arm, suffered a severe shock both mental and physical, great pain and suffering, was confined to the hospital for a month, was obliged to expend moneys on medicines, medical attendance and nursing and has been and still is unable to work at his employment of learning the bleaching trade, at which he earned $20 a week and he has lost, through his injury, his opportunity to learn the trade of bleaching.

Foreclosure of property located at 534 East Main street, this city, is sought in a foreclosure action brought in the superior court by the Thames Bank and Trust Co., of this city against Ella F. Lane and Harriet A. Harris, both of this city. The bank alleges that they are now the holders of a $3,200 note given by Mrs. Lane which note was secured by a mortgage of the premises mentioned. Foreclosure of the property known as 110 Parkway, New London, is sought by Albert C. Norman of New London against the National Bank of Commerce of New London as administrator of the estate of Francis J. Reilly, late of New London, and others.

Reilly is alleged to have given to Harry Hellar on Sept. 7, 1927, his note for $5,500 secured by a mortgage on the property mentioned. The note was assigned to Norman and the sum of $5,173.62 is alleged to be due. The Savings Bank of New London claims to have a $10,000 mortgage on the premises which also has other encumbrances.

George C. Butts of Norwich, individually and as guardian of the estates of his minor children, George C. Butts, Jr., and Dorothea Butts, both of Norwich; Frederick W. Fratus of Norwich, administrator of the estate of Adeline R. H. Butts, late of Norwich, Leviat S. Knoek of Hartford; Bruce Bradbury of Old Lyme; the General Roofing Co., of New London, and John Kimball of New York, are made party defendants to a foreclosure action brought by the Savings Bank of New London. GUS MOORE SHOWS HEELS TO FAST FIELD TO WIN NATIONAL 10-MILE A. A. U. CROWN Sensational Colored Distance Star Runs Steady Race Over Soggy Track—Ottey Gives Moore Close Competition For Seven Miles and Finishes In Second Place — Rain Soaks Track to Make Going Slow—10,000 In Attendance.

Gus Moore of the Brooklyn Harriers, Brooklyn, N. Y., the national cross country champion and winner of the Metropolitan A. A. U. championship ten-mile race this year, gained another title at the Norwich fairgrounds Friday afternoon, by conquering a field of 72 starters in the National A. A. U. championship ten-mile race, staged under the auspices of the Duwell Athletic association. In winning the event, the flashy Negro runner was clocked at 55 min., 11 sec., which was regarded as exceptional time in that the runners were forced to contest over a muddy and slippery track caused from intermittent downpours of rain during the race. An estimated attendance of 10,000 persons saw the race and other features that were presented in conjunction with the national event.

The newly-crowned ten-mile champion so outclassed the field of runners that he overlapped almost every one of the contestants and many of them four or five times, and finished almost a quarter mile ahead of his nearest contestant, T. C. Ottey, of the Meadowbrook club, Philadelphia, Pa., who hung to his heels for the first seven miles and placed second. Paul Mundy of the Nativity C. C., Philadelphia, took third position, coming in about an eighth of a mile behind Ottey, while James P. Henigan of the Medford A. A., Medford, a noted runner, finishing in fourth place, and Whitey Michelsen of the Millrose A. A., Medford, in fifth, straggled in considerably in back of Mundy.

James McDade of the Millrose A. A., Brooklyn, National A. A. U. ten-mile champion in 1929 and a favorite to take the race, plowed through the mud to place in seventh position, while Clarence DeMar, winner of the Duwell race last year and a veteran marathoner, had to be satisfied with 17th position, having been beaten out by a few inches in the final lap by Fred Ward, Jr., of the Millrose A. A., New York city, who copped 16th place.

Runs Steady Race

The present champion, running at a steady and untiring gait, showed the large and rain-soaked audience that he is certainly entitled to wear the national ten-mile crown, as he has twice beaten McDade, the 1929 titleholder; in the ten-mile race at New York last Sunday and in the run here yesterday. Throughout the race Moore, who from the first was chosen as a strong favorite to cop the event, took the lead in the second lap over the one-half mile track, after displacing Michael Raimo of the Waterbury Boys' club, Waterbury, who started out at the crack of the revolver in a burst of speed, but he did not continue this pace, as he finished in 48th place.

At the finish of the third lap with the field becoming thinner, the Negro flash gave way to J. Errol Vaughn of the Shepard A. C. of New York city, but thereafter he was never headed, and finished by a wide margin. Throughout the first 14 laps Ottey, who came in second, clug to the heels of the champion, who appeared to like his company, making a good pacesetter. After the 14th round Ottey began to feel the terrific pace set by Moore and from then on gradually slipped behind to finish a good quarter of a mile in the rear.

Instead of weakening in the final stanzas, after leaving Ottey in the lurch, the Negro flash seemed to become stronger and set a terrific pace to finish in a burst of speed. After breaking the tape Moore was in perfect shape, was not even breathing hard, and appeared to be ready for another run of ten miles. He remarked after the race, during which he wore an almost continuous smile, that "he was not pressed very much."

While the new champion and Ottey were having a little race of their own, the remainder of the field were slipping and sliding along in the mud and water, with Mundy, Henigan, Michelsen, Vaughn and McDade battling it out for third and fourth positions. Interest in the remainder of the field, with the exception of the eastern Connecticut men, was not so strong after Ottey and Moore had forged ahead and taken a commanding lead. There was, however, considerable feeling for Clarence DeMar, veteran Melrose runner, who won last year's race staged by the Duwells. Every time that DeMar spurted by the grand stand he received a grand ovation.

Local Boys Far Back

Two local boys, John H. Keeley and Arthur Roliband, sporting the colors of the Duwell A. A., Norwich, ran a nice, strong race to finish in 46th and 58th positions, respectively. Having considerable trouble in trekking around the muddy track because of mud sticking to his shoes Keeley discard them after the heavy downpours and ran the remainder of the race barefoot. This was the clue for other runners to follow suit and several finished in that fashion. Keeley, although slight of build, put up a good exhibition, as did Roliband, and at the end of the race was in fairly good shape.

Conn. Men

James Crowe, wearing the colors of Recreation Center, Buckland, Conn., was the first Connecticut man to cross the finish line, finishing in 29th position, closely followed by Alexander M. Lawson, running unattached, of Enfield, in 32; Nicholas A. Schultz, unattached, of Oakdale, Conn., a veteran runner, in 39, and W. C. Lawson, unattached, of Warehouse Point, Conn., in 40. Malcolm Tourtellotte, unattached, of Putnam, finished in 45th place.

Wilfred Vezina and Horatio Stanton, both of Westerly, finished in this order, 34th and 38th, while Armand Bernier of Danielson was the 59th and last to be checked.

Team Prize

The team prize was taken by the Millrose A. A. of New York city, represented by Michelsen, McDade, Ward, McArthur and Prestia. Cups and trophies are awarded to the first 20 men to cross the finish line, with Moore, Ottey and Mundy, the first three to place, also receiving a gold, silver and bronze regulation National A. A. U. medal, respectively.

Battalino Among Officials

Among the galaxy of sports figures and other prominent personages in the state and elsewhere noted in the audience were Christopher (Bat) Battalino of Hartford, world's featherweight champion, State Athletic Commissioner Thomas E. Donohue of New London, His Honor Mayor Charles A. Richard of Putnam, His Honor Mayor Lee Roy Robbins, Senator Napoleon Fournier of Moosup and Senator Fox of New London, and these A. A. U. officials—Metropolitan association, Philip Keeley and Charles March, New York; Connecticut association, Thomas J. Tracy, Elmer L. Manning, William Smith, John Confrey and Francis Queal, all of New Haven, and New England association, Paul P. Bantley and William H. McVicar, both of Dorchester, Mass.

Bat Battalino was introduced to the audience just before the race by the announcer, Herbert Ferguson, of Norwich, through the medium of a modern public announcing system made possible through the courtesy of Ferguson's Radio Salon.

Saddle Race Interesting

Previous to the national run an excellent programme of running horse races were presented by several fast horses entered by riding academies and individuals in this section. The races, which included two open and a match event, were run on the two in three heat basis, but the third heat was not required in either event to decide the winner. Suitable prizes were awarded the winners.

GUS MOORE
Who Won National 10-Mile Race Here Yesterday

In the open race with four horses competing Lady Ette, driven by Miss Gladys Pendleton, easily won the event, while Blaze Worthy, ridden by Miss Lucy Culver, had little trouble in copping the match race. Gray Eagle, with Miss Culver up, romped around to an easy win in the final event. Miss Culver demonstrated that she could handle a horse in both races, putting up a fine exhibition of driving. She drove Gray Eagle to the fastest time of the day, 59 3-5. Miss Pendleton also drove nicely.

The summaries:

Open Race

Gray Eagle, (Culver)	1	1
Buddy, (Miller)	2	2
Black Jack, (Mitron)	3	3
Brown Jug, (Brown)	4	d

Time 59 3-5; 1.03.

Match Race

Blaze Worthy, (Miss Culver)	1	1
Muse, (Miller)	2	2

Time 1.01; 1.01 2-5.

Open Race

Lady Etta, (Pendleton)	1	1
Billy, (Mullins)	2	3
Moss, (Miller)	2	3
DeWar Reta Boy (Mrs. Pullen)	4	4

Time 1 3-5; 1.03.

Air Circus

An interesting feature of the day was the stunt flying given by Chief Pilot Charles F. Arnold of the Reliable Flying Service, who appeared above the field shortly before the race. He pleased the audience with a large assortment of stunts including the barrel roll, looping, immalman roll, flying upside down, deadstick landing and other fancy flips.

During the entire programme Swahn's Military band furnished a pleasing concert programme.

RACE NOTES

One of the largest crowds ever to assemble at the fairgrounds was present at the race and the accommodations for automobiles were also taxed to capacity.

The largest number ever to compete in a National A. A. U. championship race took part and it might be said that it was one of the classiest fields.

The outcome of the race was learned by millions last evening as radio stations in Atlantic City broadcast the results.

Two state policemen from the Groton barracks stationed at the entrance to the grounds kept the vehicular traffic and pedestrians on the move and there were few tie-ups.

The crowd in the track received Moore's victory with much elation, swarming around him at the finish to offer him congratulations.

John H. Keeley, who was the first Norwich boy to finish, was awarded the official American Legion medal for his efforts.

That there was a large amount of interest in the race was evidenced by the number of papers asking for special stories.

One of the A. A. U. officials at the race commented that Moore made unusually fast time in the final laps in spite of the terrible condition of the track.

The Duwell Athletic association takes this means in expressing their sincere thanks to all those who in any way assisted in putting the event over successfully.

Too many youngsters made their way to Moore after the race and had him busy several minutes, autographing slips of paper.

MOORE LEADING FIELD IN 10-MILE RACE

Winner of Event Showing Way to 72 of Country's Most Noted Runners

Mother: For heaven's sakes, Junior, will you stop running out onto that track and stand here by me and watch the race. You'll get hurt if you don't watch out.

Junior: Aw Gee, Ma, can't a feller do anything. I like to stand close to the runners, they make such funny noises when they breathe. And some of them keep talking to themselves. Why do they talk to themselves, Ma?

Mother: Why, I suppose for the same reason your father sings in the bathtub.

Junior: What's the reason?

Mother: Don't ask me, ask your father, he's the one that does the singing.

Junior: Ma, why do they have to run in these races? Who makes them run?

Mother: Nobody makes them run, they do it for pleasure. They're like all men, they'll do a lotta hard work and call it pleasure but ask 'em to wipe a few dishes and they're all tired out.

Junior: Ma, was daddy ever a runner?

Mother: Yes, Junior, when he used to come to see me before we were married. He used to run to catch the last trolley nearly every night.

Junior: He don't run now does he, Mother?

Mother: No, Junior, your father wouldn't run if he had a mainspring. The only thing about him that runs nowadays is his tongue, that runs on and on and on.

Junior: Lookit, Mother, how muddy their running suits are. Will their mothers spank them for getting their clothes muddy? Well, you spank me when I get muddy like that. Who washes their clothes, Mother?

Mother: For heaven's sake, Junior, will you keep still and watch the race and not ask so many questions.

Junior: Would you like to be a runner, Mother? I can beat any kid in my grade in school at running. Maybe I'll grow up and be a champeen runner someday. Would you be proud of me then, Mother, and come and see me run?

Mother: Of course I would.

Junior: And would I make a lotta money and go places and see things. I'd take you with me everywhere I went, would that be fun?

Mother: Yes, Junior, that would be nice. But why don't you watch the race.

Junior: Aw, Gee, Ma, I don't get much fun watching the race. I don't know who's ahead, do you?

Mother: Well I think DeMar is, he's number one, but if you don't want to see any more we'll go. Come on.

Jones Wins Way To Finals In British Golf; Will Meet Wethered

By FRANK H. KING
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland, May 30.—(AP)—Bobby Jones and Roger Wethered will play 36 holes tomorrow, over the historic St. Andrews course, for the British amateur golf championship, the only major title the American has not won.

The tall, slender Englishman and the plump, powerful Georgian have fought their way through seven gruelling matches to meet again in match play as they did as rival Walker cup team captains at Sandwich two weeks ago when Jones won, eight up and seven to play in the 36-hole match. They had met as Walker cup privates in 1922, Jones winning three and two.

In another thrilling All-American match today, Jones defeated George Voigt, one up in a battle in which he was two down at the 13th hole and had to stage a great rally to square the match and then go on to win at the home hole.

Wethered won his way to the final with a victory over Lister Hartley, two up and one to play.

In the quarter-finals in the morning, Voigt defeated the crack Artizan player, William Sutton, five up and four to play, while Jones disposed of young Eric Fiddian, four and three.

In the lower half of the draw, Wethered eliminated Henry Howell, a Welsh merchant, and Hartley defeated Douglas Grant, American living in London, after Grant, who is nearly 50 years of age, cracked at the finish.

St. Andrews golf fans who have watched the Jones campaign this week for the British title were all primed for the All-American clash between Bobby and George in the afternoon, but they hardly expected an epic duel with thrust and parry at every hole, increasing in intensity and suspense to the very last green where 6,000 wildly excited persons saw the finish.

If Jones wins tomorrow he must recall a 15-foot putt at the 17th, where with a birdie four at this treacherous 467 yard hole he gained a half when Voigt's ball was only inches from the cup.

Jones won the match at the 18th where Voigt misjudged the distance and his iron stopped in the "Valley of Sin" a deep dip in the putting surface with a steep rise to the level of the cup. Jones had made a great iron shot to the green, on the flag all the way, and he just missed a birdie three, to win the hole with a par four to Voigt's five.

Jones and Voigt maneuvered for the advantage on the outward half but neither could gain it, and they turned level, each in 37 strokes.

Then Bobby played the short "Eden" eleventh loosely and Voigt stepped out ahead for the first time in the match when George added the 13th and had a two hole lead. Bobby was playing as Britons never thought he could play. After cutting his drive and making a poor second, he banged his club against the ground in ire, but worse was still to come.

His ball for his third shot rested just before the gaping "lion's mouth" bunker. Jones then completely fluffed a mashie pitch. He saved himself a six by sending a 12-foot putt home for a five but it did him no good for Voigt holed out from six feet for a four, and was two up.

Bobby then began to play the game British fans recognize as "Jones golf." At the 537 yard fourteenth he was home with a sensational brassie and scored an easy birdie four while Voigt, with a ball out of bounds from the tee, never had a chance to keep step with him on the hole.

The 15th was halved in poor fives, each missing putts, and then Jones squared matters at the 16th when he was down in par four while Voigt, who was trapped, had to have five.

The 17th was halved in birdie fours as Jones made his great putt when Voigt seemed certain to win the hole and become dormie.

Jones' final par of the day was good enough to take the home hole and the match, when Voigt could not get his four foot putt down.

Jones outdrove Voigt on most of the holes but the New Yorker's putting touch today was much better than that displayed by the open champion of the United States.

George swung his aluminum putter to perfection until he failed to hole his final putt to keep the match alive.

Tomorrow's 36-holes battle not only will array the men who captained the 1930 Walker cup teams, but they are both former amateur champions of their countries, Wethered winning the British title in 1923. Wethered never has won the British open, but he tied for the title with Jock Hutchinson in 1921, losing on a play-off.

The summary:

Quarter-Final Round

George Voigt, New York, defeated William Sutton, Westcheshire, five up and four to play.

Robert T. Jones, Jr., Atlanta, defeated Eric W. Fiddian, Stourbridge, four and three.

Roger Wethered, London, defeated Henry Howell, Wales, four and three.

Lister Hartley, Chislehurst, defeated Douglas Grant, London and New York, one up, 19 holes

Semi-Final Round

Jones defeated Voigt, one up.

Wethered defeated Hartley, two up and one to play.

FAST CARD OF RACING HELD AT WILLIMANTIC

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, May 30.—A Decoration day crowd of over 600 people coming from all parts of the state witnessed a fast card of horse racing and exhibit of show horses at Recreation park here this afternoon. The races were conducted by the Thread City Driving club. Spirited running in all the classes and the features provided by the saddle horses, saddle ponies and a match race between running horses, served to make the show one of the best seen here in some time.

The officials were: Mayor Walter R. King, starter; James Johnson of Scotland, H. Earl DeWolfe of Norwich and A. C. Williams of Lebanon, judges.

The first race in the Class A event brought considerable local pride to the front in the victory of Preston Watts, a horse owned by the Thread City Driving club. This horse has been put through its paces here "under cover" for several weeks and gave excellent prediction today of being a real winner this season. The events, which had been arranged by Wallace G. Hill, were conducted in conformity with the following program:

Show horses—First division saddle; Kentucky Nugget (Miss Margaret Bowers, Scotland) first prize; Morgan Maybee (Miss Bowers), second; Highland Gypsy, (Miss Bowers) third.

Second division saddle: Arabian Sally (Miss Bowers), first; Black Diamond (N. S. Flagg of Willimantic), second; Morgan Perhaps (Miss Bowers) third.

HORNSBY FRACTURES ANKLE IN SLIDING TO BAG

CHICAGO, May 30—(AP)—Pennant aspirations of the championship Chicago Cubs, already lowered by the sudden death of Pitcher Hal Carlson and a hospital sized casualty list, were given another staggering blow today when Rogers Hornsby, one of the greatest natural hitters in the game, fractured his left ankle.

The injury, which occurred as the famous "Rajah" tried to slide into third base during the morning game of the St. Louis Cardinal-Cub Memorial day doubleheader, will force Hornsby out of the game at least six weeks. The break may cost the Cubs their second successive championship in the National league, hopes for which have rested largely on Hornsby and his big bat and smart field generalship.

Carrying on despite his painful right heel, which had bothered him all spring, Hornsby looked more like his old self today than at any time this season. He covered his position at second base remarkably well and rapped out a single and double that were the big blows in the Cubs' 3 to 0 victory subsequently. It was after his double in the third inning that the injury jinx overtook the "Rajah".

The accident to the star, purchased for almost $400,000 in cash and players from the Boston Braves in the winter season of 1928-29, was a sad blow to the Cubs but Hornsby himself appeared most affected.

"I had high hopes of going through my major league career without such an accident as this and now it happens in my sixteenth season," Hornsby said. He probably will recuperate on his farm on the outskirts of St. Louis.

Clarence Blair, Cub rookie, probably will replace Hornsby at second although Manager Joe McCarthy may switch his infield about with Clyde Beck at second and Blair at third until Lester Bell, another Cub invalid, recovers from his sore salary wing.

HOYT AND KOENIG TRADED FOR CARROLL, RICE, WUESTLING

NEW YORK, May 30.—(AP)—Pitcher Waite Hoyt and Shortstop Mark Koenig have been traded to Detroit for Pitcher Owen Carroll, Outfielder Harry Rice, and Infielder George Wuestling, the New York Yankee management announced today.

The trade was one of the most important of the season.

Although getting "three for two" with no cash involved in the deal, the Yanks parted with a pair of important factors in their pennant winning surges of 1926, 1927, 1928. Hoyt, who is 31 years old, came to the Yanks in 1921 after two years with the Boston Red Sox and a brief tour of the minors. He has been with the Yankees ever since and pitched splendid ball.

Koenig came to the Yankees in 1925 from St. Paul in the American association. He was the regular shortstop, hitting .319 in 1928. He is 26 years old. Both Koenig and Hoyt are right-handers.

RIVERVIEW LEADING WHEN GAME ENDS IN SECOND

The Riverview club of the state hospital met the Polish Citizens of Norwich Friday at the hospital grounds. The game was stopped in the second inning because of rain and, after a ten-minute wait, the umpire ordered play to continue.

The Citizens claimed that they were unable to go on because their catcher had split his finger so that there was no more baseball that day.

Riverview had scored three runs in the first inning, this coming from a home run by Hamel, second baseman, with two men on base.

Willett A. C. vs. Norwich Cubs

Sunday attraction at Hollyhock Island the Norwich Cubs will meet the Willett A. C. from New London. The game will start at 3 p. m.

Eddie McKay Wins Medal In Memorial Day Qualifying Round

Edward G. McKay romped home five strokes in front of his nearest rival to win the medal in the qualifying round of the Memorial Day Handicap tournament at the Norwich Golf club yesterday. McKay shot a 77 to lead Johnny Sayles and Dave Morton, favorites, by five and six strokes respectively. Both Sayles and Morton who were paired for the round found difficulty with their putters which resulted in their passing the 80 mark.

William G. Park won the low net prize with a 69, turning in a card of 86 with a handicap of 17. Bruce F. Rogers and L. M. Young were tied for second low net with scores of 71.

The field was the largest that has ever entered a Memorial day tournament at the club and although the scores were unusually high throughout play the interest was very high. Those who qualified in the morning escaped the showers that slowed the greens in the afternoon.

The field has been divided into flights of sixteen and play starts this week in the first round matches. All first round matches must positively be completed before June 9th.

ACADEMY STOPS HARDING IN SHORT CONTEST; NEW BRITAIN HERE TODAY

Showing flashes of their early-season form the Academy took the measure of Harding high of Bridgeport Friday afternoon at the campus by a 4 to 1 score in a game that was abruptly halted at the end of four and a half innings by a heavy downpour of rain. The storm which had threatened from the third inning, broke as Harding was batting in the first half of the inning and sent the crowd of 2,000 fans or more scurrying to shelter. After a wait of some time, it was apparent that the field would be in no condition for the game to continue and the festivities were called off for the day.

The game was one of the best of the season as far as it went with Boots Greene going great guns on the mound and backed by the team fired with all the old-time pep. They got busy on Marks, the Harding hurler, and scored three runs in the first inning and then added another in the fourth while the visitors were blanked save for the second inning when Cagnello, the third batter, bounded a home run over the fence from centerfield.

Only Two Men on Base

Harding was limited to two hits, the other being a double in the first inning by Dirgo and these were also the only men to reach first base on the local curver. Greene retired five on strikes and had perfect control.

The Academy cut in with five hits off Marks, two each from Alec Arico and Mickey Breen and one by Chubby Gibbs. Marks fanned seven of them, however, while passing two.

The Academy got busy in the scoring line as quick as possible with a trio of runs in the first frame. After Arico had fanned Reardon walked, and on the hit and run Gibbs doubled over short, sending Reardon to third. With Fontaine batting, the squeeze play was put on. Bud laid down a good bunt and Reardon scored while Pivarnik threw over first base and Gibbs also came in, Fontaine going to second. Breen beat out an infield hit, sending Fontaine to third, from where he scored on a passed ball.

Greene Drives In Run

Arico singled in the second and stole second, with two out but was left when Reardon fanned and Breen hit with two out in the third and was stranded. In the fourth, however, Pepin opened with a walk and stole second. Geor fanned but Greene hit one into right center that should have been a double only he was called out for failing to touch first, Pepin scoring meanwhile. Arico got his second hit but was caught stealing.

Wildcat Scratches

Just as the crowd settled back for an interesting game. Jupe Pluvius pepped in and called things off. The field was a quagmire after the 15-minute shower.

Some of the fans are still wondering whether it was a game. For their benefit let us state that four and one-half innings constitute a contest if the home team is ahead. If the Academy had been behind at the end of the number of innings played yesterday, it would have been no game. The losing team has to bat five complete innings.

It was the third high school defeat for Harding, they having previously lost to Stamford and Central of Bridgeport, the latter, 6 to 5, 10 innings.

It looked like an entirely different Wildcat team out there as compared to its last two or three starts. Maybe the boys have regained their stride now and who knows but what they will also make New Britain, Hillhouse and the rest of the big teams on the schedule jump through the hoop.

The Academy has now won thirteen games in 16 starts with five more high school tilts to go.

The Wildcats hold an edge of three in four over Harding in their annual games as a result of this victory. The locals have won in 1927, 1928 and 1930 and Harding in 1929. Harding has scored 16 runs against 14 for N. F. A.

New Britain Here Today

New Britain high, recent conqueror of New Haven Hillhouse and champion of the Triangular league, which includes Hartford, New Britain and Hillhouse, will face the Academy today at the campus. Butsy Weisgraber will get the mound call while the rest of the team will be practically the same as started yesterday with probably Bob Geer in left field and Les Crowell or Ed Flather in right. The game will start at 3 o'clock and is regarded as one of the most important on the schedule.

With the improvement shown by the team in beating Harding yesterday, the fans can once again expect the Wildcats to play the brand of ball they displayed during the first half of the season before they struck a slump about two weeks ago.

STELLA WALSH SET NEW MARK FOR WOMEN'S CENTURY

PHILADELPHIA, May 30—(AP)—Stella Walsh, speedy girl runner from Cleveland, O., was announced as having broken the women's world record for the 100-yard dash today when she stepped off the century in 10 4-5 seconds at the annual games of the Ancient Order of Hibernians.

The record-breaking dash was run in the opening heat and the Polish girl's time bettered the mark of Betty Robinson, Olympic champion, who ran the hundred in 11 1-5 last year.

BROOKLYN TAKES TWO TO GO INTO FIRST PLACE

BROOKLYN, May 30—(AP)—The Brooklyn Robins had a perfect holiday today as they won both games of a double header from the Phillies and climbed from a tie with St. Louis for the National league first place. The Robins took the morning game, 11 to 1, and the afternoon contest, 11 to 9.

In the opener, Dudley held the Phillies in check while Brooklyn hit Willoughby hard and often.

In the afternoon, the Robins had to come from behind three times to win a slugging match. Bissonette made up for his oversight by hitting five successive times, including a home run, in the second game. Chuck Klein of the Phillies hit a homer in each game, bringing his season total up to 13.

PIRATES SPLIT HOLIDAY PROGRAM WITH REDS

PITTSBURGH, May 30—(AP)—Pittsburgh and Cincinnati divided their holiday double bill here today, the Reds winning in the morning 9 to 1 and the Pirates in the afternoon 7 to 6.

The Reds gave the home team a bad scare in the last two innings of the afternoon contest when Stripp and Walker hit home runs that accounted for four runs and put the invaders within one run of the Buccaneers. Spencer relieved Kremer in the ninth with two out and the tying run on base, the recruit retiring Heilmann to end the contest.

Red Lucas pitched a smart, careful game in the forenoon. He was opposed by Chagnon who pitched the entire contest, but was accorded bad support. Scores:

BRAVES WIN BOTH GAMES BY SAME SCORE

BOSTON, May 30.—(AP)—The power to come from behind in the ninth inning gave the Boston Braves a double victory over the New York Giants today. The score of each game was 6 to 5.

George Sisler's single in the last inning of the opener drove two runs across the plate and gave the Braves its first triumph of the day. After Wally Berger's 12th homer had tied the score with three runs in the eighth, doubles by Spohrer and McGuire in the ninth gave the Tribe a second victory.

Zachary, former Yankee pitcher, started the first game for the Braves and made a home run off Pruett on the first ball pitched. He was forced to leave the game, however, in the seventh, giving way to Cunningham, who in turn was relieved by Cantwell. Cunningham pitched the last inning of the second game to get credit for the victory. The triumph boosted the Braves into fifth place, displacing the Giants.

CUBS TURN BACK CARDS IN HOLIDAY PROGRAM

CHICAGO, May 30—(AP)—Fighting under the strain of losses by death and injuries the Cubs today turned back the St. Louis Cardinals in both games of the holiday program, going 10 innings for a 9 to 8 victory in the afternoon game, after Charlie Root had scored a 2 to 0 triumph in the morning.

Root gave only five hits in the morning to score a clean cut victory, won however, at the cost of Rogers Hornsby who fractured his left ankle.

SIMMONS STARS AS ATHLETICS TAKE TWO

PHILADELPHIA, May 30.—(AP)—Led by Al Simmons' busy bat, the world's champion Athletics took the morning and afternoon games of today's bill with the Washington Senators and cut the Senators' first place lead to one full game. The Mackmen won the first game 7 to 6 after going 13 innings and copped a slugfest in the afternoon 15 to 11.

Simmons hit a home run with two out and two on base in the ninth inning of the opening game, to wipe out the Senators' 6 to 3 lead, and scored the winning run by doubling and tallying on a single by McNair in the 13th inning.

In the second game, Simmons, who hurt his knee in the opener, batted as a pinch hitter and hit Braxton for his ninth home run of the season with the bases filled in the fifth inning.

Jimmy Foxx celebrated a field day at bat by three singles, two doubles and a triple in the morning game and two doubles in the afternoon fray. Cochrane, Miller, Bishop and Goose Goslin also added a homer apiece to their slugging records during the two contests.

HOMERS PLAY IMPORTANT ROLE IN YANKS' TWIN WIN

NEW YORK, May 30.—(AP)—With home runs playing a prominent role, the New York Yankees celebrated Decoration day with a double victory over the Red Sox. The scores were 6 to 5 and 7 to 3. The triumphs, coupled with Cleveland's two defeats, sent the Yanks into third place and marked the Red Sox's 13th straight loss.

Babe Ruth cracked out his 15th home run of the season to give the Yankees an early lead in the first game. Sweeney's homer came in the fourth inning to give Boston temporary advantage. Gehrig drove out his 11th circuit clout in the sixth, while Reese's homer led the Sox's rally in the ninth which tied the score. The Yanks, however, produced the winning run in the final half of the ninth on Dickey's double which scored Ruth.

Charley Ruffing, former Red Sox pitcher, held his ex-mates to six hits in the nightcap. A five-run rally in the third put the game away for the Yankees. Ruffing, beside pitching a nice game, drove in two runs in as many hits.

Bulkeley Beats Tech Again
(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, May 30—Behind the one-hit pitching of Gene Callahan, Bulkeley made a clean sweep of the city title series when it took the second game from Chapman Tech at Mercer field here this afternoon. The score was 7 to 0. It also placed Bulkeley in the position as leader of the league where they need but one more victory to clinch the pennant.

TURKEY DINNER GIVEN TO VISITING ATHLETES

Following the race, a banquet was tendered the athletes and officials of the national ten-mile championship at the Elks Home. Hope Rebekah lodge of the Odd Fellows catered and served a delightful menu consisting of a full course roast turkey dinner with side dishes of crab meat salad. A total of 150 attended the affair which served as a fitting climax to the day's program.

Laurence E. Millea served very ably as toastmaster, introducing the various speakers, and kept things moving in fine style. Mr. Millea first called on Mayor Lee Roy Robbins. The mayor said he was pleased to welcome the visitors to the city and that he thought the event had been run off very smoothly. He said he wished to congratulate the Duwell club on conducting the race and he sincerely hoped that it could be arranged to have the championship ten-mile run in Norwich next year. Mayor Robbins also made note of the fact that there was a field of about 75 starters, while the same event last year had only attracted about 15 starters. He said this fact was proof that the athletes liked to come to Norwich, closing his remarks with the hope of seeing the same faces here again in 1931.

First Selectman William S. Murray was next called upon. Mr. Murray pointed out that he had been interested in these races since the Duwells' first race four years ago, and that each succeeding year showed marked progress until the national event held here today. He stated that previous to this year's race, those held had all been on the road where no means of revenue had been possible. He said the Duwells, in accomplishing as much as they had in four years, had done something to be proud of. He also remarked on the fine support accorded the Duwells by the various organizations and citizens of Norwich who came forward at this time to help put the race over. Selectman Murray said he hoped that the Fairgrounds, where today's race was held, could be preserved for more events of this kind in the future, stating that the track was the only suitable one in eastern Connecticut and that it would be a shame to lose it. Mr. Murray closed his remarks by saying that the citizens of Norwich were certainly proud of the Duwell A. A. and the runners that they had brought to Norwich on this day.

Elmer Manning, superintendent of recreation at New Haven, was the next speaker. Mr. Manning stated that in behalf of the Connecticut Association of the A. A. U., he was pleased and proud of the way the event had been conducted. He said the way the Duwells handled the event showed careful planning and much hard work as they certainly did a good job in running it off. Mr. Manning also said he believed a great deal of credit should be given Jimmie Pedace, as he felt the latter had done a lot in making the race the success it was.

Philip Keeley of the Metropolitan Association of the A. A. U., said he wished to thank the city of Norwich and the Duwell A. A., in the behalf of the Metropolitan association for the way their runners had been treated. He was convinced, he said, that if the Duwells wanted the event again next year that it could be arranged to hold the race in Norwich in 1931.

James Pedace was next called on. He said he wished to take the opportunity to thank the Connecticut Association of the A. A. U., the athletes, and citizens of Norwich, for he knew full well that it was their cooperation that made the event the success that he felt it was. Mr. Pedace said that the Duwells would be in there again next year and would make every effort to get the event for Norwich.

Frank M. Green of the Duwell A. A., resopnded, stating he was very much pleased with the way everything had been run off and that he hoped to see the runners again next year.

Ex-Mayor Herbert M. Lerou addressed the gathering with a few remarks, stating that the hospitality received by the athletes today was a sample of that delivered by the city and town of Norwich. He congratulated the Duwell A. A. and athletes and said he hoped to see the event held in Norwich again next year, when he felt sure everyone would again receive the same hospitality as shown them today.

Thomas E. Donahue, state boxing commissioner, said he wished to thank the committee for the cordial invitation given him. He congratulated the Duwells for the way they had handled the affair and said he hoped they could get the race again next year.

Bat Battalino, world featherweight champion and guest at the banquet, when called upon for a few words, put the crowd in an uproar when he remarked he was not much of a speechmaker but could lick anyone in the house.

John D. Nolan, who was running ten-mile races 40 years ago, amused the gathering with reminiscences of his racing days. He spoke of the first ten-mile championship race run in 1890, making the run here today the 40th ten-mile championship.

Charles Marsh of the Millrose A. C., New York city, which team won the team prize in the race, thanked the Duwell A. A. in behalf of his runners, stating that they always liked coming to Norwich and that he would be glad to see the event held here again next year.

The party broke up at 7:30 p. m., with all those present joining in the fitting selection of "Till We Meet Again."

HENS AT STORRS DROP BELOW THE 5,000 MARK

For the first time in 11 weeks the hens in the Storrs contest egg laying dropped below the 5,000 egg mark. Their actual score was 4,913 eggs or a yield of 70.2 per cent.

This performance is 219 eggs less than the previous week's production and 15 eggs under their performance for the corresponding week a year ago. Slight losses, however, at this season are not wholly unexpected.

Bournedale Farms pen of Leghorns from Millerton, N. Y., and Toivonen Leghorn Farm from Girard, Pa., tied for first place with 65 eggs each. R. C. Cobb's pen of Barred Rocks from Littleton, Mass., and the team of Reds bred by Burdean Acres of Newton Center, Mass., tied for second place with 62 eggs.

Lewis Farms of Davisville, R. I., and Pratt Experimental Farm of Morton, Pa., both backing Barred Rocks; Alfred J. O'Donovan of Katonah, N. Y., and Hollywood Poultry Farm from Woodinville, Wash., both sponsors of Leghorns; and Homestead Farms' pen of Reds from Newtown, all tied for third place with 61 eggs each. Fisher Poultry Farm's pen of White Wyandottes from Ayton, Ontario, and two pens of Reds entered by Geo. B. Treadwell of Spencer, Mass., and Edward N. Larrabee from Peterboro, N. H., all tied for fourth place with 60 eggs each.

The leading pens to date in each of the principal varieties are as follows:

White Wyandottes — The Locusts, West Cornwall, 1471; Fisher P. Farm, Ayton, On., Canada, 1303.

Barred Rocks—R. C. Cobb, Littleton, Mass., 1452; R. Walter Bishop, Guilford, 1443; Spring Brook P. Fm., So. Wethersfield, 1414.

White Rocks—E. H. Rucker, Ottumwa, Iowa, 1335; Kalerok Farm, Westford, Mass., 1213; Adam F. Polti, Hartford, Wis., 1201.

Rhode Island Reds — F. S. Chapin, Longmeadow, Mass., 1606; Edw. N. Larrabee, Petersboro, N. M., 1601; F. S. Chapin, Longmeadow, Mass., 1580; Harold G. Colt, West Hartford, 1573.

White Leghorns—Toivonen Leghorn Farm, Girard, Pa., 1774; Steelman Poultry Farms, Lansdale, Pa., 1656; Geo. Lowry P. Fm., Inc., W. Willington, 1541; Leighton Orchards, Kingston, R. I., 1528; Hanson's Leghorn Farm, Corvallis, Ore., 1522.

Florida Murder

Here is William R. Carver, former Philadelphia real estate operator, who has been on trial at Sebring, Fla., charged with the murder of his wife. Carver asserts that his wife and baby were slain by a negro whom he later killed. The state contended Carver took the lives of his wife and child to collect insurance, then murdered the negro to divert suspicion.

POETRY

Hymn Of Metropolitan Hate

I hate each hellish motor car
Whose horn assails my tender ears,
And I abhor those grinding gears,
And loathe the deadly fumes which are
So shortening our span of years.

I hate the wild fifteen-and-fives
Whose brakes go on with chilling squeals
At which my very blood congeals,
They've no regard for human lives,
They take most corners on two wheels.

I hate the subway, loudly rumbling
Through caves of subterranean night,
And I protest with all my might,
With all my cherished gift for grumbling,
The rush-hour mobs I have to fight.

I hate this fad of tower construction;
Riveting drives me to distraction,
I hate contractors and contraction,
Almost as much, I hate destruction.
Why is there so much building action?

I hate all radios. Their bawls
And screeches are outrageous quite,
They penetrate my feeble walls,
Pursue me through my very halls,
And keep me sleepless through the night.

I hate the ghastly talking-screen,
Sadly distorting human sounds,
I much prefer, on natural grounds,
My picture men and maidens seen,
Not heard, about their merry rounds.

I'd also hate to do without
These things I get so mad about.

—Lord Duff, in New York Herald-Tribune.

The Old Chippendale Chair

Dim April twilight slants across my hill;
Gray dusk steals through the rooms—the night grows chill;
The chippendale stands in its corner-place
Amid the hovering shadows—silent, still.

So aged and so dignified a chair
Serenely stands in its calm corner there;
I almost think the old chair has a soul
That dreams contentedly with musings rare.

Why should it not remember, in some way
Its other life, lived in another day?
Old chippendale, I wonder . . . do you wish
Those years, a hundred gone, again might stay?

SOCIAL CORNER POETRY
Summer Life

At friendly cot in yonder vale,
With trembling steps that almost fail,

Wrapt in the crimson sunset's vest,
A weary wanderer seeketh rest.

Weary with grief and toil and strife,
He findeth there a wealth of life.

Life in the perfume everywhere,
Floating like incense in the air.

Perfume of lilies fair and tall,
Yielding their sweetness up for all.

Perfume of grasses bending low,
Touched by the day's departing glow.

Perfume of leaf and bud and flower,
As earth were but an Eden bower.

Life in the quiet depths of blue,
Life in the soft-distilling dew.

Life in the gloaming's waning light,
Life in the stars that crown the night.

Life from out nature's great profound,
In soothing harmony of sound.

The sound of chirping cricket shrill,
The plaintive note of whip-poor-will.

The breath of wind among the trees,
Swayed by the gentle summer breeze.

The silver music of the brook,
Gushing from sheltered forest nook.

The sound with coming of the dawn,
Of happy bird to greet the morn.

The hum of flitting insect wings,
The call of chanticleer that rings.

Life bursteth from the growing day,
To cheer the wanderer on his way.

Thus in the round from sun to sun,
Blessing by faithful labor won.

Full from the world around, above,
Life floweth in to heart of love.

Compensation

O the work may be dull and the hours may be long,
But the hardship will surely depend
On whether or not you know you will have
Just a little true love at the end.

For you work with a will, there's a song in your heart,
Whatever the Fates choose to send;
The day's never hard if you know you will have
Just a little true love at the end.

But pity the heart that must labor all day,
With knotty, hard problems contend,
And know all the while that there never will be E'en a LITTLE true love at the end.

HISTORIC LEBANON

Dear Social Corner Members and Friends: A saying I learned years ago was "Procrastination is the thief of time," but fear I do not heed it as I neglected to write last week until too late for last Saturday's paper. Now I will write the first of the week to thank Thirty-Two and Daisy Dean for the poem. That was the one I wanted, and it shows how helpful the Corner is for the sisters seem always ready to do what they can for each other.

Thirty-Two: The other poem, "Beyond," is a beautiful poem, also.

Social Corner Reader: I liked the poem, "Away," you sent, very much. I am very fond of poetry and have a book of it. I have cut from papers and magazines and many good ones from the Social Corner.

I wonder how many of the readers listen in Friday nights to the broadcast from Station WTIC and hear the Doctor and the Schoolmaster talk about Norwich. To me! it's very interesting and when they spoke of Lebanon I was pleased. But since that broadcast I have heard several persons say, "I did not know that Lebanon sent five governors". So for the benefit of those who did not know will send the names.

Jonathan Trumbull, 1769 to 1784; Jonathan Trumbull, Jr., 1798 to 1809; Clark Bissell, 1847 to 1849; Joseph Trumbull, 1849 to 1850; William A. Buckingham, 1858 to 1866.

Another native of Lebanon, Nelson Dewey, was the first governor of Wisconsin from 1848 to 1852. The old war office is now owned by the Sons of the American Revolution and contains many old pieces of furniture including the first piano ever owned in Lebanon, besides many relics of interest. The war office is used as the meeting place of Gov. Jonathan Trumbull chapter, D. A. R., and is open each Saturday afternoon from 2 until 5 from June until November, some member of the chapter being present each Saturday. They are always glad to welcome visitors. So hope the S. C. sisters who have never visited Lebanon will do so this summer.

Best wishes from DORINDA

BEAUTIFUL FLOWER DECORATION

Dear Editor: Perhaps, our readers would like to hear of a very beautiful flowed decoration used recently in a church for Memorial day service. At the center and below the Bible stand, on a table, was placed what appeared to be a large picture frame of gold color, same shape and in proportion to our American flag. Moist moss was placed first, then a wire netting over that to hold it in place, was tacked around the edge of inside of frame. The wire was first painted dark green. Blue spider lilies formed the blue field for white star flowers at one corner and red flowering quince formed the red stripes and white spiraea formed the white stripes to imitate our flag. Fine green ferns and maiden hair fern edged the whole. At each corner of the platform a large basket of the shrubs and spider lilies made a graceful and fountain-like appearance.

To any who never feel rested after sleeping I would suggest that you try sleeping without any pillow and the feet a little higher than the head. Lay on your right side and face the east. A small roll or pad should support the neck. Keep the feet warm and the head cool. When you wake naturally in the morning you should arise at once as a second sleep is not good for one.

As this will be almost June first I wish to greet all members born in this lovely month of roses and brides.

The earth is now in the sign Gemines and we have a new moon today. So we must plant our corn, cucumbers and all other vegetables that grow above ground. Also flower seed, pole beans and peas and climbers. So many varieties of birds are here this year. I like to watch them.

Calla Lily: That was a splendid letter last week. I think the Corner meetings should not become a burden to any one. That surely was not the intention of the founders. Let all bring basket lunches and save work.

ANSWERS AND INQUIRIES

PEDESTRIAN: Letter sent as requested.

A SHOWER BOUQUET

Dear Corner Members: Take notice! This is your last chance for May basket remembrances. The prices are greatly reduced and what could bring cheer to a shut-in more than a pretty basket filled with fruit and sweets and a few flowers from your garden.

May takes its name from Maia, the daughter of the Titan, Greek and Roman mythology, and the mother of Mercury. By many it was regarded as less favorable for marriages than June. June was named for Juno, who in Roman mythology, was the queen of heavens, the protectress of women and the patron of marriage. The month named for her was therefore, even in ancient times, regarded as particularly favorable for weddings.

I am giving you the directions for a clothespin shower bouquet, which will delight any bride-to-be. I have made many and found they were treasured by all. Any girl would wish for one among her presents. To make the bouquet you need five dozen new clothespins, some rather stiff florists' wire, five yards narrow white ribbon, one sheet white tissue paper, one fancy flower frill from any florist, five or more pieces asparagus fern, 1½ yards of gauze ribbon. Cut wire to strands eight inches in length. Place the wire firmly around heads of clothespins, just as you would if you were wiring a rose or any other flower. Wire about four dozen in this manner. Bunch all the pegs together as you would if you were making an old fashioned nosegay of real flowers. Then place pieces of foliage (asparagus fern is best) between the pegs and all around the outside of bouquet. After this is done bind all wire stalks together then cover with white tissue paper.

Pull bouquet through paper frill, being careful not to tear the frill. Cut the white ribbon into various lengths from 12 inches to 3-4 of a yard. Tie ribbons to mouth of some of the pegs and let them fall in shower effect. Fasten remaining clothespins to ends of these ribbons. A much daintier effect is obtained if real small pins can be obtained for tieing on the ends and half way with a green fern. Finish with a large bow tied around the stems.

I wish to thank Elm Tree Bobbie for her suggestion on the care of ferns, also for her prompt reply as my fern needed prompt attention. I have followed your directions and will let you know the results. Thanking you again.

Canterbury Bell: This is cool weather for house cleaning, quite favorable if not stormy.

Best wishes to all. FIDELIS

CHATTY LETTER FROM ROSARY

Dear Corner Sisters: Having just copied a poem for the Corner, will write to let you know how much I have enjoyed reading the letters and poems lately.

As I did not write last month, had planned to write two letters this month, but haven't time now, so "Procrastination is the thief of time."

Am puzzled to know who Woodside is and wonder if she still lives in Sterling. There were such quantities of fine apples on that place and no spraying required in those days. Wish I could see all of the pupils who attended the Granite school.

There is such a nice rain coming now that I hope it will help my seeds to come up. I have part of my garden planted, but no plants up. Am going out soon to set some pepper and tomato plants.

It is very pleasant to remember about the parasols we used to have. One little child asked her father to bring her a "jography and a parasol," when he went on a trip to Norwich. Those were considered essentials in those days.

Ferns need washing often with whale oil soap or tobacco soap. I have often seen a florist re-pot ferns. He used a large proportion of leaf mold pounding the earth around the plant very hard. Ferns often need re-potting when they are not growing well. They grow best in soil taken from the woods or where other ferns grew.

The hardy delphiniums blossom the next summer after planting.

ROSARY, (Club 1).

GREETINGS FROM MAJESTIC

Dear Social Corner Editor and Sisters: How are you all? What funny weather we have been having, some rain and some sunshine. We have had a good many forest fires lately. It seems too bad. People should be more careful and not be quite so careless. It would help.

Rhody Louise was my mother. Oh, how I miss her. She was so loving and kind to all. When I lost her, I lost my best friend and it was hard to bear.

Aunt Sarah: Hope you and the rest of the shut-ins will soon be well and out again. It is some time since I have written to the Corner, but I haven't forgotten you. Best wishes to Social Corner editor and sisters.

MAJESTIC.

POSTCARD SHOWER SUGGESTED

Dear Editor and Social Corner Members: I thought I would like to answer the roll call for 1930, so I am writing a few lines hoping they will find everybody in good spirits, for the summer will soon be here and everything is so beautiful it is worth while to raise our eyes and thank the good Lord for all the beautiful things of life.

I am [illegible] Again, is very sick and I think it would be nice to send her a postal card shower. Her address is Mrs. Byron Carroll, Killingly, Conn., R. F. D. No. 1.

She was with us at Club 4's last meeting and was taken sick the next day. We thank all who helped to make our last meeting such a nice and pleasant one. May God bless all, especially the sick and needy.

KILLINGLY BUD

FLORIDA'S SINGING TOWER

Dear Editor and Friends: Florida's singing tower was created to provide a retreat of natural beauty for the human, a refuge for birds and a place for the study of southern planting and bird life. It has an area of 48 acres and includes Iron mountain, 325 feet above sea level and is the highest point of land in the "Land of Sunshine", Florida. Thirty-six lakes may be seen from the tower top. These facts emphasize the tradition that Iron mountain was the ancient ground for the Indians of Florida, who after wailing at Lake Walles, (now Lake Wales), sought its purifying heights. (I will tell you of the beautiful sanctuary at another writing). Harmony with the spirit of the carillon as well as its practical requirements, and the beauty of the surrounding sanctuary have been the inspiration of the singing tower. In its majestic simplicity and true singing qualities, the tower stands for all time a fitting tribute to a great ideal expressed through the genius of its architect, Milton B. Medary D. A. E. P. P. A. I. A. From the profile of bells cut into its square base, 51 feet wide the tower rises through a gradually changing outline to a height of over 205 feet where its octagonal summit is 37 feet wide. This is crowned by panels of roses and palms. The eight buttresses are topped by symbolic herons, four males carrying a fish in their beaks and four alternating females feeding their young. The tower weighs 5,500 tons and is anchored to a reinforced concrete mat supported by 160 reinforced concrete piles. The grey creole and pink Etowah marble are from the Tate quarries of Georgia, and coquina rock from Daytona. This is similar to that first used by the Spaniards in building their fort at St. Augustine. Besides the bell chamber, the tower contains two copper steel tanks with a capacity of 30,000 gallons used for watering the sanctuary. The entire ground floor has been reserved as a single high vaulted hall lined with Etowah marble and appointed as a study for Mr. Bok, with many features, like the carved mantle of distinguished beauty. Carved above the massive fireplace a map shows the tower in its geographical location, with a flamingo at its base and further below an alligator, Neptune with his seahorses, the compass and the prevailing wind. To the east a fleet of ships brings seekers to the sanctuary from other lands. The vaulted ribs of the vast ceiling are gathered into a central carved boss symbolic of Florida. Instead of the usual Gothic Gargoyles, conventionalized birds are profusely used in the carvings of the tower. Massive eagles with folded wings terminate the upper balconies and are flanked by panels of doves carrying laurel or oak as tokens of peace and strength. The frieze encircling the tower above the great north door, depicts pelicans, herons and the fabled characters of the goose, stork and fox, hare and tortoise. The brilliance of the Florida sunshine and tropical planting are harmonized in the lancet windows by J. Dulles Allen. Highly colored faience depicts the rise of life from its undersea forms, like the jelly fish, through flowers and birds to the figures of Adam and Eve in the central ceramics, showing man's dominion over all creation.

The sanctuary bells comprise the largest carillon yet made and consists of 71 bells whose scale is entirely chromatic from the largest bell note which is E flat. The carillon was cast and installed by John Taylor & Co., of Loughborough, England.

The bells hang in rows on five levels, graduating in weight from the largest, approximately 24,000 pounds, to the smallest, 12 pounds, the aggregate weight being 123,264 pounds. Carillon bells in distinction from chimes are stationary and do not swing when played. The clappers hang from the inside of the bells, as usual, but are moved by a system of levers connected by the clavier which is played by the carillonier in a room below the bells. It is claimed, the best effects of the carillon are obtained at a position of some 200 yards from the tower. As the sound waves come through the highest windows, they are not carried clearly to the base of the tower, but I sank quickly to the grass within 100 feet of the tower with tears rolling down my face as if the tower itself had burst into song and these are the songs it sung: Robin Adair, Long, Long Ago, The Last Rose of Summer, Moment Musical, Work for the Night is Coming, Holy, Holy, Holy, Day is Dying in the West, On Wings of Song, Hindu song from Sadko, Our United States.

There are four recitals in the weeks from December 15th to Easter. There is an Easter glade where a sunrise service is held each Easter morning and special recitals are given at noon on Gen. Robert E. Lee's birthday, January 19, Abraham Lincoln's birthday, George Washington's birthday, also at Christmas and New Year's eve at midnight. How I would love to be awakened by those bells at midnight! I would certainly believe I had suddenly entered Heaven. Oh, the rapturous moments I spent in that mountain sanctuary and in this, Mr. Bok has carried out the injunction of his grandmother, "Wherever your lives may be cast, make you the world a bit more beautiful and better because you have lived in it."

I hate to stop, as I love to think of anything so beautiful but you are tired by this time so I'll ring off with best wishes to you all.

I forgot to say there is a large sun dial on the south side of the tower and on the lower side of it is this inscription: This singing tower, with its adjacent sanctuary, was dedicated and presented for visitation by Calvin Coolidge, president of the United States, February the first, 1929.

PLEASED WITH CARDS

Dear Social Corner Sisters: I wish to thank those who were kind enough to send me birthday cards. I seem to be busy most of the time and hardly look at the sisters' birthdays like I should.

Seems as if it is all or no rain and nothing grows but weeds and woodchucks.

E. L. M.: I don't feel any sportier with Mr. Nash than I do with Henry but without doubt look better, as does Bushwhacker.

Olga: Saw your minister's mistress at the conference at Niantic, a beautiful place to go for a ride especially on the shore.

Sumac: I am wondering if we shall meet at Durham. Soon it will be time for your showers, but wait until it gets warmer or you will be icicles. [illegible]

E. L. M. SAYS TIME FOR NEW LEADER HAS COME

Dear Social Corner Members:—What a lovely rain we had and now we need some warm weather. Have been working in the garden today and things are growing slowly. Elm Tree Bobbie: Sure thing, the seeds are planted you sent me. I gave some to several.

This year I had my first wall flowers, (only three plants) also some cloth of gold. Does anyone know the name of a plant similar to it that has a white blossom?

Beers:—Suppose you have several new plants this year. We missed you at our last meeting. We had a nice time. Bebe had planned one of her good dinners and it was good.

Ravens:—The readings and contests were good especially the "Sand-Piper."

For the benefit of the members who were not there will say, as I said at the meeting, that I will not be able any longer to act as secretary, or what ever I am. When our club started some one had to keep the money and plan the meetings, and it was "Wished" on me. We still have all of our charter members, —19—and it seems one one of them ought to be willing to do it. In all, we have over 100 members so out of that number there is surely someone who can.

Now in Club 5 that was Alta's work and when she felt she no longer could do it Bay State stepped into place and has done fine.

Calla Lily:—You seem to have your hands full and you are always so busy. We never have any trouble over food, members of Club 6 are so good to give and generous contributions too. It is no cross for the hostess to plan her dinner. Of course occasionally some one comes in that has not been solicited who brings something that looks rather small but its not often. I have tried to work for the good of the club. One year, ten months out of the 11 we have meetings, I baked beans, and I know many who have baked them month after month. I always feel if I promise a main dish I must get it there whether I can go or not, but have missed only two meetings since the club started in March 1926. We have many members who send their food when they can't come. Our only trouble is so few are willing to be hostess. At one meeting I asked ten before I found someone willing to be, but everyone of them was willing to help. That was very good of them but some one has to go ahead. I have tried to do my part. Have been hostess twice a year, three times at the anniversary meeting and another time was a helper, and three times at the annual picnic. These meetings are the largest and mean more work. I want to thank all who have helped me in any way and I am willing to take my turn at being hostess, furnish my share of food and help in any way I can but, I can't be the leader any longer. Now members of Club 6 talk this over and have some one ready at the next meeting to go on with the work.

Sumac:—Thank you but, I can't change my mind and for a reason entirely apart from the Corner.

We regret the loss of one of our members who recently passed on, Mrs. Elizabeth Bicknell who was Betty Rick in the Corner.

I wonder if there are any Social Corner members in Moosup and vicinity who will attend the Baptist association meeting at Moosup in June? I would like to attend but am not sure.

Beth C:—Oh that garlic! some joke. Am afraid this letter is much too long so will write a shorter one next time. It seems only fair to say a little more about those who have served since the club started. There have been 47 meetings and 12 members have served once in that time, two have served twice, four have served three times, two have served four times, one five times and one six times, and the same helpers have served many times. Now you all know who has served and wouldn't it be well for you haven't to just plan to in the future and give the others a rest?

QUESTIONS AND COMMENTS

Dear Social Corner: Has Ella Jay started keeping that time record for home-makers? You see I am interested because I kept one for a week two years ago last October and a second one the next June. A worker from our state agricultural experiment station asked me to keep these records. Later I received a bulletin giving a summary of the 102 records sent in. It was found that the average working day was 7 3-4 hours in household activities. In comparison with figures from the national department it was shown that the homemakers in our state work nearly 3 hours a week more than the average. The rural homemakers do very little outdoor farm work except in the care of poultry.

As reading is my favorite form of recreation, I was interested to note that my sister homemakers also spend a large portion of their leisure in reading. The most time-consuming activity was that concerned with food for the family. Sewing and mending came second in amount of time. Next on the list came cleaning and care of house and grounds. Of the number reporting, 77 per cent took some rest in the daytime and the average amount of sleep and rest was 8 3-4 hours. More than three-fourths of the country homemakers have electric lights and a large proportion use electric irons.

Betsy Bobbett: Do you think that I have a fine garden? It is right beside the road so the next time you come riding by, why don't you stop and see for yourself what a grand jumble of flowers and weeds I have? Although I never allow any one to call my garden pretty, I do admit that there are some pretty things in it.

O. D.: Have you ever seen the dwarf or butterfly delphinums? In my next letter I will write of my experience in raising these lovely blue flowers.

How many of you use the kind of sausage that you buy in rolls? If you have never tried baking it, I hope you will try it that way, for my family think it is much better cooked that way than fried.

Do you know that water is unnecessary when making rhubarb sauce? Just add sugar to cut up rhubarb and cook in the top of your double boiler.

Are you all using home-made service wagons? Last Monday I went to an all day meeting and made myself one. Now I must buy some wheels for it and see how useful it will be. I know it will save a lot of steps when we eat on the porch.

Weren't you all glad to see it rain even if it did upset your plans for Sunday? The next time the sun peeks out for a minute, I am going to skip out to see how Happy Hour Garden looks after its two days' bath.

RECIPES FROM BEERS

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: It has been a long rainy day, although we needed the rain, it will start the gardens to growing. I have worked in my garden most of the time this spring as I cleaned house early. My iris and columbine are in bloom now.

I am sorry to learn that E. L. M. is giving up the secretaryship of our club. I have not been to any of the club meetings as I don't climb the stairs. Best wishes to the sick and shut-ins.

Meat loaf: 2 1-2 pounds of hamburg steak, 2 links of sausage, 1 slice of mixed salt pork, (have it run through the grinder twice), 1 thick slice of bread, 2 eggs, 1 cup milk, 1 small onion (minced fine). Mix, season with salt and pepper and bake 1 1-2 hours.

Mock chicken salad: Remove gristle and fat from cold cooked lamb or roast pork, dice, add equal amount of celery which has been diced, add mayonnaise dressing to taste, arranging on lettuce leaves and garnish with parsley.

THE MONTH OF ROSES

Dear Social Corner Friends: We are about to go forward into the month of roses. To all of us, I think, the words June and roses are almost synonymous. And June is so associated in our minds with delightful weather, fresh-leaved trees, with roses which many consider the very loveliest of all flowers, and with June brides, that June is, I think, one of the months which most easily become personified in our minds so that, almost without an effort, when we think of June, we see a pink-cheeked flower-decked girl sweet with youth and health and happiness.

The daisies we all love (I understand the farmers are an exception to this rule) are just coming to perfection as June comes singing and dancing to meet us.

Daisy chains and wreaths for the children, and stair banisters twined with garlands of daisies to brighten the way for the descending bride — these ideas come at once when we think of daisies.

I have seen slopes whitened by bluets, many of which are more white than blue, and everyone has seen fields made white by the wealth of daisies growing there.

A long time ago, we lived on a hill near the sound and had a fine view of the water from our back door. At the foot of the hill was a cove. Looking across the blue water of this cove we could see fields so white with daisies that it might have been snow that covered them, and admiring these daisy fields one day, I "dropped into verse." An aunt of mine liked my little verses because they brought a happy memory of her childhood and thinking they may recall happy days to others I put them down.

The fields were white with daisies,
The sun shone bright,
And our hearts were light
And the fields were white with daisies,

The sky was blue above us
Our hearts were true
Thought our years were few,
For we were childhood lovers.

Did any of the writers ever try arranging daisies with oak leaves? I do not mean the new shoots which have the pretty red leaves, but well grown leaves which still keep the light green of spring and which will so soon grow dark in color and heavy in texture. These make a pretty combination, a change from the ferns and daisies we so often see.

Have you ever seen a pair of bobolinks dancing up and down in the sunny air with daisies beneath and blue sky above and their liquid music delighting your soul? I saw this once. Perhaps the picture in my mind is more vivid because it was seen only once. And I have been longing ever since to see this sight again. I think this was in June, anyway it is a cherished memory I connect with this month.

Soon wild roses will be unfolding their petals. The roses of the hot house are lovely, the garden roses of June are lovelier, but to me, and I believe to many, the wild roses with their golden hearts, are the loveliest of all.

June comes in with white daisies with golden hearts and goes out with golden daisies with brown centers which as they develop, bear upon them a crown of gold as such a crown might rest upon a cushion of brown velvet.

I am going to tell you of a way I have arranged these daisies with elder blossoms which is effective.

Anyone who has tried bringing elder blooms into the house knows how easily they droop, losing their beauty. Probably by gathering them very early in the morning this could be avoided. I have never been able to get them early enough, and have always had them drooping their flat flower-clusters before I got them home. I could always bring them up, however, by plunging them for a while deep in a water pail filled to the brim so that only the flowers were not under water.

And the only way to get any real satisfaction from elder flowers, aside from leaving them on the bush and letting them develop into berries and turning these berries into wine, is to gather them while they are still tiny, cream-colored globes, among them, perhaps, a few opened flowers.

If you do not pick them until the flowers have opened, almost at once your table will be covered with the fallen petals. Gathered in the bud they will give pleasure for several days and the meticulous housewife who dislikes the untidiness of dropped petals can avoid this by giving the flowers a good shape when renewing the water.

Fill a large vase with the elder blooms and leaves. Thrust black-eyed Susans in among these, letting the daisies stand well above the elder flowers.

I happened on some wild wheat when I got my daisies and six or eight stalks of this put in the middle and waving high above the daisies had a good effect.

I wish happy June days to our editor and all Cornerites and will end my letter with James Russell Lowell's beautiful verse about June.

"What is so rare as a day in June?
Then, if ever, come perfect days.
Then heaven tries the earth if it be in tune.
And over it softly her warm ear lays
Whether we look, or whether we listen,
We hear life murmur or see it glisten.
Every clod feels a stir of might,
An instinct within it that reaches and towers,
And groping blindly about for light,
Climbs to a soul in grass and flowers."

PARASOLS, SUNBONNETS, FANS AND PHOTOS

Dear Social Corner Sisters: Our sister Jennie's letter about the parasols brought back vividly to my mind the days when they were so much in vogue, which were also the days of the fan and the sunbonnet. A little later came the broad-brimmed straw sunhats which, when they were not tied down at the sides with a ribbon, gave one the appearance of walking under a mushroom, as they were flat-crowned, but some of the sunbonnets were really pretty, especially the small ones where the crown and cape buttoned on the front and were made of pretty material. I never had but one, a brown checked gingham which was soon discarded as it was usually hanging from the strings over the back of my neck. It always gave me a smothered feeling and hindered my view of things in general.

A dear old neighbor who was devoted to them used to say that when she put on a clean, starched sunbonnet and started out somewhere it always rained before she could get back, so in times when we needed rain I used to advise her to wash and iron her bonnet all nicely and go somewhere.

I have often thought that if the ordinary sunbonnet felt hot and close how it was with what were called the Shaker bonnets, which were long and straight, something on the plan of a telescope with the head away back at the further end. My mother's old aunts each had one, which I think they wore only when berrying. As I remember them, they were of a mixed brown color of straw, stiff and rattling and had deep capes of brown cambric coming over the shoulders. If one wanted to see anything in a different direction she must have had to turn completely around or tip it back like an old fashioned buggy top. But the same aunts had prettier bonnets of green barege shirred on wires, with capes of the same to wear around the flower gardens or out to the next neighbor's, afternoons when it wasn't called for to put on their "best bib and tucker."

And how well I recall the fans waving gently to and fro of summer Sundays in the old church at Westminister. Some were plain, prosaic palm leaf fans, of which there were usually one or two in every pew. Some were very pretty silk, perhaps with flowers or scenery painted on them. Some of plain paper, likewise decorated, some of cloth or satin with carved wood or bone or ivory sticks, some spangled and edged with tiny feathers and most of those which folded up hung by a ribbon or cord and tassels to our belts or sashes. And, like the parasols, the variety was great. Once in a great while you saw a turkey tail fan, but don't know as I ever did in church. The motion of the fans seemed in accord with the gentle waving of the elm tree, which we could see so plainly through the open windows.

Gone are nearly all who used to gather there in those days, but in fancy I see them sitting in the old church gathered together, many of them from several miles away, for the quiet hour of worship after the "workaday week."

Returning to the parasols, I remember one that was laid away at home, having gone out of style before my time, very small, of a soft dull green silk, fringed and having a carved ivory handle, long and slender, which had a hinge, or joint, in the middle so it could be shut back, making it easier to carry when not in use.

Our attire, when going away from home in summer was not complete without a parasol, and it was certainly needed, whether riding in an open wagon or walking on the hot sunny road.

And the tintypes Jennie mentions. Don't some of you older ones, as well as myself, remember when a picture saloon traveling on wheels used to arrive and take up its station on the green or common of the county places? Forthwith we all flocked to have our "picters took" as one old man used to say. Perhaps they weren't worth much from an artistic point of view, but some of them were not so bad at that, and it created a diversion, anyhow. I think I have one or two of old friends which I cherish, being the only semblance of their faces that I possess, also a few daguerreotypes in hinged and velvet lined cases, taken before the days of tin types and photographs. And now the latter have become so expensive that weddings or special anniversaries seem to be the only time that ordinary people can ever think of having them. Not so many years ago there was a perfect mania for having photographs taken and exchanging them with all your nearest and dearest friends and the family album kept company with the family Bible on the parlor table and was the first thing shown to visitors.

The next thing was a stereoscope and boxes of views and there are so many beautiful things to amuse now that the rising generation probably wouldn't even know what a stereoscope might be. With this I better close as I shall ramble on too long otherwise. Best wishes from SOLA

RIDING ACROSS KENTUCKY

Dear Social Corner: It was my privilege last October to take a two weeks auto trip through several of our United States and I thought some of you might enjoy reading about the state which I enjoyed most.

We left Louisville, Kentucky one bright morning after the closing of the national convention of the American Legion. Louisville is a prosperous city on the south bank of the beautiful Ohio river and we had become well acquainted with streets, hotels and important buildings during our four day sojourn there. We had even enjoyed a real Kentucky Derby at Churchill Downs as well as the hospitality of many of the city's organizations.

We traveled as straight as good roads could take us eastward across the state of Kentucky. The first few miles were through market-garden and fruit regions and also the famous "blue grass" country. The Daniel Boone highway was of concrete and as we sped along I wondered what Daniel would say at the sight of all the autos.

Of course, we stopped at Bardstown, the location of "My Old Kentucky Home" and also at Hodgensville to see Abraham Lincoln's birthplace. As we rode on I noticed how many peculiar red blotches of soil there were mixed with the brown and some one remarked that it had been said that Kentucky meant "the dark and bloody ground."

I saw many trees with mistletoe growing in the topmost branches. One of the interesting sights was a sorghum mill in operation. This particular mill was run by the entire family. Father cut the stalks and brought them to press, a boy fed the fire under the evaporator, mother stirred the cooking syrup over under the trees, a girl was setting a table for lunch while a small child played nearby on the ground, and last, but not least, the old gray mule trod round and round a well worn path and kept the sorghum mill turning. It happened to be Saturday and everywhere people were going to town for the week's supplies. Some were on horseback. I saw three on one horse. Some rode on mules or in carts drawn by mules. Whole families were riding on two horse wagons. Sometimes there was a chair for an older member of the family and always a bundle of hay for the horse.

The road curved and wound in and out and at last we came to a quite steep grade. Our road map told us we were climbing the Clinch mountains. On and up we kept going around curves and many times were able to see the road far ahead and above as well as look back on the way we had just traveled below us. We marveled at the many cornfields on the steep mountain sides to right and left of the roads and saw here and there a shabby cabin. Sometimes we caught a glimpse of pitiful looking children and realized that these were some of the mountain white people for whom Hoover built a school and that the corn patches probably meant corn liquor. The summit was reached at last and we looked down on the town of Cumberland Gap. We had just as far to go down as we had just climbed, but what a view was spread before us. It reminded me of the John Fox stories and how much Cumberland Gap must have looked like a Land of Promise to the characters in his books.

The remainder of the ride across Kentucky was rather uneventful after what we had just experienced. But it was all so interesting at the time and as I thought of the trip I didn't know but what some of the Social Corner folk would like to hear about my ride across Kentucky.

THE COMING OF THE BIRDS

Dear Social Corner: Do you know, I am awfully behind the times? The orioles had their nest almost finished before I even thought of putting out any yarn for them. They found some of the hair trimmed from Dandy's sandy mane and have made their nest almost entirely of it. It isn't as gay as it might have been if I had remembered the yarn in time, but it certainly looks durable.

The cedar waxwings have arrived and they will welcome some bright colored nesting material when they are ready to build, but that is some time away. They are not as skillful as the orioles, but they love to get yarn to work with. Sometimes they will come to the tree for it before we have gone into the house from hanging it out for them.

Twice we have found a chimney swift in the west room where it has come down the chimney and out through the stove-pipe hole. The baby birds require a great deal of attention and I suppose the mother bird gets so flustered she doesn't realize where she is flying. Erwin has "hypnotized" her each time, but she doesn't stay asleep as long as some other birds.

There are robin nests in every direction—almost as many nests as there are apple trees on the farm, I guess, for some trees have more than one tenant. Some of the eggs are hatched, but others are still being hovered by the mother birds. The parents of the youngsters have found that my garden is a splendid place to find food and it is seldom that I work there long without having one or two following me up and down the paths looking for the worms that I turn out.

A song sparrow has its nest at the end of the row of rhubarb and the boys have marked the nest with a stick so that no one will step on it. Last year there was a nest under the bank, but a hawk got the baby birds when they were half-grown.

The hawthorne bushes always shelter several cipping sparrow's nests and the mother bird will sit seemingly unconcerned while the cattle nibble at the tender green leaves and rock the bushes about perilously. Perhaps they think that there is less danger of the eggs rolling out if they stay and watch them.

The kingbirds always come back to the same branch in the same old apple tree out in the pasture. They have a fine view of the valley from the oak trees and the male is always on the alert and ready to drive out any hawk or crow that dares to show his beak in the valley. Did you ever see the nestlings? They are covered with a fine, long, white down and look so fluffy and adorable one hates to see them begin to feather out into the rather drab gray feathers which they wear as they grow older.

The wrens are out around my pool nearly every time I go out there. I haven't been able to discover whether they bathe there or whether they have a nest in the tree over it. I wouldn't be surprised if they lived, ate and bathed there! I guess one of the calves got too inquisitive the other day for she got loose and went wandering in the garden, winding up her journey by falling in the pool. It didn't hurt either the pool or the calf but the lady's slippers and violets needed some doctoring when I saw them. Yours for more and better fences.

FIGHT THE PESTS

Dear Editor and Sisters: Memorial day will be gone before this is printed; I hope it will be a nice sunny day, though not as hot as last year, as it seems as though we should have a pleasant day rather than cold and rainy.

People are having some trouble getting flowers out of the state, as there are inspectors ready to confiscate all flowers that are not from inspected areas. I believe the Japanese beetle is the cause now, as well as corn borer. I wonder, though, how they keep the moth from flying over when ever it pleases. Any flower that has a hollow stem will harbor corn borer larvae. While they will not feed on it as long as there is corn to be had they will use it as a home for the winter and during the mid-summer period. There are two complete cycles during a summer. The moth hatching out and laying the eggs into the corn blossom, or tassel, where it hatches, and the grub or borer eats down into the stalk. After it gets its full growth, it will find a nice resting place and retire, to come forth a moth. Later in the season, it will lay the eggs in the corn silk in the top of the ear. On hatching, the borer this time goes into the ear instead of the stalk. They multiply so rapidly that if intensive treatment isn't given the infected areas they are soon out of bounds. The small back yard gardens cause a lot of trouble as many times people think there is no cause for worry in such a small space and don't bother to properly clean up after harvest. In the large corn fields, the corn is cut close to the ground and put into ensilage. Between Oct. 1 and Dec. 1 the ground should be thoroughly plowed and the fence rows cleaned up and the growth burned. Golden rod makes a lovely home, as well as bitter weeds. By plowing when cold, the borer hatches out under the dirt where it is warmer, and probably thinks (if it does think) that it is time to go to work, so climbs to the surface, where it soon freezes as there is no protection for it. In the back yard garden all corn stalks, dahlia, gladiolus, etc., that are left should be burned. Around here we can't realize what they really do to a corn field. In the western half of Rhode Island the conditions are terrible. Whole fields of corn just beginning to ear are broken down where

LODGE NOTES

JUNIOR AMERICAN MECHANICS

Buckingham Council, No. 14, held its regular meeting Wednesday, Vice Councilor Walter F. Krohn, presiding. The business of the evening was put through in regular form.

The dance committee made a good report on the opening dance at Happyland casino. Bro. Wilton Hoxie was reported still on the sick list. The meeting was closed at 9.15, after which the members played pinochle.

DEGREE OF POCAHONTAS

Sebequanash Council, No. 11, held its regular meeting Wednesday evening at the Buckingham memorial, with Pocahontas Hilda Jensen in the chair. Ida Clifford reported a good sum realized from the whist and pinochle. The social chairman announced a card party. The next meeting on the 11th of June, will start at 7, instead of 8.

One of the members who has belonged to the organization a great many years, was given a life membership. The council was instituted 36 years ago this month. The anniversary is being planned for next month. The members are planning for the annual reunion that is to be held in Savin Rock, June 18.

The next meeting is for nomination of officers.

PATRONS OF HUSBANDRY

Norwich grange, No. 172, held its regular meeting in Grange hall, Wednesday evening with Worthy Master A. W. Lillibridge presiding. All officers but two were present. A memorial service was held at the lecturer's hour and was very impressive. Five members have passed to the great beyond in the last year. The programme was: Hymn by the grange, Blest be the Tie that Binds; scripture and prayer by chaplain, Rev. G. W. Potter; reading, The Reaper (Longfellow), Miss Beulah Rogers; roll call of deceased members by worthy master; placing of flowers and extinguishing of candles, Miss Belle Rathbone; memorial address, Rev. Myron E. Genter, district superintendent of Methodist churches; solo and Taps by Mrs. Anne Niles, accompanied by Mrs. Mabel Stebbins; benediction, chaplain. Refreshments of sandwiches, cookies and coffee were served by Division E. The lecturer, Elizabeth W. Murray, turned in $101.85, the receipts of the play, Sally of the Music Store. A clam chowder is to be served at Grange hall, June 9, to the officers, tableaux and degree teams of Norwich grange by Brother Brooks of Mystic grange. The time is 7 o'clock, daylight saving.

A prize essay contest is to be the next lecturer's program.

CATHOLIC LADIES OF COLUMBUS

The regular social meeting of Mercier assembly, No. 12, was held Tuesday evening with the president, Miss Margaret R. Sullivan, presiding.

Mrs. Elizabeth O'Neill, chairman of the house committee, pleasantly surprised the members by having all the assembly equipment moved upstairs and the new living room, which has been partitioned off by lattice work, arranged for an informal opening. All the members present expressed their pleasure over the comfortable and charming new home of Mercier assembly.

Although the Catholic Ladies of Columbus still control the meeting rooms downstairs, as well as T. A. B. hall, they have agreed to sub-lease their former meeting rooms to the local Diocesan Bureau of Social Service, which will occupy them from June 1.

After routine business was transacted, Rev. John J. Reilly, speaker of the evening, was introduced. He very touchingly and fittingly spoke upon the Blessed Virgin, this being the month dedicated to her honor.

A social hour followed, during which ice cream and cookies were served by Mrs. Isabelle Hogan and her committee.

The Mad Masquerade

By

FAY MULHOLLEN

THE WAYS OF CUPID ARE INSCRUTABLE; AT LEAST SO AZALEA THOUGHT WHEN THEY UNMASKED AT THE FANCY-DRESS BALL WHERE SHE IMPERSONATED HER MISTRESS

PRISCILLA NORRIS drew her silverbacked brush through her dark, glistening hair. "And so," she concluded, "you'll have to go to the masquerade ball in my place, Azalea."

"Without telling—your husband?" she asked breathlessly.

Priscilla laughed, the lazy, thrilling laugh that so many women had tried in vain to imitate.

"That's the most important part, Azalea. Schuy must never suspect for a moment that you are you. Just keep your mouth shut, or answer him in monosyllables, and he'll never suspect."

"But what about—unmasking? He'll know me then."

"I'll leave that to your own ingenuity, Azalea. Pretend a headache and come home early, or tell him casually that you're going home with some one else or to some place else. He's used to having me do any or all of those things and he won't be at all surprised. In fact, he'll probably be expecting it."

"It doesn't seem quite—right," Azalea sighed, eying Priscilla's costume wistfully. Priscilla would have a different costume, of course. No ordinary costume for her. No; her costume was that of a Hopi maiden of the marriageable age. It wasn't in the heavy woolens, handwoven, that the authentic Hopi maidens wear, but copied in silk—the dark blue underdress, the brightly colored belt and the brilliant shawl. There were bracelets of silver and turquoise and squash-blossom necklaces, also of silver and turquoise, to complete the costume, but the outstanding feature of the thing was the mask, created especially for Priscilla by one of the best artists. You knew that it couldn't be real, but when Priscilla put it on, behold! a Hopi maiden looked at you with the eyes of Priscilla Norris.

"It's settled then," said Priscilla firmly. "You'll go in my place. Let's see—it's nearly 5 now. I'll dress your hair myself right now—I know just how those squash-blossom rolls are manipulated. It's the luckiest thing in the world you are as dark-haired as I am. Imagine a blond Hopi maiden."

"But I haven't really said I'd do it," said Azalea in a tiny little voice.

"Oh, you will," said Priscilla. "I'll dress your hair this minute and then run along. You can have your dinner right here in my room, so you needn't see Schuy until time to go."

She pushed Azalea into a chair in front of the dressing table and began taking down her hair.

AZALEA was scarcely the name that one would expect a governess to possess, but, nevertheless, Azalea Monvell was governess and companion in the Norris family. That is, she was governess to the charming 6-year-old Prissy Norris and secretary-companion to her equally charming mother, Priscilla Norris. Up until this matter of the masquerade she had nothing at all to do with Schuyler Norris, father and husband, respectively, of Prissy and Priscilla.

At first glance it would seem that Azalea was pretty well occupied, but, as a matter of fact, she had long stretches of free time on her hands. Prissy had music lessons, riding lessons, fencing lessons, swimming lessons, and tutors for everything but French. Azalea was free at these times to act as secretary and companion to Priscilla, but since Priscilla was scarcely ever at home, that didn't take up much of Azalea's time. Priscilla answered all of her invitations by telephone and gave them the same way, so all the writing that Azalea had to do was to write three or four letters at Christmastime, thanking that many of Priscilla's relatives for gifts which Priscilla had already given to the cook or had stored in the basement. At other times Azalea had no secretarial duties at all—only the name.

Azalea should have been very well satisfied, for her salary was excellent, and in a way she was. She liked Priscilla and adored Prissy, but she was often very lonely. Priscilla, when she thought of it, was very nice about introducing handsome young men to Azalea, but since all the young men had come to the house for the express purpose of feasting their eyes on Priscilla, Azalea didn't profit at all.

Priscilla's brother, Hanlon Wilde, was often at the house, but he was too shy to live. If Azalea looked at him, he blushed, and if she spoke, he began to stammer and his knees went wabbly. Priscilla said he had always been that way about girls and dismissed the matter airily, so Azalea gave up noticing him at all.

Now, Priscilla had called on Azalea to go to the masquerade ball in her place. Priscilla was ready with glib explanations of why she had to be somewhere else tonight and why it was absolutely necessary that Schuyler Norris should not know it. The whole thing was a puzzle to Azalea, but she had long since given up trying to understand Priscilla or her actions. It wasn't exactly the thing to do, Azalea thought, to pretend to be Priscilla—but, oh, how she did want to go to that ball! When you haven't had any fun among people of your own age for three or four years the prospect of a gay affair can't be dismissed with a shrug of shoulders.

Then, too, Priscilla said that if Azalea wouldn't go she'd find some one else who would, and there was no harm in it at all, and presently Azalea was not only persuaded but had managed to convince herself that it was perfectly all right.

She watched while Priscilla's deft fingers created smooth rolls of shining black hair at either side of her small, creamy-white face. Her eyes seemed larger, darker and more lustrous.

"There!" said Priscilla at length. "Your hairdress is completed! Now, for heaven's sake, be careful not to muss it when you dress! Let's see how you look in the mask!"

She snatched it up from the dressing table and covered Azalea's face. "Perfect!" she cried. "It looks far too natural to be a mask. One would take you for an Indian maid—Hokona, the maiden butterfly, or butterfly maiden, as you choose."

"Is Hokona the Hopi word for butterfly maiden?" asked Azalea.

"At any rate, that's what it means, but whether the word is Hopi, Aztec, Navajo or Apache is something I don't know," said Priscilla. "Not that it matters. You can call yourself Hokona without having to worry about running into any authority on Indian dialects at a Mayfair ball!"

AZALEA stood looking at herself in the mirror, enthralled. Her eyes seemed a part of the mask. "Queer way to do the hair, isn't it?" she asked.

"It signifies," said Priscilla, "that you are looking for a husband. The Hopi maidens are quite frank that way. Well, I'm on my way. Now, remember, whatever Schuy says, you're Priscilla Norris. You mustn't give me away! I hope you have a perfectly marvelous time!" She was gone, and Azalea was left alone with the mask and the costume.

After a while a maid brought dinner on a tray and Azalea ate it in a sort of half-daze. As soon as she had finished eating she began dressing, slipping into the garments carefully lest she misplace a single hair on her head. It was quite a bit later that she adjusted the mask with hands that trembled from excitement. She leaned forward and looked at herself in the mirror. She was no longer Azalea Monvell, governess and secretary; she was Hokona, the butterfly maiden, looking for a husband.

She practiced walking in front of the mirror, turned and twisted, and eyed herself from every angle.

It seemed a very short time had elapsed before there came a knock at the door and she opened it to a man dressed in an odd Indian costume. His mask was a grotesque thing, with a long, hooked nose.

"How do you like me?" he demanded. "I'm Kwatska, the man-eagle, come to escort you to the big corn dance."

Azalea was a little circumspect in her reply. Priscilla had failed to mention whether she had seen Schuy's costume and what he was supposed to represent.

"I like my own mask better," said Azalea.

"Naturally! Yours looks like a face. Mine isn't even supposed to, you know. I'm an eagle-dancer and we wear these masks in our dance. Don't tell me you didn't know that, Priscilla!"

So that was it! Azalea was quite silent while she got a cape to wrap herself in; she didn't want to make any mistakes. "Answer him in monosyllables," Priscilla had said, and that seemed the best thing to do.

Aside from saying good morning and good evening to him, Azalea had never spoken to Schuyler Norris in the three years she had been a member of his household. Often whole weeks went by without her even seeing him. And now she was playing the part of his wife!

In the car she did not say a word.

"Why so silent tonight, Priscilla?" he inquired, lighting a cigarette.

"I didn't know that I was particularly silent," she answered. That seemed safe enough, but suddenly she found his hands closing over hers.

"You seem like yourself tonight," he said. "More like—the girl I love, and not like the chattering Priscilla of these last few months."

She found the pressure of his hands not unpleasant, and she reproached herself wildly. Why had she ever given in to Priscilla's request? She was panic-stricken. Obviously she could not jerk away from him, or that might provoke a quarrel which the real Priscilla would find hard to explain. On the other hand, she didn't want Schuyler Norris making love to her under the delusion that he was making love to his wife. And then there was her promise to Priscilla that she wouldn't give her away.

It was a very distressing situation and Azalea drew a sigh of relief when they drew up and stopped in front of the hotel where the Mayfair Club was holding its annual masquerade. While she was here she felt she could avoid any more scenes like the one in the car. Later in the evening she meant to slip away as Priscilla had instructed her—perhaps sending word by some other person to let him know she had gone.

ORDINARILY Azalea would have felt a big thrill at walking through the lobby in her costume, but she was so occupied with her thoughts that she was halfway to the ballroom before she became conscious of her surroundings.

"The girls are using Room 502 as a dressing room," some one told her, propelling her into an elevator.

"Meet you right here," Schuyler called as the elevator began to ascend.

Two Marie Antoinettes were glaring at each other while they pretended to powder in front of the dressing table in Room 502. A gypsy dancer and a pirate talked together in one corner; others in various costumes were in the room. There was a little gasp when Azalea came in.

"My dear, you're too perfect!" said one of the Marie Antoinettes, turning away from the dressing table. "I'd no idea your costume would look like that!"

Azalea made no reply. She hadn't bargained for this and her heart began to thump and pound.

"Why don't you say something?" demanded the pirate. "We all know you, Priscilla. Your costume is divine!"

"Thank you," said Azalea, attempting to imitate the husky tones of Priscilla Norris.

There was little she could do in the dressing room, but she put down her cape and smoothed her hair a little.

"The maid's in the other room," said the pirate. "Jacqueline Barlow came as the Queen of Sheba—she would—and some of her strings of beads have broken. The maid's trying to get her fixed so she can appear in public."

Azalea started through the door and the gypsy came after her. "Wait for me, Priscilla. I'll go down with you."

They walked along together to the elevator. It was queer, Azalea thought, how easy it was for her to slip into the atmosphere, actually to seem part of it.

Schuyler was waiting for her at the elevator, as he had said he would.

"Thought you'd never come down!" he grumbled. "It seems to me I waited an hour for you."

Azalea laughed. It was, she thought, a very fair imitation of that lazy, thrilling laugh of Priscilla's. It ought to be; she had spent enough time practicing it—all that of course, when Priscilla was absent and Prissy was occupied.

They entered the ballroom—the famous silver salon of the hotel. There were potted palms and great masses of flowers; the lights were shaded and a kind of silver mist seemed to envelop the room. There were two orchestras, and when one stopped playing the other began.

Schuy swung her out on the floor. It had been several years since Azalea had danced, but tonight she floated over the floor without a single misstep. It was, she thought, the most wonderful dance she had ever experienced, and without volition she said so.

"Oh, I loved that!" she breathed when one strain of music ended and another began.

"Did you?" her escort asked, and his arm tightened about her. "I'm crazy about you tonight," he said.

Azalea liked his arm close about her and she drifted along in an ineffable silence. It seemed not to matter in the least to her that she was in the arms of another woman's husband. Presently a Spanish cavalier cut in.

"Let's see," he said. "We Spaniards conquered the Indians, didn't we? Seems to me I've heard of the Indian slaves."

"We have to be captured first," said Azalea. "And I haven't been."

"I see," he answered. "Just how does one go about this capturing business?"

"I don't know," she answered. "You remember I told you I hadn't been. You should know, you're of the conquering race."

"Darling! Darling!" he said in her ear. "You're wonderful tonight!"

"I'm afraid you don't know who I am," she replied.

"Oh, Priscilla—when you showed me your costume yourself!" His arm pressed her to him, but she didn't like it at all. It seemed—disloyal. Disloyal to a man whose wife she was impersonating.

She was glad when a Scotchman in kilts rescued her.

"How's the lassie tonight," he asked her.

"Fine! Isn't it a wonderful ball?"

"So long as you are here, Priscilla, anything would be wonderful."

Azalea felt like wringing Priscilla's neck. Evidently Priscilla had told all her friends and acquaintances what she meant to wear and shown her costume to as many as possible—and probably all the time she hadn't meant to come at all!

HER Indian escort cut in again; they danced for a little while, then he led her to a secluded seat. "Let's talk for a while, girl," he said. "I never have a moment alone with you at the house."

"I'd rather dance," she faltered.

"Oh, come, come," he said; "you can dance until morning, but it's very rarely that you have a chance to talk to me like this, now, isn't it?"

He looked around swiftly to make sure that they were quite alone, then brushed her hair with his lips. "You're too adorable tonight!" he said.

"Please," she said, "lets dance."

"Well, if you like," he conceded reluctantly. "Personally, I'd rather stay right here."

They went back to the dance floor and Azalea was cut in on again and again, but she could never be rid of Schuy for very long. Not that she wanted to—she didn't at all—but it was nearly midnight, when every one would unmask, and she hadn't made any excuse to slip away. She had promised Priscilla that she wouldn't let Schuy know! It was very hard to know what to do.

"Your husband is certainly keeping an eagle eye on you tonight, Priscilla," the Spanish cavalier told her once. "He is rushing you off your feet."

"He's a man-eagle," she told him lamely, because she could think of nothing better to say. "I suppose that accounts for the eagle eye."

AND again the gypsy spoke to her in passing. "How do you do it, Priscilla"

"Do what?" she asked in astonishment.

"Keep your husband so interested after nearly eight years of married life? I'd like your receipe; my husband quit dancing with me after we'd been married eight months."

"Perhaps," said Azalea sweetly, "your dancing didn't improve with age."

Every time that her escort danced with her, Azalea experienced a thrill. He held her close to him and, now and then, murmured endearing names. She felt at first that it wasn't right to feel like that, but after a while she ceased to think about it at all and merely thrilled in response to his presence.

"They're going to have a grand march by the judges," he told her, "and after the best costumes are chosen we're to unmask."

The music ceased and some one was making an announcement. Azalea felt a little ill and her knees were shaky. She racked her brain in vain for an excuse to get away. Then, miraculously, Schuyler came to her rescue.

"That's always a lot of foolishness," he told her. "What do you say we slip away and go up to the roof garden?"

Azalea didn't know there was one, but she assented like a prisoner who has just been granted a reprieve.

They took the elevator—up, up, up. She counted the stories.

"Twelve," he told her. "The roof garden's on the twelfth floor. Had you forgotten?"

She was panicky. It would be too bad to give Priscilla away after she had done nobly so far.

The elevator let them out in a corridor which opened on the roof garden. It was unlighted and quite deserted. Schuy led her unhesitantingly to a seat at the farther end, beneath a clump of shrubs of some kind.

"Sit here," he commanded, and when she sat down he was at her side with his arms around her. Queer, how safe she felt in his arms, how perfectly right and proper it seemed. She wondered what he would say if she should tell him that she was Azalea Monvell, the governess.

He took off his mask and laid it to one side, but she could not make out his features in the deep shadow.

"Take off your mask," he said to her. "I can't kiss you with that thing on."

"I'd rather leave it on," she said; "it's so hard to adjust."

"Well, you won't be putting it back on, you know." He put his hands to her face, and before she realized it he had gently removed the mask and his lips had found hers. Azalea struggled feebly, not because she wanted to, but because she thought she should. It wasn't right, she told herself fiercely, that Priscilla Norris should value her husband's kisses so lightly that she fairly made another girl take her place. It was Priscilla's fault that she was here, Priscilla's fault that Schuy was kissing her and she was returning his kisses.

"I never knew," he said in a low, husky voice, "that you loved me like that!"

"Neither did I," admitted Azalea frankly. And she hadn't. Who would have thought that Schuyler Norris, the distant, could make love like that? Azalea wanted him; she was in love with him. And he thought that he was making love to his wife.

Azalea lifted her lips to his again; she was slightly delirious. It seemed that nothing mattered except the fact that the time would presently come when they would go home. Tomorrow he wouldn't even know she existed, except as the name on a check he signed once a month. But at the moment tomorrow seemed far distant.

THERE was the low rumble of thunder and Schuy laughed exultantly. "I love a storm at night, don't you, sweet?"

Azalea had always hated storms at night, but now she could think of nothing more pleasant than a storm with her held close and safe in Schuyler Norris' arms.

"Oh, yes," she whispered. "I adore them!"

The thunder rumbled again, and the air grew still and electric.

Azalea buried her head on Schuy's shoulder and shivered with ecstasy. She didn't want him to see her face in case a flash of lightning should suddenly make the place as light as day. Tomorrow, and all the tomorrows to come, she could watch Schuyler Norris swinging along through the house and remember that she had buried her face in his shoulder. She hadn't known that he was so strong and comforting—but then, one didn't think of things like that in connection with the husband of one's employer. But from now on Azalea knew that she would be terribly conscious of Schuyler.

"One more kiss," he said, "and then we must dash for the elevator. I think it's going to pour in a second. Besides, it's time to go home, anyway!"

They stood up and he took her in his arms. She shut her eyes for his kiss. Azalea opened her eyes just as a blinding flash of lightning played over the roof. It was followed by another, and yet a third.

Azalea stood astonished, forgetting to cover her face. The man who was kissing her was not Schuyler Norris, the husband of Priscilla!

She saw him all too plainly in the brilliant flash of lightning. It was Hanlon Wilde, Priscilla's brother! Hanlon, who was too shy to live, kissing her with all the aplomb and—Azalea admitted it—experienced ardor of a modern Don Juan. At first Azalea was puzzled and a little angry. Then a flood of relief and happiness surged through her. She wasn't in love with another woman's husband; she hadn't been deceiving her escort at all. The kisses she had received had never been intended for Priscilla—men didn't go around kissing their sisters like that!

"Why—oh—how—" gasped Azalea.

Hanlon laughed, a perfectly calm, self-possessed laugh.

"Are you angry?" he asked.

"No-o," she returned. "But I don't understand."

"I've been in love with you for a year," he said, "but I never got up nerve enough to do more than speak to you. All girls make me shy and you all but annihilated me. When I saw you, I was sunk for sure. I tried to talk to you a dozen times, but I just couldn't do it."

THIS was Hanlon Wilde—who stammered when he tried to speak to her, who blushed when she looked at him! Azalea couldn't quite get it all through her head.

"I still don't understand," she said.

"I'm trying to tell you. Finally I broke down and confessed to Priscilla—she's a great sister. She thought up this affair. She said I wouldn't be shy or afraid of you if I was masked so you wouldn't know me. She was right—I wasn't shy at all."

"No," said Azalea, remembering his kisses. "You weren't a bit shy."

"And now," he pleaded, "tell me you do love me—this me, and not Schuyler Norris. You weren't—just pretending to be Priscilla when you returned my kisses, were you? And you weren't kissing me because I was—Schuyler Norris, were you?"

"No," said Azalea, her voice shaking a little. "I kissed you because I wanted to. I thought you were Schuy, all right; but, you know, that didn't seem to make any difference. Nothing mattered except the fact that you were kissing me."

"In that case," he said, "I'll do it again."

The rain came down in torrents, but neither of them was aware of it; they were above the clouds. Hokona, the butterfly maiden of marriageable age, who had gone out looking for a husband, had found one.

DEFECTIVE BRAKES CAUSES STEINBERG'S ARREST

Alex Steinberg of 23 North Bank street, New London was arrested by Traffic Officer Howard Lamphere, Friday afternoon at 5:30 p. m. when the car he was driving toward New London failed to stop at the Uncasville Four Corners and caused a slight accident. He will be tried before Justice of the Peace Oscar E. Church this (Saturday) morning at 10:30.

Many local sporting fans attended the races at the Norwich Fairgrounds Friday.

Officer Howard Lamphere was called Thursday evening to investigate an accident at Newton's Corner, Uncasville. A truck driven by Floyd R. Pierce, of 11 Langdon street, Springfield, Mass., owned by the H. L. Handy Co. of that place crashed into a tree while the driver was trying to avoid a collision. No arrests were made.

Max Miller of Mystic was a caller Friday on friends at Uncasville.

The newly organized Montville Independents, under the management of Armand Plouffe assisted by Frenchy Caron will try and give the local baseball fans plenty of action this season, playing Sunday ball on the Gair diamond. WESTERLY

PROVIDENCE AUTO PARTY OWE ACCIDENT TO DRINK

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., May 30.—Alexandre Pinelli, 27, of 5 Woodland street, Providence, alleged drunken driver of a Chevrolet roadster overturned about midnight Thursday on the Noosenack Hill road curve, and his intoxicated companion, William Winslow, 20, of 285 Broadway, Providence, continued locked up Memorial day at Westerly police station. The wife of the driver of the car, in which all the glass was smashed as it crashed into a guard rail when overturning, escaped with minor bruises and scratches. Another passenger on the rumble seat, Leo Parnelli, 24, brother of the driver, residing at 44 Victor avenue, Providence, who was placed in an ambulance and taken to the Westerly hospital, was reported in an unchanged condition Friday afternoon at the hospital, where he was attended by Dr. John Champlin, Jr. He has a bad contusion on his head, suffered concussion of the brain and possible fracture of the skull.

The driver claimed to have lost control of his car when on his way to visit an uncle, Paul Lisobel, residing in Ansonia, Conn., and as he was rounding the curve in the highway a car approaching in the opposite direction caused him to be forced to the side of the highway. A telephone call received by Lieutenant Champlin on duty in Dion square reported a serious automobile accident and Officers McCarthy and Kessel were sent to investigate. Questioning of the driver and occupants made them troublesome for the police and force was used to take Winslow and A. Pinelli to the Westerly police station, where Medical Examiner Dr. Michael H. Scanlon found them to be under the influence of liquor. It was reported they admitted drinking before they left Providence.

At the site of the accident the Westerly police as well as State Trooper H. C. Lewis of the Hope Valley barracks were alert in slowing down heavy motor traffic to prevent further accidents.

NORTH STONINGTON BOY BADLY BITTEN BY DOG

Richard Dupont, 14, son of Mrs. Francis Dupont of North Stonington, sustained painful lacerations of his upper lip when bitten by a neighbor's dog shortly after noon, Memorial day. The boy was brought to the office of Dr. Linwood H. Johnson in Westerly and then was taken to Westerly hospital where he was given attention by Dr. Johnson. As far as was known Friday the dog was not affected with rabies, but the attack of the dog upon the boy badly frightened his mother. In view of cases of affected dogs in Rhode Island, where Dr. Thomas E. Robinson, of Westerly, state veterinarian, with the sanction of Rhode Island commissioner of agriculture, has ordered a quarantine, a careful watch is being kept on the condition of both the boy and the dog.

INCREASED MEMBERS IN MEMORIAL DAY PARADE

A much larger Memorial day parade than that of the past few years, headed by Motorcycle Officers Madison and Kessel with Capt. Shelby C. Nicholas, marshal, and aides, moved through Dixon square at 9:45 a. m. Friday, to halt on the Pawcatuck river bridge for memorial services to the sailors dead before proceeding to the Pawcatuck World war memorial and to St. Michael's and River Bend cemeteries. A splendid showing was made by the new instrumental units; beside the Westerly band, for the first time in a Memorial Day parade the new drum and bugle corps of Harold W. Merrill post, No. 18, American Legion, and the Admiral Herbert O. Dunn corps of the Westerly Sea Scouts were a feature in their white sailor uniforms. The program and order of march was the same as announced in Thursday morning's Bulletin. Returning from River Bend cemetery the last organization to complete the line of march was Battery E, 243rd Regiment, R. I. C. A. C. (H. D.) which returned to the Dixon street state armory for dismissal at 12:30.

Westerly shore resorts, Watch Hill, Misquamicut, Atlantic beach and Weekapaug, had many motor visitors over Memorial Day. Besides summer residents who came to the beach to open their cottages for the day for themselves and to entertain guests, many trippers took advantage of a pleasant morning to go to the beach. To care for much of this holiday travel to the shore the street surface of West Broad street in Pawcatuck which has been torn up for installation of wires underground, was cleared up in time to be most appreciated by the Connecticut motorists who had to use this thoroughfare to get to the various points in Rhode Island.

Friday morning session of the Third District court, Judge Oliver H. Williams on the bench, was short by reason of the legal holiday.

Business disposed of included:

Civil docket—Thomas Michaelwitz vs. Charles H. Green; Dr. John E. Ruisi vs. Geneva Mitchell; William W. Backus hospital vs. George James, each continued one week.

Equitable Life Insurance Co. vs. C. C. Maxson. Judge Edward M. Burke appeared in court to state that the respondent, now residing in Florida, had practically consummated a settlement, but asked for four weeks' continuance to June 27th, which was granted. Paul Uzzi vs. Mary DeSimone. Continued one week.

All records for traffic through Westerly so far this season were broken in the pre-holiday rush Thursday night, Friday forenoon and even into Friday afternoon. On the New Haven railroad, through express trains were operated in sections and doubleheaders were operated on motor bus lines. Private autos with plates of N. Y., N. J., Penn., and even Michigan and Ohio, together with those of R. I. and Conn., seemed to pass in unbroken procession, the heavier traffic being east-bound. With the hold-up in traffic during the Memorial Day parade and exercises on Pawcatuck river bridge a line of motor cars was stopped with some declared reached to Stonington. At the Connecticut side of the Pawcatuck river Officers Simeon Shortman and Adin R. Sheldon cared for traffic, while on the Westerly side, on duty besides Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown, were: Lieut. George H. Champlin, Motorcycle Officers George L. Madison and Robert M. Kessel, and Patrolmen Leroy H. Norman, Frank E. Knight, Paul McCarthy, Alexander Mitchell and Thomas VanB. Clancy.

Mrs. Elizabeth R. Chester, widow of Albert L. Chester, who on Wednesday suffered a shock at her home, 2 Dixon street, and was taken to the Westerly hospital, showed no change for the better Friday. Her left side appeared to be affected, but she was able to make herself partially understood.

Arnold H. Burdick, who has been confined to his home on Spring street for several weeks as the result of a shock, continues a little more comfortable.

Invitations have been issued by Mr. and Mrs. Henry Whitworth Sutcliffe of 3 Park avenue, for the wedding of their daughter, Miss Ruth Orstia Sutcliffe, and James Wilber Hawkins, this (Saturday), May 31, at 9 o'clock at the Church of the Immaculate Conception.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis M. Johnson and daughter, are motor visitors over the week end to Bowdoinham, Me., to visit Mr. Johnson's father, who is recovering from illness.

Mr. and Mrs. Lucius P. Burtch of Plainfield, N. J., former residents of Westerly, were Memorial day guests of Mrs. Charles Leonard in Pawcatuck.

Councilman Isaac G Smith, Mrs. Smith and sons, Isaac, Jr., and Gordon, and Misses Mary L. Burdick and Ruth C. Burdick were members of a motor party which left Westerly Memorial day for Amherst, Mass., for several days' visit with their uncle, Harmon J. Kelsey and family, former residents of Stonington.

When the fishing fleet came into the packing house dock recently with a good load of blue fish for a blue Monday on the salt water, boat Baby had 10 barrels, the Ethel H had 12 barrels, the Ada and Sarah had 14. The boat Idelia came in with 15 barrels making a catch of 51 barrels of fish at that dock. With two more docks to hear from, a young fellow was down at the packing house dock to get some fish for Tuesday's dinner. Capt. Billie Balerstrine of the Baby gave him a few flat fish also a cod. So going home with the fish under his arm everybody he met said, "Been fishing?" "Sure!" came the answer. "Caught them in 30 minutes off the dock!" Reaching home O. K. the lady of the house said "Did you get any fish?" "Plenty! did it with my little pole and hook!" They were not cleaned so she said, "I will clean the fish! This is the first time I ever saw any salt water fish, being from the state of Missouri where fresh fish run like water on a tin roof!" So the western lady got out the tools to operate on the Block Island fish while several stood by to watch her. She only had a pair of scissors to start with, cutting off the fins and the tails, like cutting out a dress for herself. The onlookers gave her the laugh, with scissors to clean fish. But, taking it easy, she did the first one all right. One man who has cleaned more fish than any other in the village claims he never saw anything like it to operate on a fish with a pair of scissors. "That beats anything I ever saw! That ought to be put in the fishermen's book, with her picture. The old salts who have seen many sea gulls on the water for the last 50 years will have to take off their hats to the western lady for cleaning fish with scissors all ready for the frying pan!" The friends wanted to know where she learned that trick. "Well, out in St. Louis where I came from there is all fresh water fish. Once I saw a German fisherman cleaning them with a pair of scissors. I watched how it was done but it sure is a trick, yet better than a knife when you learn it O. K. So I tried it once and did it all right. When I came to Noank I heard it was a fishing village where fish are thick as flies on a cow's back. Monday night was my first time to see or clean a salt water fish." Coming to a large cod, and cutting into his stomach my scissors hit something hard. Cutting around it so as not to spoil it, getting the mystery prize out I found it was two gold ear rings. No letters or make were on them. They seemed to 25 in good shape. "14 k gold" is on the left side with a white stone in the center. Well that sure was a lucky fish the kind fisherman gave up! Some lady on a steamer bound from New York to Boston might have lost those earrings overboard in some way.

The Block Island cod brought luck to the western lady on her first time cleaning fish. Some one said "Gee!" she might find a pair of shoes in the next fish she will clean!" It took her 25 minutes to clean six flat fish and a large cod, with only the pair of scissors to do the job. This is the best luck the fishermen had in many moons at the fishing game. If they catch a big lot, prices are low. Like getting 12 pair of socks for a dollar that is like at Fulton market; fishermen who received a check of $1.25 for six barrels of fish, a real trading stamp! When the price is high the fish will read in the morning papers and they run away and hide until they think the scare is over with the fishermen. Then big fishing schooners will run in from Newport and Boston with 200 barrels or seven boats in a fleet. That will flood Fulton market. With fish up to their necks and the fish buyer will have to throw the finny catches overboard. There is no place to put them at a low price. It don't give the Noank fleet with small boats a chance. But being blue Monday brought them great luck from the three docks, where about 300 barrels of fish were sent by trucks to Father Knickerbocker's city. Now wait until the good news comes back how much they brought for a blue Monday! The fishermen hope a big price, for all winter they did not fish more than half time.

For four straight weeks the fleet went out and three times the wind came up the harbor, or a blizzard came for a few days. Many fishermen had the codfish blues. Houses needed painting and things like that; but here comes the story of fishing, as it was told on a roll of rope at the packing house dock not long ago. Fishing is a game of chance; you leave early in the morning as the bluebirds are sleeping, you fish all day, maybe to get one barrel. Then you will try it again the next day and bring home perhaps 10 barrels for good luck. So on the third day you will set the net and get it caught on something on the bottom, maybe an old steamer that has been sunk for many years and lose the net that is worth one hundred dollars. Well, how many fish have you got to get to pay for that net? In one week the crew might make $12—the next week $200 or more. The life of a fisherman is not all sunshine. But had big expenses. Still, you cannot quit. Just have got to keep at it. Like any gamble such as betting at a race track. One man will pick the right horse for a while then miss and pick the wrong one. That is like the fishing game; good one day and bad the next!

RADIO AUDIENCE TUNED IN FOR SEVENTH IN NORWICH BROADCAST SERIES

Norwich was on the air Friday night for the seventh time in the series of broadcasts from station WTIC at Hartford, and once again the half hour from 10 to 10.30 was filled in an entertaining and instructive way for those who listened in. This is what th eDoctor and the Schoolmaster had to say:

ANNOUNCER: As a background to my voice, you are listening to the strains of "Yankee Rose," the musical signature of the program sponsored by the Merchants bureau of the chamber of commerce, Norwich, Conn., the "Rose of New England."

For the benefit of those tuning in to this program for the first time, let us say that Norwich, Connecticut, spelled N-O-R-W-I-C-H, is in the southeastern corner of Connecticut. It is the famous town of the nine miles square, and because of its shape having been likened to a rose, it is often called the "Rose of New England." Norwich is 150 miles by highway from Boston and 168 miles by highway from New York. It is the shopping center of eastern Connecticut.

Edmund Clarence Stedman, the poet, who spent his boyhood in the city of Norwich, described the city many years later in these words:

"Guarded by circling streams and wooded mountains,
Like sentinels around a queen,
Dotted with groves and musical fountains,
The city lies serene.
And then confess—nor linger idly dally,
While sinks the lingering sun;
That of all cities in the Eastern Valley,
Ours is the fairest one."

Down at that noted landmark of Norwich, the Wauregan hotel, built in 1855, and still a favorite with the tourist and traveler, everything and everybody is bustling. The 10-mile run for the national championship was held this afternoon, under the auspices of the Duwell club, of Norwich, and the streets are still full of runners, spectators—out-of-town people from all over the country. So we find the Doctor and his old friend, the Schoolmaster, far from the crowd—out in their favorite spot on the porch of the new Norwich Inn.

SCHOOLMASTER: Well, doctor — we've seen the race! And I'll bet I'm just as tired as any of those runners we saw this afternoon!

DOCTOR: So am I! But everything went off smoothly—as smoth as silk. All credit to the Duwell club. Now let's talk about something else. I want to rest my mind. What do you think of the tariff?

SCHOOLMASTER: Doctor—when you mentioned silk and the tariff—almost in the same breath, you reminded me of the J. B. Martin Co., of Lyon's (Leon), France.

DOCTOR: J. B. Martin?—why, they're not in France They have a plant out here in Taftville.

SCHOOLMASTER: They have 12 plants, if you want to know. Ten in southern France, two in Taftville and one in Norwich. That's an international firm! J. B. Martin founded the French end of the business more than a hundred years ago.

DOCTOR: Well, this is news to me! What are they doing here in this country?

SCHOOLMASTER: The plant in Taftville dates back to the late nineties. You remember back in 1896 there was some agitation about the tariff under William McKinley. The duty on silks and velvets went skyhigh, so two years later three Frenchmen came over here on a visit to eastern Connecticut, looking for a good location for an American plant.

DOCTOR: And so they came to the Norwich district! They must have been a part of the fifty million Frenchmen that couldn't be wrong!

SCHOOLMASTER: They opened their plant under a very peculiar arrangement, so the story goes. The Norwich Construction company built a plant for them and they leased it. Inside of a month or two, fifty looms were busy. Three years later, they purchased the plant outright. Today, the fifty looms have grown to five hundred.

DOCTOR: Odd thing, isn't it, professor—sort of "hands-across-the-sea." Taftville, Norwich and Lyons (Leon)—the world-famous silk city of France!

SCHOOLMASTER: I saw silk there imported on reels from China and Japan. It's used in making chiffon-velvets for dresses and millinery. And they've worked out an artificial silk that had me guessing. As far as I could see, it had the same softness and beautiful lustre of natural silk. And they're making chiffon-velvet with that, too.

DOCTOR: Where does all the velvet go! I'll wager they've made a million miles of it since they located there SCHOOLMASTER: They're not worrying about that! They're getting wrinkles thinking about next fall! Inside information, doctor! More velvet on women's hats next fall! You know what that'll mean, don't you? A touch of velvet on fifty million hats means Norwich will be in clover!

DOCTOR: All velvet, as the saying goes. That's good news! Strike up the band.

2. Orchestra

SCHOOLMASTER: Where did this town ever pick up the name "Norwich" I've been going to ask you that question for some time,

DOCTOR: From Norwich, in old England. Why that particular name was chosen, I don't know. The reason has been lost in the fogs of time. The most natural supposition is that some of the original proprietors came from old Norwich. Major Mason, for instance—he might have suggested the name.

SCHOOLMASTER: What does the name mean?—there might be a clue in that.

DOCTOR: It must have been very appropriate to the new colony. The name is derived from North-wic, a Saxon name, signifying North Castle. When you stop to think of the piles of rock in Norwich—suggestive of walls and towers and battlements—some of them crowned with the stone forts of the Indians—the name seems most apt.

SCHOOLMASTER: This Major Mason appears to crop up in every mention of early history of Norwich. Rather a versatile man, wasn't he!

DOCTOR: Leading light of the plantation: Ever hear of Sir Thomas Fairfax, the English general? John Mason served under him in the Netherlands—helping the Dutch against Spain. We don't know exactly when Mason came to America, but the supposition is that the date was around 1630?

SCHOOLMASTER: Plymouth or Boston?

DOCTOR: Boston. And he landed a job immediately. They sent him out to capture a pirate named Dixy Bull. That accomplished, he set at work to plan the fortifications of Boston harbor. In 1635, he came down into Connecticut to help found the town of Windsor. Two years later, the general court at Hartford selected him to begin warfare against the Pequot Indians.

SCHOOLMASTER: Handy man to have in a colony!

DOCTOR: He was magistrate at Windsor for twelve years and it was there he became acquainted with Uncas. Then he came down on Long Island Sound and helped with the founding of Saybrook. He was captain of the Fort at Saybrook and commissioner of the colony for nine years.

SCHOOLMASTER: That makes three colonies he helped to found!

DOCTOR: Yes, counting Norwich. And he was deputy-governor of the colony for nine years. The rank of major made him the highest officer in the colony, and he held the rank for 35 years.

SCHOOLMASTER: What was the trouble with Saybrook?

DOCTOR: For that era, the location wasn't the best in the world. Most of the colony came up here to Norwich, the Reverend Fitch among them. There were 35 original proprietors. You'll find their names on the monument to Major Mason, and what a volume of history that stone represents, professor! Every name will be still echoing down the well-known corridors of time long after we're forgotten. That stone, professor, represents the start of 271 years of chartered government. As a community, Norwich is older than the United States! As an industrial center, as lively as any. We're still stepping along to a lively tune.

SCHOOLMASTER: We were talking about insurance companies the other day, especially fire insurance companies. You reminded me of a company here in Norwich that has stopped taking new business.

DOCTOR: Yes, I remember.

SCHOOLMASTER: I happened to run across a fire-insurance man who told me a curious fact. What would you say of a company that had 64 agents, and 35 of them that had been with the company more than 25 years.

DOCTOR: I'd say there couldn't be anything wrong with the company or the men, either.

SCHOOLMASTER: One of your Norwich companies, doctor, New London County Mutual Fire Insurance company, about 90 years old. They did fairly well, right from the beginning. In 1842, they took in about two thousand dollars in premiums and paid out a thousand dollars in losses.

DOCTOR: 1842 you say? Those were the days when a fire was a fire! None of your little, one-horse, two-candle power fires! When you turned in an alarm, you never knew whether you were going to get help or start a riot!

SCHOOLMASTER: Why, doctor, all things considered, there was good fire protection in those days!

DOCTOR: Yes, only for the fact that the fire boys were temperamental. And they harbored a great deal of professional jealousy! If they didn't take off a dozen front door-steps trying to get to the fire first, like as not they'd get into an open fight on the job, over ways and means.

SCHOOLMASTER: And when you want to remember, frame buildings were almost universal!

DOCTOR: Yes, indeed! So if the New London County Mutual Fire Insurance company paid out only a thousand dollars on two thousand dollars of premiums, I'd call it very good business for the year 1842.

SCHOOLMASTER: That's very small potatoes for these times. They talk in millions now. The premium income of a week today is nearly equal to that of a year fifty years ago. The business covers every township in Connecticut and the losses run about four hundred in number annually.

DOCTOR: And not a great deal in money, I'll bet!

SCHOOLMASTER: Lose in fire is still tremendous, but still nowhere near what it was half a century ago. In 1920, so they told me, there were about four hundred losses averaging $150 each. With the improvement in building construction and fire prevention, insurance has developed into somewhat of an exact science.

DOCTOR: And when we put the oil lamp and the lantern up in the attic to keep as curiosities, I presume it helped a lot!

SCHOOLMASTER: The New London County Mutual Fire Insurance company was organized in the Norwich Town hall, in 1840. And the first president was Joseph Backus. There was a Backus on the Major Mason monument, you'll remember. Odd how the descendants of those first 35 proprietors are among those present when anything worthwhile is on foot.

DOCTOR: They're always in the swim, and that reminds me, along with your mention of fire, did you ever know that anthracite coal was used for the first time on steamboats right here on the Thames river?

SCHOOLMASTER: No, I've been holding off, waiting to hear about it from you!

DOCTOR: Most of the early steamboats were wood-burners, you know. And eventually, they got around to burning soft coal.

SCHOOLMASTER: I've heard of them burning pine-knots and tar.

DOCTOR: Anyway, back in 1834, when Captain Coit was commanding the "General Jackson," the president of the Delaware and Hudson Canal company suggested an experiment. He asked Capt. Coit to try out hard coal, with a rotary blower to increase the draft.

SCHOOLMASTER: And Capt. Coit tried it, of course!

DOCTOR: He certainly did. It was some trick to get the anthracite to burn properly, but Coit managed to master it. The result is a comparatively universal use of anthracite coal for steamboats in almost every part of the civilized world. For some time, Capt. Coit got his coal for nothing, as a matter of gratitude for introducing the use of hard coal.

SCHOOLMASTER: Pretty soft, eh?

DOCTOR: I've had it in mind several times to tell you about Dartmouth college. Now's as good a time as any.

SCHOOLMASTER: Dartmouth college is up in New Hampshire. What do you know about Dartmouth?

DOCTOR: We know a loot about Dartmouth around here. The man founded the school was born a few miles north of here, in Lebanon. His name was Eleazar Wheelock. He graduated from Yale in the class of 1731. Four years afterward, he was conducting a private boarding-school in Lebanon. If it hadn't been for a prize pupil of his, there might never have been a Dartmouth college.

SCHOOLMASTER: How's that, doctor?

DOCTOR: On a certain December day in 1743, a young Indian boy named Samson Occom walked up to Lebanon from Montville and asked to be taken into the school. For a wonder, the young boy turned out to be a wonderful student. Reverend Wheelock was having his troubles in teaching the Indians, but Occom was one of those pupils that makes a conscientious instructor feel that life is worth living.

SCHOOLMASTER: I'm right with you, doctor, in fact, I'm ahead of you.

DOCTOR: Yes, sir, Reverend Wheelock made a minister out of Occom. The Indian's success in the ministry was so outstanding that Wheelock felt justified in applying to the General Assemblage of Connecticut for assistance to further his work among the Indians.

SCHOOLMASTER: In this Dartmouth of which you're speaking?

DOCTOR: This is Reverend Wheelock's Indian school at Lebanon which later became Dartmouth college. I don't know how Connecticut responded to Reverend Wheelock's appeal for help, but in 1766, another minister, Reverend Nathaniel Whitaker, born in Norwich, was sent to King George, the Third, to ask for money. He took Samson Occom with him.

SCHOOLMASTER: Weren't they tackling a rather difficult patron in King George?

DOCTOR: Apparently not, for they got him to donate a thousand dollars. First, of course, they went to the Earl of Dartmouth, who presented them to the king. After that, it was clear sailing. Samson Occom preached about 300 sermons in England. He managed to gather $35,000 in England and $1,500 in Scotland. That put the Indian school on its feet.

SCHOOLMASTER: What a queer thing to think of, an Indian minister preaching sermons in the land of Woolsey, Cramner, Thomas a' Becket, Wesley, Oliver Cromwell!

DOCTOR: Later, Reverend Wheelock moved his school up into the wilds of New Hampshire, to Hanover. The story goes that the town of Lebanon was becoming too civilized. The motto of the school, which is still the motto of Dartmouth college, indicates something of the sort. My latin is not good!

SCHOOLMASTER: "Vox Clamatis In Deserto."

DOCTOR: A voice crying in the wilderness!

SCHOOLMASTER: By the way, doctor, Norwich enters into the life of the nation more thoroughly than you old stick-in-the-mude imagine. I found it out only last week. At breakfast, if you call for some of those famous products of Swift & Co., Norwich has a hand in it. If the greater part of your dinner comes from the grocery stores, Norwich assists in the process. If you are fond of Loose-Wiles "Sunshine Biscuits," you'll run into Norwich again.

DOCTOR: I don't quite get you, professor.

SCHOOLMASTER: Perhaps you prefer the famous Beechnut brands, the foods of finest flavor, all right! you can't get away from Norwich. You smoke Marlboroes? there's Norwich again, helping out! Suppose you buy a new necktie, one of Cheney & company's cravats, you run into Norwich. You feel a little off-color, so you stop in at a drug store and ask for a McKesson & Robbins product, you find Norwich again.

DOCTOR: Have you any idea of what you're talking about?

SCHOOLMASTER: Absolutely! Did you ever buy any of LePages glue? all right! there's Norwich! Anything from General Electric? once more you strike Norwich! J. B. Williams soap? Walk-over shoe polish? Nordic products? Any tags from Dennison today? Any candy from the New England Confectionary Co? all Norwich, you can't escape it! They are all wrapped up in Norwich.

DOCTOR: What's the riddle?

SCHOOLMASTER: The Atlantic Carton Corporation, folding boxes of every description, grease-proof, moisture-proof, a concern that has grown to one of the largest manufacturers of folding boxes in the land, all in the space of 14 years.

DOCTOR: Oh, yes, now I know what you're driving at!

SCHOOLMASTER: Why, doctor, they can make a folding box every time you draw a breath. The yearly production is half a billion folding cartons, meditate on that! half a billion! That's a few! I'm surprised that you, an old Norwich resident, has never made a trip through their plant. It's really worth the effort.

DOCTOR: That's out in the Greeneville section of Norwich, isn't it?

SCHOOLMASTER: Yes, and you'll see a sight. The color-printing is exceptionally interesting, big batteries of mammoth presses, stamping out every shade and hue of the rainbow, and the way those cartons are cut out and folded. They flow out of the machines faster than the eye can follow them. A man out there was telling me the daily output runs around two and a half million cartons, two and a half million!

DOCTOR: Not two and a half million a day!

SCHOOLMASTER: Daily, doctor. And they range in size from tiny cartons to hold a half dozen safety-razor blades up to big cartons to hold baby carriages. So whenever you go to the store and buy Mueller's spaghetti or Marcaroni, just remember that the sanitary container comes from your home town, Norwich. And the same goes for hundreds of the nationally-known and used products.

DOCTOR: I'll remember, the Atlantic Carton corporation.

SCHOOLMASTER: The country hasn't had much rain lately.

DOCTOR: Did you ever read much about these rain-makers out west? We had a rain-maker here in Norwich once. But he was an expert.

SCHOOLMASTER: That's all a fake, doctor, that rain-making business.

DOCTOR: This fellow wasn't a fake. He had the goods, at least, he got the rain. But maybe that was because he applied to the right authority. You've heard me speak of the Reverend James Fitch, who followed his flock from Saybrook to Norwich? He's the man I mean. He got enough rain to raise the river two feet.

SCHOOLMASTER: Let's hear about it, doctor.

DOCTOR: The summer of 1676 was a tough one on the Indians. There was a dry spell which lasted from early summer until long into August, Indian corn hung dry and lifeless, apple trees withered, day succeeded day with clear burning skies. The Indians held one pow-wow after another, recited all their incantations thrice over, but they got no rain.

SCHOOLMASTER: The country went dry, as it were.

DOCTOR: Finally, as a last resort, the Indians came down into Norwich Town and requested the Reverend Fitch to lend a hand. Uncas asked the minister to pray to the God of the English.

SCHOOLMASTER: Rather novel idea. The gods of the Indians wouldn't answer prayers, so they appealed to the God of the English. How did that request strike the reverend gentleman?

Doctor: Not very well, I imagine. Praying for rain is a pretty large contract. But he considered the proposition at length, then he called Uncas to him. He offered to do whatever he could, but he asked Uncas what would happen when the rain came.

SCHOOLMASTER: Well, ... What would happen?

DOCTOR: He was afraid the Indians would conclude the rainfall as a belated offering of Indian gods, rather than of the God of the English. Uncas answered to the effect that the Indians had done all that could be done, without success, and if rain now came, it could come only from the English God. Reverend Fitch prayed for rain. Clouds rose out of the west .... just about sundown, ... and it rained, ... making up for lost time.

SCHOOLMASTER: Is that one in the records, doctor?

DOCTOR: You'll find it in the history. You can't get around it. There was enough rain to make the Indians happy. Undoubtedly, they were happy enough to sing, ... if Indians ever sang, ... although I don't know what they could warble at a time like that.

SCHOOLMASTER: How about "Singing in the Rain?"

DOCTOR: Sorry I couldn't get up into the cemeteries today. I always like to make the trip on Memorial day. Most of my friends are there now.

SCHOOLMASTER: Yes, ... the old G. A. R. is dwindling fast. Let's see, ... what's the name of your post here?

DOCTOR: Sedgwick Post No. 1, ... the first in Connecticut. Named after Major-General Sedgwick. Their headquarters is the former residence of Wm. A. Buckingham. He was born in Lebanon, just north of here, and came to Norwich in his youth. He was mayor of Norwich for a number of years.

SCHOOLMASTER: Oh, ... and is that why his residence is used as headquarters?

DOCTOR: Hardly, ... Wm. Buckingham was our war-governor, ... governor of Connecticut during the Civil war. As you remarked earlier in the evening, ... you're bound to run up against Norwich.

ANNOUNCER: This brings to a close, ladies and gentlemen, the seventh program sponsored by the Merchants Bureau of the chamber of commerce, Norwich, Connecticut, the "Rose of New England." This program was addressed to Connecticut Yankees all over the land, ... to all those descended from Connecticut Yankees. The state invites you to make a trip back home this coming summer. Every city and town and village joins in this cordial invitation. Norwich, the Rose of New England, extends a welcome to the world. She wishes you to see one of the quaintest towns in the United States, ... a city where modernity lives side-by-side with the sleepy tradition of old colonial days, ... a city where a panorama of America's history is spread out before you, ... from Indian days to the present, ... a city which in its bustling midst still retains patches of primitive wilderness.

If you are contemplating a trip through Connecticut, why not drop a card to the sponsor of this program, not forgetting your comments. Address the Merchants Bureau, Chamber of Commerce, Norwich, Conn., spelled N-o-r-w-i-c-h. The old Doctor and his friend the Schoolmaster return to the air next week at the same time, so for the present, they bid you "good-night."

SOCIAL CORNER

the borer has eaten into the stalks in such a way that they break off. Out through the corn belt the conditions are worse. So let's each of us that has a garden try and do our part in keeping the pest out, not only by cleaning up our own but by telling others so they can do it too.

SUMAC (No. 6).

SOME STRAWBERRY RECIPES

Dear Social Corner Sisters: Don't you all love Pernickety's garden?

As I read her letter I pictured it exactly.

Gardens that adhere strictly to the rules of symmetry and color are likely to be too formal for every-day use. "Over pernickety," shall we say, "for bunnies and feathered friends?"

They do add immeasurably to a garden's interest, it must be admitted. Of course, about bunnies and vegetable gardens—

Seems to me there is something about a Peter Rabbit being involved in McGregor's damaged cabbages.

Again it is strawberry time. Here are a few recipes some of you might like.

Bakeless Strawberry Cake: 1 quart of berries, 2 egg whites, 2 heaping tablespoons of butter, 1 1-2 cups of sugar, 1-2 cup of pecan or walnut meats, 1 pound vanilla wafers, 1-4 teaspoon salt.

Cream together butter and sugar. Chop nut meats. Mash strawberries with fork and add with the nut meats to the butter and sugar. Beat egg whites stiff and fold into the mixture.

Break up vanilla wafers into medium-sized pieces. Line bottom of deep dish with broken wafers and add the above mixture, covering with broken wafers. Leave in ice box 12 hours. Serve cold with whipped cream and few whole berries on top of cream.

Strawberry Roll: 1 cup sugar, 1 cup flour, 1 1-2 teaspoons baking powder, 3 eggs, 6 tablespoons of hot water.

Mix and sift in dry ingredients, then stir in well-beaten eggs, add hot water. Beat well and pour into a well-greased pan. Spread the batter about a quarter of an inch deep in pan and bake slowly. When done turn out on wax paper which has been dusted with powdered sugar.

Crush berries and drain as dry as possible, saving the liquid. Spread berries, sugared, on cake and roll by lifting one side of the paper. Do not let cake cool before rolling as this will make it break. When rolled wrap it in a cloth until cool.

Take the liquid which was drained from the berries and sweeten it. Then thicken it with corn starch. Cook just long enough to thicken and cool before using. Cut the cake in slices and pour this sauce over each slice. This makes a very nice dessert.

Strawberry Marlow: 20 marshmallows, 1-4 cup water, 1 cup crushed berries, 1 tablespoon sugar, 1 tablespoon orange juice, 1-2 pint of cream.

Mix berries with sugar and orange juice and let stand 1-2 hour. Steam marshmallows and water together in a double boiler until the liquid stage is reached. Remove from heat, add berries and set aside to cool. When quite cold and slightly stiffened, carefully combine with the cream which has been stiffly beaten. Pour into trays in your mechanical refrigerator and freeze for several hours without stirring. This can also be made the day before using.

Woodside: Would it take time to itemize my duties? I'll say so, and how! The duties of 57 trades, and then some, are required to grease the wheels of home-making. Perhaps the government cards will show us how to eliminate a few.

ELLY JAY.

CLUB NO. 1'S EXCELLENT DINNER

Dear Social Corner Sisters: Once more I am going to send a few lines to help fill our Corner page.

Some of you first members better wake up from your "Rip Van Winkle" silences, or we will forget who you are.

First I must speak of the dinner of Club No. 1. We did have such a splendid dinner and such quantities of food, cooked just right and served piping hot and how good it all tasted. Yum-yum! The tables looked wonderful, napery spotless, the Corner yellow very much in evidence, and the loveliest May baskets, each with a bunch of fresh violets and filled with candy and salted peanuts.

Tuny Ann was hostess. And she and her helpers did all they could to make the dinner a success. Our heartiest thanks to all.

Arnoville made 50 small May baskets and five large ones for the tables. How much labor and money she spent to give us pleasure! There was a basket at each plate.

The only regret I had was the small number who came out to the dinner. It seems to me if someone is kind enough to work and plan so much for our pleasure and entertainment the least the sisters can do is come and enjoy it.

I heard the reason for so many being absent was asking 15 cents instead of ten, for dinner. I hope that is not so. In fact, they should be thankful we paid only ten cents for so many years.

Of course the expense of hall and whatever else is purchased must be met. Selling what May baskets that were left, and food, etc., made up the deficit.

I want to thank Tuny Ann personally as she took the care of the dinner to help me and I certainly appreciate it and thank all who helped her.

Was glad to see so many of the Norwich sisters there.

How pleased I was to see Loretta at Club 5's dinner.

Aries: I did enjoy my talk with you at the dinner. I believe it was the first time you and I have dined side by side. Thinking over our conversation I fear I gave a wrong impression of my Pewter by saying it was Mayflower ware. I meant that that is the name of the manufacturer. They are replicas of colonial ware and will not tarnish.

I think the letters of late have been most interesting and helpful. Have enjoyed reading them.

E. L. M.: What will Club 6 do without you at their helm? You certainly have been a faithful leader and you deserve a vacation, but how they will miss you!

Calla Lily: I smiled when I read your last letter. You spoke truly and I hope they will respond better. It is hard for a few to do everything.

Riverview: Am glad so many sent cards to your father. The Boys of '61 are growing fewer each year and we should do all we can for them. My father gave three years to the Civil war. He left us over 30 years ago, but he has never been forgotten.

Friday, Memorial day, their graves will be covered with flowers and a beautiful American flag will also float over their last resting place. Peace be with them.

COMMERCE DEPT. REPORT SHOWS THAT BUSINESS DEPRESSION IS WORLD-WIDE

WASHINGTON, May 30.—(P)—The international character of business depression was reflected in the May reports to the commerce department by observers for the American government in 35 countries representing every zone on the globe.

Virtually without exception trade commissioners in Asia, Europe, Latin America, and elsewhere reported a prevailing dullness of business conditions.

Some excerpts from the detailed review give a glimpse of the situations observed:

Argentina, "business during May was quiet with continued weakness of peso exchange accentuating dullness usual at this time of year."

Australia, "New South Wales civil service salaries have been reduced one eighth; Australian ship owners declare that they are in the worst position in the history of the commonwealth and have refused to sign contracts with shippers."

Canada, "business conditions continue generally quiet with a slight improvement in industrial operations though this is spotty."

Chile, "the government's policy of reducing taxation under the ordinary budget is creating a better business tone. Downward wholesale orders."

China, "troop concentrations and disturbances continue to hamper trade in north, central and south China. A continually weakening silver exchange precludes import trade commitments, and until exchange is stabilized no adjustments can occur toward placing forward business on even a partially secure basis."

Costa Rica, "merchants are heavily over-stocked and there is little demand for luxury articles."

Cuba, "the general tone is pessimistic and the tension throughout the Cuban business community persists."

Dominican Republic, "price levels are so low as to offer little encouragement to agricultural producers."

India, "foreign trade for April, was considerably lower than in 1929, due to lower commodity prices and disturbed conditions in the country."

Italy, "returns for the first nine months of the fiscal year show central government taxes collected 2.56 per cent below those of the previous year."

Japan, "falling commodity prices and commercial inactivity continue in Japan."

Mexico, "dullness prevails in most staple lines owing to low purchasing power in the interior."

Philippine Islands, "the usual April decline is adding to the general depression prevailing since last year."

NEW YORK, May 30—(P) — The principal security and commodity markets of New York and the rest of the country were closed today as the holiday occasioned by Memorial day, was extended over Sunday. The grain department of the New York produce exchange, Chicago board of trade, and the New Orleans cotton exchange were the principal exceptions.

Richard Whitney, who recently assumed the presidency of the New York stock exchange as the successor of H. H. Simmons, will make his first public address as president on June 10, when he will discuss the stock market panic before the Algonquin club, of Boston.

Imports of $120,000 from Latin American countries constituted the only gold movement through the port of New York during the week ending May 28, the New York federal reserve bank reports.

Outside capital is being invested in Canada at a good rate, but the Royal Bank of Canada reports that the ratio of foreign capital to domestic capital shows no increase. The bank estimates outside capital at $6,160,000,000 which includes $3,850,000,000 from the United States.

Unconfirmable reports in the textile industry are that Bancamerica-Blair corporation is completing its reported plan to merge eastern cotton mills with 1,000,000 spindles into the largest single organization of its kind in the industry.

NORWICH CREDIT BUREAU HELD REGULAR MEETING

The Norwich Credit bureau held a regular weekly meeting Wednesday morning at the rooms of the Norwich chamber of commerce. It developed at the meeting that there seems to be some misunderstanding in the public mind as to the status of the Norwich Credit Rating bureau as against the Business Men's Credit Rating bureau. According to a statement issued after the meeting of the credit bureau, there is no connection between these two organizations. The Norwich Credit Rating bureau is a branch of the chamber of commerce and is operated entirely in the interests of the buying public and merchant members of the Norwich chamber of commerce. This branch of the chamber of commerce is associated in the national organization and has the same business ethics as the credit ratings bureaus of Hartford and all other communities where the question of credit rating is handled on the basis of service of mutual advantage to all parties concerned. The Norwich Credit Rating bureau of the chamber of commerce does not maintain a force of collectors and in order that both merchants and the buying public may be correctly informed on this subject, it was deemed advisable to give the above information. The Norwich Credit Rating bureau is located in the chamber of commerce office while the Business Men's Credit company is located in the Connor building on Broadway and is a collection agency.

A part of the wall which Charles V built around Paris 550 years ago was uncovered when some buildings were torn down near the site of the Bastille to allow enlargement of the old arsenal, now a library.

TRIBUTE TO NATION'S HEROIC DEAD PROVES INSPIRING AT NEW LONDON

NEW LONDON, May 30. — The Memorial day parade was highly patriotic in every sense of the word for the multitude of soldiers and sailors of the coast guard and navy made the marching line spectacular and inspiring. There were close to 1300 sailors in the line of march and they made an admirable showing, while the several hundred members of the army units, together with the bands of the 192nd Field Artillery, U. S. S. Camden and United States coast guard added greatly to the display and to the annual tribute to the nation's dead. The parade formed on State street and intersecting streets at 9:15 and 15 minutes later started the march to Cedar Grove and St. Mary's cemeteries. It was headed by a motorcycle squad of New London police and state police and with a detachment of officers in charge of Sergeant William Babcock and consisting of Patrolman Frank Linehan, Clyde Murphy, Clarence Wells, Michael Dorsey, Braxton Hill, Dennis Cavanaugh, William Riordan, George McCaskey, Albert Iverson, Edward Riordan, Louis Wheeler and Carlos Stone, the procession countermarched on State street and proceeded through Broad street, to Connecticut avenue, to Cedar Grove avenue and to Cedar Grove cemetery. There, brief but inspiring services were conducted at the soldiers' plot by W. W. Perkins post, Grand Army of the Republic and by the Sons of Veterans. After Taps had been sounded and a volley fired, the procession continued through Broad street to Jefferson avenue and to St. Mary's cemetery where another brief service was conducted, and there was a selection by the 192 Field Artillery band. The march to State street was then resumed and the head of the column arriving at the corner of Bank street, the three bands, regular army, coast guard cadets, navy, coast guard and massed colors and Boy Scouts stood in open ranks, while the veterans' organizations passed through, after which the marchers disbanded. At Williams park the paraders were reviewed by members of the city council, city officials and army and navy officers.

WEDDING.

Thomas-Doering.

William E. Thomas, this city, and Miss Helen Dorothy Doering, Groton, were married yesterday afternoon at the parsonage of the First Church of Christ by Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth.

Holiday In Police Court.

For the second time in as many days, there was no session of the police court today. Three automobile drivers had been ordered to court for violation of the city's parking rules and regulations, but as is usual, they posted the customary bond of $2 and defaulted, for they did not put in an appearance to defend the charge. These drivers were Tony Caldrello, 565 Bank street; George L. Kinsey, Y. M. C. A., and Byron McClellan, 37 Spring street. The first was charged with parking in restricted area and the others parked on State street longer than is permitted. There was one case of intoxication that could have caused a session of the court but the man discharged. He was arrested on Truman street last night by Automobile Patrolman Clarence Martin and Patrolman Frank Philopena.

A Cadillac car stolen in Boston last night was recovered in Waterford this morning. The automobile was disabled when found by state police officers and evidently had been abandoned.

Clifford Phelps, of Noank, drove his automobile to the corner of Franklin and Jay streets today and parked it for several hours. The police caused the car to be towed to a garage, where it awaits being claimed by the owner.

As a result of low temperature today, visitors to Ocean Beach were fewer than was anticipated. Open cars were operated, but the greater number of the traveling public visited the cemeteries rather than the shore resort.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. James Tevlin.

Mrs. Margaret Tevlin, wife of James Tevlin, died this morning at her residence, 313 Montauk avenue. She is survived, besides her husband, by two sons, Creighton Tevlin, of this city, and Roland Tevlin, of New York, and by a brother, James P. Sullivan, of 50 Hillside road. Mrs. Tevlin had been in ill health a long time and recently her condition became such that all hope of her recovery was despaired of. Mrs. Tevlin was born in New Britain, but had resided in New London about 27 years.

FUNERALS.

Mrs. William R. Cleary.

The funeral of Mrs. Mary A. Cleary, widow of William R. Cleary, of 96 Allen street, Groton, was held this morning at 9 o'clock at Sacred Heart church, Groton, and was attended by a large gathering of mourners. The mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. Oliver T. Magnell. The bearers were James and Edward Cleary, sons of Mrs. Cleary, James Cleary, Jr. Edward Gaudreau, Bernard Cullen and Edward Cleary. Burial was in the family plot in St. Mary's cemetery, New London.

Santi Sciara.

The funeral of Santi Scira, late of 213 Shaw street, was held this morning at 9 o'clock at St. Joseph's church, a mass of requiem being celebrated by Rev. William C. Fitzsimmons. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

The United States army mine planter, General Abselsom Baird, which is undergoing repairs at Newport News, Va., is scheduled to return to port about June 5th. The work is fast drawing to completion and the boat is due to leave Newport News June 4th.

More Smoke Than Fire.

The fire department was given a needless run last night when clouds of smoke were observed issuing from the residence of Mrs. Isabelle Mitchell, 39 Hempstead street. An alarm was run in from Box 35, corner of Manwaring and Williams streets, which was responded to by Deputy Chief Calvin Edmunds and four pieces of apparatus. It was found that a defective flue had caused the house to be filled with smoke and that no fire existed except the one that had been started in a range.

MRS. FRED GILSON, FLORIDA, SEEKS MISSING HUSBAND

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, May 30.—Mrs. Emma Gilson, 340 Pleasant street, Daytona Beach, Fla., has communicated with the New London police in an endeavor to ascertain the whereabouts of her husband, Fred Gilson. The latter left Daytona Beach for New London, May 5, and Mrs. Gilson has not heard from him since. In leaving his wife, Gilson also deserted three children, the eldest seven and the youngest is an infant. One of the children is ill and Mrs. Gilson makes an earnest plea for assistance in finding her husband.

PHOTOS OF ELOPERS ARE SENT TO INDIANA

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, May 30.—No trace of Edward S. Vine, 86 West Coit street and married, and Dorothy Turner, 17, of 28 Starr street, who eloped a week ago last Monday, has been found, although the police of Indiana, particularly Seymour, have been requested to use every effort to apprehend the couple. It is known that the elopers were in Seymour a few days ago, where they abandoned an automobile that Vine rented on May 19 of the Hire and Drive It, Inc., of New London. Vine is also wanted on a charge of embezzlement for he is short in his accounts about $150. He was employed as driver and collector by the Pequot Laundry company, Pequot avenue. This afternoon photographs of the young man and girl were sent to the chief of police of Seymour.

There will be a session of the police court Saturday, the first to be held in three days. Two men are occupying cells at police headquarters tonight and both on a charge of intoxication. One man was arrested this afternoon on State street by Patrolman Cornelius Moriarty and the other was arrested on North Bank street by Patrolman Dennis Murphy.

Parking On The Pier.

The municipal pier is fast becoming a congested location, all because automobile owners park their cars there the greater part of the day. Every day cars are parked along the north side of the pier half its entire length. Some of the cars are driven to the pier about 8 o'clock in the forenoon and are not taken away until night. Most of the cars are owned by uniformed men.

The usual Memorial day traffic prevailed today and during the afternoon and early evening the center of the city was constantly congested because of the vast number of machines.

TWO HURT IN AUTO CRASH AT WILLIMANTIC

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, May 30. — Two Rhode Island women were hurt and one automobile was badly damaged in a collision at 7.30 o'clock tonight at the junction of Ash and Chapman streets between a Paige brougham, driven by Harry Heuser, of 237 Lowell avenue, Providence, and a Nash coach, operated by David Driscoll, 47 East Lenox street, Boston, Mass.

The injured women were passengers in Heuser's car. They were Mrs. Gertrude Miller, 34, of 237 Lowell avenue, Providence, who sustained a severe shaking up and cuts about the face and body, and Mrs. Rosa Stark, 67, of 68 Dyerville avenue, Manton, R. I. The elderly woman suffered a broken left collarbone and numerous lacerations. They were treated by Dr. Charles A. Jenkins, at the Willimantic General hospital and discharged later in the evening. Most of the injuries were caused by flying glass. Heuser was traveling northerly on Ash street and Driscoll was coming out of Chapman street to go south on Ash. Driscoll's car ran into the side of the Paige, badly damaging it, the cost of repairs being estimated at $150. The Nash escaped with small damage. An agreement as to the settlement of damages was made between the drivers with the result that no arrest was made in the investigation which was conducted by Police Officer William Hurley. This was the only mishap to be reported here up to that time in the evening on the holiday, despite unusually heavy traffic conditions.

ANNONCEMENTS

The Academy Orchestra.

The Academy orchestra will give its 25th annual concert in Slater Memorial hall on Tuesday evening, June 3, at 8.30 p. m. The orchestra this year is, if anything, a bit larger than for several years past, and is playing in many respects better than at any time in its history. The program numbers are tuneful, interesting and diversified. This concert is one that should be attended by all who are fond of good music and interested in work done at the Academy.

Palace Theater

"The Bad One" a story of the cafes on the Marseilles waterfront with Dolores Del Rio and Edmund Lowe as the leading characters opens today at the Palace theater where it will be shown through Tuesday of next week. Because the story is laid in a vigorous background actors of decided force and ability were needed and Edmund Lowe whose appearance in "What Price Glory," "In Old Arizona," and "The Cock-Eyed World" created such a hit as this type of actor, he was chosen once more to play the part of a swash-buckling, two-fisted American sailor whose boast was that he could make any girl in the world fall for him.

Dolores Del Rio who has great dramatic power and who has a lovely singing voice is just the one to portray a girl living in the cafes where it is her business to wink at the proper time, display her charms advantageously and refill the empty glasses. She departs from the demure roles of her latest pictures and makes her debut as a fiery and tempestuous dancer and entertainer who makes it a business to get her man.

The Popularity Contest at the Palace is attracting many people and interest is rapidly increasing. There is much speculation as to the possible winner and every one who has a favorite girl in Norwich should try to get to the Palace to cast his votes as soon as possible for that girl. A trip to Atlantic City is the first prize and along with that trip is a wardrobe complete in every detail. Included are sport clothes, party clothes, a traveling outfit, cosmetics, and a diamond and sapphire ring to say nothing of a wrist watch. And a bank deposit of twenty-five dollars is included as well. For the winner of the second prize there is an award of a gold season pass to the Palace presented by one of the leading jewelry stores. Remember that each admission entitles you to cast five votes.

Broadway Theatre

When it comes to weaving tales of the mysterious Orient, fiction has no equal to Sax Rohmer, master of mysticism, and his most weird and hated character is probably that wily old Doctor Fu Manchu, whose blood-feud with Scotland Yard has thrilled and chilled us many times. Tomorrow at the Broadway, Dr. Fu whom we thought safely buried makes a horrific escape from the grave in "The Return of Dr. Fu-Manchu," and immediately leads us into a maze of blood-curdling and hair-raising adventures, as he resumes his battle of wits with Inspector Smith and Doctor Petrie. More sinister and merciless than ever, on account of his thwarted revenge, and his enforced sojourn in his coffin, Fu sets out to annihilate the two whites who have broken up his ring of crime, and devises new schemes and tortures for those unfortunate enough to cross his path. Warner Oland is again the scheming Chinese doctor, O. P. Heggie is Inspector Nayland Smith, Neil Hamilton is Doctor Petrie, and lovely Jean Arthur the unfortunate Lia who becomes Fu's mental slave. Excitement runs high throughout the picture which is acclaimed as the best of all Fu's many adventures. On the program is also shown the latest Paramount Sound news, and for laughing purposes only, Johnny Arthur and Frances Lee, that dangerous blonde, in "Adam's Eve," and Bert Gordon in "Desperate Sam," both featured comedies, and the latest talkartoon "The Prisoners' Song." Today's showing are continuous starting at 1:30 and tomorrow (Sunday) there will be two shows starting at 6:30 and 8:45. Regardless of the weather on the street, the air in the Broadway is always fresh and seasonable, warm on rainy cool days, and cool in the hottest weather, making the Broadway an ideal place for whiling away the pleasure hours.

Breed Theatre.

Two brilliant performers, undoubtedly destined for stardom before this year is ended, are included in the cast of "The Golden Calf," opening tomorrow night at the Breed theatre, in addition to Sue Carol and Jack Mulhall, who already have scaled the heights in audible pictures.

These players are El Brendel, famous comedian who specializes in Swedish roles, and Marjorie White, vivacious blonde comedienne, recently of the Broadway musical comedy stage.

Brendel scored his first audible picture success in "The Cock Eyed World," following with even greater honors in "Sunny Side Up" and "Hot for Paris." His popularity, following the showing of "The Golden Calf," a Fox Movietone comedy with music, is expected to bring him to the top of the heap in short order.

Miss White's screen debut was made in "Sunny Side Up," in which she pushed Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell, the stars, closely for leading honors. She again scored heavily in "Happy Days," her second Fox Movietone production, and in her present production she has the best chance yet.

"The Golden Calf" is a gay story of bohemian life among girls and their models in New York's famous Greenwich Village, and the staging of the Illustrators' Ball gives opportunity to introduce several spectacular musical numbers.

"High Society Blues," with Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell completes a week's run tonight at the Breed theatre. Performances will be continuous from 1.30 till 11 p. m.

FEAST OF THE ASCENSION AT ST. PATRICK'S CHURCH

The assistant pastors of St. Patrick's church, Rev. Myles P. Galvin and Rev. John J. Reilly, offered the early masses at 5:30 and 7 on Thursday, the feast of the Ascension, the mass at 8 being read by the rector, Rt. Rev. Msgr. M. H. May. These services began with Scripture passages from Acts 1, "Ye men of Gallilee, why wonder you, looking up to heaven?" The lesson was Acts 1:1-11 and the gospel Mark 16:14-20, was Christ's commission to the apostles to go into the whole world and teach the gospel to every creature. The Gregorian mass according to the Ward method was sung by the junior choir, the organist, Henry J. LaFontaine, accompanying, and the chorus being directed by Sister M. Amata, music teacher at the convent. The majority of these young singers are of Italian descent, consequently have music in every fibre and sing with such accord that it is almost like one voice. At the close of the mass they sang the hymn to St. Therese, "O, Little Flower," filling the great church with their melody. As Monsignor May was giving holy communion to a large number of penitents, the children sang the May hymn to the mother of the Saviour, "Mary, conceived without sin, pray for us, who have recourse to thee."

The Altar society had decorated the three altars with iris and pink roses. The parish school children attended the last mass in a body, accompanied by their teachers, the Sisters of Mercy. As it was a holy day, the pupils were dismissed for the day, at the conclusion of the service.

RESERVES DECISION IN BREAD SLANDER CASE

Judge Allyn L. Brown in the superior court here Thursday afternoon reserved decision after hearing trial of the suit brought by Henry Luker against Michael Mandrofsky, both of Jewett City, for $4,000 damages on a claim of slander. When the case was concluded, Judge Brown directed adjournment until further order of court.

Luker, who is a baker, claims that on Sept. 12, 1929, Mandrofsky made certain slanderous statements which included saying that Luker was bankrupt, that the devil would soon take him out of Jewett City, that he was a crook and a bum baker and baked rotten bread. Luker also alleges that Mandrofsky sold bread alleging it to be of Luker's make, when it was not so.

Testimony for the plaintiff was given by Joseph and Mary Boris, who said they bought the bread, and by Mary Lepoa, who said she heard the talk about bankruptcy. Attorney Richard Dudkowski acted as interpreter and another witness was Tessie Benders.

Those testifying for the defendant were John Bednars, Antony Miodus sewskin and Albert Duda.

The case was submitted to the judge without arguments by the attorneys, who were John T. Barry and Josiah Greenstein for the plaintiff and G. C. Morgan for the defendant.

EXPENSIVE FILMING OF FATHER O'NEILL'S SONG

A former curate at St. Patrick's church, Norwich, Rev. Felix J. O'Neill, pastor of St. Edward's church, Stafford Springs, is in New Brunswick, Canada, this week to attend the filming and recording by a New York motion picture company of his song "On The Miramichi."

The song with words and air by himself will be used in motion and sound films of salmon fishing and camping scenes on the Miramichi river. The machine for taking these pictures and recording the song by a male quartet of radio singers from New York cost $37,000 with a special truck to transport it. It goes then all the way to Wyoming to film other natural scenes and sounds. The reels will be exhibited in 12,000 theatres.

Distributed Adult Trout.

The state board of fisheries and game has distributed about 40,000 adult in non-leased streams, covering a number of such streams in each county. Some complaints have been made by anglers because the board does not publish the list of waters so stocked. Superintendent Titcomb says that the principal reason for not publishing the list is the fact that if the news goes abroad these streams, mostly much smaller than the state-leased waters, will be frequented by so many anglers that a protest will arise from the landowners. This might be followed by posting.

CONTINUES EFFORT TO RAISE MONEY FOR FINE

Charles F. Hall, U. S. N., of the Submarine O-9, who was given his choice of paying $200 and costs or serving 30 days in jail on a drunken driving charge, in the city court Thursday morning, was still endeavoring Friday to raise the money for the fine. He is being held at police headquarters in the meantime. If he fails to raise the necessary $200 and costs he will be taken to jail to serve the 30 day sentence.

Hall was arrested late Wednesday night on Franklin street. Just a few minutes previous to his arrest he had been warned not to attempt to drive his machine by Officer Luke Riley. Hall failed to pay any attention to the officer's warning and started to drive the car through Franklin street. He was then arrested by the officer.

GAVE HIMSELF UP IN NEW LONDON AFTER MONTVILLE AUTOMOBILE CRASH

After the machine he was driving crashed in the rear of a New York car on the Norwich-New London highway, about a quarter mile north of the Montville cross roads, early Friday morning, Jack Carbray, formerly of this city, left the scene of the crash and disappeared. It is said that Carbray ran into a nearby wooded section. Officer Howard Lamphere of Montville and the state police are searching for him, but he had not been apprehended up to Friday night.

Carbray was driving a machine owned by Rev. O. T. Magnell of the Eastern Point road, Groton, and it is said that he took the machine without permission. The accident happened about 5.45 o'clock in the morning. Carbray was driving towards Norwich when he overtook and crashed into the rear of a machine in which were Mrs. Madeline Meyers and her two children of No. 545 East 146 street, the Bronx. They were on their way to Plainfield to spend Memorial day.

The impact threw Mrs. Meyers and her eldest daughter into the road and Dr. J. J. Donohue, Jr., of Montville was called to attend them. Neither was seriously hurt, their injuries consisting of a shaking up and bruises. Both machines were quite extensively damaged.

Arrested in New London

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, May 30.—John A. Carbray, of 31 Deane street, Groton, employed by Rev. Oliver T. Magnell, rector of Sacred Heart church, Groton, was arrested here tonight by Automobile Patrol Officer William Corcoran as a fugitive from justice, but will be prosecuted on three charges of violation of the state motor vehicle law, taking an auto without permission of the owner, driving while under the influence of liquor and evasion of responsibility.

Carbray was locked up and later Officer Peter Busch, Groton barracks came to New London with the warrant. Carbray is now being held a prisoner, but he will be given a hearing, probably in Montville tomorrow afternoon.

Carbray formerly resided in Norwich and is on parole from the Connecticut state prison, where he had been serving a sentence for attempt to kill and slay. A short time ago he obtained his parole when he was assured of being given employment by Rev. Fr Magnell.

HOSPITAL FIRE FORCE FIGHTS POQUETANUCK BLAZE

The fire fighting crew of the Norwich state hospital, using the hospital's Seagrave pumper, did a fine piece of work in the village of Poquetanuck, Friday morning, about 9 o'clock, when they responded to a call to fight a fire in a corn crib at the home of Henry Hart.

The corn crib was a blazing mass when they got there but the hospital crew of ten to 15 men quickly ran out a line of over 600 feet of hose to draw water from Poquetanuck cove. They shot a heavy stream into the blazing building and at the same time kept a silo and other buildings close by wet down so that the fire did not spread from the building where it started.

It is believed an oil stove that was used in the daytime to supply heat for some young chicks exploded and set fire to the building, which was about 16x18 feet, and had in it about 600 bushels of corn. It is estimated that the loss will run close to $2,000.

HORN SALUTE TO GIRLS PRELUDE TO COLLISION

While driving through North Main street, near the Marguerite building, Friday night, Walter Ulikowski, No. 49 Roosevelt avenue, blew his horn at two girls on the sidewalk, turned to look in their direction and his machine collided with a machine owned by Harry Witkin, Jr., of No. 263 Central avenue, which was parked by the curb. William Majewski, 49, of No. 32 Second street, who was riding in Ulikowski's car, was cut about the face. Both machines were damaged. Ulikowski was arrested by Officer John Quinn on a charge of reckless driving and was released on bonds of $100 for his appearance in the city court this (Saturday) morning.

SEEK SELECTMEN'S DECISION ON CEMETERY LOCATION

The board of selectmen gave a hearing Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the mayor's office to representatives of the Society of the Founders of Norwich and Faith Trumbull chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, who are urging the selectmen to come to some decision upon marking the definite boundaries of the old first burying ground of the town, which is on the plot near the Mason monument and is also known as the Post-Gager burying ground.

Two blue prints of the property were on hand, one prepared for the selectmen, at an expense of over $600 by Civil Engineer George E. Pitcher, and the other by Civil Engineer Shepard B. Palmer, largely from searches of the records by Mrs. Elisha E. Rogers. These locate the burying ground in two different places, the Palmer plan bringing it on high ground near the Mason monument and an oak tree and the Pitcher plan placing it in a corner some distance off from the Mason monument in a low, swampy part of the lot.

The three selectmen, William S. Murray, Charles H. Bushnell and Phillas Poirier, were present with the town counsel, Henry H. Pettis. The others at the hearing were B. P. Bishop, Mrs. Elisha E. Rogers, Mrs. A. M. Van Wagenen, Mrs. W. H. Dawley, Mrs. E. Allen Bidwell, Mrs. Edith Huntington Wilson and Mrs. W. S. Alling, with Civil Engineer Palmer.

In opening the hearing Selectman Murray stated that the selectmen were anxious to locate the cemetery, that they had spent over $600 on the survey, they believed there was a cemetery there and when some harmonious agreement is reached they are ready to take steps to re-claim the property. He said later that they have some doubts about the Pitcher survey as Mr. Pitcher has never been able to satisfy them about the Hunter lot.

It is claimed that property now in the Mara and Houghton ownership includes part of the first burying ground of the town of Norwich and the selectmen made it plain that they were perfectly willing to proceed to reclaim anything that has ever been town property but they want to be very sure of their position before they start anything.

Mr. Palmer was asked by Selectman Murray to explain his blue print, which he proceeded to do. In the course of his explanation he declared that one of the big difficulties in determining the precise location of the cemetery was in deciding just where one of the corner points was located, but he was convinced the cemetery was near the old oak and southerly thereof.

Mrs. Rogers stated that she agreed with this and that the Pitcher survey was all wrong because it had misplaced the Post and the Edgerton lots and made other errors.

In the course of the discussion it was brought out that deeds before those which Mr. Sterry gave had always contained mention of the burying ground, but the deeds which he gave did not mention the burying ground. Mrs. Wilson stated that Mr. Sterry had at one time pointed out to her the location of the cemetery where she now claims it is but he has changed his mind since that time.

In support of the claim that the burying ground is on the hill near the Mason monument it was stated that the deed of Lyman Lee to the Mason Monument association mentions this plot as adjacent to the old cemetery.

Those appearing before the selectmen urged that as this matter has now been hanging fire for about a year, they hoped an early decision could be reached. The selectmen took the matter under advisement.

GURDON MILLER MAKES CONTINUED IMPROVEMENT

Norwich friends of Gurdon Miller, son of Mrs. Frelove A. Miller of Penobscot street, who have visited him in the hospital at New Haven, find that he continues to make improvement from the serious injuries he received Sept. 11 through electricity burns in the Cedar Hill yard of the New Haven railroad. Last week Mr Miller had operations on his ear and his eye, making seven operations in all which he has had since he has been in the hospital. He is gaining weight and is in good spirits in spite of the necessarily slow steps which must be taken in his progress towards recovery.

NORWICH TELEPHONE GIRL'S QUICK WIT SAVED TRAIN

A burning railroad bridge, a train due to pass that spot in a few minutes, a frantic call by a resident near the bridge to the local telephone operator to do something to save the train and its occupants, the swift-working, intelligent Soldier of the Switchboard, calling railroad headquarters and informing officials there of the danger, the train stopped by signal before it reached the bridge, is the story which comes out of Norwich, through a meeting the other day of the New London district traffic conference board of the Telephone Employes' association.

A Norwich subscriber was the first to give the alarm. She called the telephone operator and told her that the railroad bridge over Trading Cove was on fire and that a train was due to pass over the bridge in a short time. The operator quickly turned the matter over to Miss Bernice Chapman, a junior supervisor in the telephone office at Norwich and she notified the Norwich fire department where in turn she was told to report the matter to New London, which she did, calling the officials of the Central Vermont railroad there.

The railroad people said they would take care of the fire and they did. Also they used their own telephone system and the train due to pass over the blazing bridge was stopped at Willimantic until the dangerous condition had been eliminated.

Once more the alert young women of the switchboard register in a public service way that proves them to be genuine protectors of life and property.

CONTINUES EFFORT TO RAISE MONEY FOR FINE

Charles F. Hall, U. S. N., of the Submarine O-9, who was given his choice of paying $200 and costs or serving 30 days in jail on a drunken driving charge, in the city court Thursday morning, was still endeavoring Friday to raise the money for the fine. He is being held at police headquarters in the meantime. If he fails to raise the necessary $200 and costs he will be taken to jail to serve the 30 day sentence.

Hall was arrested late Wednesday night on Franklin street. Just a few minutes previous to his arrest he had been warned not to attempt to drive his machine by Officer Luke Riley. Hall failed to pay any attention to the officer's warning and started to drive the car through Franklin street. He was then arrested by the officer.

GAVE HIMSELF UP IN NEW LONDON AFTER MONTVILLE AUTOMOBILE CRASH

After the machine he was driving crashed in the rear of a New York car on the Norwich-New London highway, about a quarter mile north of the Montville cross roads, early Friday morning, Jack Carbray, formerly of this city, left the scene of the crash and disappeared. It is said that Carbray ran into a nearby wooded section. Officer Howard Lamphere of Montville and the state police are searching for him, but he had not been apprehended up to Friday night.

Carbray was driving a machine owned by Rev. O. T. Magneil of the Eastern Point road, Groton, and it is said that he took the machine without permission. The accident happened about 5.45 o'clock in the morning. Carbray was driving towards Norwich when he overtook and crashed into the rear of a machine in which were Mrs. Madeline Meyers and her two children of No. 545 East 146 street, the Bronx. They were on their way to Plainfield to spend Memorial day.

The impact threw Mrs. Meyers and her eldest daughter into the road and Dr. J. J. Donohue, Jr., of Montville was called to attend them. Neither was seriously hurt, their injuries consisting of a shaking up and bruises. Both machines were quite extensively damaged.

Carbray formerly resided in Norwich and is on parole from the Connecticut state prison, where he had been serving a sentence for attempt to kill and slay. A short time ago he obtained his parole when he was assured of being given employment by Rev. Fr Magnell.

HOSPITAL FIRE FORCE FIGHTS POQUETANUCK BLAZE

The fire fighting crew of the Norwich state hospital, using the hospital's Seagrave pumper, did a fine piece of work in the village of Poquetanuck, Friday morning, about 9 o'clock, when they responded to a call to fight a fire in a corn crib at the home of Henry Hart.

The corn crib was a blazing mass when they got there but the hospital crew of ten to 15 men quickly ran out a line of over 600 feet of hose to draw water from Poquetanuck cove. They shot a heavy stream into the blazing building and at the same time kept a silo and other buildings close by wet down so that the fire did not spread from the building where it started.

It is believed an oil stove that was used in the daytime to supply heat for some young chicks exploded and set fire to the building, which was about 16x18 feet, and had in it about 600 bushels of corn. It is estimated that the loss will run close to $2,000.

HORN SALUTE TO GIRLS PRELUDE TO COLLISION

While driving through North Main street, near the Marguerite building, Friday night, Walter Ulikowski, No. 49 Roosevelt avenue, blew his horn at two girls on the sidewalk, turned to look in their direction and his machine collided with a machine owned by Harry Witkin, Jr., of No. 263 Central avenue, which was parked by the curb. William Majewski, 49, of No. 32 Second street, who was riding in Ulikowski's car, was cut about the face. Both machines were damaged. Ulikowski was arrested by Officer John Quinn on a charge of reckless driving and was released on bonds of $100 for his appearance in the city court this (Saturday) morning.

NORWICH TOWN

At the meeting Thursday night of the John Mason Troop 2, Boy Scouts connected with the Norwich Town Methodist Episcopal church the Flying Eagle patrol scored 70 points. The points were secured in the interpatrol contest and put the Flying Eagles in second place, with a score of 145. The Stag patrol had a score of 20 points added, giving them a total of 180. The Wolf Patrol has a score of 85 points.

The meeting was in charge of the scoutmaster, Rev. George Warren Potter; the judges were Dickinson Mara and Clarence Smith.

The new plaque which is to be awarded the patrol winning the contest was hung in the Scout room. The metal is golden bronze finish mounted on a dark green board. On it will be engraved the name of the winning patrol, the patrol leader and each member of the patrol.

Fifteen members of the troop marched in the Memorial day parade and 20 members of the Wolf Cubs. Each Cub carried an American flag. The Cubs were wearing their new caps and new neckerchiefs. The neckerchiefs were made by Mrs. Ruby Jordan and Mrs. Walter D. Kelly, two Cub mothers.

SEEK SELECTMEN'S DECISION ON CEMETERY LOCATION

The board of selectmen gave a hearing Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the mayor's office to representatives of the Society of the Founders of Norwich and Faith Trumbull chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, who are urging the selectmen to come to some decision upon marking the definite boundaries of the old first burying ground of the town, which is on the plot near the Mason monument and is also known as the Post-Gager burying ground.

Two blue prints of the property were on hand, one prepared for the selectmen, at an expense of over $600 by Civil Engineer George E. Pitcher, and the other by Civil Engineer Shepard B. Palmer, largely from searches of the records by Mrs. Elisha E. Rogers. These locate the burying ground in two different places, the Palmer plan bringing it on high ground near the Mason monument and an oak tree and the Pitcher plan placing it in a corner some distance off from the Mason monument in a low, swampy part of the lot.

The three selectmen, William S. Murray, Charles H. Bushnell and Phillas Poirier, were present with the town counsel, Henry H. Pettis. The others at the hearing were B. P. Bishop, Mrs. Elisha E. Rogers, Mrs. A. M. Van Wagenen, Mrs. W. H. Dawley, Mrs. E. Allen Bidwell, Mrs. Edith Huntington Wilson and Mrs. W. S. Alling, with Civil Engineer Palmer.

In opening the hearing Selectman Murray stated that the selectmen were anxious to locate the cemetery, that they had spent over $600 on the survey, they believed there was a cemetery there and when some harmonious agreement is reached they are ready to take steps to re-claim the property. He said later that they have some doubts about the Pitcher survey as Mr. Pitcher has never been able to satisfy them about the Hunter lot.

It is claimed that property now in the Mara and Houghton ownership includes part of the first burying ground of the town of Norwich and the selectmen made it plain that they were perfectly willing to proceed to reclaim anything that has ever been town property but they want to be very sure of their position before they start anything.

Mr. Palmer was asked by Selectman Murray to explain his blue print, which he proceeded to do. In the course of his explanation he declared that one of the big difficulties in determining the precise location of the cemetery was in deciding just where one of the corner points was located, but he was convinced the cemetery was near the old oak and southerly thereof.

Mrs. Rogers stated that she agreed with this and that the Pitcher survey was all wrong because it had misplaced the Post and the Edgerton lots and made other errors.

In the course of the discussion it was brought out that deeds before those which Mr. Sterry gave had always contained mention of the burying ground, but the deeds which he gave did not mention the burying ground. Mrs. Wilson stated that Mr. Sterry had at one time pointed out to her the location of the cemetery where she now claims it is but he has changed his mind since that time.

In support of the claim that the burying ground is on the hill near the Mason monument it was stated that the deed of Lyman Lee to the Mason Monument association mentions this plot as adjacent to the old cemetery.

Those appearing before the selectmen urged that as this matter has now been hanging fire for about a year, they hoped an early decision could be reached. The selectmen took the matter under advisement.

GURDON MILLER MAKES CONTINUED IMPROVEMENT

Norwich friends of Gurdon Miller, son of Mrs. Frelove A. Miller of Penobscot street, who have visited him in the hospital at New Haven, find that he continues to make improvement from the serious injuries he received Sept. 11 through electricity burns in the Cedar Hill yard of the New Haven railroad. Last week Mr. Miller had operations on his ear and his eye, making seven operations in all which he has had since he has been in the hospital. He is gaining weight and is in good spirits in spite of the necessarily slow steps which must be taken in his progress towards recovery.

NORWICH TELEPHONE GIRL'S QUICK WIT SAVED TRAIN

A burning railroad bridge, a train due to pass that spot in a few minutes, a frantic call by a resident near the bridge to the local telephone operator to do something to save the train and its occupants, the swift-working, intelligent Soldier of the Switchboard, calling railroad headquarters and informing officials there of the danger, the train stopped by signal before it reached the bridge, is the story which comes out of Norwich, through a meeting the other day of the New London district traffic conference board of the Telephone Employes' association.

A Norwich subscriber was the first to give the alarm. She called the telephone operator and told her that the railroad bridge over Trading Cove was on fire and that a train was due to pass over the bridge in a short time. The operator quickly turned the matter over to Miss Bernice Chapman, a junior supervisor in the telephone office at Norwich and she notified the Norwich fire department where in turn she was told to report the matter to New London, which she did, calling the officials of the Central Vermont railroad there.

The railroad people said they would take care of the fire and they did. Also they used their own telephone system and the train due to pass over the blazing bridge was stopped at Willimantic until the dangerous condition had been eliminated.

Once more the alert young women of the switchboard register in a public service way that proves them to be genuine protectors of life and property.
